A total of 51 classrooms were needed as of Jan. 1 in the Davie County Schools according to a survey just completed by the State Department of Public Instruction.

classrooms will be needed when the state initiates a kindergarten program for five-year-old students.

Throughout the state 10,355 classrooms were needed this past Jan. 1, and 11,878 (a total of 22,233) will be required in the next 10 years.

In addition, another 45 were needed as of Jan. 1 for reorganization. This produced a total need of 51 additional classrooms.

"If we are to meet the present and future needs for adequate classrooms we must do more than we have in the past," Dr. Charles F. Carroll, state superintendent said, in releasing the study.

The survey also reveals that an additional 70 classrooms will be needed in the next 10 years to replace obsolete facilities and to provide for increased enrollment.

He said that as of January over 5,000 new classrooms, in addition to those now under construction, were needed to provide for excess enrollment and to replace unsatisfactory classrooms.

Carroll also pointed out that a considerable number of additional classrooms will be needed when the state initiates a kindergarten program for five-year-old students.

Fork Barbecue

The annual Barbecue Sale of the Fork Volunteer Fire Department will be held Saturday, April 6.

The leaflets have been placed in every home in Davie County. The 1968 Cancer Crusade was launched on April 1. Distributed through the mail by ACS volunteers, the leaflet poses the question: "Do You Know the Seven Warning Signals of Cancer?"

The answer to this question is given on an inside page of the leaflet in heavy, black type. The symptoms are: 1) Unusual bleeding or discharge. 2) A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere. 3) A sore that does not heal. 4) Change in bowel or bladder habits. 5) Hoarseness or cough. 6) Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing. 7) Change in a wart or mole.

"The leaflet," Bill Hall, Crusade chairman, said, "If read carefully and acted upon should help save half of those who develop cancer instead of the one out of three saved today." The text further points up that of the major diseases that cause death in the U. S., cancer is one of the most curable when it is treated before the disease has spread, making early discovery and prompt medical attention a key factor in saving lives.

Trucks Collide

Two trucks were involved in an accident Monday afternoon, April 1st, around 5:45 p.m. as one truck had stopped to make a left turn into Miller's Diner-Restaurant.

Mocksville Policeman Lonnie M. Tatterow, who investigated the accident, gave the following account:

Lawder Vernon Ellis, 41, of Spartanburg, S. C., operating a 1958 truck owned by Spartan Mills of Spartanburg, had stopped to make a left turn into the local restaurant parking area. A 1961 Mack truck, owned by Dehart Motor Lines of Conover, being operated by Leonard Atlas Bumgarner, 27, of Granite Falls, failed to stop as driver reported brakes failed to take hold and his truck hit the other truck in the rear.

Law And Order!

What it's worth — Where it came from — How we got it — What officers can do to keep it — What We the People can do to help them keep it — A look at law and order in perspective. This is the first of a series of articles.

By ALBERT COATES

Law School — University of North Carolina — Chapel Hill.

The problem of law and order has been with us for a long time. Nine hundred years ago the King of England was calling on all his on all his faithful subjects . . . to give effectual and diligent counsel and aid to the preservation of the peace . . . and the violation of his justice by murders, robbers and burglars who exercise their malice by day and by night, not only against men travelling from place to place, but against men sleeping in their beds.

On the 6th of February, 1967 the President of the United States was calling Congress into action on this problem in a message saying: Recently a survey made in high crime areas of two of our largest cities found that: 43 percent of the people interviewed stayed off the streets at night; 35 percent did not speak to strangers; 21 percent used only cabs and cars at night; 20 percent would like to move to another neighborhood . . . Their fear of crime had effectively narrowed the scope of their lives . . . denying them pleasure, opportunity, and a sense of peace.

In the summer of 1967 the Governor of North Carolina was expressing his "grave concern over the riots and civil disorders experienced in many other states" and his hope and belief that these "sudden, explosive and destructive results of unrestrained mob-violence" will not come to North Carolina.

And then he goes on to say:

Read the front pages of our newspapers, or turn in to the newscasts. A storekeeper is butchered. A young man steps from his trailer and is literally blown to bits. A sheriff is shot down in cold blood while carrying out his duty. A rural church is bombed. Night riders shoot into occupied houses at night.

I want to ask some questions about law and order in my talk to you this afternoon and try to answer them:

- (1) What is the use of law and order?
- (2) Where did it come from?
- (3) How did we get our law enforcing machinery?
- (4) What can law enforcing agencies do to keep the peace?

(5) What are some officers doing to keep it? (6) What can city governing boards do to help them keep it? (7) What can We the People do to help them keep it?

What is the use of law and order?

There is nothing mysterious about the rule of law when you stop to think about it. Nor about the order which comes from observance of the law. Nor about the peace which comes from observance of the law. Nor about the peace which comes from both. It is as simple, and as profound, as the rule of the road which says "turn to the right on meeting." What would happen if we didn't have that rule of law to go by?

Suppose two men on foot approach each other on a narrow path and neither turns to the right? Suppose these men are riding in horse and buggy style? Or in the driver's seat of motor cars on the public highway? Suppose they come on four roads to one intersection point and there is no rule of law to give the right of way? Or, there is a rule of law to go by and every one ignore it, picks and chooses his own course, and moves full speed ahead?

The idea of live and let live goes out of the window. Everybody's business becomes nobody's business. The market value of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness at that intersection point goes down to the level where nothing is worth anything to anybody any more.

Whenever two or more people come together the rule of law and order becomes a convenience and a necessity — at a county crossroad or on a city parade. The problem is more pressing in cities and towns for the simple reason that more people are coming together there, living closer together, crossing each other's paths, stepping on each other's toes, getting in each other's hair, with a corresponding rise in friction points.

Let them come together from differing backgrounds, differing races, differing ideologies, from the direst poverty and the dullest wealth, with built-in grievances and resentments and frustrations coming to internal combustion points. And the disappearance of the rule of law and order illustrates its uses — at Newark, Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland, Watts, and a hundred other cities where law and order went into eclipse in recent summer dog days.

(Next Week: Where Did The Rule Of Law and Order Come From?)

Knock On Every Door!

During the month of April, there will come a knock at the door or a ring of the door-bell. The caller may be a stranger, or often a neighbor already known.

In either case, he or she will be a volunteer of the American Cancer Society, prepared to leave life-saving information, and asking our support for the Society's work.

The volunteer will also be one of some 2,000,000 who each April go out on the "Cancer Crusade" — and who in a very real way are symbols of America's miracle.

The name of this miracle is "voluntarism" and it has been part of our nation since the days of the first settlers.

The so-called "degenerative" diseases are another matter, however. And perhaps the most mysterious and tragic of them is cancer. Its fundamental cause still remains to be unraveled by research.

Even so, much has been done to save lives, and more can be. The Cancer Society informs us that some 200,000 Americans will be saved this year. An additional 100,000 might be, but won't — because diagnosis and/or treatment may come too late.

That is why the information the ACS volunteer will bring can be a matter of life. Ours. But to carry on its work of education, service and research, the support must be ours as well.

Uncle Dave From Davie Says: Library News

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Zebe Grubb's preacher came by the country store Saturday night and reported to the fellers that, all in all, he had a pretty good week. First off, he said he had gone by the post office Friday morning and had wrote a couple post cards and they didn't charge him nothing fer using their ballpoint pen.

Ed Doodlittle allowed as how this was a oversight on the part of the Congress when they hiked postal rates. He figured they would git around to a small fee fer using them pens and maybe put a small entrance & exit fee fer using the front door.

The good Parsons also reported he had got by without being sued and in this day and time when everybody was going lawsuit crazy he had to give thanks to the Lord fer his absence in court. Even some preachers, he said, was getting into the lawsuit business. He reported he had saw where a preacher in Angewood, California, was suing his congregation fer back pay. This preacher told the Judge he had promised him $800 a month salary, a home and a gasoline credit card, but had cut him down to $80 a month and took away his card. The piece didn't say, reported the Parson, how the lawsuit come out.

Clem Webster was guessing the preacher would lose, said a feller making $800 a month belonged on Wall Street and not in the pulpit. Farthermore, said Clem, they was a chanct the congregation would claim his sermons was gitting too pore fer that kind of money.

The Parson was of the opinion the courts was gitting tired of all these lawsuits, said he had saw where a worker sued the company because his union contract called fer a "good night's sleep" and they had him working on the night shift. The Judge told him to pull down the shades and git hisself a good night's sleep in the daytime.

Ed said the whole situation boiled down to the fact we was gitting too many lawyers in the country. Everything now had to be wrote down in contracts and the fine print was gitting so small a feller past 50 couldn't read it without a magnifying glass and the magnifying glass makers was wising up to the situation and hiking the prices to keep pace with the contracts.

The Parson told the fellers he had took note in reading history that things had a way of swypping too fur one way and would eventual end up swypping all the way to the other end. Personal, Mister Editor, I was agreed with the Parsons. The red tape wheel has got to unravel in the end. I won't live to see it but the day is coming when the income tax form won't have but two lines. The first will say, Item A: What Was Your Income Last Year? Item B: Remit Item A.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dave

National Library Week is coming! April 22 to April 27 mark the days for special celebration in the library world. Your public library is planning many and varied programs for your enjoyment. Support your library at all times but especially during National Library Week. Watch the newspaper for more announcements about special programs.

The allegorical film PARABLE will be shown six times in conjunction with the coming Easter holidays. Please plan to attend one of the following showings: April 8 - 3:45, 6:30, 7:15 and 8:00; April 9 - 3:45 and 4:15.

Your librarian represented the library at the Mid-Davie Grange with a 30-minute speech on April 2. We hope the county people enjoyed hearing about their library.

On Wednesday, April 3, there was a meeting of the school librarians and some representative school teachers with the librarian of the Davie County Public Library. The object of this meeting was to coordinate services between the public and the school libraries.

Mrs. Allen Webb will be story hour leader on April 9. Bring your four and five year old children to the library for an hour of fun and stories at 10:00 a. m.

Senator Sam Ervin Says:

The Senate Subcommittee on Separation of Powers, which I have the privilege of chairing, has begun a series of hearings on the problem of Congressional oversight of administrative agencies of the Federal Government.

Independent agencies actually constitute the fourth branch of the Government in addition to the Legislative, Executive, and Judicial branches established by the Founding Fathers. In a relatively short span of our history, the National Labor Relations Board, the Federal Trade Commission, the Federal Communications Commission, the Securities and Exchange Commission, and the Interstate Commerce Commission have come to exercise massive powers over labor relations, communications, trade, finance, and transportation.

Over the years, a great many citizens have become increasingly concerned about the decisions which are being rendered by these agencies. The criticism, if it has any pattern, is two-fold: first, the public is concerned about its inability to have an effective voice in the policy-making of these agencies, and second, there is concern about agency disregard of the "intent of Congress" in the administration of the laws. In the case of the National Labor Relations Board, which the Subcommittee is now studying, these problems are particularly acute. The agency regulates and referees the relationship of business and labor. The Board's decisions, therefore, affect entire industries and often the entire economy—as illustrated by its controversial role in the current copper strike. As a result, the Board has come under intense criticism by Congress, the Courts, both labor and management, and the academic community.

Many observers recognized that the NLRB makes policy and it is pretty much left to its own devices in doing so. It is said that the Board is subject only to occasional discipline from the Courts and the uneven pressure from Congress. These observers point out that only about once in every twelve years does Congress legislate in the field of labor law, and consequently, the Board has filled the legislative gap.

While there is evidence to support the views of these observers, I personally do not believe that this is a desirable or inevitable situation. One of the major purposes of the Subcommittee's inquiry is to bring attention to the areas in which Congress has abdicated its authority or permitted it to be usurped. Hopefully, these investigations will result in a reversal of a trend which applies to too many of Congress's duties. Toward this goal, the Subcommittee will seek to find the proper limits of the exercise of authority by the NLRB. It will also consider whether the Courts have been diligent in exercising their supervisory powers over the agencies, whether they have been too prone to defer to agency interpretations of these powers, or conversely whether the Courts have a tendency to substitute their own views of policy for what Congress has declared, or has left to agency discretion.

The Subcommittee throughout these hearings will be studying how well the agencies are administering the laws according to the "intent of Congress," for only in this manner can the public have an effective voice in the administration of otherwise complex laws.

News and Comment from Our Raleigh Bureau

WHEN? . . . McVie Broughton, now running for Governor on the Democratic ticket, has been lambasting Lt. Gov. Bob Scott with various kinds of abuse within the past month. These attacks—at first regarded mildly by Scott friends—have grown more and more bitter.

As of this past weekend, Lt. Gov. Scott had not seen fit to reply to them. And, whether Candidate Broughton's lambastings were really amounting to anything remained to be seen.

People who have known young Broughton as a mild-mannered fellow inclined to the shy side wonder what Lt. Gov. Scott has done to rile him. He has certainly said nothing hurtful in the least of Broughton—so it must be something else. But what? When will Scott come back at his opponent?

MIDDLE . . . There is at least one place where Bob Scott is a dead ringer for his much-loved daddy, Kerr Scott. They don't mind traveling—but like to be home every night . . . possible.

Kerr Scott would crawl in that old black Mercury many a night after ten o'clock and head for Haw River . . . often getting in between two o'clock and daylight . . . but always there for breakfast with Miss Mary and the children.

Talking off the record to friends the other day, Bob Scott said he had found Haw River to be almost exactly in the middle of the State. It is a little northwest of the exact center of North Carolina . . . but close enough . . . highway-wise . . . as they say.

Lt. Gov. Scott figures he has "put in" right at 18 hours per day — exclusive of Sundays — campaigning since announcing for Governor.

BIRTHDAYS . . . Candidate Scott and family—wife and five children (pretty good for non-Catholics) — had three birthdays to fall within recent weeks. This, too, brought on some hard driving—for he had to be there.

Incidentally, of the five Scott children, four of them—despite heavy school work—are right on top of the situation. But one—well, she couldn't care less. Her name is Janet . . . and she's just turned five.

WHAT TO DO? . . . The pastor of this big church came in from a tiresome round of golf on Saturday afternoon. He had just sat down when his telephone rang.

It was really bad news. Examiners had just discovered a $200,000 shortage in the funds of the local bank. Furthermore, the president had bought, and paid cash for, a new Cadillac convertible that morning, and was last seen heading out of town with his new red-headed secretary.

"That's just awful," said the pastor. "Who in the world can we get to teach his Sunday School class in the morning?"

WRONG TREE . . . It is understandable that Sneed High should want to be treasurer of the State of North Carolina. He was raised in Durham, has been in the Legislature here, is a lawyer, and likes Raleigh.

But High is barking up the wrong tree when he accuses Edwin Gill of any mishandling of the State's money in any way at any time or in anybody's favor.

Only one or two other states have a financial rating on Wall Street—where we have to go to borrow money—as high as North Carolina. Thus our interest rates are among the very lowest.

Pretty, Edwin Gill is not. He will win no honors as the State's best-dressed. His hair is gone, he has trouble with his weight, and his arches have long since fallen. He is about 16 years older than High, is nobody's spring chicken. Gill is awfully literary; knows art, too. Maybe these are the things—rather than money—on which Mr. High should center his fire. Treasurer Gill would have little defense.

But any man who has served seven years as Commissioner of Revenue, three years as Director of Internal Revenue, and 15 years as State Treasurer is bound to know how to handle money to the best interest of North Carolina. Makes no difference what Mr. High says.

MODERN MATH . . . News stories and pamphlets are busily passing out the word that Holding Technical Institute here will soon install a course in modern math.

It is open to everybody—and nobody would be surprised if a lot of parents around here sign up.

This Raleighite, worn out after a day at the office, wanted to get out of helping junior again with his arithmetic.

"Better help him now, Honey, while you can," said his wife, . . . "next year he goes to the fourth grade."

CHEVY AHEAD . . . Figures just released by the N. C. Department of Motor Vehicles . . . and prepared by the N. C. Auto Dealers Assn. . . show that in 1967 Chevrolet outsold Ford in this State by 44,490 to 36,187. Chevrolet Country last year.

In third place for the year was Pontiac at 16,469. Then came Plymouth with 15,507; and fifth was Buick with 12,011. Six position went to Oldsmobile with 10,493 new cars sold for the year. Little Volkswagen came in seventh at 9,745. Eighth went to Dodge at 7,705, with Mercury coming up ninth with 5,400 and Rambler tenth at 4,266.

60-Second Sermon

By FRED DODGE

TEXT: "Error also has merit." - Voltaire.

"What's this, honey?" asked the young husband as he speared a slab from the dish.

"It's Lucifer cake, dear," replied his bride.

"I thought you were going to make angel cake."

"I was," said the young wife, "but it fell."

Mistakes won't damage you unless you let them. Something went wrong with the bride's cake, but that didn't bother her. She renamed the cake and served it.

R. C. Russell, one of today's most successful salesman and trainer of sales people, says that every salesman is certain to make mistakes. He is only defeated when he lets his mistakes stop him. It is a mistake in nothing at all. The successful salesman makes call after call and, perhaps, mistake after mistake, each time correcting his errors. Eventually, by continual practice and correcting his errors, he perfects his selling effort and attains success. The same is true in every phase of living and working. We all will make errors. The only one that really damages us is the error that causes us to quit or to lessen our efforts in a worthy cause. Every error has merit, but you must find it and use it.

WRONG TREE . . . It is understandable that Sneed High should want to be treasurer of the State of North Carolina. He was raised in Durham, has been in the Legislature here, is a lawyer, and likes Raleigh.

But High is barking up the wrong tree when he accuses Edwin Gill of any mishandling of the State's money in any way at any time or in anybody's favor.

Ask I.R.S. Q - I owned stock in a company that split three for two last year. Do I have to pay tax on the shares of stock I received? A - No, stock splits are usually considered tax free distributions. Q - My son is working his way through college. If we continue to provide over half his support, can we still claim him as a dependent? A - Yes. As long as you provide more than half his support and he is a full-time student, the amount of his income will not disqualify him from being claimed as a dependent. If your son is required to file a return, he may also claim his personal exemption. This is one exception where the same exemption may be claimed on two tax returns.

Scott Urges The Paving Of Drives To VFD Departments

Lt. Gov. Bob Scott, Democratic candidate for governor, has suggested the State should pave driveways leading to volunteer fire departments.

"I believe where it's practical and feasible, the State should pave the driveways of these fire stations," Scott said. "The trucks need to move out quickly and safely in order to save lives and property."

Scott said volunteer departments effectively reduce insurance rates. "Volunteer firemen are good citizens and contribute collectively thousands of man hours of time each year," he explained.

There are more than 750 volunteer fire departments in the State. Last year more than 18,000 volunteers attended training classes sponsored by the Community College system.

Pvt. Thomas Ridenhour Ends Basic Combat

The expert rating is the highest mark a soldier can achieve on his weapons qualification test.

Rebels Blast N. Iredell 9-1.

The Davie Rebels banged out 13 hits to route a 9-1 victory over North Iredell.

The Rebels scored two runs in the first inning on four errors committed by North Iredell without getting a hit. Davie added two more in the third on singles by Latham Cornelison, Boger and Shoaf.

North's home run came in the third when Turner doubled and Johnson singled.

Davie's last three runs came in the sixth inning as they collected four singles and two walks. Southpaw John McDaniel again went the distance of nine innings as he picked up his second win against no losses. John fanned nine and walked only three.

The victory, the Rebels third in a row, gives them a record of 3-1.

Red Cross Drive In Mocksville

The Annual March Drive is underway in the town of Mocksville. "Please support your Chapter by contributing when a volunteer worker calls on you," said officials.

The American National Red Cross is the arm that extends your helping hand to: members of the Armed Forces and their families, veterans, victims of disaster, those who need blood, or first aid training.

There are five co-ordinators in the town of Mocksville. They are Mrs. Sara Durham, Mrs. Garland Still, Mrs. Christine Woodruff, Mrs. Wilma Hudson and Mrs. Bill Collette. These ladies have contacted other volunteer workers in their area to solicit contributions. "Please give when this worker calls on you. This drive is planned to end at the end of March. Should no worker call on you and you would like to contribute to the Red Cross, please call 634-5680 or 634-2740," they concluded.

"RuBopper" Prefix Is Awarded Local Holstein

Ruth D. Baker, Mocksville, North Carolina, will have the exclusive use of "RuBopper" as the prefix in naming all Registered Holsteins bred in the herd. The use of this herd identification name has been granted by Holstein-Friesian Association of America, Brattleboro, Vermont.

By reserving a prefix, a Holstein dairyman establishes a "trade mark" which is used in all published information concerning the performance of his cattle. It becomes the first part of the name of every animal bred in the herd.

The origin of prefix names often stems from farm names, family name combinations or unique geographical or historical features of the farmstead. Members of the immediate family of the person for whom the prefix is recorded may also be allowed to use the prefix when the herd is a single unit.

N. C. E. A. Leaders Attend Conference

Local N. C. E. A. leaders along with Representative Gilbert Lee Boger and Superintendent James Everidge, attended a conference designed to acquaint aspiring legislators with the United Forces for Education program for the 1969-71 legislature. This conference was held at the Trindale Elementary School in High Point on Tuesday, March 26, 1968, at 6:30 P. M.

After a wonderful meal by the host principal, Dennis F. Farlow, State N. C. E. A. officials presented the program. Dr. Amos Abrams made the introduction of Dr. A. C. Dawson who presented the plan program of the United Forces for Education. The U. F. E. goals for 1969 are short and to the point.

They are listed as (1) Improving salaries of school personnel, (2) Summer programs, and (3) assistance for teachers. The Summer programs might include enrichment programs, Remedial, Kindergarten and vocational programs. Assistance for teachers would reduce class load by providing special service teachers above present allotment, personnel to perform clerical tasks, and teacher aides.

This program has been estimated to cost 210 million dollars over the two-year period. Most observers agree that North Carolina can afford this program, if priority to education is given. Claude Farrell, N. C. E. A. official, pointed out the declining percentage of money going into education since 1961. In 1961-62, 28.8% of the new money of the general fund went to education, in 1967-68 only 22.1% of new money was appropriated.

Dr. Dawson closed the program by answering questions from the floor. He then wished all the candidates good luck on the campaign trail.

SCHOOL FEEDING PROGRAMS

Lunch at school has become part of the American tradition - part of our way of life. The benefits are enormous. The program helps to build strong bodies and alert minds in our children. It also helps teach good food habits to those who will be tomorrow's adult Americans. School lunch is the largest non-profit food service operation in the world. It is a prime example of how local, state, and Federal efforts can be coordinated. Three-fourths of our school-age children are enrolled in the more than 70,000 schools serving nutritious, well-balanced lunches each school day. A total of 18 million youngsters participate in the program.

But bigness is not the sole measure of accomplishment to be applied to school lunch. The interest in school lunch in the United States dates back more than a hundred years. Early in this century concerned physicians and public health workers, as well as educators, had realized that poor nutrition in children was a danger to their health. Many local efforts were made to meet the challenge. Milk at morning recess was one of the first. Later, milk distribution just before the opening of school was undertaken in many areas. This was done because it was noted that many children came to school without breakfast. The reasons varied. Sometimes it was just the plain shiftness of parents.

As distances lengthened between home and school, and more parents worked all day, the need for more than just milk at school became apparent. Many of the lunches that children brought to school were nutritionally inadequate. Educators also believed lunch at school could have educational impact. Thus, in 1946 the National School Lunch Act was enacted by Congress. And nowadays, educators coordinate the experience students have in eating nutritious meals with nutrition education in the classroom.

Both the U. S. Department of Agriculture and state departments of education are involved. Federal funds reimburse the local communities for part of the cost of the food, most of which is purchased locally. Some foods are purchased by USDA; some surplus foods also are distributed from this source.

Both public and private (non-profit) schools are eligible provided they operate the lunch program on a nonprofit basis. Established standards provide that the lunch must meet the lunchtime nutritional needs of the children. The four food groups, including milk, are emphasized.

The meals must be served without cost, or at reduced cost, to children who are unable to pay the full price of the lunch. No discrimination or segregation within the school against any child is permitted because of his inability to pay, or because of race, color, or national origin.

Almost a billion dollars' worth of lunches are served in schools each year under this program. But there are still almost 10 million children attending schools without any food service at all, and millions of children who do not participate in schools where lunch is served. More nutrition education is needed to counter this fact. Parents can help, too. Schools in needy areas can get Federal assistance if there is a lack of food service equipment.

What Makes the Piedmont Great The Ride to Cedar Spring. In the summer of 1780, Jane Thomas left her house in the Spartanburg area and rode over sixty miles on horseback to the town of Ninety-Six. She was there to visit her husband, Colonel John Thomas, a prisoner of the British. It was a happy reunion. But a short one. Not long after she arrived, she overheard a conversation among the Tory women. One told the others, "The Loyalists intend tomorrow night to surprise the Rebel camp at Cedar Spring." Cedar Spring! The bivouac of the Spartan Regiment. Jane Thomas had to warn them. She waited until first light. Then she mounted her horse and turned north. In front of her, sixty miles of bad roads, wide streams and enemy troops. But Jane Thomas was motivated. The commander at Cedar Spring was John Thomas, Jr., her son. She rode hard through the morning and afternoon, stopping only minutes at a time to rest her horse. Finally, at dusk, she arrived. She quickly sought out her son and gave him the news. Acting swiftly, John Thomas ordered his men to build the camp fires higher, and scatter their sleeping blankets about. Then he dispersed the troops in the woods surrounding the camp. And there they waited. Suddenly the light from the flames caught the faces of 150 British and Tory soldiers. And just as suddenly they charged headlong into the camp, shouting and firing as they came. The trap was closed. John Thomas gave the command to fire. The woods erupted like thunder. Down went the enemy soldiers, one after another. And in a moment, it was over. The British and Tories had been completely routed, thanks to a determined woman and a fast horse. The Thomas family and the men at Cedar Spring exemplify the spirit that made this area great. And it is in that spirit that Duke Power is working for an even greater Piedmont. 'Milking' Job On In Flying Cow Caper

By KAYE FRANKLIN VEAL

The following article is a reprint from the Knoxville, Tenn. newspaper.

Over in Mocksville, N. C., these days, Joe Spry's neighbors are teasing him about being a "cattle rustler." Mr. Spry says it's so, that he's got the Alcoa Way Center's "flying cows."

But the ransom for the cow's return comes high. Mr. Spry says he won't take less than $400 or $500 to give it back. He said "I'm having too much fun with it to give it back for less." He's been riding it around in the back of his pickup truck.

Mr. Spry says the flying bovine plopped down in a pasture on his farm about 5 miles outside Mocksville, near Winston-Salem.

Balloons Were Gone "She was completely gone when I got to her," he said. "Completely flat. And every balloon was gone."

Does Mr. Spry plan to give it back? "Not for any $100 in reward money," he said. That's the current amount being offered by the Alcoa Way Center.

How much would he take for the cow? "That's hard to tell," he said. "If the money's enough, I might consider driving her back to Knoxville."

"Otherwise," he said, "I believe I'll just keep her." Mr. Spry, a Mocksville native, lives alone on his farm. He is currently working for the Mocksville Department Store, where the News-Sentinel contacted him today.

"For $500, He Can Keep It" Mr. Spry told John Cliff, a truck driver who lives at Strawberry Plains and an old friend of Mr. Spry, that if he doesn't get enough money for the cow, he plans to inflate it again and use it as a "trademark" at a restaurant he plans to build. Mr. Cliff visited Mr. Spry yesterday.

Bob Huber, owner of the Alcoa Way Center, where the helium-filled cow broke its anchor March 16, said today, "For $500, he can sure keep it."

Cecil Leagans and Mrs. Vernon Miller are honored.

Mr. Bahnsen recalled how Mrs. Miller had taught him in high school and that as he grew older and looked back, realized what a terrific influence she had made on his life.

Mr. Leagans was presented the award by Luther West who received the award last year.

- DAVIE COUNTY - A Lake Of Tranquility

BY HUGH LAREW

(Editor's Note . . . The following is the text of the speech delivered by Hugh Larew before the Mocksville Rotary Club on Tuesday concerning race relationship in Davie County).

Our country is in as deep a crisis as it has ever faced. The racial unrest abroad in our country today is threatening at best to divide our country into two hostile camps along racial lines; at worst it constitutes the beginning of a vicious and bloody revolution unparalleled in our national history. Black extremists threaten to turn the dream of the black moderates into a nightmare for us all. White extremists are becoming even more hardened and antagonistic to even the slow, reasonable, legal, orderly, and non-violent evolution of the Negro in American society. This irremediable force and this immovable object are on a collision course in our country and the hour is late for remedial action I some say it is too late - God forbid.

This is not a memorial service for Dr. Martin Luther King even though his funeral is today. The principles we would consider are more far reaching than either the life or the death of one man. But, this is not an inappropriate time to stop and consider where we are and where we may be able to go in this matter.

Although not directly involved, we have heard a great deal about Watts, Newark, Detroit and Winston-Salem. We have read of marches in Washington, and boycotts in Montgomery and we either agree or disagree with the motives and objectives in those places. But as Kerr Scott said when asked about the Korean War, those places are a long way from Haw River.

Let's face it, whether our views and actions are right or wrong will have great significance only in our immediate area - mainly Davie County. Further, our problems are not the same as the problems in Baltimore this morning or Princess Anne County, Virginia a few years ago. What we must do, is to look at the situation where we are and to find where we are going. There is an Old Gospel song - Brighten the corner, where you are - and the key words are "where you are".

Where are we now? We could compare our county to a lake of tranquility surrounded by much sometime turbulence. Statesville and its public pools, Winston-Salem and the 1967 riots, KKK activity in Rowan and Davidson County. Our situation is far better and different than that of our neighbors - no demonstrations, no rocks thrown, no national guard, no crosses burned. There is a degree of moderation on both sides not enjoyed by many other neighboring communities.

There is a patience and calmness among our Negro population which has been seemingly unaffected by national Negro leaders who call for violence in words such as burn baby burn, shoot whitey etc.

IN surrounding counties, demonstrations and violence have brought integrated eating facilities - recall the K & W episode in Winston-Salem. A Negro can eat today in the Robert Lee Hotel dining room but are they equally Old Buildings Anyone having an old building that they wish to be rid of may now be accommodated by the Mocksville Volunteer Fire Department. The local fire department needs old buildings for training purposes and will safely burn these buildings down with no charge to the property owner. Anyone having such a building should contact the Mocksville Fire Department.

Local Guard Unit The local unit of the National Guard was called to Greensboro last Friday during the racial disturbances in that city. They remained on duty over the weekend and were still on duty there as of Tuesday night. It was expected that they would remain there as long as the curfew of that city was in effect.

Medical Auxiliary Hostesses for the Davie-Mocksville Medical Auxiliary on Thursday, April 11, will be Mr. W. M. Long and Mrs. Bob M. Foster. The luncheon meeting will be held at the Salisbury Country Club.

Orientation Day The Mocksville Elementary School will hold an orientation day for the Pre-School children, and their parents, who will attend Mocksville Elementary School this coming school year. This meeting is planned for April 17th, 1:00 P.M., at the Primary Building on Cherry Street. Please plan to come and bring your child if he or she is to start school this fall.

This meeting is being planned to familiarize parent and child with school policies. The Medical blanks needed for the required physical examination will be available; Mrs. Stroud, Davie County Health Nurse, will give information on the essential immunization of the child and how the Davie County Health Center can assist the parent, and if you already have the child's birth certificate someone at the meeting will verify all information and return the certificate to you immediately," stated Mr. Thompson, Principal of the Mocksville Elementary School. Refreshments will be served.

Local Student Will Attend Governor's School

MISS BRENDA SUMMERS Miss Brenda Summers has been selected to attend the Governor's school this summer. She will be studying English.

Brenda will be attending from June 16 to August 3. She will attend three classes each day. The remaining time will be free for activities such as hiking and swimming.

Memorial Service Held For Dr. Martin L. King

Memorial services for Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. were held Sunday afternoon at 6 p. m. in the Middle School Auditorium in Mocksville. Dr. King, noted Civil Rights leader, was assassinated in Memphis, Tenn. last Thursday.

The Rev. F. D. Johnson, Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, presided. Words of expression were as follows: The Rev. J. E. Ratchford for the ministers of Davie County. Mr. Ratchford is pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Mocksville.

Mayor D. J. Mando for the Town of Mocksville. For the schools: Joseph W. McGuire and Mrs. Mildred S. Brooks.

For the youth: Jerry Lewis Isaac. The first speaker for the Civic League organization was B. T. Williams.

Mrs. Thomas Gaither gave a reading from a speech made by Dr. King in Washington, D. C. in 1963. Prayers were offered by the Rev. G. W. Campbell, pastor of the Shilo Baptist Church and by the Rev. Freeman Germany, pastor of St. John's A. M. E. Zion Church.

Music was rendered by representatives of various churches of the town. Solos were rendered by Mrs. F. D. Johnson and Mrs. Marie Bowe. An estimated 200 persons attended the memorial service.

Bloodmobile Is At Coolemees

The Red Cross Bloodmobile Unit will be in Coolemees April 12, 1968 from 11:00 am until 4:30 pm. The site of the visit will be the Fellowship Hall of the First Baptist Church.

This is perhaps the most important visit for Davie County since entering the Bloodmobile Program. This will be the last visit in the current fiscal year which ends June 30, 1968. To date our blood usage has far exceeded our blood collections. Projecting our usage for the remainder of the fiscal year on the experience of the first 3 months, we will need approximately 275 pints to meet our actual blood usage," said Hamilton Hudson, County Chairman for the Red Cross Blood Program.

"It only takes a few moments to give blood - the gift of a lifetime. The blood we give could easily be the determining factor in life or death for someone, even ourselves or some member of our family. We have moral obligation to ourselves and to our fellow citizens to donate our blood - saying blood, remember it is so little to give - so much to save. While you are a life today, you are entering the Bloodmobile Program. Where can you get so high a return on such a small investment?" continued Mr. Hudson.

"Each of us should work through our place of employment, our church, and the various civic clubs to meet these life-saving needs for the people of our county," he said. Anyone who has not received a donor credit card for blood given to Red Cross Blood Program in past visits should contact Mrs. Knox Johnstone or Mrs. F. W. Slate. They will assist in getting a donor card and proper credit for donations.

-Questions & Answer

Q - Do I have to put my wife's number on our return? All she has is a little interest income. . . .

A - Your wife's Social Security number is required on a joint return, if she had wages subject to withholding, interest, dividends, commission income, prize income, or income from any other source.

Q - What records should I keep on my charitable contributions?

A - Your records should be sufficient to establish that you made a charitable contribution for the amount listed on your tax return. Cancelled checks, receipts and other records will be helpful in providing this substantiation.

Ask for a receipt whenever you make a cash contribution to charity. Otherwise, you will have no record of the gift.

Q - I loaned some money to a friend of mine so he could go into business. The business failed and he can't pay me back. Can I deduct this loan as a loss?

A - If you have taken reasonable steps to collect the loan and if there is no likelihood that the debt may be recovered even by going to court, then you may deduct the amount of the debt as a short-term capital loss. Report it on Schedule D of Form 1040.

Should you recover any part of the debt at any time in the future it must be included in your income.

subject to special rules. Note that loans to children and certain other relatives are presumed to be gifts.

Q - I'm a widow. How long can I file a joint return?

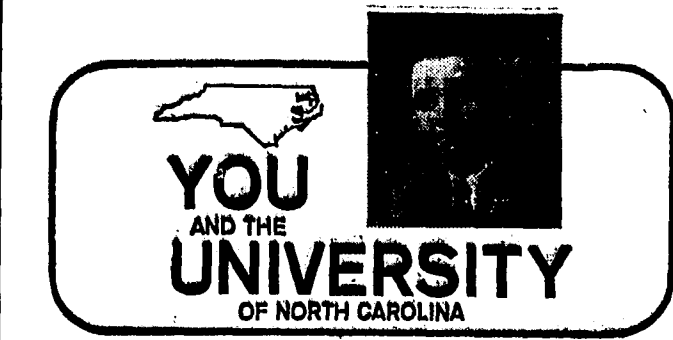

A - You can file a joint return for the year of death. However, you may file as a "surviving spouse" using joint return rates for the two years succeeding the year of your husband's death if you maintain your home as the principal residence for a dependent child. Check page 3 of the 1040 instructions for details.

Q - I sent my ex-wife $110 every month last year to support our daughter. Is this money deductible?

A - Child support payments are not deductible and do not have to be declared as income by the recipient. However, the payments could entitle you to claim the child as a dependent, since they are over $1,200 a year, unless your ex-wife can clearly show that she provided more.

Q - I'm in the Army and sold my home when I was transferred last year. Is there any way I can avoid taxes on any profit I might have?

A - A tax is postponed on profits from the sale of a home if another costing the same or more than the "adjusted sales price" of the one sold is purchased within Major American universities, such as the University of North Carolina, are not content to be isolated centers of learning.

The four campuses of the University of North Carolina work each day of the year to bring their intellectual resources to bear upon the major problems confronted by our state and nation. In doing so, the University has developed extensive programs of research and adult education.

We are all familiar with the research program conducted through the Agricultural Experiment Station at North Carolina State University at Raleigh and its 16 branch stations located in all sections of the State. There is no better example of the University in the service of the State than the research being done to improve methods of producing crops and livestock and methods of more efficiently organizing the agriculture of this State.

Agricultural Research
The University's agricultural research program is an important instrument for improving North Carolina's overall economy. It is designed to develop new information about soils, crops, livestock and poultry, and all factors affecting them.

From the facts developed, the farmer is provided with the "know-how" for utilizing his resources to better economic advantage. This, in turn, provides a higher standard of living for him and his family and makes him a better customer for non-farm goods and services. At the same time, it results in farm products of improved quality for the consumer.

The production of peaches, for example, is a major economic factor in the Sandhills region of the State. Just as with other crops, peaches are threatened by disease and insect problems, and peach growers must also keep up the latest packaging and merchandizing trends if they are to compete in the nation's marketplace.

With this in mind, the Sandhills Research Station was established in 1940 and has been expanded through the years. It is located at Jackson Springs in Montgomery County on a 347-acre tract of land.

At the Sandhills Station, University scientists are currently conducting a wide range of research investigations involving peaches such as disease and insect control, variety evaluation, pruning, irrigation, fertilization, cultural practices, packaging, and hydrocooling. Other fruit crops under study are apples and grapes. Many other University laboratory also contribute materially to the development of the State. Through the marine laboratories at Aurora, Hatteras, and Morehead City, we are seeking to develop knowledge regarding conservation and new procedures for efficient utilization of our marine resources.

Forest Laboratories
Through the Hofmann Forest in Jones and Onslow Counties, the Hill Forest in Durham County, the Schenck Forest in Wake County, and the Pulp and Paper Laboratory on our Raleigh campus, we are endeavoring to improve technology for the State's burgeoning wood products industries.

Through the Water Resources Institute, an inter-campus program is being conducted on the campuses at Chapel Hill and Raleigh to improve the quality and commercial value of North Carolina's water resources.

The Minerals Research Laboratory in the western part of the State has a program of research designed to locate minerals and to develop the commercial potential of the mineral deposits in North Carolina.

The Center for Research and Training in Occupational Education at North Carolina State has a program of research concerning the changes in occupational structure in our State and the kinds of vocational education needed by our youth to enable them to participate most effectively in the expanding occupations.

The Highway Safety Research Center has a research program conducted jointly by the faculties at Chapel Hill and at Raleigh that is seeking basic information concerning accident prevention in the State.

The Institute of Child and Family Development on the Greensboro campus is conducting research pertaining to improving the physical and mental development of our children.

In addition, the University has very productive research programs in the fields of medicine, industry, business, engineering, oceanology, textiles, community organization, government, economic development, and many other areas.

In the laboratory and field studies conducted by the University, that which was unknown is becoming known. Vastly expanding opportunities are being opened to us, and a new appreciation of the nature and meaning of life is being created.

Q - My wife and I own stock which is registered in both our names. Are the first $200 in dividends we receive tax free?

A - Yes, if you file a joint return. If you file separately each may exclude up to $100 in dividends.

Q - We adopted a child last year although the final papers didn't go through until this year. Can we claim her as a dependent on our 1967 return?

A - Yes, if the child was placed in your home for adoption in 1967, was a member of your household and the support tests described on page 4 of the 1040 instructions are met.

Q - How do I get the taxes back that were withheld from my wages last summer? This was my only income and I earned less than $600 for the year.

A - To obtain a refund of withheld income taxes an income return must be filed. You may use the short Form 1040A available at banks, post offices and local IRS offices. Be sure to include a copy of your withholding statement showing the wages paid and taxes withheld.

Q - I am employed as a painter and occasionally do some work on my own weekends. Do I have to pay self-employment tax?

A - If the net income from your part-time work is $400 or more you may be liable for self-employment tax. For an explanation of this tax send a post card to your district director and ask for a copy of Document No. 5047, Self-Employment Tax.

Q - I use my car for business. Is there anything I can deduct for its operation?

A - Yes, if the cost of its operation qualifies as an allowable business expense. In that case you may deduct your actual expenses in operating the car or a standard mileage rate of ten cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles of business use and seven cents a mile thereafter. Check your 1040 instructions to see if you qualify for this deduction.

If you use the standard mileage rate, a speedometer reading at the beginning and end of each business trip will establish the amount you can deduct. Tolls and parking fees are deductible in addition to the standard rate.

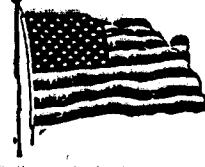

If you are reimbursed by your company for the use of the car, your deduction must be reduced by the amount of your reimbursement. Any excess of your reimbursement over the expenses should be declared as income.

MORE ABOUT LAKE OF TRANQUILITY

Free to eat in local cafes. Have we said that violence will win where patience and goodwill have failed?

In surrounding counties, large industries and businesses now employ Negroes in position of dignity commensurate with their training and ability. Do you know of a Negro secretary, salesman or department head in Davie County. Maybe, but what about our corner - our business as Rotarians. If not, is this because we have failed to make an honest effort to employ people of all races.

W-S and other cities have Negro alderman, members of the school board etc. and in such places the Negro community has a voice in local affairs. I understand that 1-7 of our people in our county are Negro - but none are in the courthouse or in any significant governmental job. Our ancestors proudly cried "Taxation without representation" and rebelled.

Our churches have mouthed the Christian sentiments about the worth of the individual and the basic equality of individuals, but in our community this is a hollow and meaningless concept in fact. They have preached but not practiced true Christian fellowship devoid of racial prejudice.

Civic Clubs - our corner - Jaycees Lions and Rotarians. What is in our creeds and basics that preclude negro membership. Rather would these creeds and basic encourage fellowship and cooperation beyond and through would - be barriers such as race, religion and political party.

I believe that most of us here are not white extremists. It would not tear us up if a Negro attended a service at our church. We do eat with them at the K & W; We would not object to sharing the dining room in Mocksville. Our children did not develop VD upon integration of the schools. We would not flinch when our cash boxes rattle from the sale made by a Negro clerk. Does this attitude mean that we are on the right track?

I think it means there may still be time for us to find the right way. If we will each consider, we may very well achieve without trouble, what other communities will be long in achieving because of their trouble.

JANICE CARTNER

Miss Janice Cartner was the winner of the Davie High talent show which was held last Saturday night. For her talent she sang two songs and twirled a baton.

Second place went to Hilda Bennett who twirled a baton. The Facil Folk Deal won third place. The Facil Folk Deal, a quartette composed of Elizabeth Hall, Katie Glascock, Patricia Hendrix, and Pam Leary, sang several folk songs. Richard Green received honorable mention.

The beautiful painting of Easter, depicting the cross and white lilies on the bulletin board at Green Meadows church, was done by a young lady of the church, Miss Pamela Carter.

Linda Marshall of East Carolina College arrived home Tuesday for spring vacation.

As Easter approaches it seems that many have forgotten the price Jesus paid on the cross for all. God hasn't gone any place, only man has strayed. God is still ready to speak comfort and peace if only man will listen. Peace will never be achieved through war and riots, but only as individuals come to a full understanding of the true meaning of the cross and resurrection.

SPRING IS HERE

Spring is here and nature's beauty is in evidence all about us. Blossoms are everywhere, we see them in the fruit trees, peach, pear, plum, apricot, and in the forest trees, elm, maple, dogwood, judas or red bud, black hawk & others who are responding to the urge from the change in temperature. They are revealing a variety of color in their blossoms and also food for the hungry bees and other insects. The bulbs well hidden in the earth have held their secrets under the cold rains and snows and now have thrust their eye catching colorful blooms through to the warm April sun and gentle showers. Birds are gaily singing as they happily hunt for food for their babies already safely hatched from the tiny colored eggs, and are now hid away in the warm soft lined nests made during the colder days of March. The yards and pastures are carpeted with fresh green grass. Herds of contented cows with their baby calves by their sides are busy grazing hungrily. Fresh plowed gardens with rows of planted seeds and green plants give promise of good fresh vegetables for the dinner table this summer. Yes indeed, Spring is here.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Mr. Editor:

'A Lesson To Learn'
I came to this town last year to be with the one I love.

I became mixed up with the wrong people and have only hurt myself and friends that have been with me since.

I have re-enlisted in service to give me a chance to get things straightened out.

I plan to return to Mocksville in two years and try to start a new life. All I want is the forgiveness of the town and the one I love.

I admit I have learned my lesson and I am paying for it. Now it is up to you... the town... I want to call home.

LT. GOV. BOB SCOTT, CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR, BUYS TROUT FISHING LICENSE FROM MR. REYNOLDS AT SPORTING GOODS SHOP IN WINSTON-SALEM WHILE HIS DAUGHTER MEG WATCHES PROCEEDINGS. Earlier Scott had talked with the Senior Citizens at the Forsyth County Headquarters. He told them that he is opposed to cigarette taxes. He stated he is opposed to federal government ads against cigarettes on Post Office trucks. These government ads are like a dog biting the hand that feeds it. In other words, millions of dollars go from Forsyth County in cigarette taxes to the Federal government. Therefore if less cigarettes are sold there will be less taxes going to the federal government. Scott stated that he had visited numerous nursing homes and hospitals as he is interested in improving these facilities in North Carolina. His wife has been chairman of the American Cancer Society. The family is deeply interested in the prevention and treatment of cancer.

ARC Gives To Workshop

The following article was written by Mrs. W. M. Long. The Davie County Association for Retarded Children decided to contribute two hundred ($200) dollars to the sheltered workshop at Ellis City, which serves Rowan, Davie and Cabarrus counties. A check for this amount was mailed to Mrs. Sarah Bray, director of the

Rowan County Vocational Workshop. Mrs. Bray accepted this money with deep gratitude. The association hopes to contribute more later, and hopes too, that other groups and organizations will follow suit. Needs of the workshop are money, a duplicator, typewriter, paper cutter, electric food mixer, pots and pans, educational games and books, records, supplies for sports such as football, ping pong, etc., tape recorder, camera and projector, linens for single beds, first aid supplies, crutches, wheel chairs and canes, two commercial machines for sewing, an edger and a surger, scissors, yardsticks, thread, material, four mirrors and other items. Perhaps some of Mocksville's furniture and clothing manufacturers can supply the workshop with contracts. Students at the workshop can do any "miscellaneous" or tedious jobs that would benefit both the workshop and the manufacturer as far as low cost labor is concerned. The Association for Retarded Children also discussed the possibility of a class in the public schools for the Trainable Retarded. It is thought that there are enough children needing such training to apply to the state for a teacher. The council on Mental Retardation will consult with the County Board of Education on that subject.

Members are reminded to pay their annual dues of $2.00 before the end of March.

tried and true... Old Southern Recipes

OLD SALEM
In 1827 Christian Winkler, a Swiss-born Moravian of Litz, Pa., came to Salem, N. C. to take over the community bake shop, and for more than a century he and his descendants operated a bakery business in the same sturdy brick and stone building. Today the old Winkler Bakery, still standing in the heart of what is now Old Salem in Winston-Salem, is being restored to its early 19th century appearance. When the restoration is completed in early 1968, baking operations will be resumed and baked goods sold. Recipes will come from the Old Winkler family recipe book, which has been translated from the original German and the recipes adapted for modern measurements, equipment and methods.

The Moravian Church itself was born in an era of religious unrest. After much religious conflict - the Moravians sought to establish missions in the New World. In 1752 Lord Granville of England sold the Moravians a 84,355 acre tract in North Carolina. They named their new land Wachovia and later built their central town of Salem, the name being inspired by the Hebrew word for peace. The settlement grew, both in numbers and in reputation, despite the threat of Indians and the inevitable hardships of colonization.

The Moravians planned their community and in 1766 constructed their buildings flush to the walks and clustered around a central square. A meaningful experience awaits visitors as Old Salem portrays the homes culture, and crafts of the Moravians. A variety of exhibit buildings are open daily to the public.

ORANGE MACAROON TORTE
To 1 1/2 cups of sugar add the grated rind of 1 orange. Beat into it 6 egg yolks for 5 minutes at high speed. Fold in 1 1/2 cups of finely cut up almonds. Next, fold in 3 beaten egg whites, and last, 1/4 cup of bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon cinnamon and 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves. Bake this batter in a buttered and floured 10-inch spring-form pan at 350 degrees for 45 minutes or until it tests done. When the macaroon torte is cool, slice it into two layers and ice with orange glaze.

ORANGE GLAZE
Sift 1/2 pound of powdered sugar. Stir into this 3 tablespoons orange juice, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind, 1 tablespoon rum and 2 tablespoons heavy cream, heated. Lightly spread half of the glaze on the bottom half over the top, when layers are set together. One may decorate with maraschino cherries set into the moist glaze and then let it dry in the oven for a minute.

Question and Answer Column No. 68-15

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q - I owe about $50 on my 1967 taxes. Should I add that amount to my 1968 estimated tax check?

A - It is advisable to write separate checks or money orders for the two different tax liabilities to make sure your payments are properly credited. Identify each check with your name and social security number and indicate what tax the payment covers.

The reason for writing separate checks for your 1967 tax balance and your 1968 estimated tax payment is that separate processing operations are involved for the tax return and the estimated tax declaration. When one check is written to cover two tax payments, the entire amount may be credited to just one tax. This could result in a refund for overpayment on one return and a bill for additional tax on the other return.

It will also be helpful to mail each tax return with the check attached in a separate envelope. This will help assure that the return is properly processed.

Q - I'm 59 and retired last year because of illness. Is my company pension taxable?

A - A pension received for retirement before normal retirement age because of sickness or injury may qualify as sick pay, in that case up to $100 a week may be excluded from income until you reach normal retirement age.

For details, send a post card to your district director and ask for Document No. 5016, Sick Pay.

Q - I filed my tax return over ten weeks ago. Shouldn't I have my refund by now?

A - Yes, if the return was complete and accurate. A return claiming a refund filed early in the year takes from 5 to 6 weeks to process. In most cases, when refunds are delayed, a letter explaining the delay is sent to the taxpayer.

If you have not heard from IRS, check the address you used on your tax return to see if it is the same as your current address. If not, send your new address to the Service Center where you filed your return. Lack of a current address holds up the delivery of many refunds.

If your address has not changed, contact your local IRS office or write to the Service Center where you filed. Give your name, Social Security number, address, date of filing, type of return filed and ask them for advice about your refund.

Q - I pay medical care insurance for my mother. If she qualifies as my dependent, can I use the new rules on medical care insurance deductions?

A - Yes, premiums paid for medical care insurance for yourself, your spouse and your dependents are covered by the new rules. Total all of these premiums you paid last year and deduct one-half of them, up to $130 without regard to the three percent rule. The balance of the premiums should be included with your other medical expenses which are subject to the three percent limitation.

You must itemize your deductions to use this new rule.

Q - My refund came last week and it is about $10 less than what I claimed. Why?

A - It could be that you made a mistake in arithmetic or used the wrong tax table. An explanation of why the change was necessary should be mailed to you shortly.

To avoid such mistakes in the future, double check your return use the table for married couples filing jointly, not the one for married couples filing separately. Single taxpayers should not use the table for heads of household unless they meet the requirements described on page 3 of the 1010 instructions.

Law And Order!

What it's worth — Where it came from — How we got it — What officers can do to keep it — What We the People can do to help them keep it — A look at law and order in perspective. This is the second of a series of articles.

By ALBERT COATES

Law School — University of North Carolina — Chapel Hill.

Where did the rule of law and order come from?

If you will follow the records backward far enough you will come to a time when our forefathers in Saxon England and in early Norman days tried to keep the peace by the law of tit for tat. You killed my brother, and I killed yours. You burned my house, and I burned yours. You raped my wife, and I raped yours. You took my property, and I took yours. You beat me up, and I beat you up. Relatives came in to complicate the act, confusion became confounded, and private warfare was the order of the day. It was the rule of the bloodfeud, and it made bad matters worse.

People began to see that in getting even they got behind! They wanted peace from all this private warfare and when the tit for tat of the bloodfeud did not bring it, the records show them compelling the parties to a controversy to give up the private vengeance of the bloodfeud for a money compensation based on the gravity of the wrong that was done.

They wanted peace so much they sometimes put peace ahead of justice & gave the money compensation to richest relative who could disturb the peace, rather than to the widow and children who needed the money.

After awhile they saw that putting peace ahead of justice did not bring peace — it began to bring disturbance of the peace. At that point compensation to the next of kin gave way to punishment by the community. And private vengeance turned into public justice.

In differing communities throughout England law and order was an uneven and uncertain thing. It varied there, as it varies now, with the differing strengths, weaknesses, and dispositions of local authorities. Communities needed outside help and got it — from the King. As we get it now — from Raleigh or Washington.

It came in the name of the King's Peace, which went with the King and surrounded the King's person wherever he went. Anybody starting a fight in the presence of the King was committing a crime against the "peace and dignity of the King," and he answered for it to the King.

By slow degrees the King's "presence" was extended to the King's Castle. Then to the four roads running to the King's Castle — where people travelling on those roads came within the Peace of the King and under his protection.

The King's Peace went with the King's Justices on circuit from Westminster. They wore it as a mantle of protection on their travels to the courts of the Hundred and the Shire, to the courts of Pleas and Quarter Sessions, to the local centers of government, and all people coming to or going from or doing business at these places came within the Peace and the protection of the King.

State officials in North Carolina ought to understand this process of spreading the King's Peace. The General Assembly built a state highway system running from county seat to county seat. Then took over the main connecting county roads, and then the county roads connecting with the main connecting roads, and then put state patrolmen on these roads to protect the people travelling on them. City officials in North Carolina ought to understand this spreading process. State and federal aid has come to city streets in a similar process in our own time; first to state roads running through city limits, then to arterial streets running into these state roads, then to lesser streets running into these arterial streets, and so on to streets throughout the city.

The King's Peace went beyond the King's Highways. It went beyond sittings of the local courts and the centers of local government. It was extended to the churches where persons pursued could claim sanctuary from their pursuers. It was extended throughout the land to cover the days of the King's coronation and eight days before and after. By slow degrees it was extended to all the people of England, at all times, and in all places until public peace became the order of the day and private war was the exception to the rule.

Our forefathers brought the King's Peace with them when they came from England to North Carolina in the 1660's, and every offense to law and order was listed in the warrants and indictments in our courts as an offense committed against "the peace and dignity of the King" — until 1776 when "the peace and dignity of the King of England" became "the peace and dignity of the state of North Carolina."

So much for where the rule of law and order came from.

How did we get our law enforcing machinery?

In the early communities of England it was the custom for a person coming on a dead body to raise "the hue and cry," and for the neighbors to join in the "hue and cry" and follow the track of the fleeing killer to the end of their plantations and then turn over the track to people of adjoining lands. When they caught the killer "red-handed" — with the blood of the murdered man on his hands or with a bloody knife — it was their custom to hang him on the spot.

It was the custom for a person on finding that his property had been stolen to raise "the hue and cry" and for his neighbors to join him in "the hue and cry" and follow the track of the thief. And when they caught him with the goods on him — "back bearing" or "hand having" in the quaint old words of the time — it was their custom to hang him on the spot. These neighbors on "the

Senator Sam Ervin Says:

The Senate has taken a step toward dealing decisively with the growing threat to our monetary system. On April 2 it passed an amended version of the House-passed Tax Adjustment Act of 1968.

As amended by the Senate under the Williams-Smathers substitute, the bill to extend excise taxes on telephone service and automobile sales incorporates a ten percent surcharge on individual and corporate incomes and provides for substantial reductions in the fiscal 1969 budget submitted by the President in January. I voted for the measure as amended, because I think that it is imperative that the Federal Government set its financial house in order.

We now face a serious danger of inflation which will rob every American of his earnings and savings if we continue to engage in deficit financing of the magnitude of $20 to $30 billion annually. Moreover, the value of the dollar is at stake in the efforts we make to eliminate deficit spending by the Federal Government.

No one that I know welcomes additional taxes. Nonetheless, the nation has reached a point in its fiscal affairs that it must choose between unpleasant alternatives. If Congress does nothing to provide additional revenues and is unwilling to make substantial reductions in spending, we face crippling inflation and a new attack upon the dollar. In that event the entire monetary system of the free world could be imperiled.

During my service in the Senate, I have warned against the dangers of fiscal irresponsibility many times. I have advocated consistently that we balance the Federal budget as we went along. I have voted against a number of major programs that I deemed to be unwise expenditures of Federal funds. Had my views prevailed, Federal expenditures would have been reduced during my Senate service by more than $70 billion.

When the tax measure was first proposed last year, I took the position that I would not vote for any kind of increase in taxes unless there was a corresponding reduction in expenditures. The net effect of the Senate-passed tax bill would be to reduce expenditures by several billion dollars more than the revenues derived from the surtax. This would make necessary fiscal adjustments.

The facts are these. We are in the midst of fiscal 1968 that

60-Second Sermon

By FRED DODGE

TEXT: "A deep meaning often lies in old customs." — Schiller.

An American millionaire bought an old estate in Scotland. Because he thought it was romantic and probably stretched back for centuries, he preserved its old name: Sel-doon, even having it embroidered on the new table linen.

Then a neighbor told him the origin of the word, "Sel-doon." A spaghetlic manufacturer owned the place from 1853 to 1955 and dreamed up the name. It was "Noodles" spelled backward!

Of course, we can be hypnotized by history and make foolish mistakes; however, we cannot afford to ignore the past.

Some look into the past, study the answers others have given and avoid bruising bumps. Others scoff at the past and boldly answer all questions. It requires many damaging adjustments to teach them that the past may have merit worthy considering.

We can worship the past and waste away. We can ignore the past and retrace steps that others have taken for us: Johann Schiller, German poet who lived 200 years ago, learned as others have that there can be a deep meaning in ancient customs which it is well to recognize and build upon, if tomorrow is to be strong enough to withstand the demands that will be made upon it.

May the joy and promise of Easter uplift your spirit and gladden your heart.

"hue and cry" became policemen, judges, jurors, executioners, all rolled into one.

Now and then they caught and hanged the wrong man. Some of them began to mutter to themselves that his could happen to you, and that it might even happen to me! And the practice of "the hue and cry" was gradually cut down to catching the suspected person and bringing him before a magistrate who would inquire into the justice of his detention and give him bail or jail until the judge came around on circuit to try him in open court, with a grand jury to find whether there was enough evidence to hold him for trial, with a petty jury to hear witnesses and arguments and decide on his guilt or innocence, with a judge to give penance on the verdict and prescribe his punishment, with a higher court to hear his appeal from the judgment of the trial court, and with a further appeal to the Governor for pardon or parole.

This chain of law enforcing machinery came to North Carolina with the Charter from the Crown in 1663 in these words: "The laws of England shall be the laws of this Colony, insofar as they are compatible with our way of living and trade." The General Assembly of North Carolina look over this provision in the laws of 1715, brought it forward through the years, and put it in our General Statutes. It is the law enforcing machinery of North Carolina today.

So much for how we got out law enforcing machinery.

News and Comment from Our Raleigh Bureau

TRIBUTE . . . Had the President not revealed his plans not to run again, Gov. Dan and Mrs. Moore would no doubt at this time be in Japan attending an important (to North Carolina) trade fair.

The Governor — known around here sometimes as "Sold Dan" — cares not a lot for big travel anyway. And this is particularly true, they say, when there is pressing business around the camp.

While there had been at least a couple of editorial smoke rings in opposition to the Moores' going to Japan (in opposition to LBJ's pleas), it is felt this had nothing to do with their decision. Had they gone, Lt. Gov. Scott would have been Acting Governor in last week's racial troubles. Incidentally, everyone else planning to go, including Gov. McNair of South Carolina (and his Legislature is in session) went.

The whole thing comes out like this: The President is the titular head of the Democratic Party in the nation — ditto for Governor on the North Carolina level. President Johnson solidly threw the fat into the fire; and Dan Moore knew he had no business on the other side of the world with a fine kettle of fish, all Democratic, on the stove back home. And, man, it's frying . . . result of recent developments.

Furthermore, within hours after LBJ's announcement, there was talk of Gov. Dan Moore being put forward as one of the Democratic nominees for the Presidency in Chicago at the Convention next August. This is a tribute few North Carolina Governors have enjoyed.

If carried out, the project would do these things:

1. Give the Democratic Party in the State a much needed boost.
2. Tend to unite once again the Party.
3. Provide the State with a lot of good, harmless publicity.

A. B. B. . . . Two weeks ago a lot of diehards were saying they were for ABJ . . . anybody but Johnson. But if you think some of the Democrats were against Johnson, you ought to hear them take off on Robert Kennedy!

It is strictly: Anybody But Bobby! They'll take Humphrey. While there is—or was—no love lost for the President, the North Carolina delegation would have gone to Chicago solidly for President Johnson. They had little choice . . . even if they had wanted it.

But no Democrat on the national level, since Al Smith 40 years ago, has been more unpopular with rank-and-file North Carolina Democrats than Robert Kennedy. Now you may not get them to admit this around Republicans, but it is true.

Old heads say there was nothing like the personal dislike for Smith that there is this spring for Bobby. Of course, money talks—and it literally thunders in politics—so anything can happen. But Kennedy's work is certainly cut out for him in the Old North State.

STATESMAN . . . Whether you agree with his philosophy or not, GOP Governorial Candidate Jack Stickleby of Charlotte sometimes comes through with statements which sound more like a statesman than a politician.

In rare foresight last week he ventured the prediction that North Carolina could very well go Republican this fall if the Democrats nominate Bobby Kennedy (Democrats fear the same thing, privately).

Upon being informed of the President's withdrawal as a candidate, Republican Stickleby said this: "I feel very strongly for the President. He has been taking it on the chin. The people of this country should pray for him."

Stickleby referred to the President's decision as an act of courage. In these ill-mannered days, such statements are quite refreshing.

MORE POLLS . . . You have the Lou Harris Poll and the older, Gallup Poll. The latest thing to come out is the Broughton Poll. This poll was conducted by Melville Broughton's own workers. In reporting on it, Candidate Broughton said a total of 1,000 persons—but he didn't say where he got the list—were polled.

Guess how this Broughton Poll came out? "In 78 counties, there was hardly a percentage point difference between Broughton and Scott," said the news release from Broughton Headquarters.

Now everybody is wondering why the Broughtonites decided to give any publicity whatever to the results of he poll. Continued on Page 3

Uncle Dave From Davie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers at the country store Saturday night was discussing a little of overthring and, as usual, wasn't solving nothing.

First off, Ed Doolittle reported he saw this piece in the papers where 70 per cent of the babies born last year in the big hospitals in Baltimore and Washington didn't have no legal Pa and the mothers and babies was immediate added to the welfare rolls. He asked how he was in favor of helping the poor folks with welfare that was in it bad fix on account of situations they couldn't control, but he said welfare ain't got to be place where it was a way of life for folks that actual was bump.

Zeké Grubb was agreed with Ed, said he had saw where a feller in the armed forces with a family and was fighting for his country could get $38 a month more on welfare than he was getting for serving his country.

And Josh Clobberer pointed out we was coming up in this country with what they probable would call Crook Care. He said if some nagoed went to prison for a crime, his family was immediate eligible for the welfare handout. He was of the opinion that if one of these puns was having trouble paying his bills and supporting his family he could do some crime like busting open a mailbox and his family would be eligible for Crook Care.

Personal, Mister Editor, its mighty hard for the average working man to toll where all this give-away program should start and where it should end. I think all of us wants to do what was right and Christian, but I was reading where they was twice as many people holding down two jobs as they was people holding down no job. And a heap of times I figger the people holding down two jobs was working in the daytime for themselves and at night for the welfare bums.

I don't know holding about men (fellers) but it seems to me the whole thing eventual will fall down to how much taxation the people can stand. I was reading this piece by a tax expert and he said when President Wilson and the Congress first put on a Federal tax levy in 1913 the American people was told the tax would never get beyond the 10 per cent figger. In that year the average Federal tax levy averaged 83 cent per person in the United States and bring the Government $90 million. A unmarried feller making $5,000 a year in 1913 paid $20 Federal tax. Today, he said, the average per capita tax was $431, and in 1968 bring the Government $25.5 billion. And the $5,000 feller in 1913 that paid $20 paid $671 in 1968. And instead of holding at the 10 per cent figger promised in 1913, it goes as high as 70 per cent now. How long can we stand it? Yours truly, Uncle Dave

Local Jehovah Witnesses To Attend Three-Day Seminar

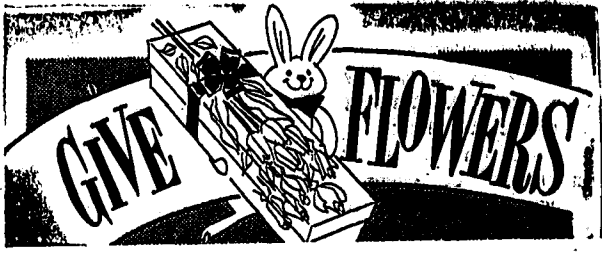

The North Wilkesboro National Guard Armory will be the site of a three-day seminar by Jehovah's Witnesses April 26-28.

J. C. Smith, local minister who made the announcement, said, "Over 700 circuit delegates are expected from Virginia and North Carolina." Smith added that, "The purpose of the assembly is to assess current event with Bible prophecy to enable the delegates to be aware of the stream of time in which the present generation finds itself. This will generate a greater desire for Bible study not only for the delegates but also in the home Bible study program conducted in their respective communities by the Witnesses."

"Strengthening One Another to Remain in the Faith" is the convention theme," said Smith. "This will stress the importance of maintaining a standing in harmony with God at all times? It will feature visiting circuit ministers to discuss and demonstrate the need of strengthening the spiritually needy ones. Morning, afternoon and evening sessions are scheduled for a variety of Bible talks and symposiums to show how Christians can hold to godly principles and service to the creator even in this day."

The principal address on the topic, "Why Does God Permit Wickedness?" is to be delivered by Joseph Saia, a district supervisor of Jehovah's Witnesses from Brooklyn, New York.

SECOND DELAY . . . While confessions in the Scott camp last week had two big-voting counties—Gaston and Durham—pulled over to Broughton, there was much puzzlement here about the further delay of the Raleigh native to go on television.

Three weeks ago Statewide tv was said to be ready—but then, for some reason, canceled suddenly. Ten days ago, Broughton was once again ready for Statewide television—but at the last minute came along another cancellation. This might indicate that the funds flow—was not as large as anticipated earlier in the year.

Meantime, Scott television tape was ready—as planned last fall—on April 1; will begin showing here and there week of April 8. The Scott forces have spent upwards of $20,000 on professional, independent polls since November 1 . . . and these results may determine to some extent where the film clips will first be shown.

Although Bob Scott will get a lot of teacher and State employee strength in the Raleigh area, Broughton is a solid choice to take Wake.

Sunday was a beautiful day, but the hearts of people around the world were saddened over the brutal slaying of Dr. King. As in the days of the Apostles of old . . . they were killed for preaching about the risen Lord, and trying to get the people to repent of their sins. God is looking for men to put on the whole armor and stand up for Jesus. Dr. King was a real soldier of the Cross. He lifted high his royal banner. We must not let it suffer loss. SOUTHERN

INNOVATIONS THAT SQUEEZE THE WASTE OUT OF DISTRIBUTION / SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM, WASHINGTON, D. C.

How fast can we locate a car on our 10,400-mile railroad?
Would you believe 2 seconds?

Let's say you're a Southern Railway customer who wants to know the whereabouts of your freight. So you can gear production schedules to rail delivery of raw materials, or reduce warehousing and handling costs through close coordination of en route shipments.

Through our Direct Inquiry Service—which employs the largest centralized computer complex in the railroad industry—you simply contact our computer and give it the identification number of the car carrying your freight. In less than two seconds, the computer will start printing your reply, giving you all the information needed to pinpoint the location of the car on our System.

This service is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week and is answering customer queries on some 12,000 cars a day. It is one of a host of Southern Railway innovations benefiting shippers and consumers by squeezing the waste out of distribution.

Innovations and improvements that enable us to squeeze the waste out of distribution benefit all who live in the Southern-served South. By reducing the total cost of transportation they help combat today's trend of steadily rising consumer prices. They attract new industries into the South, and help industries already located along our lines to grow and expand, providing more and better hometown job opportunities. All of us benefit!

DISTAFF DEEDS: By JANICE R. CHRISTENSEN GET OUT OF RUT. Several homemakers in Wayne County have gotten out "of a rut," so far as their food buying practices go, reports Betty Jean Barr, associate home economics Extension agent. Some of these women believed strongly that they could not afford to shop at a large supermarket; prices were too high. Others thought buying certain meat cuts would throw off their food budget allowances. Then these ladies visited stores as a group. One trip to three different stores was all it took to convince them that overall prices were reasonable. They also learned that some roasts, steaks and other meat cuts do sell at prices that will not raise havoc with their food budgets. "It's amazing," one lady said, "how we can get into a rut and become so satisfied with our present choices, when a little knowledge and self-acceptance can help us learn and save so much for our families."

BEAUTIFUL COMMUNITY: Members of the Monroeton 4-H club, Rockingham County, are working hard to beautify their community. Jane K. Stuart, assistant home economics Extension agent, says. The 4-H'ers bought three oil drums, painted them green and white, and set them out for litter barrels. They put the drums at the community building, fire station and picnic area. VEGETABLE BLOCK PRINTING: Vegetable block printing is a favorite craft of many Scotland County homemakers, asserts Ann M. Braswell, home economics Extension agent. The women are using raw potatoes, okra, onions, cabbage or peppers to print designs on place mats, aprons and kitchen curtains, she adds. Not only do the ladies have conversation pieces; they also have lovely finished products they are proud to display, the agent observes.

TRAIN AIDES: Home management aides, working with the OEO program in Wake County are now prepared to assist low-income families with their cleaning problems. Mrs. Natalie P. Wimberley, home economics Extension agent, notes. In a two-day session the group discussed the importance of a clean house, how to interest families in keeping a clean house and how to do the job. Each aide then demonstrated a cleaning technique, such as cleaning a range or a refrigerator, washing woodwork or dishes and dusting. "This exchange of ideas gave the aides many methods they can use for reaching families that need

Saturday Final Day Of Voter Registration

Rate of registration for the May 4th Primary remained comparatively low through the third Saturday in the period for a new registration of all voters in Davie County.

Dr. R. F. Kemp, chairman of the Davie County Board of Elections, said as the registration entered its final week before the primary, that the number of new registration to day is estimated at between 4,000 and 4,500.

Mental Health Official Interviewed For Health Director Of District

A mental health official from Charleston, West Virginia was interviewed Tuesday night and offered the job of administering a health district composed of Yadkin, Davie and Wilkes counties.

es has shared a director with the two counties for most of those years. All three counties, however have had separate health departments and will continue to do so.

The official was Raymond F. Mathison who has been in charge of a large scale alcoholism program for the West Virginia Department of Mental Health.

The three counties have been without a director for about two years. The board of county commissioners in each of the counties has adopted a resolution that, beginning July 1, the Davie-Yadkin district health department and the Wilkes health department will be consolidated into one administrative unit.

Mathison was interviewed in Raleigh on Tuesday morning by state health officials and in Yadkinville on Tuesday night by members of the consolidated board of health for the three counties.

The resolution states that the boards of health in the three counties recommended the consolidation "after exhaustive studies, lengthy discussions and recommendations" from the late board.

Dr. Ronald Levine of Raleigh, state director of community health services, explained that "at least 80 percent of the time of a local health director is spent in administrative work."

The Wilkes per capita contribution to public health is the lowest in the state, but health officials in the other two counties expressed a willingness to put in a little extra until Wilkes could bring its public health appropriation up.

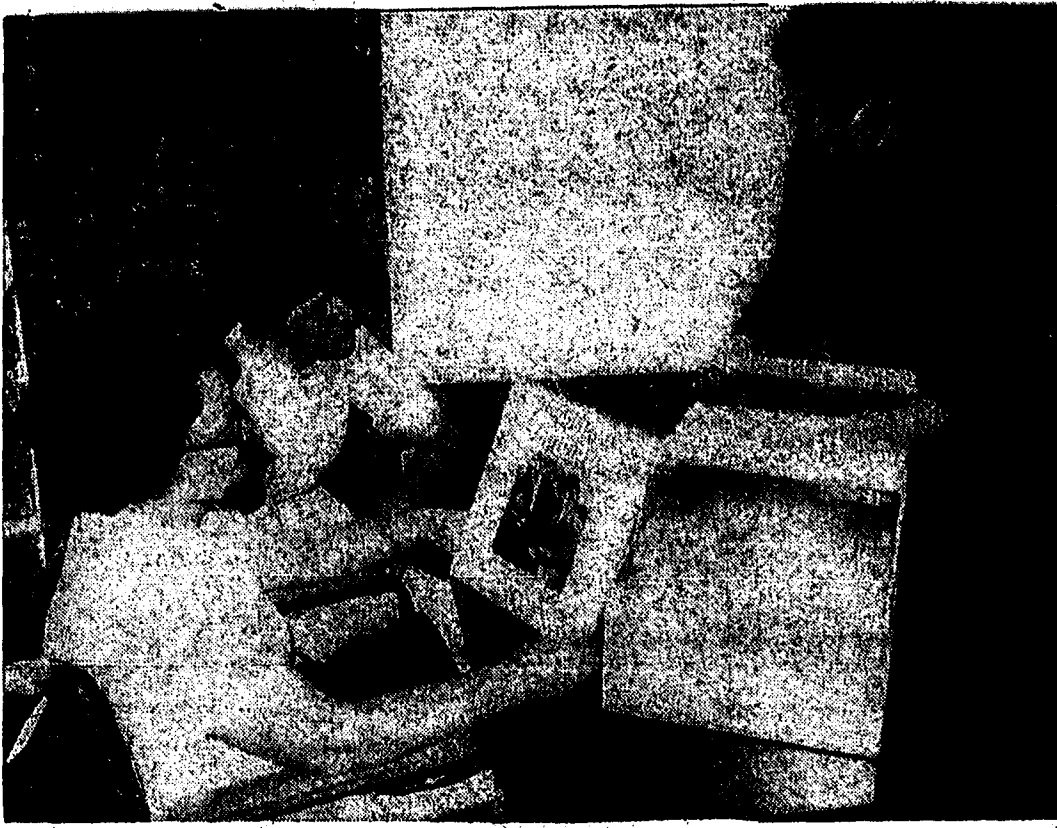

Levine said a "tremendous manpower problem" makes finding physicians for the jobs an almost impossibility. The fact that most counties cannot afford to pay a director as much as a doctor can make in private practice is a complication.

At present the Cabarrus County health department is the only one in the state headed by a trained administrator rather than a doctor.

Prizes Total $1,000 For Davie Communities

The meeting for the Community Development Association was called by the county commissioners and county agent, Leo Williams, last week for the purpose of using the $1000 on hand that had been donated to the association by businessmen and merchants of the county, to provide an incentive to improve and develop the county.

the communities, and for the winners to enter the Northwest North Carolina Community Development contest. Cooleemee and Mocksville will be competing in the "Small Towns and Villages" category, and the others in the "Rural Non Farm" category.

Circulating Record Collection Available At Davie Library

The Mocksville Woman's Club, Columbia Records, and the Davie County Public Library have joined forces to bring to the patrons of the library a circulating record collection!

This is a proud moment in the public library. In 1963, it was written into the ten-year plan of the library that a circulating record collection will be started. Now we have it! All interested patrons are urged to visit the library and browse through the new record collection.

Rotarians Support Tax Increase For Schools

Members of the Mocksville Rotary Club indicated Tuesday that they would support a 15c to 20c increase in the county tax rate for elementary school building construction.

status of school buildings in the county, pointing out that the Mocksville Primary building was built in 1911 and the Farmington school around 1914.

gave Davie County $342,000. In 1953, another statewide bond issue gave the county $265,000. This total of $607,000 was used to build the original structure at the Davie County High School.

The indications were given on cards passed out to around 40 Rotarians in attendance at the regular meeting, Tuesday. The cards, which the Rotarians were not required to sign, asked the following questions:

Between 1922 and 1925 the following schools were built: Cooleemee, Mocksville, Davie County Training School, Shady Grove School, and Smith Grove School.

In 1960, Davie County voters approved a $775,000 bond issue which was used to build additions to the Davie High School and the Davie County Training School.

1. What increase in our county tax rate for elementary school building construction would you support?

In 1948, Davie County voted on $900,000 bond vote which was used to construct 3 auditoriums, 4 gymnasiums, 4 cafeterias, 18 classrooms, plus other renovations.

"Since 1948 Davie County has provided $1,645,000 for school construction purposes and the state has provided $979,000. And we must bear in mind that school construction is a county responsibility and not the state's," said Mr. Everidge.

The poll of Rotarians were taken following a discussion by Graham R. Madison, a member of the county board of education and also of the County Committee For Better Schools, and Supl. of Schools James E. Everidge, concerning the need for expanded elementary school facilities in Davie County.

Adjusted to reflect the mergers with the Bank of Davie on December 4, 1967, and the Bank of Halifax on March 1, 1968, Satchwell reported that deposits on March 31 totaling $174,219,924 were up 11% from the combined total of $156,679,111 a year ago.

Net operating earnings for the quarter totaled $464,154 compared with $402,311 during the same period last year.

Mr. Madison explained to the group the organization of the Better School Committee, composed of two members from the board of education, two members of the board of county commissioners and two citizens at large.

Mr. Madison also revealed that an architectural firm at the present was inspecting all the elementary school facilities as to the feasibility of renovating or constructing new buildings.

Mr. Hall stated that the Davie County unit had collected $601.50 from the public. The quota for this year is $1,000. The Cancer Society showed an increase of leaflets placed in the hands of the public through letters distributed.

Mr. Everidge outlined the present opportunity offered in Georgia is too good to turn down," said Mr. Nixon.

Mrs. Nixon, Director of Nurses at the Davie County Hospital, is also resigning that position effective in August.

Mr. Hall pointed out that there "are 1,400,000 Americans who know from their own experience that cancer does not mean the end of life. These are the cancer-cured, those who have gone five or more years without a shred of evidence that cancer has returned. By and large, these are former cancer patients."

Mr. Nixon announced that he accepted a position as principal of a new school near Atlanta, Georgia and would be moving to that city in August.

Mr. Nixon has been working with the Title 3 Art Program in Davie County for the past year. This program will end with the current school year. Prior to this, Mr. Nixon was principal of a school in Rowan County.

Around The Old Well

By MARY ELLISON TURNER

The inability to communicate often hinders success.

At least that's what several University of North Carolina students having that problem are discovering.

But all is not lost—a special non-credit English course is helping them remedy their undeveloped writing skills.

Under the direction of E. Bruce Kirkham, English C (the Writing Laboratory) is an effort to correct composition weaknesses among UNC students.

either English co Correspondence or English C (the Writing Laboratory).

The 28 students, primarily juniors and seniors, now enrolled in English C are from both small and large towns statewide and from out of state.

"There is no one thing which can be blamed for students' lack of writing skills, although poor preparation, environmental conditions, attitudes and lack of self-discipline play a big part," Kirkham notes.

"A vast majority of my students have had no Latin, and this often contributes to their problem." He explained that Latin, which is helpful in English, is being dropped in some high schools now. Kirkham is concerned that he is not getting all the poor writers in the University and is hopeful more professors from diversified fields will encourage their students to take English C in the future. Good writing, he feels, is important in every field, not just in English.

The course is designed to teach students purely objective, factual, well-organized writing. Kirkham guarantees his students one grade higher in an writing course they'll take after they've had English C. "It's a wonderful feeling to see the improvement," he admits.

The 15 week, three-hour course is a general review of grammar from seventh grade through junior year in college. In addition, time is spent on spelling, vocabulary and discussion.

Programmed grammar texts are used since Kirkham feels "they're very effective in teaching, especially when the students have a general distaste for grammar, as they usually do."

Kirkham uses a transparency projector in class for going over tests as well as giving them.

More boys than girls (in proportion to the UNC student enrollment) are in the class, but, Kirkham is quick to say, "that doesn't mean boys are generally less able to write." He has an average of 85-95 percent of students to pass his course each year.

He notes his students are not happy in the classroom at first. "Their pride is hurt from having to be put in a remedial course," he says. "I feel I initially walk into a room filled with resentment, but after the course is over, the students are usually happy and proud of how much they have learned.

"At first all of them feel about writing as they do about driving—in other words, they think they can write well. It's just the other fellow who can't," Kirkham explains.

Kirkham assigns a test daily to keep the students up with the lesson. His classes are small (never more than 10) to allow him ample time to grade, evaluate, and review themes in class.

A maximum of seventeen 300-500 sophomore, junior, senior, or graduate course at the discretion of the professor. He bases his decision to give a "cc" on whether or not it seems the student has turned out a bad paper or exam simply from inability to write or from lack of understanding of the subject matter.

The student may neither receive credit for the course nor be cleared for graduation until he has enrolled in and completed with a grade "c" word themes are required including one which is a course evaluation for

Kirkham feels the time will come when there will be no freshman composition courses taught in college. "The teaching of basic writing skills will be left entirely up to the high schools," he says. "I don't see how this will work, but it seems probable that it will happen."

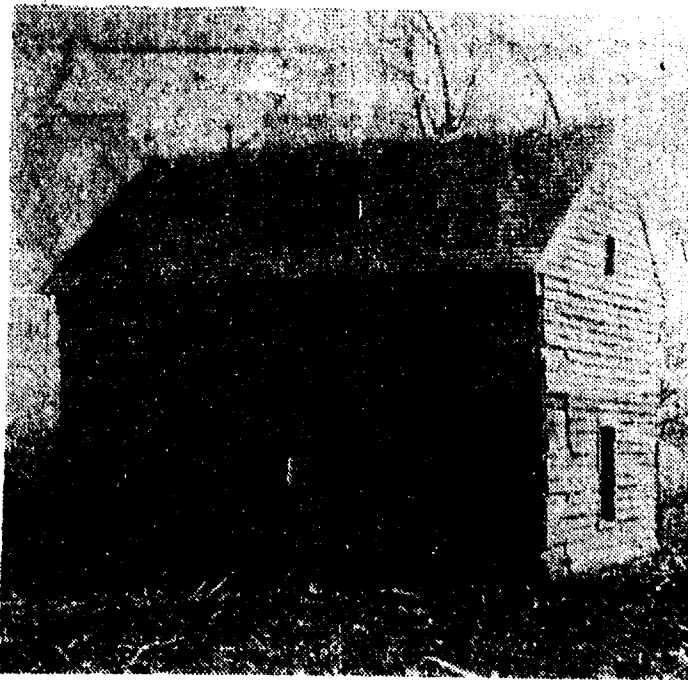

According to Dr. Robert Bain, director of the freshman-sophomore English program, in the future, with more two year junior community colleges being started, adult refresher writing courses will be added to the curricula to promote good writing in every field.

Any student whose native language is English and who has completed both semesters of Freshman English or the equivalent is eligible for the course, graduate students and extension division students included. The student registers for English C in the same way that he registers for any other course. If he is also registered for a full academic load of credit courses, the student pays no fee.

"We're delighted to have volunteers for the course, but we don't accept auditors," Kirkham notes. "Complete involvement in daily classroom work is necessary if students are to gain from the course."

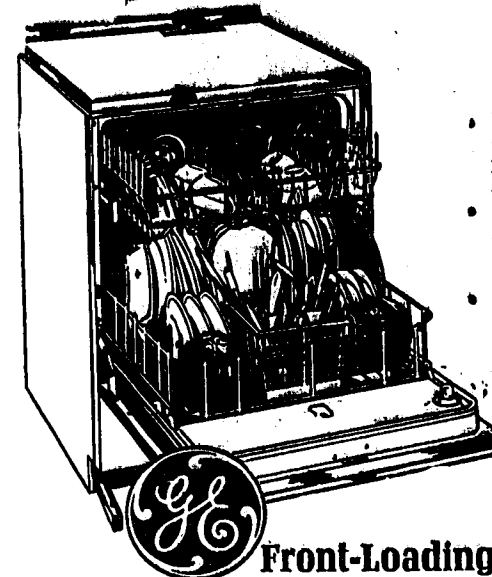

The course has been part of the English curriculum since 1923. Kirkham has taught it for four years. This summer he will leave to go to Ball State University, Muncie, Indiana.

He was graduated from Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa., and has been teaching seven years. He is a native of White Plains, N. Y.

Our Chrysler Newport is different from those comparably-equipped popular smaller cars. It's bigger. Roomier. And it has a big 383 cubic inch V-8 engine that runs on regular gas as standard equipment. It's a full-size luxury car, inside and out.

But compare monthly car payments. You'll find the only thing that even resembles those smaller cars is our price.

*Based on comparison of Manufacturers' Suggested Retail prices for Chrysler Newport and Ford LTD 2-door hardtops comparably equipped with 3-speed automatic transmission, power steering and AM radio, white sidewall tires and wheel covers. A 265 horsepower optional 8-cylinder engine is included on LTD to compare with Newport's standard 290 horsepower V-8 engine. tried and true... Old Southern Recipes

This weeks recipe for Hot Milk Cake comes from Mrs. Theodosia Bailey who got it from Catherine Bynum Shaw, a relative by marriage, as a family recipe of the Shaws of Southern Pines.

SHAW HOUSE

The Shaw House is located at the Southern entrance of Southern Pines. It is the only dwelling, other than log cabins, known to have existed within the present limits of the town prior to its founding in 1883.

Located at the crossing of two famous Revolutionary roads, the Peedee and the Morganton, the Shaw House was centered around early history. The Peedee, an ancient Indian Trail, led down to Cheraw and up to the northeastern settlements, while the Morganton went to Fayetteville, market town for this area.

Charles C. Shaw, the original builder, owned about 2,500 acres at the time of his death in 1852. His son, Charles Washington Shaw, inherited the house and lands.

"Squire" Shaw as he was called, lived in the Shaw House during his lifetime becoming the first mayor of the new town of Southern Pines, in 1887. The house remained in the Shaw family until bought by the Historical Association in 1946.

The Shaw House is less elaborate than the houses of the plantation owners, but it is typical of the antebellum homes which supplanted the first log cabins. It has charm of sturdy simplicity lightened by the fine carving of two pine mantels of unusual beauty. It seems likely that this house is older than the date of 1842 on the wet chimney.

The Shaw House is open to visitors from around Feb. 1st each year until May 1st. Luncheons and afternoon teas are served with the tea-footh proceeds devoted to the upkeep of the house and grounds.

HOT MILK CAKE

4 eggs
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon lemon extract
1 cup milk
1/2 cup butter
2 cups cake flour
2 t. baking powder
Beat eggs until light and lemon-colored. Continue beating as you add sugar. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together and add to sugar-egg mixture, while milk and butter heat in sauce pan until butter is melted. Add all at once to batter with flavorings. Pour into three 9-inch layer pans, greased and floured. Bake at 400 degrees until done, about 25 minutes. Turn out of pans immediately to cool and frost. Keeps cake from sticking to grease pans first and then flour just before putting in batter. Batter may seem too thin but that's the way it is. Cake takes rough handling nicely, shifting pans in oven, etc.

Tattle-Tales

By Gordon Tomlinson

It was an early winter morning sometime around the year of 1820. The late Luke M. Tuffenrow going to open his store at Center noticed something quite unusual. Along the road in front of his store, bare footprints of a man frozen in the ground. Apparently someone had walked along the previous night while the ground was not frozen and left the print of bare feet leading down the road.

It is reported that the Center Community got quite excited over those footprints. But that morning in Mocksville a man had the answer.

Ben Boyles had walked all the way from Statesville to Mocksville. He started out wearing a new pair of shoes and when they started hurting his feet he took them off, tied them around his neck, and kept walking.

This was the first visit of this fool to Mocksville... where he took a job and spent the remainder of his life.

Ben was a thin and frail looking young man at that time. He went to John Carter of the State Highway Department and asked for a job. Mr. Carter told him that it was hard work and that he didn't believe that he (Ben) could stand up under it.

"Just give me a shovel and I'll show you whether I can work or not. If I don't satisfy you... you don't have to pay me!" said Ben.

Mr. Carter put Ben to work under Cartier Foster and Ben reportedly out-worked everyone. Stopping for lunch, Ben ate only a bite or two... grabbed a shovel and started back.

"Wait a minute... take it easy... you'll make the rest of us look bad," said Craig.

Craig and Ben became close friends and later went into business together, operating the Davie Brick and Coal Company.

Monday morning a Negro man went by the Eaton Funeral Home to see Ben.

"He was my friend," he said. "He locked me up in jail several times but Mr. Ben was always a gentleman when he did it," said the man.

This man went on to tell that one day Sheriff Boyles came out to his farm and told him that he had to pay his county taxes or go to jail. "I told him that I guess I would have to go to jail because I didn't have anything to pay the taxes with," said the man.

"Well, Mr. Ben went and paid my taxes and put the receipt in his pocket and growled at me in that manner of his: 'Now if you don't pay me I'll still lock you up!'"

Cure Toothaches Before They Start

In bygone days, some people believed that kissing a donkey would cure a toothache. Others believed that a sprig of parsley hung around the neck would prevent a toothache. While modern dentistry has dispelled odd superstitions, there are still misconceptions about dental health.

During the week of Feb. 4 through 10, the nation will observe the 20th anniversary of National Children's Dental Health Week. Its purpose is to provide sound dental health information to children and parents, and to remove misconceptions about dental health.

Today, people don't go around kissing donkeys, but some still believe that dental caries (decay) — the cause of a toothache — can be cured. It can't. Dental decay can be removed from a tooth and the tooth filled. And, with proper care — by cleaning the teeth after meals and by cutting down on sweets — the decay possibly won't recur.

Decay can be prevented — not by parsley, but by fluoridation. Countless studies of children in fluoridated communities have proved that fluoride in the water prevents decay by about 65 per cent. And, if fluoride is not in the water, the dentist can either paint a child's teeth with a fluoride substance, or he can prescribe dietary fluorides. The American Dental Association says some fluoride toothpastes are recognized as effective in decay prevention.

Here are some important facts about dental health. —Baby (primary) teeth are important. They save the proper eruption space for permanent teeth and are necessary for chewing, speech and appearance. —Milk does not prevent decay. It helps the teeth form properly. —Sweets are a causative factor in decay and their consumption should be limited, probably to meal times. —A great proportion of children have some type of gum disease. If untreated, the disorders will become more serious as the child grows. Gum disease is the greatest cause of adult tooth loss. —Destroyed tooth enamel cannot be repaired. If a tooth stops aching, this means the pulp has been infected — an indication of real trouble. —Very few people are "immune" to dental decay. Approximately 98 per cent of the population suffers from caries. But regular toothbrushing, fluoridation and routine dental care will greatly reduce decay. 4-68

SCOPE OF SPORTS

SCOPE OF SPORTS

By Woody Durham / WFMY-TV Sports Director

With the baseball season barely upon us another professional soccer campaign is just around the corner also. The first TV game, matching St. Louis against Kansas City, will be aired on Channel 2 Saturday afternoon, April 27 and CBS Sports-caster Jack Whitaker voices his opinion of America's newest sport.

"Soccer is a sport completely unto itself," said Whitaker. "When I first started to watch it regularly I tried to compare it to our popular sports such as football basketball & even ice hockey. I'm sure other American fans did the same thing. "After watching soccer awhile you realize it really isn't like any of these sports and the comparisons must be dropped and the game judged on its own merits."

Whitaker points out that scoring isn't the most important element in determining an exciting or dull game. If play is aggressive and the game ends in a scoreless tie, it can be a more exciting game than one with scoring that is a defensive battle played mostly in midfield. At the same time good defensive play around the goal area can be just as exciting as a goal line stand in pro football.

"I believe soccer has all the necessary elements to take its place with our other popular American sports," he continued. "All of the emotional aspects are there. The players are easily recognizable to the fans because play is so open. They wear no caps, making them easy to identify. The rules are simple enough and few in number so that in no time at all new fans have a basic understanding of the game."

Whitaker's first exposure to the sport came in Philadelphia. Born and educated in this soccer hotbed, he was an occasional spectator at high school and college game. After he was given the play by play assignment on the CBS Television Network broadcasts of NPSL games, he went to England along with other CBS Sports production personnel to observe professional soccer.

As for broadcasting the sport, he believes it requires an approach that is different than any other sport. "The main problem is establishing a rhythm that matches the pace of the game," Whitaker points out. "Unlike football, which requires giving yardage an downs and identifying the ball carrier and tackler every play, soccer requires very little play by play description.

"The reaction of the fans help the broadcaster, too. When they are enthusiastic, it picks you up just as it does the players on the field." He also points out that the preparation for a broadcaster is somewhat easier than for some other sports particularly football. "In football you must know the names and numbers of 40 players from each team while in soccer you have but 13 to remember," he disclosed. "During the game it is also easier to identify their sides play is spread out and you can pick them out by their moves or see their faces."

In summing up his personal feelings about soccer, Whitaker has found his interest increasing with his exposure to the game and his understanding of the finer points of strategy.

"I think American fans will increase in number and their enthusiasm for soccer will also grow as their understanding of the game's subtleties increases," Whitaker believes.

Ben Y. Boyles

Around 50-years ago a tired, lame & dusty barefoot boy walked into Mocksville. Finding the town and it's people to his liking, he found himself a job and went to work.

From the beginning this man had a big heart. All down through the years in every phase of a life that had many facets, this man's first and foremost concern was other people. He went out of his way to help people, doing it always in such a way as not to attract attention or seek plaudits.

There are many that can relate stories concerning this man and his "big heart". However, one that best typifies this man is something that happened back in the late 1930's or early 1940's. The date, however, is irrelevant.

Engaged in a business with a partner, the two had extended considerable credit to their customers. Suffering somewhat from slow payments, this man took some statements and set out on a personal collection tour.

At the first house his knock was greeted by a mother with a crying baby in her arms. Before the erstwhile collector could state his business, she began to tell him:

"My baby is sick and needs medicine. We don't have any money and we owe the drug store. I don't know whether they will let us have any more medicine on credit or not!"

Without saying a word about the bill he had come to collect, this man reached into his pocket and took out his last ten-dollar bill and gave it to the woman saying:

"Go get that baby some medicine".

This man then returned to his place of business and handed the sheaf of statements to his partner saying:

"From now on you go collecting. I can't afford it!"

Of course this could be only one man . . . a man that probably had more sincere and devoted friends than anyone that has ever lived in Davie County. . . Benjamin Yoman Boyles.

Ben served two terms as Sheriff of Davie County and his entire philosophy of law enforcement centered around keeping people out of trouble.

"There is a little good in the worst of us and a lot of bad usually in the best of us", he used to say.

Ben loved Davis Island. He loved to go there just to relax and be away from worldly bothers and troubles. And he went there last weekend.

All day last Friday Ben helped his nephew and some others work on a building. His nephew kept after "Uncle Ben" to quit and go to the cabin and rest.

Around 5 p. m. Ben put down his hammer and announced: "Well, Uncle Ben is going to blow his whistle!"

He went to the cabin and asked Mrs. Myers for some baking soda saying he was a little sick. Mrs. Myers did not have any baking soda but did have some Bromo Seltzer and aspirin which Ben took and lay down across the bed.

The others soon came in and inquired of Uncle Ben how he felt.

"Oh, I'm feeling much better. I'll soon be all right", came the reply.

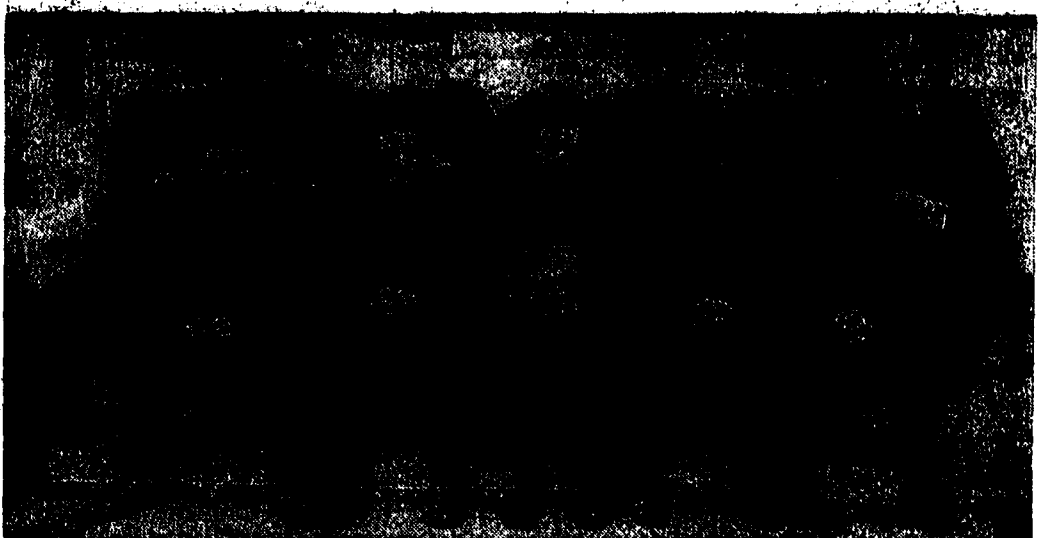

A few minutes later he was asked again.

"Oh, I'm all right now. I'll be up in just a minute", said Ben.

And in just a few minutes that was all!

Ben gave up his life in a manner similar to that which he lived . . . unpretentious . . . non-complaining . . . and without giving trouble to anyone. It was also perhaps fitting for Ben that his life ended on the day that marked the physical end of life for another great personality many years ago. . . a personality that also put others before self.

Ben Boyles needs no epitaph. His life . . . full of doings for others . . . transcends any words that may be written or uttered. And he is a memory that will always be cherished by his many friends in all walks of life.

The 1937 Basketball Team of Mocksville High School won 27 games and lost only three . . . all three of which were in semi-finals or finals of tournaments. Members of this team, pictured above, first row: Thomas F. Ferebee, Joseph S. Ferebee, Gordon Tomlinson, Ashley Dwiggins and Warren Ferebee. Second row: Robert Hendricks, Rufus Angell, Holland Chaffin, J. A. Craven, Bill Grant, Lester Craven and Coach G. O. Boose.

LIBRARY NEWS

In the United States of America, the freedom to read is the privilege and responsibility of members of a free, democratic society. In the belief that reading and libraries are truly means toward the full pursuit of life, liberty & happiness lies the ultimate goal of National Library Week: to help develop an informed, creative citizenry that is competent and willing to make the choices and decisions that free men and women must make.

National Library Week is an established, continuing, year-round program to help build a reading nation and to spur the use and improvement of libraries of all kinds. National Library Week is a nationwide effort to focus public attention on reading as a source of personal fulfillment, on the importance of reading in our national life, and on the libraries which, if used fully & supported properly can make reading materials accessible to everybody.

Davie County is blessed with a beautiful new library building in Mocksville. During National Library Week special programs will take place in this new building. To promote interest in the library and provide public enjoyment to the citizens of Davie County the library is sponsoring the following events:

MONDAY April 22 — A classical guitar recital by Benny Bunch, a student at the School of the Arts in Winston-Salem; a showing of experimental films and an art display by Gregg Kemp. Monday night 7:30-9:00 p.m.

TUESDAY April 23 — A showing of films on the crafts of glass; CRACKS OF THE FIRE AND MAKING OF A STAINED GLASS WINDOW. Starting at 3:30 p.m.

WEDNESDAY April 24 — A "Grandmother's Beauty Clinic" sponsored by the Davie County

Public Library and the Davie Hairdressers.

THURSDAY April 25 — "Gringo in the Andes", as illustrated lecture by Ellis Leagans who recently returned from nine months' study at the University of the Andes in Bogota, Columbia. 7:30-9:00 p.m.

FRIDAY April 26 — Nancy and Bruce Roberts, author and photographers, who have written Ghosts of the Carolinas. An Illustrated Guide to Ghosts and Mysterious Occurrence in the Old North State, and most recently, David, will present a program on ghosts and legends in North Carolina. 3:30 p.m.

SATURDAY April 27 — The preliminary matches of a library-sponsored CHESS TOURNAMENT will be played 10:30 a.m.-2:00 p.m. Spectators are encouraged to attend.

During National Library Week all the third grade students in the Davie County Public Schools will visit their public library for an introductory tour of the facilities and resources. They will be shown a special filmstrip during their visit.

These special programs are being provided to the residents of Davie County by their public library. Show your support and plan to attend. If you have any questions, call the public library at 634-2023 for more information.

During the month of April, the Recreation Center in Cooleemee, which houses the Cooleemee Branch Library, will be under going extensive remodeling of the building. For this reason, there are no special National Library Week programs scheduled for Cooleemee. Right now, it is more important to get the building remodeled. Cooleemee area patrons are urged to discover their public library in Mocksville while their branch is being worked on.

On April 9 and 10, Miss Frances Gish, State Library Consultant, was in Mocksville to confer with the Davie County Public Librarian on problems and progress in the Davie County Public Library system. Miss Gish and Miss Easley met with Mrs. Shepherd of the Cooleemee branch and were able to make recommendations for the betterment of the Cooleemee Branch Library.

The Davie County Public Librarian will deliver a speech entitled "What your Library Can Do for You" to the Ruritan Club at Smith Grove School on April 10.

News and Comment from Our Raleigh Bureau

NOTHING DOING . . . A group of State University students here—excited by the death, and consequences of the death, of Dr. Martin Luther King—have asked Gov. Dan Moore to call a special session of the Legislature.

J. Melville Broughton, running hard for Governor, has done the same thing.

Well, strange things are happenings all over. Such as LBJ deciding not to run for reelection and Mrs. John F. Kennedy wearing mesh hose to the funeral of Dr. King. No kidding.

But Gov. Moore has had a bout with pneumonia, a case of mumps, and four sessions of the Legislature (two special) during his three-years-and-three months in the Mansion. A special session of the Legislature would no doubt top the list of the things Gov. Moore does not want this year.

"I'M GONNA" . . . There is a fellow writing for the "Ahsokie Herald" by the name of Parson Jones.

Commenting on political campaigns recently he came out with a platform like this:

"The way it looks now, I'm gonna come out for and against the Vietnam war; I'm for and against integration; for and against the poverty program; for and against government spending; and for and against the U. S. Supreme Court. I intend to build our cities, improve our highways, go to the moon, have free education for all and cut out all our taxes. I'm gonna stop all riots and crimes in the streets by taking a hike through all the states and cities in the U. S. When folks see how sincere I am, they'll lay down their matches and guns. On top of all this, I'm gonna increase both individual freedom and government power . . . Notice, that you don't have to explain how you're gonna bring about all you say you'll do. Just make promises—that's the gimmick. I must close and dream up some more ridiculous promises."

MOVING SOUTH . . . A large and well financed agricultural organization—with strong North Carolina roots and connections—will soon announce that it is moving out of Washington, D. C.

This agency, a household term in farm circles, has always maintained offices in the National Capital—not too far from the White House—will move to Atlanta—kit and boodoo—around July 1.

cludes Insurance Commissioner Lanier, Attorney General Wade Bruton, Labor Commissioner Frank Crane, Treasurer Edwin Gill, and any others . . . MORE . . . MORE . . . MORE

Dr. Raymond Stone, running a well polished campaign for Superintendent of Public Instruction, seemed to be edging well ahead of his opposition . . . and here, alone, there well could . . . be a runoff . . . If requested, of course.

NOT EFFECT . . . What will be the results of the recent death of Dr. King in the race for Governor in North Carolina?

Nobody seems to know the answer to this question. The Negro, for various reasons too numerous to name here, feels a new importance—like a colt let out to pasture. This could mean a larger vote for Dr. Reginald Hawkins. Had Dr. Martin Luther King not decided to return to Memphis, he would have been in North Carolina campaigning for Dr. Hawkins, Charlotte dentist.

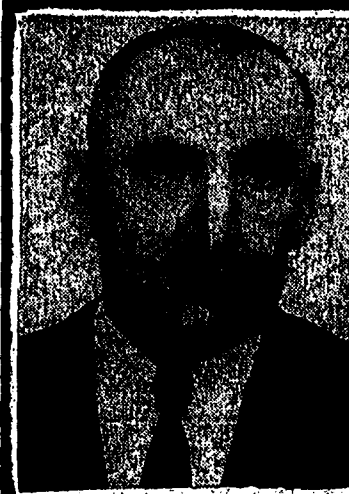

The same sniper who apparently trailed the Negro leader to Memphis might just as easily have followed him into this State—with the murder occurring here. That could have

Senator Sam Ervin Says:

The slaying of Reverend Martin Luther King was an atrocious and senseless murder, but the violence which has followed his death has struck a very serious blow at the foundations of an orderly society.

"Tragically, anarchy reigned in some sections of the Nation's Capital for hours until Federal troops restored order in the aftermath of the worst riots this City has seen. The damage to downtown and midtown areas of Washington rivaled that which befell some of Europe's cities during the days of World War II.

Americans are questioning and wondering where do we go from here. What has happened illustrates anew what I have been saying for some time that America's most pressing problem at home is crime and violence and we must take steps to control it.

The time is at hand for this country to realize that every citizen has the prime responsibility of doing his share to maintain law and order. A divided American can only make matters worse.

In this hour, we need to recur to fundamental principles. Government cannot permit anarchy to reign and maintain freedom for every man will then live in fear and an orderly society will not exist. Indeed, the very functioning of government is dependent upon respect for the rights and safety of others. There is a real need today in America for citizens to stand up for human decency and against the senseless conduct which has brought our country shame and misery and danger to its most cherished institutions.

The Washington Post gave a typical profile of the rioters who brought destruction to this City. It presented no picture of poverty, but rather a picture of an educated, job-holding, emotionally destructive populace. In many instances, the Post reported that the rioters were employed at good salaries by the Federal Government.

In the aftermath of this violence, there have been renewed demands upon Congress to bow to the demands of the law-breakers and enact more so-called civil rights laws. Congress should never legislate at gun point. Congress should pass no law except after calm deliberation. Every major piece of legislation which it enacts affects the lives of two hundred million Americans. This is particularly true of a so-called civil rights law which would rob Americans of their most precious right, the right of private property.

In this hour the Courts have a responsibility too. A majority of the U. S. Supreme Court Justices have expressed a "soft attitude" toward law violators in many recent decisions. Often the Court has left something to be desired in the realm of protection of private property, indeed the Court has invented artificial rules which hamper law enforcement. In an effort to deal with this, the Senate Judiciary Committee recently favorably reported the Safe Streets and Crime Bill which contains three amendments drafted and authored by me.

These amendments would make it possible for trial courts again to use voluntary confessions in evidence against self-confessed criminals, to use eye witness testimony to identify the accused in criminal trials, and to limit endless appeals by convicted criminals after his rights have been reasonably protected.

I shall continue my efforts to secure the passage of these amendments and am hopeful that the full Senate will accept them.

SERIOUS? It looks as if the big power and companies are at long last taking seriously the increased talk of electric cars. In any event, Carolina Power & Light Co.'s public relations department recently mailed out some copied comment picked up on the "Mini-car Concept".

There seems to be a feeling that the gasoline-electric mini-car could provide the breakthrough in the average city's battle against air pollution and congestion in downtown.

This minicar, developed by GM and the University of Pennsylvania, would "reduce parking problems since it is about half the size of the average American car."

It will seat three adults and make up to 60 miles per hour. It can run on gasoline alone . . . or electricity alone . . . or on a combination of the two . . . while the gasoline engine is charging the batteries.

Or it just might be . . . that Duke Power or C. P. & L. . . according to where you live in the Carolinas . . . will charge those batteries for you . . . every 100 or so miles.

LAST ROUND . . . The big voting day is May 4—and that is just no time in this jet age. But as of last week, activity was still slow. Dull.

It looked as if the incumbents, the office-holders on the State level would have little trouble beating off their Democratic opponents. This in-

Tattle-Tales

By GORDON TOMLINSON

I am sure that everyone at some time or another has been awakened from a sound sleep by the jingle of a telephone and on arising think that it is much later than it really is.

One night recently School Superintendent James E. Everidge was awakened by the telephone. It was local officers telling him that the lights were on at the Mocksville Elementary School and the front door standing open. Jim, who had been soundly asleep, thought the hour must be around 5 a.m., but checking his watch saw that it was only 12:30.

Jim then telephoned Vernon Thompson, Principal at the Mock-

Deems Travel Center Locates In Salisbury

With the formal opening of the office at 105 W. Innes Street "On the Square" in Salisbury, on April 10th, Deems Travel Center announces availability of its expert and experienced staff to assist the citizens of the Mockville - Davie County area. The office is a branch of the 10 year old Statesville Travel Service.

Over 300 gifts - plus orchids for the ladies - will be awarded at the special opening.

The staff of the office has widely toured in all 50 states, Canada, Mexico, nearly every non-Communist country in the Northern hemisphere plus a high percentage of those in the southern hemisphere.

The standard services provided by the agency do not cost anything; it is franchised by the airlines, railroads and shipping lines to provide ticketing services at the same charges as made by the individual companies.

One of the many advantages of dealing with a travel agency comes in its ability to help guide airline or cruise reservations to the schedule which best suits the needs for the situation involved.

By dealing with a travel agency, information and data can be provided on hotels and motels all over the world. The agency staff has stayed at many of them! Here again, the reservations can be made in advance without cost to the individual. In other words, the hotel room costs are the same as if an individual made his reservations in advance - or hopefully waits until he gets to his destination and then tries to obtain a room for the night, perhaps unknowingly in a city which has a convention!

Car rentals can be arranged in advance - again without added cost. Tours can be scheduled for special occasions such as the Rose Parade and Rose Bowl in Pasadena on January 1st - supplemented perhaps by tours to Disneyland and movie-land; the New Orleans Mardi Gras program or a theatre-hotel-sight-seeing tour in New York City. There is no need to pay scalpers prices of $50.00 per seat at the Rose Bowl, when you can obtain good reserved seats at the regular price as arranged by a certified tour operator. Foreign cars may be purchased through the agency.

The travel agency has a complete variety of these available to select from. Often these special tour arrangements are the only way to be sure of obtaining a hotel reservation at a good hotel. This is particularly true in all areas during the "heavy" season - including Florida, Mexico, Hawaii and some of the Caribbean islands.

One of the amazing developments within the last 20 years has been the growth of cruises to the Caribbean - both from New York and Miami or Port Everglades, Florida.

Owners of Deems Travel Center are Nyal W. and Octavia C. Deems. Mr. Deems is a Commander, Civil Engineer Corps, U. S. Naval Reserve. Acting office manager is Thomas Howell, a Salisbury area native. A large supply of colorful brochures with good travel information is available for those who desire them.

After May 1st, Deems Travel Center will be pleased to arrange and provide color travel films with sound or present slide lectures on almost any travel subject requested. Requests are now being accepted for these "expense only" movie or slide programs for use by civic, church, social and related groups who may be interested in travel.

The travel industry is important, enchanting and educational. In describing the services to be offered, Mr. Deems pointed out that arrangements (reservations for airlines, cruises, etc.) can all be conducted by mail or telephone, and invites the public to visit the Salisbury office at anytime. The office has been actively functioning since September, 1967.

Trying To Catch Turtle Man Back Truck Into Cadillac

A turtle was cited as a contributing factor in a wreck last Thursday on US 158, 10 miles east of Mocksville. The accident occurred around 12:01 p.m.

State Highway Patrolman Bill F. White said that his investigation showed that Lee Roy Patterson, 30, of Hiddente Rt. 1 was operating a 1966 International Truck and was heading west on US 158. Patterson observed a turtle in the roadway, stopped and was attempting to back to left shoulder of highway and backed into a Cadillac being driven by Rebecca Stewart Sheets, 23, of Winston-Salem Rt. 2, doing an estimated $800 in damage.

Patterson got the turtle but he was charged with failure to see that his intended movement could be made safely.

Martin Brothers' Store on Depot Street has changed somewhat in appearance from the above photo made of Mr. R. P. Martin sometime in the 1930's, but there are still items in the store that were stocked when the Martin brothers started in business in the early 20s. Full sets of hames and horse collars, belly-bands, breast-chains for a two-horse wagon, cowbell for Old Bossy, a weaning muzzle for the calf, a plow-point for an old mule-drawn turnplow, a plain old hand-crank coffeemill, or a full-fledged wood-burning range. The store today - really two stores plus the implement business (now operated by R. P. Martin, Jr.) - stocks modern lines of hardware and general merchandise. The "old stuff" is arranged right along with all newer stocks, neither displayed to catch the eye nor hidden to be entirely missed. The Martin brothers, R. P. and Dewey, in a sense, have carried on a tradition started by their father before them, the late U. A. Martin of the Lone Hickory Road section of Yadkin. R. P. Martin came to Mocksville a young man in 1921. He purchased the present store from John Greene. In 1925, Dewey Martin came to Mocksville and bought 1/2 interest in the store. They have enlarged the storeroom, built the implement store separate, turned the rest of the house to store space, finally built an adjoining store.

Sneed High Attacks State Deposit Policy

Only 13 per cent of the state's $55 million in checking accounts is deposited in 267 banks and eligible depositories, while three banks enjoy the interest free use of fully 87 per cent of the state's checking accounts, Sneed High, candidate for State Treasurer, said this week. "It is apparent," the 52-year-old veteran legislator said, "that the present State Treasurer has favored Wachovia, North Carolina National and First Citizens, while the smaller banks, scattered all over the state receive just a token share in these checking account deposits as directed by the Treasurer."

As listed in the last published treasurer's report on January 13, 1967, on pages 12 through 17, the following banks of this area, as of June 30, 1966, had on deposit this listed amount on the checking account of the State of North Carolina:

Bank of Davie $24,943.03.
The total amount on checking accounts on June 30, 1966, was $55,086,305.44, including almost $6 million in two New York banks on "interest reserve account."

"One bank-the largest in the state, has had on checking account deposit every year for which they pay no interest approximately $18 million for the past 15 years, since the present State Treasurer has been in office," the Fayetteville attorney said.

This one bank, High pointed out, with a constant level of "interest free money" could earn a profit of approximately $1 million each year for the past 15 years at no financial return to the people of North Carolina.

I would propose that the state checking account money be placed in eligible banks, large and small; savings and loan associations and other qualified depositories, without favoritism to the large banks, so that the taxpayers of the state could realize as much return as possible," High said.

"I publicly call on the present State Treasurer to explain why he continually favors the large and powerful banks at the expense of the people of the state," High concluded.

brought real trouble to North Carolina. For, as it was—with the assassination hundreds of miles away on the banks of the Mississippi—this State had more racial difficulty than any other Southern area. At one time, Tarheelia had more than a dozen cities in deep-freeze curfew.

Only quick work by the State and effective police protection prevented greater loss of property in North Carolina. For obvious reasons, a lot of Democrats hope—and still believe—there will be no Second Primary in the Governor's race.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

Enclosed find check for the Davie County Enterprise-Record for another year.

I enjoy the paper and get very good mail service.

A short time ago you had a picture of four football players of many years ago in your paper. I believe your record of the players' names is correct, but think the Model T Ford belonged to Mr. Troy Caudell, who was the coach at that time.

Yours truly,

The Salt has lost it's Savior

I would like to say "Dear Editor: a few words about the deplorable conditions that have taken place recently in this great country of ours 'America'. A few years ago every country on the Globe feared and respected "America" but today even the smallest country has had defiance for her, because of mistreatment of the minority groups. One week ago America's foremost apostle of peace was shot down by an assassin who did not believe in nonviolence which Dr. Martin Luther King lived and preached: and there are many more white and black whom violence is the only way to peace. Mr. Hugh Larew, in his address to the Mocksville Rotary Club stated in his address that the relationship between the races in Mocksville was very good, and that is true, "but there is a reason" and the reason is that the negroes of Mocksville and Davie County have not asked for anything pertaining to their civil rights, and naturally they received nothing. I learned a long time ago that the only way to get anything was to ask for it, you may not get it then, "but you do have the chance to fight for it, I mean a nonviolent fight". I think we negroes of Mocksville and Davie County have been very patient. We have been and are still being denied of our civil rights as citizens, but we have been smitten on both sides and we have no other to turn, and if we do not get the things that are justly due us, there is always the possibility that we might turn some other way, but I pray that this will never happen because I like nothing better than peace and good will between the races.

"Note" the above is just my personal feeling and not any group

Former Resident Dies of Wounds

Mrs. Beatrice Shoaf, 61, formerly of Rt. 4, Mocksville, N. C. died Thursday, 12 hours after she was beaten on the head by juvenile housebreakers who ransacked her home in southeast Washington.

Edgar Brown, 67, a neighbor who tried to help her, was hospitalized with head injuries and a stab wound in the side. Two youths, aged 15 and 17, were charged with homicide.

Mrs. Shoaf was a retired registered nurse. Her husband, Houston, a retired metal worker, said he returned from a shopping trip to find his wife lying on the dining room floor and Brown walking around the living room dazed and moaning. Shoaf said furniture drawers had been pulled out and lamps broken. He said the housebreakers had taken a sewing machine, five fishing reels, a radio, a flashlight and a penny bank, but overlooked $60 in Mrs. Shoaf's purse and cash in a basement bureau.

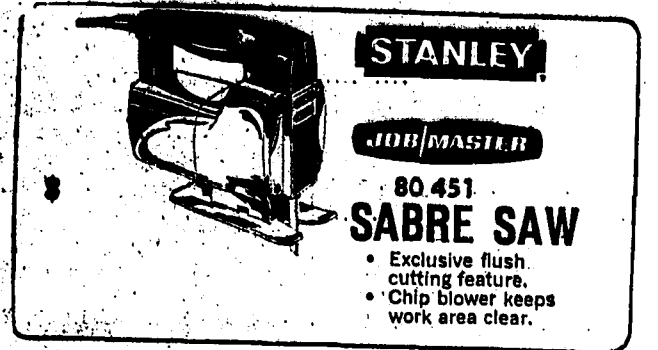

Funeral services for Mrs. Shoaf were held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Lee Funeral Home Chapel in Washington. Another service will be held at Summerset Funeral home at Salisbury later. Burial will be in Rowan Memorial Park at Salisbury. She was born in Davie County to Jesse B. and Lula Grubb Beck.

Surviving are her husband; two sons, Houston Shoaf, Jr. of Palmdale, Calif. and Joseph B. Shoaf of Westley, Mo.; three brothers, Vestal and Gilmer Beck of Salisbury and Grimes Beck of Richmond, Va.; and five sisters, Mrs. Ada Blackwelder, Mrs. Lucille Ridenhour and Mrs. Tennie Ridenhour of Salisbury. Mrs. Thelma Swicegood of Richmond, Va. and Mrs. Katheline Barthard of Mocksville.

Greatness, Everyone, in his own way, seeks it. Few find it. Those that do hardly ever recognize it. And they never misuse it.

We all want to be great. And there's nothing wrong with it. Never or has been. Never will be. The mistake comes in the manner in which we seek it. We get it mixed up with fame & fortune & power. Somehow we have come to tie the two together almost unknowingly. We have a lingering thought in the back of our minds that unless we achieve the fame, fortune and power we haven't made it. We aren't great. We are just a nobody. And that's where the Nazarene

The word's getting around. Nine years ago flameless electric heating was practically unheard of. In fact there were only 632 electrically heated dwellings in the Piedmont Carolina. But then people began finding out about the comfort, convenience and economy of flameless electric heating. And the word began spreading. Before long, a trend started. Today, electric heating is installed in more new homes and apartments served by Duke Power than any other heating system. And each year more and more homeowners are switching their present systems to electric heating. In short, it's the fastest growing method of heating among Duke Power's customers. So, follow the trend. Switch to flameless electric heating soon. Although Duke Power neither sells nor installs the equipment, we'll gladly give you more information. Davie Telephone Service Improvements Are Made Central Telephone Company and Yadkin Valley Telephone Membership Corporation, jointly announced today the establishment of expanded and improved, extended area service (local calling) facilities between the Mocksville, Advance, Davie, and James telephone exchanges. The new facilities increase the capacity of the local calling circuits between the exchanges by some 25% and required an additional investment of approximately $20,000 by the two companies. The new circuits are direct between Mocksville, Davie, Advance, and James, eliminating a previous switching point at the Davie exchange. The efficiency and reliability of the circuits have been improved by placing practically all of the facilities underground. Additional switching equipment has been added at all of the exchanges. "The establishment of the improved extended area service facilities is but another step on the part of Central Telephone Company and Yadkin Valley Telephone Membership Corporation in their efforts to provide a rapidly growing Davie County with better and more modern communication services," said a joint statement from the two companies.

Davie Ranks 135th In Per Pupil Expenditure

Davie County ranks 135th out of 169 school administrative units in pupil expenditure average is $623. North Carolina in expenditure per child in average daily attendance according to a review of the 1966-67 school year just completed by the Statistical Services of the State Department of Public Instruction. Davie County spent $394.93 per pupil during his period compared to $26.29 per pupil average for the state as a whole. The national per pupil expenditure average is $623. Davie County total school expenditure for 1966-67 was $535,938.07. Based on the average daily attendance of 3,880, this made for a total per pupil expenditure of $394.93. Of this amount, $237.70 per pupil came from state sources; $44.76 per pupil from federal sources, and $52.29 from local sources. On a percentage basis this means that the state contributed 75.4%; federal, 11.3%; and Davie County 13.3%. Out of the 169 school units in the state, Davie County ranked 5th in local expenditure.

Student Exploitation

With the approach of graduation, more and more firms and individuals—both from far away and near by places—are getting into the act of "exploiting" our high school students and their parents," the state superintendent of public instruction warns. The most recent "gimmick" to come to the attention of his office, Dr. Charles F. Carroll said, is a mimeographed letter from a travel firm, which is being sent to guidance counselors in the public schools. It offers the counselors $25 for each student the counselor can influence to take a $1,611 "historical" tour this summer. Another firm is soliciting from school administrators the names of top seniors (those receiving academic honors) for a listing in a "recognition" publication. The parents of these students later receive an offer to buy a special plaque (costing $14) to commemorate the student's "award." Investigation reveals a similar plaque can be obtained from a retail jewelry store for around $4. "Spring also seems to bring out an over abundance of dubious schools offering to prepare the high school graduate for a variety of highly-paid jobs," Dr. Carroll said. In these self-styled "schools" can secure a list of graduates, they resort to direct-by-mail advertising. There also are many advertisements of courses of instruction which, in reality, are nothing more than a set of books of doubtful quality and value, he said. Dr. Carroll has urged that parents, teachers, counselors, and school administrators be on the look-out for these and similar "gimmicks." Miss Kathryn Ray, director of pupil personnel services for the State Department of Public Instruction, points out that the "role of the school counselor is to protect the individuality of each pupil—providing leadership in the development of a program of activities designed to assist each student to achieve to his full potential." "In no way shall the school counselor promote any group or organization, or attempt to influence the pupil in making decisions," Miss Ray said. "The counselor is in a position to appraise requests for information about students and to protect students from receiving undue pressure and being 'victimized.'"

Around The Old Well

The white man's antagonism toward the Negro is in part determined by his values and by the amount and kind of contact he has had with members of the black race.

This conclusion is reached in a study of white reactions to the Watts Riots of August 1965 reported in the spring volume of SOCIAL FORCES, one of the nation's leading sociological journals published at the University of North Carolina.

The study, entitled "White Next Door," was conducted by Richard T. Morris and Vin V. A. Jaffries of the University of California at Los Angeles. They questioned 533 people from six Los Angeles communities.

The researchers found egoism (self-interest) related to high antagonism towards Negroes and altruism (concern for others) related to low antagonism. They further found lack of intimate social contact with Negroes to be related to high antagonism. The combined effect of egoism and lack of contact turned out to be the best predictor of antagonism.

The six Los Angeles communities sampled were selected to represent all-white and integrated areas at three socioeconomic levels. The interviews were conducted from November 1965 to February 1966. The three integrated communities had between 10 per cent and 20 per cent Negroes and less than 10 per cent Spanish-American. The three all-white communities had less than five per cent Negroes and less than 10 per cent Spanish-American.

Commenting on the magnitude and duration of the Watts Riots, the researchers marvelled that the rebellion did not erupt into a full-scale race riot with the white and Negro community equally involved in the destruction of life and property.

"Despite the fact that there was a considerable amount of fear aroused among whites, the white community, in the main, did not involve itself or take direct action," they reported. "Most, if not all, of the Negroes killed or wounded during the period were fired upon by police or soldiers, or hit by stray bullets. It is important to understand this low incidence of violence on the part of a fearful, aroused majority."

Elaborating on white reactions to the Watts disturbances, the researchers reported that large numbers of whites were in some degree sympathetic to the rebellion. Almost half the people questioned felt improvement of Negro living conditions and reduction of prejudice were the best ways to prevent further outbreaks, while only one in five recommended punitive or more restrictive measures.

The researchers believe perceptions of the rebellion its nature, causes and outcomes, were strongly influenced by a general feeling of antagonism, or sympathy, toward Negroes in everyday social situations.

They found that people who are more sympathetic toward Negroes generally, and who do not find it distasteful to engage in social activities with them, are more apt to take a constructive view of Negro activity during the rebellion, to take a dim view of the use of violence by police, and to leave firearms alone.

In an attempt to discover what kinds of people are antagonistic towards Negroes, the researchers studied the relationships of values and contact to antagonism.

Generally, they found that groups emphasizing values which pit one party against another — values such as competition, rivalry, the urge to defeat and selfishness — were apt to show more antagonisms than groups whose values are typified by a spirit of love, mutual aid and cooperation.

With regard to political parties, they found Republicans to be most antagonistic, Democrats next, and independents least. Women tended to be slightly more antagonistic than men.

In their study of contact, they found that the greater the frequency of interaction with Negroes, the less the prejudice in the part of whites. Their findings suggest that voluntary contact between the races is related to low antagonism, whereas involuntary contact (such as on job or with domestic help) is not. Intimacy of contact was the best predictor of antagonism or lack of it.

From their findings, the researchers conclude that attitudes towards Negroes are more basic and stable than reactions to a single event (such as the Watts Riots) and that the event is seen and evaluated in terms of previously held attitudes.

60-Second Sermon

TEXT: "Thus you will know them by their fruits." - Matthew 7:20.
A requirement of P. B. I. agents is that they be gentlemen. J. Edgar Hoover tells about the time he and an assistant were walking in a slum district. A "stagnant woman" dropped a package as they approached. They both stopped to pick it up and return it to her while they raised their hats. A street urchin, observing the incident, jeered to a companion.
"Aw, go on. They're too polite to be gents. I'll bet they're a couple of flat-feet."
Actions speak louder than words. It is a sentiment appearing in the proverbial literature of all languages. While that makes it "old hat," it also underscores its truth. Men always have been prone to talk one way and act another.
It is uncomfortable at times and, perhaps, unprofitable, to act as we profess to believe. But unless we have firm beliefs and by our actions, demonstrate the fact in spite of personal sacrifice of comfort or dollars, we and the society in which we live will decay.
If our nature or nation is weak, today, it is not because of low beliefs or an inadequate federal Constitution. It is because we citizens have failed to act according to our professed beliefs.

Easter is a very special time of the year for all those who know and love Christ. Everyone dresses up in their Sunday best and attends the special Easter services but what happens to all those overflow crowds the Sundays after Easter. Don't be a "once a year" church member. Old Southern Recipes

From the Historic Lower Cape Fear section of North Carolina we review history through a recipe for Sally Lunn submitted by Miss Monimia MacRae, Granddaughter of the Honorable George Davis. The Honorable George Davis was Attorney General of the Confederate States of America. Miss MacRae, though she cannot give the exact origin of the recipe, says it is likely that her Grandmother served this Sally Lunn to Mr. Davis.

There is a handsome and impressive life-size statue of Mr. Davis, erected by the Daughters of the Confederacy, at the corner of Third and Market Streets in Wilmington, N. C. The inscription reads as follows:

GEORGE DAVIS
Senator and Attorney General of the Confederate States of America
1820-1896
Scholar
Patriot
Statesman
Christian

Further research tells us that the identity of Sally Lunn has been lost over the years. The name is known only as a bread. It seems name belonged to a woman who became famous in her home town of Bath, England, where she made and sold tea cakes of bread which her neighbors called Sally Lunn.

'SALLY LUNN
(Miss Monimia MacRae—Granddaughter of the Honorable George Davis, Attorney General of the Confederate States of America.)

- 8 eggs
- 4 cups flour
- 1/2 cup melted butter
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 envelope yeast
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 pounds granulated sugar

1 cup warm milk
1/2 teaspoon soda dissolved in 1-2 cup hot water.

Beat eggs to a stiff froth, add sugar, flour and salt sifted together, soda dissolved in water, & butter. Now beat in the yeast well. Set to rise in a buttered pudding dish in which it must be baked and sent to the table. Or, if you wish to turn it out, set to rise in a well buttered mold. Let rise until doubled in bulk (about 6 hours). Bake of an hour or until a straw comes of an hour or until a skewer comes out clean. Eat while hot. Serves 8-10. This is a genuine old fashioned Sally Lunn. Many prefer Sally Lunn cooked in a steamer pan, and turned out and sliced, or cooked in muffin tins.

mansion - with its gables and balconies, its spacious halls and reception rooms, its grand stairway and sixteen foot ceilings - is a gem from a by-gone era.

The late President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, described the interior of North Carolina's Mansion as "The most beautiful in America." The Mansion itself is of Victorian architecture. Wherever possible, materials for the Mansion came from the state itself. Through the years each succeeding administration has contributed to the furnishings, the decorating and planning of the Mansion.

The building combines beauty and livability with history, as a brief tour will illustrate. Appointments to visit the Governors Mansion should be made at the reception desk of the state Capitol. Tours are available from mid-September through May, Tuesdays through Fridays, 10 a. m. until noon.

why vote for education

Think of your children.
Bob Scott's determination to improve our schools is based on genuine interest and first-hand experience. His wife and his mother taught school. His children are in public—not private—school. He is on the State Board of Education and was Chairman of United Forces for Education.
He knows that not everyone can afford college. But with vocational and industrial training in junior high schools, more of our youth can find better paying jobs in industry and fewer will become drop-outs.
He wants to bring teacher salaries to the national average. He wants kindergartens as a part of our public school program. He wants free bus transportation for students in urban as well as rural areas.
Bob Scott has a record of service.

there is no such thing as a "dry" county

(not even Davie)

The question is, will the sale of beer be controlled or uncontrolled?

The bootleggers are fat in the so-called "dry" towns, cities and counties. Their conscience is their only checkrein—if they have any.

With the fine help of the State A.B.C. Board and its local officers to enforce the law, the 74 counties* which permit legal sale have found the sale of beer can be controlled. And that's the only way.

No municipality which has voted in legal sale of beer has ever voted it out—or even put the question on a ballot again.

To get the facts about legal control and learn how it can benefit your community and county, write for a free booklet, The Beer Industry in North Carolina.

Sixty five North Carolina counties and 16 other states are represented by the 337 East Carolina University teaching interns in various public schools of the area.

Each student is given an intern assignment through the office of Dr. Thomas A. Chubb, who coordinates the student teacher program of the ECU School of Education.

The interns conduct regular classes under the direction of supervisors and are graded for their on-the-job performances.

Tattle-Tales

By Gordon Tomlinson

The late Ben Y. Boyles had a quick wit. S. M. Call last week recalled an exchange that Ben and his wife (Mrs. Call) had many years ago when Ben was in the ice business.

Mrs. Call had an ice box on the back porch. In order to put ice in, everything had to be taken out of the ice put in . . . and then put the items back on top of the ice.

One hot summer day one of Ben's employees delivered the ice. They took everything out & forgot to put the items back in and of course everything spoiled.

Well, to say that Mrs. Call was angry would be the understatement of the century.

"Boy . . . she was really foisting," said Mr. Call, who went on to tell of the encounter between his wife and Ben the next day.

Ben himself brought the ice the next day and was met at the door by a furious Mrs. Call.

"I'm glad you brought the ice yourself. Do you know what those so's and so's of yours done yesterday," and she proceeded to pour it on Ben who went on putting the ice in the ice box.

Finally Mrs. Call slowed down her verbal attack on Ben and Ben used this lapse to slip in a choice observation:

"Well, I'm glad it happened here and not at a place where the woman would have gotten mad about it. You know some women would really get mad about something like that!"

And Mr. Call said that as mad as his wife was . . . she couldn't help but break into a grin.

Anyone visiting the Town Office or Martin and Martin Law Office may have been startled sometime ago whenever anyone of the three young ladies started down the steps to the basement.

You see the rest rooms are in the basement. And everytime that Dianne, Mary Katherine or Kathy started down the steps into the basement they would start clapping their hands.

All this hand clapping on the way to the rest room appeared most unusual to anyone not knowing the story.

It seems that one day one of the girls on her way had a mouse to run over her feet. Since that time they clap their hands to let that mouse know they are coming and to get gone!!!

News and Comment from Our Raleigh Bureau

STATEWIDE LAW . . . To back up their candidate's continuing pleas for Statewide law and order, friends of Lt. Gov. Bob Scott during the week of racial troubles brought to life an old plan for converting North Carolina's scores of police departments into a 24-hour law enforcement network to protect its five million citizens.

Scott now has access to the entire project. If all works well, it should be well along toward development by July 1 next year.

Here is the way it is designed to work:

At two-year cost of $260,000—and this is based on figures originally provided by Southern Bell telephone and Telegraph—the State can rent telegraph lines connecting all the police departments . . . in North Carolina . . . from the mountains to the sea.

Thus the Legislature next year would set up in its budget for the biennium $260,000 for the police network.

As it now stands, there is no connection whatever—except by long distance telephone—between police departments in North Carolina. In a recent month, a gang of thieves hit Rocky Mount one day about noon. That afternoon, it operated—evidently more successfully—in Durham, only 65 miles away.

Scott says North Carolina is the only State east of the Mississippi which does not have a Statewide police call network. He points out that we do have our highway patrol radio network, but this is confined—and sometimes overloaded—with traffic cases. In other words, the N. C. Department of Motor Vehicles seems to have its hands full with auto troubles.

Raleigh is 20 miles from Durham, but they could be 2,000 miles apart as regards easy contact between their police departments.

Once the State has leased the lines in the Statewide Police Network, it would cost each police department wishing to be a part of it $1,600 annually . . . that, and no more . . . according to present plans.

This investment would provide each participating city with the Statewide connection and a teletype for sending and receiving messages. Even the smallest community could become a part of the network.

The center of the operation would be in Raleigh; and the Raleigh Central would be connected with the NCI (National Crime Information) network in Washington, D. C.

One of those chiefly responsible for the development of the project is George Stevens of Charlotte, now security officer with Westinghouse and former head of the Mecklenburg County Police. Three years ago he was president of the N. C. Police Executives Association.

This group, now headed by Harley Alderman, chief of the Tarboro Police Department, is pushing the idea . . . as might be expected . . . for it could turn . . . almost overnight . . . 300 police departments into one vast North Carolina Police Department . . . with police, county sheriffs, short-wave radio, etc., all tied into one.

And this is one of the axes Lt. Gov. Bob Scott has in his deck as he repeatedly speaks of a new day for law and order in North Carolina.

NORTH CAROLINA . . . The closest thing to a millionaires' magazine in North Carolina is a publication put out by the N. C. Citizens Association called "We The People".

It is now in its twenty-fifth year. Edited by Billy Armstrong, who was at one time the newsman with WRAL, the monthly goes to members of the N. C. Citizens Association, many of whom are manufacturers and bank presidents. And some are, in fact, millionaires—before taxes.

Looking out over the gathered velvet at one of their annual meetings about 18 years ago now, Gov. Kerr Scott departed from his prepared address, looked out over his glasses and dubbed the magazine "We The People Against The People".

Gal Capital Clipboard But somebody noted in March this year that the name of the monthly had somehow been changed—officially or unofficially—to "We The People of North Carolina." It is a beautiful, well edited magazine.

And here's wagering that, some time in the near-distant future, the "we the people" will ever but ever so gradually get smaller and smaller until the magazine's new name will be "North Carolina."

Wanta bet?

END OF ROAD? . . . It may be that the truckers have reached the end of the road with what has long been regarded as the most effective lobbying techniques on the hill.

There are no friendlier lobbyists in these parts than Tom Outlaw, head of the N. C. Motor Carriers Association; Jeff Wilson, who puts out his magazine and otherwise assists Mr. Outlaw; and Hathaway Cross, one of their laborers in the legislative vineyard.

And one of the things that added flavor, all kinds of flavors, to their efforts was the Truckers Suite at the Hotel Sir Walter. It operated for about four months during each session of the Legislature. There you could, whether legislator or not, get buttermilk, sweet milk, ham sandwiches, turkey, chicken—you name it, as they say, and the truckers had it. It was all served, too, under fine circumstances—pleasant and quiet—with Wilson as the usual host. Many a friend was made there, and few enemies. A nice hangout, for friends and foe alike.

There is talk around that the Truckers Room may not be with us in the 1969 Legislature. We can just hear the lawmakers—one or two in particular—singing together: "Tom, Jeff, Hap—say it isn't so."

PRE-SCHOOLERS ATTEND CLASSES.

On Wednesday evening, April 17, 168, approximately ninety (90) pre-school students attended school for a short time. The occasion was Pre-school Orientation Day for students that will attend school in the Mocksville Elementary School during the 1968-1969 school year.

Students stayed at the Primary Building and saw an educational film, did individual work, took exercise and were served refreshments.

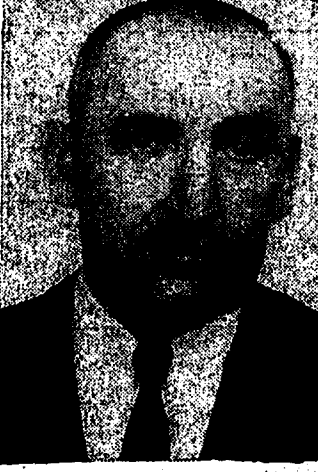

Their parents convened in the Elementary Auditorium and were briefed by Mrs. Rachel Stroud, County Health Nurse, on health procedures and immunizations that are required by law. Birth Certificates were checked to verify date of birth. A Handbook for parents of pre-school students was discussed by Mr. Thompson to familiarize parents with school policies. Mrs. Mildred Foster took application from parents that were interested in their child attending Head Start during this summer.

Any parent that did not attend this Orientation Day should come by the Elementary School office and bring their child's birth certificate and pick up health forms to be completed by their family doctor or private physician. The handbook for parents should also be picked up.

Senator Sam Ervin Says:

Without dispute, the greatest domestic problem now confronting the country is the soaring crime rate. Responsible citizens recognize that immediate action is required to control or prevent behavior that threatens the public order and security of this Nation.

Consider that in 1967 there was a forcible rape every 23 minutes, a robbery every 4 1/2 minutes, an assault every 2 1/2 minutes, a car theft every minute, a burglary every 27 seconds. The resulting monetary loss is authoritatively estimated to be at least $27 billion. The pain, misery, fear, and suffering inflicted upon crime victims is unmeasurable.

Congress, aware of the terrible toll being extracted from society, is considering bills to aid in such critical areas as narcotics and drug abuse, police organization, judicial administration, State detention and correctional agencies, organized crime, research in the prevention and control of crime, and firearms control. This column is devoted to legislative remedies under consideration and firearms control in particular.

During recent years, the increasing crime rate, the assassination of a President, and the rioting in our cities have caused the Congress to take another look at the possession and use of firearms to determine if increased regulation would be in the national interest. Legislation proposed on this subject falls into two legislative patterns: First, the highly restrictive type such as S. 1 and HR 5384; and, second, the moderate approach embodied in the Hruska measures, S. 1853 and S. 1854. S. 1 as amended and HR 5384 provide express restrictions on the shipment of any firearms, including shotguns and rifles, interstate commerce.

They prohibit the interstate mail-order sale, except between federally licensed dealers, of all firearms including handguns, shotguns, and rifles, and military surplus weapons. They prohibit over-the-counter sales of handguns to nonresidents. These bills contain elaborate licensing procedures and increased fees for firearms dealers, manufacturers, and importers.

The Hruska approach, S. 1854, aims its more moderate provisions at control of the sale of handguns and destructive devices such as bazookas, mortars, bombs, grenades, rockets, and field ordinance. S. 1853 provides for an affidavit procedure for mail-order and nonresident over-the-counter sale of handguns, because handguns are the principal tools of criminals. It exempts rifles and shotguns, because by custom and heritage, they are the firearms of the sportsman. Admittedly, both weapons can be used to kill human beings as well as game animals, but handguns, by reason of their concealability are the weapons most often used by the criminal element. S. 153 contains an absolute prohibition of the sale of handguns to those under 21 years. This measure has received the full support of a substantial part of the American public, including the approval of major gun and wildlife organizations.

S. 1854 would amend the National Firearms Act to strictly regulate the making or transfer of bazookas and similar destruction of the various gun same restrictions that apply to machineguns and sawed-off shotguns. After careful consideration of the various gun control bills, I have concluded that S. 1853 and S. 1854 provide a workable, positive approach without unnecessary restrictions upon individual rights or needless infringement upon the traditional police powers granted to the States.

Crime control is immensely complex, but I trust that the Senate will enact these measures at this session as needed, legislation in the war on crime.

Uncle Dave from Davie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
Bug Hookum, that is always on the lookout for ways to exercise without working or moving, told the fellers at the country store Saturday night he had found a Government agency that was just what he was looking for and that he aimed to write to his Congressman to see if he could get on this agency.

Bug bring a newspaper clipping for the fellers to read that explained all about it. This agency, according to this newspaper-please-was-called-the-Subversives Activities Control Board and was known in Government circles as SACB.

This piece said SACB hadn't held a meeting since November 15, 1965, had five members on the board and they got $26,000 a year. But things was picking up with SACB, this piece said. Their job was to watch for Communists, and they was fixing to investigate a club that was supposed to be Communist inspired.

Natural, since they was going to hold a meeting, they was asking the Congress for a 33 per cent boost in their budget, plus $13,000 extra for this meeting, and the 33 per cent boost included a raise of $2,000 a year in salary for the board members.

I recollect, Mister Editor, when this board was set up. It was back during the days when Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin and everybody was scared we had a Communist hiding behind ever bush. If I recollect correct, this was back about 1956. It turned out that SACB wasn't needed too bad, so they just been holding on all these years, drawing their pay and doing nothing and holding no meetings.

That seems to be the pattern for all our Government agencies. Onct the Congress sets up a agency for a special purpose, they stay on the Government payroll forever, long after the need for the agency has disappeared.

I recollect back during World War I when we was using a lot of wood in our airplanes, they set up a agency to buy the proper kind of wood. In about two year we switched to airplanes made from metals and did away with the wood requirements. But this wood-buying agency hung on fer years, with nothing to do, but drawing down fancy pay all the time.

If ain't got no way of knowing the details, but I'd guess we got agencies in Washington that has outlived their usefulness years and years ago but that was still on the Government payroll at fancy salaries.

It's hard for me to figger why our Congress allows this to go on all the time. But, fer a country feller like me, it's hard to figger out a lot of things going on in the Congress. But, anyhow, Mister Editor, I hope Bug gits on this SACB agency. He might find a communist hiding under the country store.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dave

Letter To Editor

"THIS EVIL DEED GIVES US NO REASON TO RESORT TO VIOLENCE."

To the Editor: Many compliments have been bestowed upon the late Dr. Martin Luther King since his assassination. I dare not ask the editor of this paper to list all of this noble character's again, but I am grateful for the privilege to mention his desire for love to reign over hatred, and peace to triumph over violence. Many of us question the tactics

Dr. King used to help mankind, but thousands of people throughout the world have admitted that his motive was good. The many things said about his determination to overcome evil with good tell us that he was a man who worked on hot issues with a cool head.

Martin Luther King, Jr. had the idea that all men should be the recipients of justice and freedom, but he also had the idea that no man should seek after his rights with methods that are not right (rioting, burning, looting and killing). Throughout the land he taught men to lay aside the weapons of violence and strive for their goals with a more excellent way.

Dr. King used many opportunities to practice what he preached. When a crowd of angry negroes this race and my race too gathered to retaliate for the bombing of his home in Montgomery, Alabama, Dr. King persuaded his people to return to their homes and let peace abide in their hearts. His plea for restraint and order carried the message: This evil deed gives us no reason to resort to violence.

The assassination of Martin Luther King, Jr. bombed the Negro race. All of us feel the effect in one way or another but I think we need to repeat the message he proclaimed in Montgomery: This evil deed gives us no reason to resort to violence.

Shame is upon those who used Dr. King's death for an excuse to riot, burn, and loot. Those who rendered such violence took advantage of a bad occasion to display the hatred that was already planted in their hearts. They have admitted to the world that the doctrine of love which Dr. King upheld had no influence on their lives.

Men of all races who deliberately injure the economics, civil, social, physical, or spiritual welfare of their fellow men—admit to the world that they have repeated the example of Him who was greater than Martin Luther King, Jr. Jesus Christ was that greater one who gave the perfect example as he marched along the shores of Galilee. His followers heard Him say: "... thou shalt love thy neighbors as thyself", "love your enemies".

and "... As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise." Cruel men misunderstood His doctrine, hated His example, and nailed Him to a cross. His prayer on that rugged cross at Calvary tells us that he refused to hate those who hated Him. "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do."

—CALVIN JAMES

Dear Sirs,

This letter is on behalf of our county library and the people on its staff.

It has been my privilege to use the facilities of our library on numerous occasions. I have found it to be an invaluable source of aid. The people on the staff are always polite, friendly and efficient. In several instances they have gone so far as to order materials for me from other areas which they did not have on hand.

We of Davie County are indeed fortunate to have such a wealth of knowledge and enjoyment at our disposal.

Respectfully,

Don Sides,

Pastor, Oak Grove

Is this tiny monthly difference all that's keeping you from owning a Chrysler?

So you think you can't afford one of our Chryslers? Sure, Chrysler is expensive looking. It's bigger. Roomier. And it has a big standard 383 cubic inch V-8 engine that runs on regular gas. But compare car payments. You'll find a full-size Chrysler Newport is priced just a couple bucks more a month than one of the most popular smaller cars, comparably equipped. And if that tiny monthly difference still keeps you from buying a Chrysler from us, maybe you could skip lunch once in awhile.

*Based on comparison of Manufacturers' Suggested Retail prices for Chrysler Newport and Chevrolet Caprice 2-door hardtops comparably equipped with 3-speed automatic transmission, power steering and AM radio, white sidewall tires and wheel covers. A 275 horsepower optional 8-cylinder engine is included on Caprice to compare with Newport's standard 290 horsepower V-8 engine.
