World Day Of Prayer Planned For March 3

Church Women United in Mocksville will observe World Day of Prayer, the international celebration of faith and unity, among Christian women on Friday, March 3, at 7:30 p.m. in Holy Cross Lutheran Church.

The theme, to be used in similar gatherings in 169 countries, is "All Joy Be Yours."

Since the first small gatherings in the United States 85 years ago, the idea of United Prayer by women around the world from sun to sun has increasingly captured the imagination of community groups. Today, World Day of Prayer can be described as the most important ecumenical occasion during the year. The celebration is the most widely observed activity of Church Women United, which is the ecumenical expression of Protestant, Orthodox and Roman Catholic women who wish to mobilize around common goals and channel their energies into effective action. The goal of Church Women United is to form a visible fellowship of believers in Christ and move in every community and nation as instruments of reconciling love.

This year's theme "All Joy Be Yours" is designed to raise the consciousness of the participant that the joy found in Christ is transcendent, permeating all of life no matter what conditions prevail. Just as the joyful reality of God's faithfulness and care can break through the dismal or oppressive conditions that exist in the world, so Christ's coming as man can break through the barrier between the sacred and secular.

This World Day of Prayer service is open to all men and women in the community. "We have to start within ourselves and community before we can bring about this world-wide brotherhood," said sponsors of the program.

Mrs. Helen McGee Presented Davie Young Educator Award

Mrs. Helen W. McGee of Mocksville has been chosen as Davie County's Young Educator of the Year.

Mrs. McGee, a teacher at the Mocksville Middle School, was honored last Thursday night when the Mocksville Jaycees held their annual banquet honoring Davie County educators.

She was presented with a plaque in recognition of her contributions in the field of education.

Dr. Robert E. Strother, assistant superintendent for Human Relations and Student Affairs at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, was the featured speaker for the banquet. Special guests included members of the board of education, county school administrators and the principals of the Davie County schools.

In addition to Mrs. McGee, others nominated for this honor were present and were recognized. These included Kathleen Shaw, Martha L. Carter, James Tutterow, Sudie Smoot Whaley, Betty F. Gray, Marie C. Ellis and George Barnhardt.

Mrs. McGee has been a teacher at the Mocksville Middle School since 1968. She teaches English and Art.

A native of Galax, Virginia, she is a graduate of Radford College, receiving a BS degree in art. She is married to Tom McGee, who is associated with Wonderknit. They have one daughter, Erin.

One of the factors in her selection is her creative teaching program that stresses total involvement and active participation of the students. In describing this she said:

"I bring in as many outside materials as possible. We do a good deal of creative writing. I break the routine of studying grammar to let the students do such things as write poetry through the study of folk songs and rock lyrics. We also use research facilities of the library to do units on contemporary people in the news ... And we do extra study in regards to increasing the individual vocabulary.

"I love young people. I care about their thoughts and problems. They are constantly teaching me and I am proud to learn from them," said Mrs. McGee.

Mrs. McGee is active in the Jaycettes, serving on the board of directors and as parlimentarian. She is also active in the North Carolina Associate of Educators and has served as teacher coordinator for the Parent-Teacher-Student Association at the Mocksville Middle School.

Mrs. McGee is the third recipient of the "Young Educator" award. Prior award winners include Paul McCraw, social studies teacher at the Davie High School, and Charles Crenshaw of the Cooleemee Elementary School.

Judge Chess Challenges Rotary Club

Judge Sam J. Chess of High Point challenged the Mocksville Rotary Club Tuesday to provide true leadership in meeting the problems of today.

"I am greatly concerned where our country, state and communities are going," said Judge Chess. "Too many people isolate themselves from the problems of the day ... look the other way ... refuse to become involved. But we have to where we don't want to be to truly understand and make things better."

Judge Chess, who is presiding at a session of Davie County civil court this weeek, was appointed as a special superior court judge last fall by Governor Bob Scott to be the first of his race to hold this position in the state.

Judge Chess explained that he gave up a more financial lucaritive position as an attorney because "I wanted to get off the sideline and into the arena where I could better communicate with more people."

Peter W. Hairston had charge of the program and introduced Judge Chess. Wayne Eaton presided in the absence of President Leo Williams.

District Leaf Meeting Is On March 6

Frank Bryant, Director of Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corporation, and Fred G. Bond, the Co-op's General Manager, announced today that Stabilization's 14th annual District Meeting for North Carolina growers in District No. 9 will be held on March 6. The meeting will convene at the Reidsville Municipal Building (West Morehead Street) in Reidsville, North Carolina, beginning at 2:00 p.m. District No. 9 includes the following counties in the Old Belt: Stokes, Surry, Rockingham, Caswell, Person, Gaston, Yadkin, Forsyth, Guilford, Iredell, Davie, Davidson, Randolph, Rowan, Catawba, Cabarrus, Mecklenburg, Wilkes, Alamance, Cleveland, Caldwell, and Alexander.

Bryant of Boonville, North Carolina, in making the announcement, stated that 1971 was one of the most satisfactory years in Stabilization's history. Receipts were the lowest since the inception of the acreage-poundage program and sales of old crop tobacco were among the highest on record. Bryant continued by stating that despite the relatively successful year, growers should continue to be concerned about the price support program and its continued operation as an aid to growers in realizing a fair income from tobacco production. In this connection, Bryant urged growers to make plans to be present and actively par-

Woman Injured By Own Auto

Mrs. Ivie Beauchamp was admitted to Davie County Hospital Saturday night with internal injuries following an accident at her home.

Mrs. Beauchamp and her husband Junie Beauchamp, had returned to their home on Rural Road 1632. Mrs. Beauchamp got out of the car to open the garage door. Mr. Beauchamp reached across to close the passenger side door and his foot apparently slipped from the brakes and the car rolled into Mrs. Beauchamp.

Mrs. Beauchamp is in the intensive care unit at Davie. Her condition is listed as remaining guarded at publication time.

Patrolman A. C. Stokes was called and investigated the accident.

Hospital Increases Room Rates By $2

Davie County Hospital will increase room rates by $2.00 daily on all rooms, Intensive and Coronary Care not included, March 1, 1972.

This will give the hospital a rate of structure as follows:

Ward - $30.00 daily

Semi-private - $33.00 and $35.00 daily

Private rooms - $38.00 and $40.00 daily.

This increase is to cover an increase in salaries which went into effect Feb. 7, 1972. The increase in salaries and the increase in charges are well within the Federal established guidelines and were approved by Blue Cross and the Medicare authorities before going into effect, said W.E. Roark, Hospital Administrator.

Downtown Into Shopping Center?

A major development plan for a section of downtown Mocksville was discussed at a meeting of property owners and the Board of Directors of the Mocksville-Davie Chamber of Commerce at a meeting held Tuesday night, February 22, at the Davie County Public Library.

An idea, conceived by Director M. H. Murray, was presented to the property owners to get their thoughts. The proposal is to develop a Shopping Center within the downtown section of Mocksville.

John Butero, president of the Chamber, and Ed Goodwin, past president, explained the idea to a group that represented more than half of the property owners in the area for the proposed Shopping Center.. If developed, it would be bordered by Gaither Street, Main Street, Water Street and Salisbury Street. Murray, when originally suggesting the idea at a director's meeting, pointed out that something had to be done to help the future of the business section in Mocksville. Many of the property owners were in agreement that something had to be done and this might be a step in the right direction. Although many questions were left unanswered, Tuesday's group did agree to let the Chamber Board look further into the idea and follow through with other meetings in the very near future.

The Chamber's only purpose in last week's meeting was to find out if there was interest in such a project. "In that respect, the meeting had to be called a success," said officers.

New Manager At Moore's

Bruce Rollins, former assistant manager of Moore's in Rutherfordton, has been promoted to manager of Moore's in Mocksville.

Rollins began his career with the Moore chain in 1970 at their Red Springs store. In June, 1971, he was transferred to Rutherfordton as assistant manager.

The new manager is a member of the Lions Club and the Moose Club. He has served as president of the former. In Red Springs, he was on the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce. He is a member of the Methodist church and has been vice-president of the Methodist Mens' group.

A native of Pine Level, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Rollins. He graduated from Pine Level High School.

Rollins' wife is the former Anne Mann of Sanford. They have two children; a son, Lee, age 5 and a daughter, Mary Bruce, age 10 months. The Rollins will settle in Mocksville in Sheffield Park.

Jaycee Antique Sale March 3rd & 4th

The Mocksville Jaycees are giving antique lovers a real treat Friday and Saturday, March 3rd and 4th, beginning at 7 p.m. in the gymnasium of the Mocksville Elementary School located on North Main Street.

Two vans of antiques from Pennsylvania will be sold at auction. There will be a wide selection of walnut and oak furniture in addition to china closets, washstands, dressers, beds, pictures, guns, tools, dated jars, stoneware, clocks, plus many other items.

Roy L. Martin of New Holland, Penn. will be the auctioneer.

A spokesman from the club said the auction sale is a club sponsored community improvement function and the money realized from the project will be used in the community.

Dave Rankin Officially Elected District 769 Rotary Governor

David Rankin of Mocksville was officially elected Governor of District 769 of Rotary International at the annual conference held last week at Pinehurst.

Mr. Rankin will head the 37 individual Rotary Clubs of this district, serving Piedmont North Carolina, beginning in July of this year. He will be officially installed at Rotary International's 1972 convention in Houston, Texas later this year.

District 769 extends from Mt. Airy to Hamlet; Concord to Wadesboro; and to Eden. There are 2,528 Rotarians in this district.

As District Rotary Governor, he will supervise and coordinate the service work of these 37 individual clubs and their members.

Mr. Rankin first became a Rotarian in 1934 as a member of a club in Monore. From 1943 to 1944 he was a member of the Sanford Rotary Club.

A charter member of the Mocksville Rotary Club, he served as the club president 1947-48 and as secretary from 1948 to 1951.

Attending the Rotary International Convention in Hawaii in 1969 he served as associate sergeant-at-arms.

He was born in Guilford County in October 1906 and graduated from North Carolina State in 1928 with a BS degree in vocational agriculture. He taught agriculture at Marshville High School in Union County from July 1, 1928 to September 1934. From 1934 to July 1937 he served as Assistant County Agricultural Agent of Union County.

In July 1937 he came to Mocksville as Davie County Agricultural Agent, serving until November 1943. From November 1943 to December 31, 1944 he served as county agent of Lee County.

Returning to Mocksville in 1945, Mr. Rankin became secretary-treasurer and manager of Rankin-Sanford Implement Company. He continued in this capacity until December 1966.

Since January 1967, he has served as agent for the North Carolina Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance Company for Davie County.

Mr. Rankin is a member and Past Master of Mocksville Masonic Lodge No. 134; teacher of the Men's Bible Class, Elder and Past Clerk of the Session of Mocksville Presbyterian Church and past president of the Mocksville Merchants Association.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Rankin, others from Mocksville attending the Rotary Convention in Pinehurst last week included: Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Eaton, Dr. and Mrs. R. F. Kemp, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pennington, Mr. and Mrs. Leo F. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Caudell, Jeff Wells.

Work Begins On Home For Cato's

One of Mocksville's oldest landmarks is being torn down this week to make way for a new business.

What was originally known as "The Red Front Store" on North Main Street is being torn down and its place will be erected a modern fire-proof building that will house Cato's.

The present owner, John Johnstone, announced that the building would be one-story and would occupy the full site. Mr. Johnstone recently purchased this site from the Willis Call estate.

This old building has served many Mocksville businesses.

In April of 1908 J. T. Angell moved his stock of general merchandise from Fork Church to the old "Red Front" store. In 1910 he erected the building ajoining this store and moved into it. This building is now occupied by the House of Styles barbershop.

Willis L. Call bought the "Red Front" store building from Dr. R. P. Anderson and moved his stock of goods from across the street. He operated the store at this location for many years.

In more recent years, the building houses the United Variety Store and Smith's Shoe Store.

Being built of wood it was condemned as a fire hazard.

Dale Carnegie Course Demonstration Here On Monday And Tuesday

A Dale Carnegie course demonstration will be held in Mocksville on Monday and Tuesday nights. The session will begin at 7:33 p. m. both nights and is sponsored by the Mocksville Jaycees. It will be held at the Mocksville Rotary Hut.

The demonstration will be under the direction of Hayes Ratledge of Greensboro. In discussing the famous Dale Carnegie course, Mr. Ratledge pointed out:

"One of the most pressing needs in today's world is leadership. One of the greatest social problems facing the world today is the inability of people to get along amicably with one another. This demonstration in Mocksville on Monday and Tuesday nights will show what Dale Carnegie training is doing about the many problems all of us possess within ourselves," said Mr. Ratledge.

The program will run until around 8:45 p. m. at which time refreshments will be served.

Beginning the following week, a 14-week session of instruction is planned, when students take a step-by-step program of adult study.

The Dale Carnegie course is said to be designed for a person TO:

Develop courage and self-confidence, overcome fear, destroy inferiority complex.

Speak with ease before business conferences, conventions, clubs, church and political meetings.

Improve your memory for names, faces and facts, quickly and easily.

Increase your income through your ability to deal with people.

Become a more effective leader in your business or profession through your ability to speak.

Make new worthwhile friends. In these classes you will form friendships that will last a life-time.

Become a better executive for the executive of today must be expert in human relations.

Keep out of a rut. Enrich your life with new interests, new goals.

Stop worrying and start living.

Develop a lasting and contagious enthusiasm. Live a more exciting life.

Learn how to think on your feet.

Learn how to save time and get far better results in conferences.

Bob York Is Promoted By The Jewel Box

Bob York has been promoted from store manager of the Jewel Box Store in Statesville to manager of marketing service, working in all phases of the marketing program at the home office in Greensboro.

Mr. York was also selected as one of six new members of the eleven member president's advisory council of the Jewel Box Corporation.

The president's council is composed of members of the 12 states operation. Its purpose is to help executive ability through planning and implementing programs in all areas of the company's operation.

Bob began work with this company in Goldsboro in 1964. Since then he was store manager of the Jewel Box in Martinsville, Va. and Statesville.

A graduate of the Davie High School and Appalachian State University, Mr. York is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. York of 620 Wilkesboro St., Mocksville. He is married to the former Loretta Deal and they have two sons.

Do you like to be where the action is? Then consider a career as a bookkeeper or accountant.

These people handle the paper work that keeps our trillion dollar economy moving. They pay our 80 million workers and see that bills get collected and paid. They also calculate whether a business is making a profit or loss, and how many dollars each firm owes in taxes.

A bookkeeper (perhaps a whole staff of them) keeps track of the day-to-day transactions of a business, money coming in and going out. There are something like 1,200,000 bookkeepers at work now, and about 75,000 job openings a year.

An accountant analyzes the records kept by bookkeepers and decides if the business is making money or losing, how much is owed in taxes, where there is waste and provides other kinds of financial analysis. Accounting jobs come at several levels; they require more training than bookkeeping and usually carry better salaries. There are about 25,000 job openings a year for accountants.

Thousands of bookkeepers and accountants working today have qualified for their jobs by studying at home, sometimes while working at other, lower-paying jobs. Most high schools and business schools teach bookkeeping. Accounting is generally considered a college-level subject, and in some states a college degree is needed to qualify as a Certified Public Accountant.

If studying at home sounds best to you, you might like to have the "Directory of Accredited Home Study Schools," available free from the National Home Study Council, 1601 18th St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20009.

Mrs. Homer Potts and Sharon visited Mrs. Florence Starr Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Madge Cornatzer spent the weekend with Mrs. Pearl Frye.

The Cornatzer Homemakers Club met for the regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, February 22 at the home of Mrs. Brady Barney.

The president, Mrs. Homer Potts presided. The devotions and prayer were by Mrs. Jackie Winters and members joined in singing, "Blessed Assurance."

Mrs. Nora Smith, program leader for this month, gave a very interesting talk on the control of household pests and bugs.

The members were invited to the dining room for refreshments consisting of sandwiches, chips, pickles, homemade cookies and punch.

Reports Of Child Abuse From Social Services Department

Twenty-three children have been killed by their parents in North Carolina during the past seven months.

If this is not startling enough, 306 others have been confirmed as physically abused with their very lives threatened by their parents and relatives, while another 1,787 were proven to be neglected.

These statistics represent reports from only 84 county departments of social services who have been reporting during the period from July 1, 1971 through January 1972, cases of child abuse and neglect to the central registry maintained by the State Social Services Agency of the Department of Human Resources.

Prior to July 1, North Carolina had a voluntary reporting law for child abuse and neglect. The 1971 session of the General Assembly enacted a mandatory law that requires all citizens to report suspected cases of child abuse or neglect to their county department of social services so they might take the necessary action for the protection of the children.

The law also requires county departments of social services to report all cases to the central registry. The central registry was started in 1967, but counties were not required to report. Only 52 counties reported during 1970.

Even though sixteen counties still have not reported any cases, a total of 3,387 children have been reported as either suspected abuse or neglect cases since July 1 from the other 84 counties. During the same seven month period a year ago, only 1,532 children were reported from 65 counties.

Twenty-two of the deaths were caused by natural parents and one by a step-parent.

Eight of the children were from two families. Four of these were beaten to death with a tire tool by their father in New Hanover County and four more were beaten to death by their father in Wayne County. Six others were beaten to death.

There were three killed by arsenic poisoning while three others survived. One was killed by a mother when given an overdose of blood pressure pills. Two others children in the same family survived the overdose.

A mother killed her six month old baby by stuffing its throat with toilet tissue to keep it from crying.

Two children died from malnutrition, one was shot, another died from neglect.

Fourteen of these children were under six years of age and the oldest was thirteen.

Prior to the new mandatory reporting law approximately 2,000 cases of abuse or neglect were being reported to the central registry. The State Social Services Agency has felt all along that at least this many more cases were not being reported.

It appears now that with the reports that have come in under the new law, more than twice as many cases will be reported.

Eight counties have reported over 100 cases during the seven month period. Mecklenburg reported 447, Cumberland 247, Alamance 194, Forsyth 163, Wayne 160, Gaston 116, Guilford 109, and Catawba 105.

The new law that went into effect on July 1, 1971, requires that all citizens, not just professional persons, report suspected child abuse and neglect orally, by telephone, or in writing to the director of social services in the county where the child lives or is found.

The law gives immunity from civil and criminal liability to anyone reporting unless he does so with malicious intent. It also waives husband-wife and doctor-patient privileges.

It gives a physician or hospital administrator the right, after first notifying the parents and the county director of social services, to retain temporary physical custody of the child when it appears for medical reasons that it is unsafe for the child to return home.

The county director of social services must investigate all cases reported to him and he must report cases of abuse to the district solicitor who shall determine whether criminal prosecution is appropriate. The county director, after his investigation of reported cases of abuse and neglect, must provide protective services when appropriate including, when necessary, signing a juvenile petition to allow for the removal from the home of the child or other children who may be in danger.

The new law is placed under the child welfare section of the General Statutes instead of under the criminal section, as was the old law. This denotes a change in philsophy from emphasis on punishment of the offender to emphasis on providing protective services to the child as well as the parents. It is believed that most of these parents with proper counseling or psychiatric treatment can become adequate parents and the children remain in their own homes.

MESSAGE FROM COLONEL WILLIAM BARRET TRAVIS, COMMANDANT OF THE ALAMO, AT SAN ANTONIO, BEFORE HE AND HIS BAND OF TEXANS WERE MASSACRED

Commandancy of the Alamo
Fby. 24th 1836—

To the People of Texas & all Americans in the world—

Fellow citizens & compatriots—I am besieged, by a thousand or more of the Mexicans under Santa Anna—I have sustained a continual Bombardment & cannonade for 24 hours & have not lost a man—The enemy has demanded a surrender at discretion, otherwise the garrison are to be put to the sword, if the fort is taken—I have answered the demand with a cannon shot, & our flag still waves proudly from the walls—I shall never surrender or retreat. Then, I call on you in the name of Liberty, of patriotism & everything dear to the American character, to come to our aid, with all dispatch—The enemy is receiving reinforcements daily & will no doubt increase to three or four thousand in four or five days. If this call is neglected, I am determined to sustain myself as long as possible & die like a soldier who never forgets what is due to his own honor & that of his country—

Family Farm Doomed?

Is the family farm doomed by the supposed take-over of the nation's agriculture by big corporations?

We can expect to hear a great deal about the plight of the family farm from candidates during this year's election campaign.

However, a survey taken in 1968 under the direction of the U. S. Secretary of Agriculture shows that there are about 13,300 farming corporations in the U. S. which account for only one percent of all the commercial farms and about seven percent of the nation's farmland.

Another fact disclosed by the survey is that nearly two-thirds of these farming corporations are family owned and controlled. In fact, family corporations own 66 percent of all the incorporated farming units and produce 59 percent of the commodities sold by corporate farms.

In many cases, a family farm unit is incorporated so the farm can be passed on to heirs without going through the dismal process of selling out and starting over. A corporation assures continuity and allows all members of a family to be stockholders. It, also, may create a higher interest in the operations and help retain young people in agriculture.

One of the main reasons huge, diversified outside corporations are not too interested in farming is their responsibility of investing stockholder's money at the highest possible rate of profit. At the present time, they find rough going in agriculture due to the cost-price squeeze. There is a long list of corporations which have now retired from farming because the profit ledgers showed negative returns.

The fact still remains the most efficient, and hence the most competitive person of all, is the man who owns his own acres, works his own land for as many hours as is required to complete the job and whose family future is visibly tied to that soil.

The family farm is here to stay. It may be incorporated, but so are other small businesses all across our land.

Soil Stewardship Week

Soil Stewardship Week, a nationwide observance which places emphasis on man's obligation to God as stewards of the soil, water and other resources, will be observed May 7-14, according to Brady Angell, Chairman, Davie Soil and Water Conservation District. "Creative Conservation", the theme of this year's observance, underscores the responsibility which each citizen has in fulfilling his or her role as caretaker of the realm.

The Davie Soil and Water Conservation District has ordered posters, booklets, bulletin inserts, and place mats to be distributed to churches of all faiths upon request.

A tour for all ministers in the County has been planned for the first Tuesday in May. Local resource problems caused by lack of stewardship and resource problems solved by man's stewardship will be seen on the tour.

Members serving on the Soil Stewardship Committee are: Rev. Charles Bullock, Chairman; Rev. Austin Hamilton, Rev. Bill Anderson, Rev. Robert Lyons and Edwin Boger.

The Crowning Touch

Long a favorite fruit of British royalty, cherries are the perfect crowning touch to Cherry Breeze Pie. A golden corn flake crumbs crust is swirled with a satin-smooth mixture of whipped cream cheese, sweetened condensed milk and bottled lemon juice, then topped with ruby red prepared cherry pie filling. This refreshing dessert is a "breeze" to prepare, a pleasure to serve.

CHERRY BREEZE PIE

1 cup packaged corn flake crumbs
2 tablespoons sugar
⅓ cup regular margarine or butter, melted

1 8-oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
1 15-oz. can sweetened condensed milk
½ cup bottled lemon juice
1 teaspoon vanilla flavoring
1 1-lb. 5-oz. can prepared cherry pie filling, chilled

1. Measure corn flake crumbs, sugar and melted margarine into 9-inch pie pan; mix well. With back of tablespoon press crumbs evenly and firmly in bottom and around sides of pie pan to form crust. Chill.
2. Place softened cream cheese in mixer bowl; beat until fluffy. Gradually add sweetened condensed milk; beat until thoroughly combined. Mix in bottled lemon juice and vanilla. Spread in chilled crumbs crust. Refrigerate 2-3 hours, or until firm.
3. Spread chilled prepared cherry pie filling over top of pie just before cutting into wedges to serve.

Yield: 1 9-inch pie, 8 servings.

Miss Sarah Call Given Shower

Miss Sarah Call, bride-elect, was given a floating miscellaneous shower Saturday at the home of her parents. Hostesses were Mrs. Willard Call, Mrs. Seth McDaniel and Mrs. Jerry James.

During the evening, approximately thirty guests called and left lovely shower gifts for the bride-elect.

The refreshment table was covered with a white linen cloth. A yellow, white and green color scheme was used. The centerpiece was of yellow and white mums flanked by yellow tapers.

The guests were served lime punch, cake squares, nuts and mints in assorted colors.

BACON CRISPS

4 slices bacon, diced
2 to 3 drops liquid smoke (optional)
4 cups Cheerios
1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese (4 ozs.)

Fry bacon until crisp. Remove skillet from heat and immediately stir in liquid smoke. Add Cheerios and cheese. Toss lightly. Serve warm. Makes about 4 cups.

MRS. ANTHONY STEPHEN DYSON
..... was Linda Ann Belton

Belton—Dyson Vows Are Spoken In Flat Rock Baptist Church

Miss Linda Ann Belton was married to Anthony Stephen Dyson at 5 p. m. Saturday, February 26, in Flat Rock Baptist Church. The Reverend James Hall of Mint Hill officiated.

Mrs. Dyson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale W. Thomasson of Route 2, Hamptonville. Mr. Dyson's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Linney C. Dyson of Route 1, Mocksville.

Wedding musicians were Mrs. Jerry Sparks of Union Grove, organist, and Mrs. James Hall of Mint Hill, soloist.

A graduate of Starmount High School, the bride is employed at Harmony Heights Animal Hospital in Yadkinville.

Mr. Dyson is a graduate of Davie County High School and is employed by Skyline Corporation in Mocksville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of peau de soie and lace. Her veil was attached to a headpiece of peau de soie bows and lace flowers. She carried a bouquet of white daisies and orchids.

Mrs. Melinda Hemrick of Rt. 2, Hamptonville, was her sister's matron-of-honor. Bridesmaid was Miss Vicki Dyson of Rt. 1, Mocksville, sister of the bridegroom. They wore identical gowns of yellow satin and lace fashioned with lace bodices, lantern sleeves and softly gathered skirts. Their short veils were attached to large bows and they carried yellow cushion mums and white daisies with yellow streamers.

Children attendants were Jill Thomasson of Rt. 2, Hamptonville and Michael Carther of Route 1, Mocksville.

Mr. Dyson was his son's best man.

The bridegroom's brother, Dennis Dyson of Rt. 7, Mocksville, ushered with Craig Atkins of Kernersville.

RECEPTION

The bride's parents entertained with a reception at their home following the ceremony.

An arrangement of yellow and white flowers was used on the bride's table with a tiered wedding cake decorated with yellow roses. Punch, wedding cake, nuts and green and white mints were served.

For an unannounced wedding trip, the bride changed into an acqua dress with which she used black accessories and theorchid corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Morris of Asheville were among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding.

Women's Fellowship Meeting Is Held

The Women's Fellowship of New Union United Methodist Church held its February meeting last week at the church.

Mrs. Pat Moore, president, opened the meeting with prayer led by Mrs. Lena Mae Allen. The program was presented by Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Nannie Dyson titled, "Rules for Happiness in a Christian Life".

At the business session, the group decided to sell Danny Dusit scrub pads and plans were made to sponsor a chicken pie supper on Saturday, March 18, to raise money for two projects the group is now working on.

At the conclusion of the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Dyson.

ADK Chapter Holds Meeting

The local chapter of the Alpha Delta Kappa met February 22 with Mrs. Mary Wall Sexton at her home in Cooleemee.

Attending the meeting, in addition to the regular members, were special guests Miss Linda Rankin, district vice president, and Miss Ann McIver of Greensboro. For the program on fraternal education Miss Rankin spoke to the group about the purposes of ADK.

Among the more important items of businesses was the adoption of rules governing the awarding of a $100 scholarship to be given each year to a senior girl at the Davie County High School who plans to go into the field of education.

Fifteen members and two guests attended the meeting.

Engagement

Essex — Foil

Mrs. Charlie J. Essex of Advance announces the engagement of her daughter, Linda Ann, to Floyd Edward Foil of Denver, North Carolina, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Floyd Foil of Kannapolis.

Miss Essex, also the daughter of the late Mr. Essex is a graduate of Davie County High School and Appalachian State University where she received her BS, MA, and CAS degrees. Miss Essex teaches at Shady Grove School and has previously taught in the Winston Salem-Forsyth Schools.

Mr. Foil is a graduate of A.L. Brown High School in Kannapolis and also of Appalachian State University where he received a BS degree. He teaches at East Lincoln High School and previously taught in Concord.

Both Miss Essex and Mr. Foil have participated in the Triple-T Program for Individualized Instruction at ASU.

A June 3 wedding is planned at Advance Baptist Church.

A CASTLE FIT FOR CINDERELLA . . . or any pint-sized princesses who visit. Eighteen-stories high, the Castle marks the entrance to Fantasyland. It was modeled after the fairy-tale chateaus in France.

NEW YORK (ED) Who's going camping? Everyone! As a result, campgrounds become terribly crowded during peak vacation periods, and instead of being surrounded by Nature, you're surrounded by . . . more campers.

The solution is to be found at the new Walt Disney World near Orlando, Florida. The Fort Wilderness campground wasn't planned to make things easy for the bulldozer. Existing stands of cypress, pine and bay trees were preserved, so each site is screened from its neighbors by foliage. There are small streams for canoeing, a fishing lake and access to bridle paths, golf courses, water skiing and other sports.

But the highlight of a Fort Wilderness stay is the Magic Kingdom. Here, as in California's Disneyland, favorite childhood fantasies come alive. In Frontierland's Grizzly Hall, there's the "Country Bear Jamboree." Any child (or adult) who has ever had a Teddy companion will delight at the antics of a 20-member bear troupe who bring a new dimension to Nashville music. Sponsored by Pepsi-Cola/Frito-Lay, the cub choral is led by raccoon-hatted Henry, a graduate of Grizzly U. and the first bear to make it in the bigtime.

Just how do the animals make that Grand-Ole-Opry sound? The secret is "Audio-Animatronics." Developed by Walt Disney Productions, it involves combining lifelike sounds and actions in three-dimensional animated figures.

Once you've seen the bears, you might want to desert your trailer for a voyage 20,000 Leagues Under The Sea. Just venture into Fantasyland (the spires of Cinderella's Castle will show you the way) and board a Nautilus-type submarine for a journey to unexplored worlds.

There are six areas of the Kingdom to visit: Frontierland, Adventureland, Liberty Square, Fantasyland, Tomorrowland, and Main Street, U.S.A. Next time your child gets tired of "just fishing" point the trailer to Walt Disney World. Neither of you will be bored.

Bowman Gray School May Re-open Farmington Center

The Farmington Medical Center, closed since 1963, may be reopened by the Bowman Gray School of Medicine.

The Bowman Gray School of Medicine has submitted an application for $7,106 in Appalachian Regional Development Act funds to operate the center under a family nurse practioner, a new type of health professional that has been nicknamed "super nurse," to be stationed at the center from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each weekday.

Also, two or three general clinical sessions would be conducted from 6 to 9 p.m. each week by teams of student nurses, student physicians, assistants, medical students and house officers, working under direct faculty supervision.

The nurse practioner will refer patients to the clinic on an appointment basis, but "walk-in" patients with all types of medical problems will also be seen.

A system of financial charges will be worked out with the corporation that built the center - Farmington Medical Center, Inc. - designed to make it self-supporting within four years.

The economically deprived will, however, be treated on a pay-if-you-can basis, according to the proposal.

J.E. Essic, president of the Farmington Medical Center, Inc., explained, as part of the application, that letters have been written to at least 30 different doctors recommended by the Medical Care Commission, hospital administrators and friends since 1963.

They have worked day and night, he said, to secure medical care for the people in the community, "but without success."

The proposal estimates that 400 square miles in northeastern Davie, southwestern Forsyth, northwestern Davidson and southeastern Yadkin counties would be served by the clinic.

The proposal calls for $47,106 in Appalachian funds to be used with $28,240 worth of staff time, fees for service and equipment to finance the first year's operation.

Additional applications will be submitted for the next three years but the amount of federal money needed is expected to decrease each year as income from fees increase.

The Northwest Economic Development Commission considered these proposals last week. Approval by this commission is simply the first step toward financing and serves as an endorsement as applications are reviewed at state, regional and federal levels.

The six-room brick Farmington Medical Center has been closed since 1963 when Dr. B. Graham Weathers moved away.

Yadkin Valley News

The attendance was up to 176 Sunday at the Valley. We hope that the flu and all other sickness is better for this year, so that our attendance can stay up.

The Young Adult choir had charge of the singing at the 7 o'clock service Sunday evening. Several visitors attended; among them were Mrs. Chal Smith and daughter, Ann. Visitors are always welcomed at any time at the Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Riddle and Mr. and Mrs. Randy Riddle and son, Lee visited Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Smith Sunday evening near Harmony.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry McBride and Mrs. Maude Hauser visited Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Smith Sunday evening. Other visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Grady Smith of Lexington.

Mr. and Mrs. Rob King and Mr. and Mrs. Conner were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wade King and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry McBride visited Mrs. Ann Rothrock last Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Rob King visited Mr. and Mrs. Larry Williard Sunday evening. Mr. Williard is confined to his home with a slipped disc in his back.

Any news will be greatly appreciated for this column. Please call me at 998-4478, if you should have any.

Feb. 24th Copy

The attendance was good at The Valley Sunday and the junior choir was in charge of the singing at the 7 o'clock service. Mr. Baity Howell and Doc Caudel sang several numbers and a solo was sung by Mrs. Barbara Smith. The singing was enjoyed by all.

Beverly Groce was entertained with a birthday party by her mother, Mrs. Roger Groce, last Saturday evening. She was presented with gifts. Refreshments were served to the following children: Allyson Smith, Chris Eaton, Cindy King, Cindy and Pam Howard, Donna and Dianna Smith, Barry Holt, Vonda Wyatt, Jeffery Mathis, Derry Brown, Danny Stanley, Sarronda Collins and Kim Mathis.

The Valley community was saddened by the death of Mr. Albert Howard. He was a friend to all he came in contact with. He will be missed by all who knew him.

Mr. Leonard Howard is a patient in the Intensive Care Unit at Davie County Hospital, suffering from another heart attack. We wish him and all others that are on the sick list a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Herman Allen, Kelly Baity and Mrs. E. L. Riddle visited Mrs. Maude Hauser and Mr. and Mrs. Henry McBride Sunday evening.

Mr. David Smith was able to attend church services Sunday after his absences of two weeks recovering from an operation.

Mrs. Edith Beck and children attended church Sunday at the Valley after which she had lunch with her father, Frank King. After lunch she visited Mrs. Bessie Smith.

Senator Jordan Reports

An important bill was introduced in the Senate Thursday to allow a household and child care deduction for taxpayers and I am co-sponsoring it.

The bill permits a taxpayer to list as business expenses money spent for the care of dependents under 15 years of age and certain other persons as long as these expenditures are "ordinary and necessary to enable the taxpayer to be gainfully employed."

In my opinion this bill should be quite helpful for families in which both the mother and father are employed. Working women are essential to our labor force and I think it is entirely proper that our income tax laws take into account expenditures necessary for the proper care of dependents during the time when both parents are at work. Needless to say, this measure should also be a great boon to people who are widowed or divorced and who have the sole responsibility for the day-to-day care of their children.

The bill should have still another advantage because of its potential to reduce the numbers of people presently drawing welfare checks. Many mothers who cannot carry the burden of child care expenses in addition to the other costs of raising their children remain at home on welfare. However, by allowing these child care expenses as a business deduction, it would seem that one of the major barriers to employment would be lifted and further incentives for financial independence would be created, thus resulting in a decrease in our welfare rolls.

It is vital that these expenditures be allowed as business, rather than personal, deductions because personal deductions are available only if the taxpayer itemizes his deductions. Statistics show that approximately two-thirds of the families with incomes less than $10,000 per year do not itemize deductions but use the standard deduction instead. Therefore it seems clear that any allowance for special care for a family member must be allowed as a business expense for it to be of optimum value to all taxpayers – otherwise a great number of families would be unable to take advantage of this provision.

Since business deductions are computed as adjustments to gross income, it becomes irrelevant whether or not the taxpayer itemizes his deductions or takes the standard deduction.

The deduction will be available to taxpayers regardless of their income level. The main criterion is that the expense be incurred in order for the taxpayer to be employed. The amounts allowed as deductions must meet all the tests of business expenses, including the "ordinary and necessary" requirement, and will be subject to all rules and regulations of the Internal Revenue Service.

Last November the Senate almost unanimously approved a somewhat similar measure as an amendment to the Revenue Act of 1971 to allow this deduction as a business expense. Unfortunately the Senate-House conference committee deleted the proposal from the final version of the Revenue Act.

I look forward to speedy Senate approval of this proposal and to House acceptance of such assistance to our working citizens.

Republican Club To Meet March 6

Creation Story Dramatized At Planeturium

Deep darkness suddenly is broken by the appearance of a myriad of stars overhead as Morehead Planetarium dramatizes the Creation according to the book of Genesis in "The Easter Story," being shown now through April 10.

The program narrator quotes Genesis, saying "Look now toward heaven, and count the stars, if you are able to number them." This has proved a difficult task indeed. Estimates have ranged from the 4000 stars visible with the unaided eye to the 100 billion stars in the Milky Way, with astronomers admitting that unfathomable numbers exist throughout the universe.

For the ancients, the heavens provided light, guided travellers and governed the dates of religious feasts such as the Passover. In "The Easter Story" the Planetarium shows how men of Old Testament times related their everyday lives to the sky overhead and, surprisingly, how 20th Century Man still applies to modern events and activities. Christians still look to the first full moon on or after March 21 to determine the date of Easter, which is why Easter Sunday may vary from March 22 to April 25.

Morehead Planetarium climaxes the springtime program by presenting the beautiful Easter pageant. Dramatic visual effects unfold across the dome of the star theater to tell the eternal story of the first Easter.

. . . about your Social Security

by Vernice Fulcher

It won't be long before you'll be filing your income tax return. Let me remind you to be sure your social security number is shown correctly. Double check the number on your tax form and your W-2 form against the social security card you carry in your wallet.

Probably you have noticed I often encourage you to always use your social security card when it is necessary to furnish your number for a new job, filing your tax returns, or when you call or visit the social security office. Let me give you an example of why this is so important.

A gentleman I helped not long ago said he never requested a duplicate social security card after he lost his ten years ago because he had his number tatooed on him. I asked if I might see it and he promptly stood up to unbutton his shirt. Wait a minute, sir, I quickly stopped him - where is the tatoo? Fortunately it was on his arm and he had only to roll up his sleeve. I very carefully copied the number and used it to request his work record. A few days later I discovered the number and name did not match. After obtaining more information from the gentleman, our office found his record, but not under the number tatooed on his arm. Lucky for him his employer has used his correct number, copied from his social security card fifteen years ago. Can't you imagine the delay in receiving his benefit checks if we had to reconstruct his work record?

Don't trust anything but your social security card to provide your correct social security number. If you lose your card, or have lost your card, request a duplicate now. Don't take the chance of not receiving proper credit for your work, or delay in receiving your benefit because we are unable to locate your complete work record.

Two Symphony Concerts Planned For March 23

The North Carolina Little Symphony will present two concerts in Mocksville Thursday, March 23, at the auditorium on North Main Street.

A free children's concert will be presented at 1 p.m. The adult concert for members of the Davie County chapter of the North Carolina Symphony Society will begin at 8:15 p.m.

Thomas Conlin, assistant conductor, will conduct both performances of the Little Symphony. Featured soloist will be Mari Tsumura, violinist.

The North Carolina Symphony is the remarkable story of an organization few people thought could survive, existing in an environment which would not appear capable of supporting it.

Born in a depression and developed without the resources of any single supporting metropolitan center, the North Carolina Symphony has become an example for the rest of the country to follow.

It was late in 1931 when the late Lamar Stringfield -- native North Carolinian who was later to become a Pulitzer Prize winning composer -- decided there should be a North Carolina Symphony. One of the founders, Mrs. A. C. (Johnsie) Burnham of Chapel Hill, recalls thinking "he was crazy." But the idea was so appealing to her, she decided to try and make the far-fetched dream come true.

In March, 1932, the North Carolina Symphony Society was founded, with Colonel Joseph Hyde Pratt as president and playwrite Paul Green and Mrs. Burnham among the first board members. Stringfield was asked to be conductor.

The first musicians came from the faculties of surrounding colleges, and they played without pay. When the severity of the depression struck, the federal Emergency Relief Administration channeled funds to the Symphony through the WPA in an effort to provide jobs for unemployed musicians. By 1935, Stringfield had been boosted to a position as WPA regional administrator in charge of the musical set-up for the Southeastern region, and he had fewer and fewer opportunities to work with the orchestra. He conducted his 139th; and last, North Carolina Symphony concert in August, 1935.

The orchestra struggled through the late 30's, playing only occasionally under several different conductors. By the end of the decade, federal assistance money had been depleted. The Symphony appeared doomed.

About this time, Benjamin Swalin came to Chapel Hill as a member of the music faculty of the University of North Carolina. He was excited that a North Carolina Symphony had been organized and he was appalled to think it might die.

His fervor was contagious, and by 1939 he had reorganized the Symphony with the aid of the original and few new-found supporters. In 1940, during its first season under Dr. Swalin's direction, the orchestra gave five concerts, still operating with volunteer musicians whom Dr. Swalin recruited from throughout the state.

In the early 1940's, a movement began to get state support for the orchestra. With the urging of Dr. Swalin, Mrs. Burnham, Mrs. Charles Johnson of Raleigh, and Mrs. J. Melville Broughton (wife of the then governor), the 1943 North Carolina General Assembly broke all legislative precedent by appropriating $2,000 for the Benjamin Swalin, artistic director and conducter of the N. C. Symphony at a recent concert.

Symphony. The so-called "Horn Tootin' Bill" made North Carolina the first state in the country to have a state symphony orchestra.

By 1946, the Symphony was a fully-professional organization. The first annual statewide tour was made that year -- three months, 104 concerts.

Over the years, this remarkable creature -- the North Carolina Symphony -- has grown and expanded. The state has increased its subsidy several times, now providing just over one-third of the annual $600,000-plus operating budget. At the helm throughout this remarkable growth period has been the man who believed -- when few others agreed -- that it could be done: Benjamin F. Swalin.

In 1966, with the awarding of a one-million dollar matching grant by the Ford Foundation, the Symphony season was expanded from three to six months. In 1970, a pre-season Chamber Music tour was instituted on a permanent basis.

This season, the North Carolina Symphony's four component units -- Full Symphony, two Little Symphonies, and Chamber Players -- will give more than 160 concerts in some 68 communities. More than half of these will be admission-free educational concerts for school children.

Aware of its tremendous potential to expand even more on its remarkable heritage, the North Carolina Symphony is moving toward becoming a regional orchestra. This year, in addition to North Carolina concerts, performances are being given in Virginia, South Carolina and Georgia.

The dream has come a long way. It was born in a depression, and it still struggles. Financial demands continue to increase. But symphony orchestras are not designed to make a profit, and success is not measured in dollars and cents. When the curtain goes up, the music begins, and thousands of Tarheels thrill to the sound of their own State Symphony Orchestra, those who have lived and loved the dream of the North Carolina Symphony know their impossible dream has come true.

Thomas Conlin

Conductor, arranger and pianist Thomas Conlin is a native of Washington, D. C.

Thomas Conlin
. . assistant conductor

Mari Tsumura
. . guest artist

Since 1966, he has served as artistic director of the Chamber Opera Society of Baltimore, conducting all of its productions, including the American Premiere of Mozart's "Lucio Silla".

He was a founder and conductor of the Maryland Youth Symphony Orchestra and the Baltimore Philharmonia. He has also served as musical director of the Johns-Hopkins University Theater and as staff conductor at the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting.

In 1967, he was engaged by the Metropolitan Opera in New York as a vocal coach, and he has worked with numerous opera and ballet companies as guest conductor.

During the 1968-69 season, he conducted over 40 performances of the National Ballet Society, and in December of 1970 he conducted Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors" at Lincoln Center.

Conlin holds the bachelor and master of music degrees from the Peabody Conservatory of Music. He has studied conducting with Erich Leinsdorf, Sir Adrian Boult, Richard Lert and Boris Goldovsky.

Mari Tsumura

Violinist Mari Tsumura has given more than seventy-five recitals in the United States, including her New York debut at the Metropolitan Museum of Art on December 6, 1971. She also has performed as soloist with the National Symphony and other orchestras in this country.

Miss Tsumura began violin studies at the age of four, and by the time she was eleven, she had performed as soloist with orchestra and given many recitals in her native Japan. Critics have praised her throughout the world, and judges have selected her as special and grand prize winner in international competitions such as the Maninichi Competition and the Merriweather Post Contest in Washington, D. C.

Miss Tsumura's teachers have included Toshiya Eto in Japan and Efrem Zimbalist in the U. S. Currently she is studying with Ivan Galamian at the Juilliard School of Music in New York.

Farmington

The Pino-Farmington Homemakers Club met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Holsworth with 17 present. The meeting opened with the group singing several folk songs followed by devotionals inspiringly presented by Mrs. Stella Teague. They closed with the singing of a prayer song. Mrs. Floyd Dull then presented the program on "Vanishing Household Pests With Safety". This covered a list of pests, ants, roaches, moths, silver fish etc., and even mice and rats. One suggestion to assure bait staying on the mouse trap is to use peanut butter spread on the bait holder instead of using cheese.

A get well card to Mrs. Vernon Miller who is ill was signed by all present. The Club voted to give $25.00 to the use of the Medical Center which is due to be opened soon. Watch for the date. A questionaire on Family planning was filled out by the members. Mrs. D.R. Bennett was welcomed as a new member. Mrs. W.W. Spillman, Mrs. Bob Lakey and Mrs. John Caudle were welcomed as visitors. The hostess assisted by Mrs. Roland Schulte and Mrs. Odell James served tempting refreshments.

Sunday guests of Mrs. Queen Bess Kennen were Mrs. John Neilson of Charlotte and Mrs. Richard Carter of Mocksville. Mrs. Neilson will be remembered as Miss Nell Langston. While here they also visited Mr. Kenneth Taylor.

Miss Dixie Walker and two of her classmates from Lenoir Rhyne College in Hickory spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Walker.

Sunday guests of the G.N. Tucker family were Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Martin of Walkertown.

The Queen Bee Class of the Methodist Church met Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Paul Walker with thirteen members present. During business they planned two suppers, one for the Ruritans and one for the Fertilizer Company. The year's Bible study on the Disciples of Jesus was conducted by Mrs. Charles Lashley. She gave interesting facts about Peter, the courageous follower of Jesus. During a social half hour the hostess assisted by Mrs. John Eddleman served cherry tarts with ice cream, open faced sandwiches and coffee.

Bits Of Life

The Loss Of A Friend

By MARTHA FISHER OUDERKIRK
Guest Columnist

(When Martha saw last week's column on Dr. Frank Porter Graham, she called and said, "Daddy, why didn't you let me know you were writing on Dr. Graham? I could have given you an interesting incident you could have included."

I immediately suggested that she put the incident in a story with the promise that I would use it in the next week's column. Here is Martha's story.)

Just before going to bed in my home in Connecticut, my radio music was interrupted. . . .Dr. Frank Porter Graham had died. Sadness filled my heart. Not only the sadness over the loss of a great man, but the sadness over the loss of a friend.

Many years have passed since. As a young girl in Charlotte, I wrapped Christmas packages at a shopping center. My lunch hour found me in a large cafeteria. There I sat alone, looking around a room full of people. Very aware of being alone, I pondered the thought that no one noticed my being there.

When I looked up there stood a gracious gentleman at my table. I still remember his soft, mellow voice, "I am Frank Porter Graham. May I join you?"

My lonely lunch became a warm, meaningful encounter with a very special person.

I have thought of the occasion many times over the years, and I have wondered how many other lives have been touched by the kindness of Dr. Graham.

Each of us has a unique life to live. God has given us the choice to live it for ourselves, or to give it away to others. Dr. Graham gave his life away, not only to relatives and loved ones, but to strangers. Every day of our lives is an opportunity to serve God, "Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." Matthrew 25:40.

Conservation Poster Contest

The Supervisors of the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District are sponsoring a Conservation Poster Contest in the seventh and eighth grades in all schools within Davie County. The posters need not be restricted to soil and water conservation but to any sound conservation idea of our natural resources that the student may wish to present.

Rules for the poster contest may be obtained from any 7th or 8th grade teacher. Ribbons will be presented to winners of each school. Engraved plaques will then be presented on the county level for first, second, and third place.

Judges for each school and the county level will be selected by the Board of Supervisors of the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District.

BB&T Holds Annual Meeting

The stockholders of Branch Banking and Trust Company held their annual meeting in the bank's new Home Office Building in Wilson on February 22.

President J.L. Satchwell reported that 1971 was a year of continued growth for the bank. Assets totaled $303,567,211 on Dec. 31 compared to $280,290,370 on the same date in 1970. Deposits were up more than $22 million and totaled $263,123,359 at year end. Loans were $174,729,583 up from $155,289,686 a year ago but, in general, were at much lower rates which significantly affected the income of the bank. Although income from operations was modestly higher than a year ago, operating expenses were 13.5 percent above 1970 and reflected the cost of providing for future growth, such as, occupancy expense here and other locations, computer and other equipment costs, and the expense incurred to employ people to participate in our computer program, and in staffing new locations both realized and projected.

Net income totaled $2,832,734 or $2.70 a share compared to $3,433,730 or $3.27 a share the previous year. Income before securities gains and losses was $2,562,850 or $2.44 per share compared to $3,293,165 or $3.14 a year ago. Total dividends paid during the year amounted to $1,730,849 or $1.65 per share. $213,851 was added to the Reserve for Possible Loan Losses; and in addition, Undivided Profits were increased by $975,000.

Commenting on overall economic conditions in 1971 and the prospects for 1972, President Satchwell said, "the defeat of inflationary psychology continues to be essential to a broad based economic recovery. The seeds of a great wave of consumer spending are also present, in the form of massive accumulated savings and an on-going healthy growth in personal income. But so long as the consumer remains cautious because of his concern over inflation and unemployment, the 'year of the consumer' will be pushed once more into the future. And without a strong recovery in consumer spending, 1972--from an economic viewpoint--will probably be no more than what 1971 should have been: good, not great.

"Even considering these factors, economic indicators project substantial growth throughout North Carolina over the next several years in the areas of per capita income, retail sales, employment, manufacturing, and overall business activity. Branch Banking and Trust Company's overall objective is to maintain a strong, liquid and viable bank providing financial services of the highest quality."

The stockholders reelected the following the the Board of Directors: George T. Barnes, W. E. Branes, H. S. Bateman, J. W. Benson, T. F. Bridgers, John A. Campbell, Jr., A. Branch Carr, F. L. Carr, Dr. Charles S. Cooke, E. B. Crow, Fred H. Deaton, Jr., J. C. Eagles, Jr., John Graves, Fletcher H. Gregory Jr., Thorne Gregory, K. D. Kennedy, James L. Lee, Nathan McElwee, J. Irvin Morgan, Jr., E. B. Pittman, J. L. Satchwell, Will Carr Smith, George T. Stronach, Garland S. Tucker, Jr., R. P. Watson, Jr., Dr. William B. Young.

Branch Banking and Trust Company operates 59 offices located in 34 North Carolina cities and towns. BB&T stockholders at year end numbered 2,248.

The Board of Directors of Branch Banking and Trust company meeting in Wilson on February 22 declared the regular quarterly dividend of $.30 per share payable on March 15 to stockholders of record March 3.

Around The Old Well

The 18-Year-Old Voters

Albert Coates has shined the spotlight upon ways and means of exercising the right to vote in North Carolina.

In his talks to high school students of the state -- his lessons being a model for instruction in human political rights -- Mr. Coates reminds of the hard uphill struggle men and women (and youngsters over 18) have had in obtaining their privileges under due process of law.

In a further booklet, designed for superintendents, teachers and others in the public schools of the state, Prof. Coates goes into further detail in the media entitled "Instruction and Registration of 18 Year Old Voters."

Salient quotations follow:

"On May 23, 1971, Congress retified and sent to the states a proposed amendment to the constitution:

Section 1. The right of citizens of the United States, who are eighteen years of age or older, to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of age.

Section 2. The Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

"By June 30, 1971, this amendment was ratified by the general assemblies of two-thirds of the states, including North Carolina, and it became the law of the land.

"This extension of the vote to eighteen, nineteen, and twenty year old citizens is another step in a long historic struggle in the life of English speaking peoples, a struggle that began 750 or more years ago with the Magna Carta in 1215.

"Around 100,000 eighteen year olds are in North Carolina high schools now, and another 100,000 seventeen year olds who will be eighteen by the general election in November.

"The poor white man, the black man, the woman -- black and white, and the 18, 19 and 20 year old citizens can claim their basic human and political rights in North Carolina today because there were men throughout the centuries who have stood up to be counted for them.

"The payoff for these long historic struggles for the right to vote and hold office comes at the registration desk and on election day. For this reason I am here outlining provisions in the election laws for registering and voting in North Carolina which will be helpful to students and teachers. Copies of this material have been sent to all libraries of senior high schools in North Carolina for the use of teachers and students.

"I suggest that senior high school teachers supplement these teaching materials by inviting the Executive Secretary or members of their county board of elections to come into their classrooms and discuss the election laws and practices in their particular counties.

"I suggest that teachers invite local political party chairmen to supplement the instruction by the high school teacher, and by local election officials, in order to round out the instruction for eighteen year old voters. For you must not forget that there are three answers to this question: "Who runs the government at the local, state and federal levels?": (1) the men and women in office; (2) voters behind the men and women in office, and, (3) the political parties which select the men and women to run for office and conduct the political campaigns."

New Withholding Tax Tables For '72

J. E. Wall, District Director of Internal Revenue Service for North Carolina, stated today that under the Revenue Act of 1971, the withholding tables will make the amount of tax withheld for 1972 more closely match the tax liability for the year.

The new tax tables correct an underwithholding problem experienced by many taxpayers who ended up with large year-end bills. Taxpayers most affected by this problem were working couples and persons who held more than one job.

If taxpayers haven't filed a new Form w-4 Employee's Withholding Exemption Certificate - (Revised December 1971) it is essential for them to do so now. This should ensure that the correct amount is withheld from their pay.

In the past many taxpayers had been claiming fewer exemptions than they were entitled to in order to avoid paying additional tax at the end of the year. These persons may now claim on a new W-4 all exemptions and special allowances to which they are entitled; they no longer need to claim fewer exemptions to avoid paying large income tax bills each April.

Under the new withholding tables certain taxpayers may claim a "special withholding allowance" which is like another exemption. It can only be claimed for withholding purposes, not on income tax returns.

A single person or married person whose wife or husband does not work is entitled to claim the special withholding allowance. However, it may not be claimed by a person who works at two jobs concurrently. Single persons with incomes under $25,000 and married taxpayers with incomes under $31,000 should claim the special withholding allowance if they qualify.

Extra allowances may also be claimed by taxpayers who have large itemized deductions. The back of Form W-4 contains a table that will show the number of extra allowances that may be claimed for large itemized deductions. These extra allowances, like the special withholding allowance, may be claimed only for withholding purposes, not on income tax returns.

Forms W-4 may be obtained either from employers or Internal Revenue Service offices.

Mr. Wall urges all taxpayers to use these new rules to offset the overwithholding of tax most taxpayers are experiencing.

GIRL SCOUT News

Mrs. Gordon A. Reed of Greensboro has been appointed to the position of Program Services Director of the Tarheel Triad Girl Scout Council and will join the council staff on March 1. Mrs. Reed will fill the position formerly held by Miss Naxine Dowell who has accepted a position with the North Atlantic Girl Scouts whose headquarters are in Heidelberg, Germany as of April 1.

In announcing the appointment, Miss Martha D. Auten, the council's Executive Director, stated: "We are indeed fortunate to have secured Mrs. Reed to fill this important post as Program Services is a very vital area of the council's work. A smooth transition will mean so much to the girls and leaders. To have Mrs. Reed and Miss Dowell working together for three weeks will provide this transaction. "We are sorry to lost "Mac" but the opportunity to work and live in Germany will be an experience contributing to her professional growth. Louise Reed's experience and background will be of great benefit to the continued growth of the council. Her knowledge of the council's camps, procedures and general operation will enable her to perform at a high level almost immediately.

Mrs. Reed, whose husband, Gordon, is Controller of N.C. Monroe Constructuion Company, is an alumna of Duke University, Durham, where she completed three years of nursing and pre-medical education. The Reeds have four daughters, Kathryn and Barbara, who are college students and Julia and Laura, who are high school students. All of the girls are active in Scouting.

Mrs. Reed has been an active volunteer in Girl Scouting for many years both here and in the Nation's Capital Council, serving as an assistant leader, leader, assistant Day Camp Director and Day Camp Director. She was serving as a troop consultant and organizer and a trainer of leaders before her appointment to the staff. In the fall of 1971 she directed the very successful council-wide Cadette Caravan. Her hobbies include music, especially choral directing, campcraft, dramatics and First Aid.

Miss Maxine Dowell, Clemmons, N.C., who has been with the Tarheel Triad Council since its formation in September 1968, will be serving the North Atlantic Girl Scouts as a Field Adviser stationed in Heidelberg, Germany. She will work with the Scouts, and their families, of military and government personnel stationed in her assigned area which includes three districts: Neckar Valley, (area around Hedelberg,) Nuernberg, and South Bavaria.

About ten days before her departure for Germany, Miss Dowell will report to National Headquarters, Girl Scouts of the USA for orientation and to the State Department, Washington, D.C. for briefing.

THE NUMBER'S GAME

Here's the population explosion in personal terms. To the proud parents, it's their first child — and they love her! But to the statisticians, who deal only with cold facts, she's just one more person on an already crowded earth.

Other generations have faced momentous problems, too. Yet, with God's help, they surmounted them.

And God — if we turn to His Church — will do the same for us!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
. . . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

PAUL WAYNE CHATTIN

COOLEEMEE — Paul Wayne Chattin, nine-week-old son of Ronald and Cynthia Jordan Chattin of Cooleemee, died yesterday at home. A graveside service will be at 11 a.m. today at Legion Memorial Park.

Surviving are his parents; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Jordan of Cooleemee and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chattin of High Point.

The body is at Eaton's Funeral Home in Mocksville.

Card Of Thanks

HOLLIS

Mr. Robert Hollis of Route 6, Mocksville, has returned home from Forsyth Memorial Hospital where he spent seven weeks following injuries sustained from an auto accident.

The family wishes to thank all their friends for your kind deeds, lovely flowers, cards, and visits while Mr. Hollis was incapacitated.

Last Sunday's visitors were Mr. and Mrs. James Rucker, Mr. and Mrs. David Ramsue, Mrs. Edna Mason and Mrs. Esther Doulin.

FROST

The family of the late Mrs. Annie H. Frost wishes to express to the kind neighbors and thoughtful friends their heartfelt thanks for their many expressions of sympathy. The beautiful floral offerings were especially appreciated.

HOWARD

The family of the late Albert Howard will always be grateful to our friends and neighbors as they so courageously stood by us in our trying hours. The floral tributes were beautiful; memorials many; food and words of comfort so lavishly and gracefully expressed. To each of you again may we say "Thanks". May God keep you in His care.

Smokey Says:

At Half Mast!

It is customary for the flag to be flown at half mast at the American Legion Post in the event of the death of one of their members. The flag at Post 54 in Cooleemee was flown at half mast this week in memory of the late Jake Jordan who died unexpectedly at his home early Monday morning. (Photo by James Barringer.)

Coast Line

Of all boats found along the coast, commercial fishing boats probably draw as much interest as any. To land-bound folks, there is a mystique about them.

Last year 11,220 boats were licensed to do some form of commercial fishing in North Carolina waters. They ranged from small skiffs without motors to sleek fiberglass jobs to the 630 ton menhaden boat, ATLANTIC QUEEN, the largest.

The tarheel fleet has apparently grown considerably during the last 10 years - during 1971, 6,706 boats were licensed. But this is not actually the case. Only a small percentage of new boats have been piloted by full time commercial men.

The big jump in numbers came from boats 18 feet in length or shorter. During 1961, records show 4,931 of them were registered. Last year 9,064 of the commercial fishing licenses were fastened to 18 footers or smaller. This was 81 percent of all boats licensed during 1971.

Fisheries officials say weekenders, deep-freezer fishermen, trailer sailors, in other words, the dabblers, are mostly responsible for the increase. Boats, not people, are licensed in North Carolina. Therefore, to use nets or other gears from any boat, even only once a year, requires the same licenses as a full time commercial fisherman.

There are not really that many commercial boats larger than 18 feet. There were 922 medium-sized boats (18-26 footers) registered in 1961, 1,276 during 1971. And larger commercial fishing boats, those more than 26 feet in length, tallied 796 in 1961, 840 during 1971.

The largest commercial fishing boats are menhaden rigs and are placed in a separate category. During 1961, 58 were licensed. Forty were licensed during 1971.

STATE CONTROLLED

North Carolina is one of 18 states which controls fluid milk prices paid to producers. Milk prices in most other states are regulated by federal milk marketing orders, according to economists at North Carolina State University.

Numerical Course At Rowan Tech

A 66-hour course in numerical control machine tool operation will be offered by Rowan Technical Institute according to an announcement last week by Joel Freeman, director of occupational extension programs.

The course will include demonstrations of the various phases of numerical control machining and related equipment in the training shop. Further instruction will be given in controls operating procedures and safety. Students will program, set up and operate the various pieces of shop numerical control equipment.

Numerical control applications are being used in machine and production shops in this area. Trained mechanics are in demand.

Persons enrolling in this class must have had machine shop training and have taken course work in mathematic fundamentals, including right angle trigonometry, basic machine shop blueprint reading and machine shop practice.

Larry Horton, trade machinist instructor at Rowan Tech, will serve as instructor for the class. Horton has had several years experience in industry. He is a graduate of Rowan Technical Institute and Marietta-Cobb Area Vocational-Technical School in Georgia.

Registration will be at the first class meeting on Monday, March 6 at 6:30 p.m. Classes will meet from 6:30 - 9:30 p.m. in Room 123 at Rowan Tech on Monday and Wednesday evenings.

How Your Stomach Works

NEW YORK (ED) — What happens to that juicy sirloin steak once it gets in your mouth? The digestive process occurs every time you eat, and you probably never give it a thought. But your stomach is an important link in the food digestion chain, and you should understand how it works.

Digestion — the process by which food changes into a form the body can use for energy and growth — begins in the mouth. That delicious steak is ground down by the teeth and lubricated by saliva. It then passes through the esophagus into the stomach where it is converted into a thick liquid. Gastric juices, in conjunction with enzymes, change protein and some fats into body-building substances.

But these same digestive juices (made from mixed secretions of the stomach wall) can also cause problems. A stomach ache may be the result of tension or stress . . . and it's aggravated by the acid content of gastric juices. Studies have shown that resentment and anger actually increase gastric secretions, causing acid indigestion. In fact, these juices are so powerful, they enable the stomach to digest nearly everything — including itself!

(But its mucous lining prevents it from doing so.) Doctors recommend an antacid to neutralize these secretions. Smith Kline & French, a major drug manufacturer, has introduced 'Ducon', specially formulated to provide a high acid-consuming capacity and a long duration of action when compared to the leading liquid antacid.

The acid-retarding qualities of 'Ducon' make it useful when you're troubled by acid indigestion or when stomach pain is carried to its most painful conclusion: an ulcer. Starting with a small break in the lining that protects the stomach and intestinal wall, the ulcer is irritated by gastric juices. If stomach discomfort or pain becomes the norm for you, see a doctor.

Three Dog Night Coming To Greensboro

"THREE DOG NIGHT", an undisputed leader in rock music's mass popularity polls, will return to the Greensboro Coliseum Sunday, March 12, for an 8 p.m. performance.

"THREE DOG NIGHT" has become one of the most successful American groups of the '70s and also in all of contemporary music. Their "Joy To The World" Album of the early 1971 period, sold more than three and one-half million records, to rank as one of the greatest sellers in the history of the ABC-Dunhill Records label.

They were the first American group to pack three major outdoor parks: Atlanta Braves Stadium, the Dallas Cotton Bowl, and Three Rivers Stadium in Pittsburgh. They gambled on filling each stadium with more than 25,000 people and when all the tickets were counted had played to more than 80,000 people in the three facilities. Other stars in their musical crown include "One", "Liar", and "Celebrate", but to name a few. Beginning in 1968, the seven member musical group combined both musical talent and instrumental initiative to charm audiences, elecit approval and as an average happening, inspire a standing ovation from their listeners and viewers. Vocalist Danny Hutton is originally from Buncrana, Ireland, and dates his interest to rock "Jim Dandy" by Lavern Baker. Born in New York City, vocalist Chuck Negron cites his first influences as coming from the Black community where he had the distinction of being one of the few white artists to audition at a weekly talent show at Harlem's famed Apollo Theatre. Vocalist Cory Wells was also raised near a Black neighborhood and found his early inspirations in the soul and Black rock and roll music of that area.

Lead Guitarist Mike Allsup counts his musical influences among folk, rythm and blues and pop standards from the 40's and 50's. Mike developed his ability to sing harmony solely on ear alone and had been singing gospel music since the age of three. Organist Jim Greenspoon is THREE DOG NIGHT's keyboard man (organ, piano and harpsichord), and had been an always-busy studio musician before Danny Hutton approached him with an invitation to join the group in those formative days. Born and reared in Los Angeles, Jim's mother was silent screen star Mary O'Brian and his uncle, comedian Benny Rubin. Bass player Joe Schermie was born in Wisconsin and raised in Arizona. Now living in Hollywood, he devoted much of his spare time to motorcycles and Mexican food. Drummer Floyd Sneed is a Calgary, Alberta, Canada citizen and originally worked in the Vancouver area with a band called Heat Wave.

THREE DOG NIGHT has accounted for six Gold Record albums and four Gold Record singles in their brief three and a half year career.

Tickets priced at $6.00, $5.00, and $4.00 are now on sale at the Coliseum Box Office and Paul Rose-Friendly Shopping Center. Mail orders should be sent to Greensboro Coliseum Box Office, 1921 West Lee Street, Greensboro, N. C. 27403, together with a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

George Barney of Mocksville, Rt. 3, (Cornatzer community), a supporter of Republican Jim Gardner's candidacy for governor, met with Mr. Gardner recently on his visit to Davie.

Library News

The Caldecott Medal awarded for the year's "most distinguished American picture book for children" is named for Randolph Caldecott, a 19th century English illustrator of children's books. Nonny Hogrogian, the 1971 winner, for her book One Fine Day is also a previous winner of this coveted award. One Fine Day is illustrated in full color and tells the cumulative story of how a fox who loses his tail and must make a number of transactions before he can get it back.

Early each year at the annual conference of the American Library Association, two top literary awards are presented. The Newbery Medal, named in honor of an 18th century book publisher, John Newbery, is given for "the most distinguished contribution to American literature for children." This year's award went to Robert C. O'Brien for his book, Mrs. Frisby and the Rats of NIHM. Told from the viewpoint of Mrs. Frisby, a humble field mouse, it tells of her seeking help from the rats of NIHM, a species of intelligent, educated animals who escape a laboratory to establish a civilization of their own.

These are only two of the outstanding children's books now available at the Davie County Public Library. Help your child, bring him or her to the library today!

WHAT IS THE MOST INTERESTING SECTION OF DAVIE COUNTY?

Interviews by Marlene Benson

MISTY MINTZ, Mocksville, Davie High junior - "I'd say the place where Daniel Boone's parents were buried."

RAY ALLEN, Mocksville, Davie High Junior - "Interesting? The wilderness section. You know, the wooded areas. It's more free."

A. H. SAIN, Smith Grove, retired - "I think Mocksville is most interesting. Well, it's a growing little place and it has nice people."

BOB POWELL, Statesville Rd., L. R. Powell Lumber Co. - "That'd take a little concentration. Well, I guess our county seat would be the most interesting section."

MRS. ADELAIDE ELLIS, Mocksville, retired school teacher - "Well, I guess the downtown section of Mocksville. There's more going on there."

Annual Sportsmen's Show Scheduled For Charlotte Coliseum

The latest rage in the outdoor world is bass boats, a fact that will easily be discernible during the Sportsmen's, Boat, Camping and Vacation Show of the Carolinas, scheduled for the Charlotte Coliseum February 29th through March 5th.

Practically every make of the sleek, specialized craft is scheduled to be on display for the inspection of sportsmen who are ordering the boats in numbers that are taxing production lines.

"The man who is torn between which model to buy should be able to decide during the Sportsmen's Show," says H. F. Van Horn, the production's managing director. "For all the popular models will be here under one roof."

"Well, actually not under a roof, 'cause once again there has been such a demand for display space that the exhibits have spilled out onto the Coliseum grounds."

Of course, practically every other type craft of interest to Carolina water sports enthusiasts will be available for inspection in addition to the bass boats.

The list includes everything from small, Sunfish-class sailboats to houseboats that are virtual floating mansions.

Van Horn labels it the biggest, most diversified exhibit of boats in the Show's 14-year history.

"We'll also have more new camping trailers and motor homes exhibited than at any previous time," he added.

"It's difficult to determine which is having the biggest boom -- boating or camping.

"Regardless, we'll have the best of both for the outdoorsmen to see and start making their plans for the spring and summer."

For the entertainment portion of the show, Van Horn has booked what he "seriously feels is the finest we've had."

Included are Van Donwen's penguins and sea lions, Orin Benson and his hunting dogs, sound effect specialist young Greg Shideler, the husband-wife aerialist team of Patsy and John Jordan and -- of course -- the Northwoods Guides.

The guides have become an institution at the show with their log rolling and canoe tilting down through the years. And although their performance -- by necessity -- never changes, they never cease to be amusing.

A special guest of the Show for its Tuesday through Sunday run will be lovely Kathy Mullen, "Miss Let's Go Boating" for 1972. Kathy is a 21-year-old blonde from New Jersey, who won the title not only for her beauty, but because she is truly a boating nut. She'll grace many of the boat displays throughout the show.

The stage and tank portion of the program will be presented nightly at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. Matinees are scheduled at 3:30 Saturday and Sunday.

Doors to the Coliseum will open at 6 p.m. for the evening shows and at 1 p.m. for the matinees.

Last year attendance for the six-day show was approximately 70,000 a figure likely to be surpassed this time. This easily makes the outdoorsmen's extravaganza one of the best-attended sporting events in the Carolinas.

"Mushroom Man" At Charlotte Show

The mushroom man is coming back to Charlotte. And since he put on a new hat last year, he's known also as the man who makes plastic spoon flowers.

Bill Williams, a chemist who turned his scientific mind to decorative arts and crafts eight years ago, is appearing at the Southern Living Show, February 26 through March 5 at the Merchandise Mart with his fascinating inventions.

Two years ago Williams' do-it-yourself kits for making synthetic mushrooms were such a hit at the Southern Living Show he was deluged with inquiries about it afterwards. There is still so much interest in them, he is bringing them back this spring.

The kits contain chemicals and cups to make large and small mushrooms that can be painted or left natural. Kitchen or table decorations and hor d'oeuvre servers can be made from them.

"The materials are inexpensive and fun to make," Williams said. "I got the idea for the kids a few years ago when I was making large mushrooms for display windows in department stores.

A large, mustachioed, friendly man, Williams says he went into the display business "for fun" and he makes his demonstrations fun to watch.

He specializes in teaching Christmas decorating and various crafts at his store in Atlanta.

The plastic spoon flowers idea came last fall. "We started making the flowers just before Christmas and took some of the original flowers to the Southern Christmas Show to see what the reaction would be," he said.

"Frankly, they were a great success and I plan to bring them back this spring."

He offers a beginner's kit with instructions on how to melt the plastic spoons over a candle flame, bending them to the desired shape and enough material for three flowers.

Since November he has designed iris and tulips to add to the collection of gardenias, roses and mums. The flowers are quite showy and come in different colors.

Color-coordinated vases and bottles for the flowers are made for Williams by a craftsman in Oklahoma who has the means to match any color Williams sends him.

Williams' latest creation is a miniature flower three inches tall, which he makes from fiber.

"I always try to bring something different to the Charlotte show," he commented. "You won't believe this flower until you see it. It's copied from a very exquisite line made in Belgium prior to World War II."

Williams will have a beautiful setting in which to astound show visitors.

There will be 16 landscaped gardens, 20 room settings by expert interior designers, crafts and craft demonstrations in abundance, fashion shows, a landscaped swimming pool, flower arrangements.

H. R. Pufnstuf and the Six Flags Bear will be on the Travel and Recreation Pavilion, and outside there will be a display of the latest in mobile homes.

Show hours are 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily and Saturday, and noon to 6 p.m. Sundays.

Tickets in advance are $2.00 for adults, at the door they will be $2.50. Students are $1.00 and children to age 11 are admitted free with adults.

Questions And Answers

Q. My mother was receiving benefits on my deceased father's account. When she died I applied for the funeral benefit but did not receive it. Why?

A. Your mother was not insured on her own record. Even though someone is receiving benefits, unless he is himself insured, there is no funeral benefit payable.

Q. I am an employee. If I retire in the middle of the year, say June, do I have to wait until the following January to collect social security since my salary will be about $5000?

A. No. You are entitled to a check if your gross wages in any month are $140 or less.

Q. I did not want Part B of Medicare when I applied for benefits. I have since changed my mind. Do I have another chance to get protection?

A. Yes. If you reached age 65 in the month of October 1968 or since them, you can enroll between January 1, 1972, and March 31, 1972. You will have to pay a higher premium and your protection will not start until July 1, 1972.

Davie and Mooresville players. . . Battle for basketball

During time out, Coach Bill Peeler discusses strategy

Davie Girls Upset Mooresville

In Tournament Finals

Davie High girls, trailing by five points with 4:25 to play, rallied for a 38-35 upset victory over top-seeded Mooresville in the semi-finals of the North Piedmont Conference tournament Monday night.

Coach Bill Peeler's girls scored eight straight points in the final 3:46 of the contest to hand Mooresville its third loss.

Davie will meet North Stanly at 7 p.m. Wednesday night in the tournament finals. This is the fourth time in five years Davie has played in the NPC finals.

Coach Peeler used his five starters for the entire game Monday night and all played key roles in the upset win, but Nancy Reavis and freshman Jane Athey provided the big points in the late stages of the game.

Athey pulled down a rebound after teammate Pam Reavis had missed a free throw, then put the ball in the basket for a 36-35 Davie lead with 15 seconds to play.

Mooresville tried a shot with about eight seconds to play and missed. Pam Reavis grabbed the rebound, then passed the ball to Nancy Reavis who was fouled with four seconds left.

Nancy Reavis then hit a pair of pressure free throws to wrap up the victory and put Davie into the finals.

Davie played without its star Debbie Burton who is in the hospital recovering from kidney surgery.

Davie led for practically all the first half, trailing by 6-5 midway the first quarter. Athey's shot put Davie out front by 7-6. Then Patrica Dwiggins and Nancy Reavis hit baskets for an 11-6 advantage. Davie led 14-7, at the end of the quarter.

Davie's lead reached nine points twice in the second quarter, but Mooresville cut the lead to 20-14 at halftime.

Mooresville rallied in the third quarter, scoring 15 points to 8 for Davie to take a 29-28 lead at the end of the stanza.

Mooresville hit three quick baskets in the fourth quarter as the top seeded team moved out to a 35-30 lead with 4:25 to play. Then Davie took over.

Paula Barnhardt hit a free throw, then Nancy Reavis scored a field goal. Nancy's free throw cut the lead to 35-34 with 1:23 to play. Athey's basket with 15 seconds left and Nancy Reavis's two free throws with four seconds to go gave Davie the victory.

Nancy Reavis led Davie with 13 points. Barnhardt and Athey had seven each.

Davie hit 13 field goals and made 12 of 23 at the foul line, outscoring Mooresville by 7 at the charity stripe.

The scoring summary:

MOORESVILLE (35) — Weisner 12, Sherrill 11, Nanney 3, Dishman 4, Brown 3, Mills 2.
DAVIE COUNTY (38) — Barnhardt 7, N. Reavis 13, Athey 7, Dwiggins 6, P. Reavis 5.

In Tournament Semi–Finals

Davie Boys Lose To North

The Davie High War Eagles bowed out of the North Piedmont Tournament Monday night losing a hard-fought semi-final game to North Rowan 50-52.

North Rowan will face West Rowan in the finals at 8:30 Wednesday night.

Davie and North Rowan changed the lead six times in the final quarter before James Henderson, the leading conference scorer, hit a base-line jumper with 1:45 left to play to put North ahead for keeps at 49-48.

Jeff Ward missed a free throw with 1:21 to play and Henderson went high to pull in the rebound. He then had a perfect assist to a team-mate under the basket for two points and a 51-48 lead.

Doug Quarles, who scored seven points for Davie in the final stanza, pulled down a rebound after a missed Davie shot and hit a short jumper to close the gap to 51-50 with 36 seconds to play.

Both teams had chances to win the game in the final minute. North appeared to have it in the bag after Quarles' basket, calling time out with 27 seconds left. But a North player was called for traveling four seconds later and Davie got its chance.

Davie called time with 15 seconds left to set up its last shot. Paul Beaver missed with nine seconds left and Quarles got the rebound. However, the ball was deflected by a Cavalier into a teammate's hands, who was fouled with three seconds left. Kirk, of North Rowan, hit the first of a one-and-one opportunity for a 52-50 lead. He missed the second and Terry Smoot rebounded for Davie, which called time out with two seconds to go.

The War Eagles lost a second on the clock when a North Rowan player batted away the inbounds pass. A long pass then went to Smoot who missed on a desperate 40-footer.

Beaver's scoring paced Davie to a 16-8 first quarter lead. He got seven of his team's points in the opening stanza.

Both teams shot poorly in the second quarter with North hitting four of 14 and Davie canning 3 of 10. Davie built its lead to 24-14 with three minutes left in the half, but North pulled within three. Ward's 25-footer at the buzzer gave Davie a 28-22 halftime lead.

Two baskets by Henderson pulled North within a point early in the third quarter. The Cavaliers took the lead for the first time in the game at 29-28 on a three-point play by Washington. The quarter ended in a 35-35 tie.

Quarles scored five points early in the fourth quarter as Davie took a three point lead. But North rallied back. The lead continued to change hands until Henderson's shot with 1:45 left put North ahead to stay.

Smoot and Beaver Davie with 14 and 11 points respectively. Quarles added with 9.

Davie out rebounded the Cavaliers by 44-29 with Smoot grabbing 11 and Quarles pulling down 10.

North hit 18 of 49 field goals for 40.9 percent and added 16 of 24 at the fou line. Davie hit 18 of 55 field goals for 32.7 percent and hit 14 of 23 free throws.

Davie committed 14 turnovers to only 7 for North Rowan.

Davie ended the season with a record of 11-7 in conference play.

Elephant Protected

Ahmed, a famous old bull elephant that roams in and about Marsabit National Reserve in northern Kenya, receives presidential protection. He is so huge and distinctive that he cannot be mistaken, and President Jomo Kenyatta issued a decree that Ahmed "may under no circumstances be hunted or harassed by any person," National Geographic says.

Was It A Foul?

Davie Defeats N. Stanly

Co-captains Paul Beaver and Terry Smoot led Davie to a thrilling 69-65 victory over upset-minded North Stanly in the opening round of the tournament last Saturday afternoon.

Beaver scored 27 points, including 13 during a Davie third-quarter rally, while Smoot scored 21 points and pulled down 19 rebounds.

North Stanly pulled away in the first quarter from a 9-9 tie to a 15-9 lead. They remained on top by 18-15 after one quarter.

The lead reached eight points during the second quarter and North Stanly finished with a 39-32 half-time advantage.

Beaver took over in the third quarter with his dazzling outside shooting. He hit six of seven shots at one stretch and scored 13 of his team's 19 points.

North Stanly had its biggest lead of the game, nine points, twice early in the third quarter. It was 42-33 when Davie reeled off eight straight points on a rebound shot by Smoot and three bombs by Beaver. That cut the lead to 42-41 and it was a dogfight the rest of the way. North Stanly held a 52-51 advantage at the end of the quarter.

Beaver cooled off in the fourth quarter, but Smoot took over. He scored eight points and pulled down nine rebounds in the final eight minutes. Beaver hit only two of nine shots in the fourth stanza, but one of his baskets was a base-line jumper that put Davie ahead by 63-62 with 1:47 to play.

North Stanly tied the score with 1:28 to play on Dunham's free throw, but reserve Dickie Talbert put the War Eagles on top for keeps when he made a pair of free throws one second later.

In the final minute Smoot intercepted a lob pass to Gainey and it led to a free throw by guard Jeff Ward with 29 seconds remaining. Ward gave his team a 66-63 lead, then missed his second free throw.

N. Stanly cut the lead to 66-65 with a basket with 15 seconds to go. Then Dunham stole the ball from Davie and drew a foul with six seconds left.

Dunham had a one-and-one, but missed his free throw and reserve John Seamon rebounded for Davie. Seamon was fouled with four seconds showing on the clock and made his first try for a two-point lead. He missed the second, but Smoot tapped it in for the final two points and a 69-65 victory.

Davie hit 26 of 65 field goals attempts for 40 per cent and added 17 of 30 at the foul line. North Stanly hit 22 of 62 field goals for 35.5 percent and hit 21 of 42 free throws.

North Stanly had a 54-43 rebound edge, but committed 15 turnovers compared to 11 for Davie.

Water Squirter Is The Snow Maker

Hardin Greene's job is to walk about eight miles a night in below freezing weather squirting water into the air.

He's a snowmaker, and like he says, "I don't have to tell people what I can do, I have the proof right out there on the slopes."

The 50-year-old Greene, a quiet, serious looking grandfather, heads a crew of five men here at' Appalachian Ski Mountain who work all night, weather permitting to make conditions "excellent" for the thousands of skiers who frequent these slopes from December through March.

"You've got to know what you're doing, no doubt about it," Greene says. "You have to keep moving the guns all the time and keep the pressure just right and make sure things don't freeze up on you."

This is Greene's ninth winter of snow making. During the other three seasons of the year, he's a plumber. He installed the intricate pipe systems for snow making at four ski slopes in the Boone-Blowing Rock-Banner Elk area.

His snowmaking job starts around 11 p.m. when the slopes close and when the temperature gets below 27 degrees (you can make man-made snow at a couple degrees warmer provided there's not much humidity).

At the beginning of the season, the ground must be frozen two or three inches deep, else the ground melt the snow as it falls. A deep freeze of the ground normally requires about seven hours of below freezing temperatures. If the ground is frozen solid, Hardin Greene can lay down a base of three or four inches of solid ice, which snowmakers call a "sealer coat". To seal the ground, Greene shoots lots of water with little pressure much like simply hosing down a car.

That's still no easy task on the slopes, for Greene and his men have to keep 42 guns going over the 2,000 feet up the advanced slope (750 feet on the intermediate slope) for two straight days to make the sealer coat. Then comes the base, which is made from a mixture of about half water, half air.

On top of that goes the fine powdered snow, which is two-thirds air and one-third water, the stuff skiers love, the stuff that makes skis really fly.

You've got to know your equipment to get the job done, Greene says. The pump system will turn out up to 400 gallons a minute at 200 pounds of pressure. The compressor holds a head of 120 pounds of air pressure, but the equipment becomes a little uncooperative when it is 10 degrees and the wind is blowing 30 miles an hour.

And it's frustrating when the temperature gets down around 27, then gets warmer, then colder, then warmer again as it gets closer and closer to sunrise and you can't make snow when you need it.

"Most nights you can tell what's going to happen to the temperature by midnight, that's when it makes its change," Greene says.

In an average ski season here in the South, Hardin Greene and Company can make good snow for skiing about 40 nights during a three-month stretch.

Davie Golf Team Has Returning Veterans

With five returning lettermen, the Davie High golf team is shooting for first place in the North Piedmont Conference. The team has finished second for the past three years.

In Opening Round

Davie Girls Defeat North Iredell Stall

The Davie girls overcame the stalling tactics of North Iredell and the absence of a star player to win a 17-10 first-round tournament game last Friday afternoon.

The North Iredell stall resulted in a 4-2 Davie halftime lead, but the Davie girls took advantage of North Iredell mistakes in the second half to take charge.

Sophomore Debbie Burton, one of the conference's leading scorers, was not with the Davie team. She missed the last two games of the regular season and underwent kidney surgery last week at the Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem.

With Burton out of the lineup, Nancy Reavis and Patricia Dwiggins led the Davie offense. Reavis scored 7 points and Dwiggins added 6.

North Iredell had a field goal in the first quarter for their only score the first half. Free throws by Jane Athey and Dwiggins and a field goal by Reavis gave Davie a 4-2 halftime lead.

Athey put Davie ahead by 6-2 in the third quarter when she scored with 4:18 left. North Iredell countered with a basket and Reavis' layup with 2:40 left gave Davie an 8-4 lead.

Davie outscored North Iredell by 9-6 in the final quarter, getting all nine points at the foul line.

Davie's lead stood at 10-6 when Dwiggins went to the foul line with two minutes to play. She hit one of two shots. Reavis also hit one of two foul shots. Reavis also hit one of two foul shots with 1:10 to play for a 12-6 lead. They got the rebound after Reavis missed her second try and Dwiggins soon drew another foul. She hit one of two tries for a 13-6 advantage.

Afer a North Iredell turnover, Dwiggins again hit one of two at the foul line. Davie scored three more points on free throws in the final 32 seconds.

Davie had three field goals and made good on 11 of 23 free throws. North Iredell hit three field goals and two of eight at the chairty stripe.

The scoring summary:

NORTH IREDELL (10) — Bell, Marlowe 4, Barker, Laws 2, Griffin, Lazenby 2.
DAVIE COUNTY (17) — Athey 4, Dwiggins 6, Barnhardt, N. Reavis 7, P. Reavis.

Score by quarters:

North Iredell	2	0	2	6	—10
Davie County	0	4	4	9	—17

Baseball Team Begins Practice

The Davie High baseball team will open its season on Friday, March 17th against South Iredell here.

Practice for pitchers and catchers started three weeks ago and all players reported for practice on February 24th.

The team, coached by Julius Suiter and Kenny Boger, has eight returning lettermen. These include: Pitchers, Paul Ijames and Terry Johnson; David Poplin, catcher; Robert Anderson, 1st Base; Randy McDaniel, short stop; Paul Beaver, 3rd base; Arny Riddle, center field; and Billy Wall, left field.

Davie won the North Piedmont Conference championship last year posting a record of 14 wins and 2 losses. They were defeated by Statesville in the play-offs.

Coach Suiter is anxious for good weather to enable the players to get ready for the opening game.

"If the weather continues to be favorable, I feel that we will be definitely ready for the first game on March 17", said Coach Suiter.

"With our returning lettermen from last year's great team, we are just about set in every position except second base and right field.....but we have some good prospects for these", said Coach Suiter.

Davie will play seven night games this year, five of which will be played in Mocksville.

Yoga Courses At The YMCA

The Spruce Street YMCA will offer three courses in Yoga as a part of the late-winter program starting on March 6.

Night classes will be offered on Monday and Wednesday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. and on Tuesday and Thursday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Both courses will meet for four weeks.

Instruction will include sitting postures, Yoga breathing exercises, Yoga physical exercises, learning to concentrate, control of weight by Yoga, development of good posture, meditation and clear thinking.

Girls Eligible For Davie Tennis Team

Girls will be included in the tennis program this year at Davie High. This will be the second year Davie has had a tennis team.

Coach Jim Tutterow had 20 to report last week, including three girls. Assisting Mr. Tutterow with the coaching will be Dennis McCarthy and Arlen Devito.

The top three players on last year's team all return. They are Billy Case, Pete Martin and William Hall. Also returning from last year's squad are Jimmy Wall, Jeff Bowden and Frosty Prim.

"We are expecting to do a lot better this year than last," said Coach Tutterow. "Last year was our first year in the tennis program and it was all new to everyone. The boys have been practicing during the past summer and off season, and appear to be much improved."

This will be the first year Davie has participated in a North Piedmont Conference tennis schedule. Eleven conference matches are scheduled; 3 non-conference matches; plus the conference and association playoffs.

The schedule is as follows:

March 16 - At Forbush.
(C) March 28 - At Albermarle.
(C) March 29 - Lexington - Here.
(C) April 4 - At West Rowan.
(C) April 7 - Salisbury - Here.

Watch the Enterprise next week for the class list and awards for the Horse Show starting at 10:00 a.m.

SING IT, GRIZZLIES

How do you train 20 bears to sing hillbilly music and do some fancy guitar picking? The Disney "Imagineers" solved the problem and the result is the "Country Bear Jamboree" at Walt Disney World in Florida. The Frontierland attraction in the Pepsi-Cola/Frito-Lay Grizzly Hall revue features the wildest country and western music east of Nashville. The lively cub choral owes its antics to Disney's "Audio-Animatronics," a combination of lifelike sounds and actions in three-dimensional animated figures.

Tourney Plans

Hickory Hill Golf and Country Club's Men's Golf Association is sponsoring a Selective Shot Tournament at the club Saturday, March 4.

There will be two starting times: 10 a. m. and 12:30 p. m.

Any members interested in playing in the tournament should call Bob Hensley at the Pro Shop, 998-8746.

Trap Shoot

The Spring Festival Trap Shoot will be held at the Tar Heel Gun Club on Saturday and Sunday, March 11 and 12. Starting time each day will be 9:00 a. m.

The club is located approximately 5 miles west of Clemmons just off N. C. Highway 158.

Davie High Track Team Prepares For 13 Meets

The Davie High track team began practice Monday.

Coach Burton Barger greeted eight returning lettermen from last year's squad. These are headed by Andy Atwell, sensational miler who broke all conference and association records last year. Other returning lettermen include Terry Smoot, Charles Blackwood, Paul Andrews, Randy Prevette, Tim Austin, Doug Quarles and Steve Potts.

The first meet for Davie will be on March 21 when they are host to Lenoir, North Iredell, South Iredell, Thomasville, South Rowan and North Davidson in a meet starting at 4 p.m.

In all, Davie will participate in 13 meets including the conference, bi-conference and association meets.

The schedule is as follows:

March 21: Lenoir, N. Iredell, S. Iredell, Thomasville, S. Rowan and N. Davidson at Davie High, 4 p.m.

March 24: Asheboro, Davie, N. Iredell, Kannapolis at South Rowan, 4 p.m.

MOCKSVILLE – CLEMMONS – YADKINVILLE – LEXINGTON

Cooleemee News

Mrs. Maude Nichols was surprised with a birthday dinner on Sunday, Feb. 20, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim McIntyre of Woodleaf. Her daughter, Mrs. Grace Allen of Port Chester, New York, gave the dinner while visiting here over the weekend. The guests were served turkey with all the trimmings and lasagna made Italian style. A decorated birthday cake was among the deserts. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jim McIntyre and Ann; Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Nichols, Christie, Debbie, Bill, and Matthew; Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Steele, Lynn and Clay; Mr. and Mrs. Robert McIntyre and Wendy all of Woodleaf; Miss Marlene Allen and Mr. Varner Parnell of Mocksville; Mr. Bill Wineberger of New York and Mr. and Mrs. David Winebarger of Cleveland also visited them during Mrs. Allen's visit here. The New York visitors returned home on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Vance Hair returned home from the Baptist Hospital, Winston Salem Monday after undergoing surgery. He is much improved.

Mr. Guy Foster is undergoing treatment and observation at Davie County Hospital.

Mrs. Hulda Nolley returned home from Davie County Hospital last week after undergoing treatment and is doing nicely.

Norman Canupp remains a patient at Rowan Memorial Hospital and is improving after undergoing surgery last week.

Mrs. Beatrice Shore is also a patient at Davie County Hospital since Sunday.

Senior Citizens

The Cooleemee Senior Citizens held their regular meeting on Monday with 66 members and one visitor attending.

Following a congregational hymn, a most inspiring devotional message was given by Mr. J. Jarvis.

Members of the club presented a program honoring George Washington. The character of George Washington was played by Mr. Sam Myers who portrayed the incident of cutting down the cherry tree. Jess Daniel played the father and Unele Sam was played by Floyd Daniels. The club sang several songs while an army of several men marched around the room.

Also participating in the program were Mr. Spry, Mr. Sheets, Mrs. Nail, and Mrs. Hoyle.

The club sang Happy Birthday to the members who celebrated their birthdays in February. They are Mrs. Hoyle, Bessie Nail, Sadie Steele, Mr. Bowers and Mr. Sedberry.

Refreshments prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Murphy and Mrs. Nancy Ijames were served following the program.

Civic Club

The Cooleemee Civic Club will meet on Tuesday, March 7 at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Richard Beck and Mrs. E.C. Tatum as co-hostess.

Mrs. Buddy Alexander and Mrs. Fred Pierce are in charge of the program. A guest speaker will be present and all members are urged to attend.

WORLD DAY OF PRAYER

Church Women United of Cooleemee will observe World Day of Prayer, the international celebration of faith and unity among christian women on Friday, March 3, at the Cooleemee Presbyterian Church at 7:30 p.m.

The theme, "All Joy Be Yours", will be used in similar gatherings in 169 countries around the world.

Church Women United which for 85 years has held a day of special prayer on the first Friday in Lent, is an interdenominational organization.

The World Day of Prayer offering goes into the Intercontinental Mission Fund, the process by which the church women take part in helping people all over the world.

The public is cordially invited to attend this service.

EPISCOPAL

The Church of the Good Shepherd Episcopal Church in Cooleemee will hold their annual covered dish supper on Sunday, March 5, at 5:30 in the Parish Hall.

EDGEWOOD

Open House will be observed at the Edgewood Baptist Church in Cooleemee on Sunday, March 5, from 2 p.m. till 4 p.m. The public is cordially invited to tour the new church building at this time.

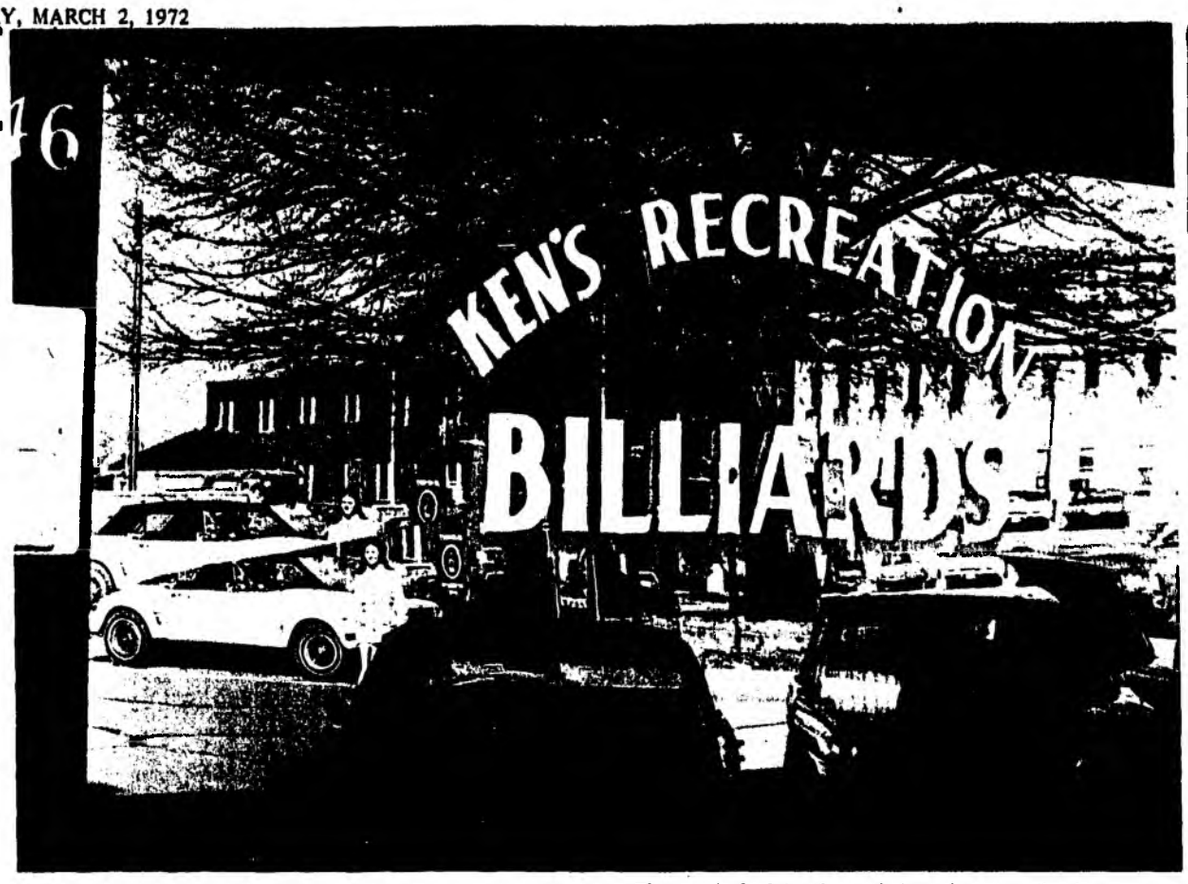

On Dean's List

Michael Stephen Stout, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen O. Stout of Cooleemee, has qualified for the fall semester dean's list at Wake Forest University.

Stout is a freshman and plans to major in biology.

Vatican Artists

Vatican artists make mosaic copies of many of the world's greatest religious paintings, National Geographic says. Beginning in the 16th century, the mosaics were used to replace fragile canvases damaged by years of candle soot and dampness. Today, the Vatican studio ships mosaic reproductions to many parts of the world.

Double Image

The cracked plate glass window gives you the impression that you are seeing double. It looks as if there are two identical cars, one on top of the other, and the identical young ladies are the same Miss Susan Payne of North Main Street, Mocksville. (Photo by James Barringer)

The Tarheel Kitchen

If a recipe called for one cup of the legume Arachis Hypogaea, we would probably drop the whole idea immediately or have no idea where to buy such a product. Don't be too alarmed for that is the impressive scientific name for the small unimpressive looking little fellow known as the peanut. We shouldn't be fooled by the tiny and insignificant size for some of the world's great leaders have been small in physical stature. We all know it is what is inside that counts.

Fortunately, peanuts and peanut products are plentiful now and can add much enjoyment plus nutritive value to our meals. (Thanks to George Washington Carver peanuts are a major crop in the United States today and specifically in North Carolina).

As a definite basic food in the diet, peanuts contribute protein, minerals and vitamins plus a potent pick up when energy starts to lag. We should think of peanuts more than simply for snacks or peanut butter sandwiches. Their use in everyday meals is limited only by imagination and ingenuity.

If you need a Go-Go Breakfast, put peanut butter in pancakes. It doesn't add to preparation time, but it does add a flavor that rings the "start-the-day-right" bell.

PEANUT BUTTER PANCAKES

1 cup pancake mix
1 cup milk
1 egg
3 tablespoons peanut butter

Combine all ingredients and beat until smooth. Bake on a pre-heated, lightly greased skillet or grill. Yields two servings.

For an inexpensive luncheon or supper dish, Peanut Potato Bake is a good choice.

PEANUT-POTATO BAKE

3 medium white potatoes, cooked
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste
1 can (12 ounces) luncheon meat, diced
1 cup roasted peanuts, chopped
1 cup grated Cheddar cheese
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup milk

Peel cooked potatoes and grate or mash. Season with salt and pepper and put half in greased shallow 2-quart baking dish. Add half the meat. Reserve a few peanuts for top and sprinkle half the remainder on meat. Sprinkle with half the cheese and dot with 1 tablespoon butter. Repeat layers. Sprinkle top with reserved peanuts and pour milk over all. Bake in moderate oven (350 degs. F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Yields 6 approximately.

CHOCOLATE CRUNCH DESSERT

Prepare 1 package of instant chocolate pudding according to directions on package. Fold in ½ cup chopped peanuts and 1 cup bitesize pieces of plain or angle food cake. Chill and serve with whipped cream.

Children enjoy cooking also. Honey Peanut Butter Balls are easily made without the necessity of any baking.

HONEY PEANUT BUTTER BALLS

½ cup honey
½ cup peanut butter
1 cup confectioners' sugar (sifted)
Graham Cracker crumbs

Combine honey, peanut butter and sugar. Form into ½-inch balls, roll in crumbs. Place on wax paper for 1 hour to dry. Store in layers between wax paper until ready to use.

TIPS ON FRESHENING PEANUTS: The flavor of almost all nuts is improved by heating them for a few minutes in a moderate oven until they become crisp. For some recipes the nuts should be left in the oven until they are delicately browned.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Why Smoke?

In a society where so many adults smoke and cigarettes are advertised and sold nearly everywhere, it is not surprising that virtually all children think about smoking and a good many experiment with it at one time or another.

But the taste and effect of smoking are not pleasant at first. The smoker must learn to like cigarettes. He does this primarily for social reasons: to appear more adult, to be like his friends, or to give himself poise.

The regular smoker continues to use cigarettes to satisfy his own needs and personality.

Some smoke cigarettes for stimulation, to find something to do with their hands, or to feel better. Some, who have used cigarettes for a long time, may continue for no other reason than force of habit. And some develop a psychological dependence on cigarettes. This is called habituation, in contrast to addiction, which is a physiological dependence.

These and a number of other interesting facts about the problem of cigarette smoking are brought out in a new leaflet, "Cigarette Smoking — Some Questions and Answers", just issued by the National Clearinghouse for Drug Abuse Information in cooperation with the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health.

The benefits of quitting smoking, for example, are brought out, as summed up by a Conference on Smoking and Youth:

"1. Short-term benefits—Far better wind for swimming, cycling, tennis, ball games. Food will taste better. Food, flowers, and perfume will smell better. No more ugly stains on teeth and fingers. More money for other things.

2. Long-term benefits—People can lead more energetic, busy lives during their 20's, 30's, and 40's. The chances of becoming a victim of respiratory diseases, heart disease, or lung cancer are greatly reduced. There will be fewer absences from school and work due to illness associated with smoking."

The new publication is one of a series of pamphlets and other materials on habituating substances (alcohol, narcotics, sedatives, stimulants, volatile compounds, etc.)

Miss June Draughn In Nursing School

Miss June Draughn of Mocksville has been chosen marshal for the spring graduation at High Point School of Nursing. Five other girls from her class were chosen.

She was also elected vice president of the rising senior class.

Miss Draughn left Sunday for John Umstead Hospital at Butner for her psychiatric nursing. She will be there for three months.

This is an affiliation course and is designed to guide and assist the student in acquiring the knowledge and developing the attitudes and abilities essential for the nurse to help meet the individual needs, focusing on the prevention of mental illness and the care of the mentally ill.

Miss Draughn, 19, is a junior at High Point Memorial Hospital School of Nursing. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everette Draughn of Mocksville, Route 1.

SENATOR SAM ERVIN SAYS

Pollsters have been reporting for some time that the major issue on the minds of the American people is busing--a concern that relates to the intense feelings that have built up over the compulsory busing of school children to achieve racial balance.

No longer is the issue Southern-oriented. It affects New Hampshire, Michigan, California, Florida, Georgia, and North Carolina. Wherever one goes he finds that a vast majority of the people are intensely worried about the efforts of the Federal Government to tell them that their children must be bused out of their neighborhood to some distant school where they will be faced with problems which adults are not prepared to resolve.

The message of the people has been coming to the Congress. It is simple--they do not like forced busing. Last week the Senate had several major votes on amendments to the omnibus education bill. First, it adopted the Mansfield Scott proposal, lauded as a "compromise anti-busing" amendment, but actually little more than a legislative codification of the Supreme Court's controversial guidelines as laid down in the landmark Swann case. That unwise decree resulted in the cross-busing of thousands of students in Charlotte to achieve school desegration according to a numerical formula. Had the Mansfield-Scott Amendment not been introduced by two members of the Senate with such impeccable character, I would say it was a hoax. Stripped of its legal verbage, which even its authors had trouble explaining, it straddled the issue and sought to say that the Senate had written into law what it had not. It simply froze into law until after the next election a legislative package which proclaimed that busing to achieve racial balance was prohibited and Federal Funds would not be used for the payment of busing costs unless the Federal Courts found some reason to order it. This is the very sort of thing that people have come to resent.

Later, the Senate passed the Griffin Amendment to take away from the Federal Courts' authority to require busing and to bar Federal officials from requiring busing as a condition for providing Federal aid. This Amendment, a modified version of a similar anti-busing proposal which I introduced, offers a realistic remedy to end the role of the Federal Courts as school administrators. I supported it. I also offered a number of other anti-busing amendments which would eradicate forced busing as a Government policy.

The Senate has not yet concluded action on the omnibus education bill or the anti-busing amendments thereto. I shall complete my remarks on it in a future column. I would be remiss, however, if I did not observe that no domestic issue requires more urgent attention than this one. Busing lies at the heart of a dilemma now facing our public schools. Educators want to do a good job in training our future leaders but they cannot do so if we permit the cause of education to be diverted into costly and useless channels. That is the course we are now pursuing when Federal judges make a mockery out of the educational system and out of the ability of local governments to finance that system. If this process continues for long, I fear that we will find our educational process under a strain it cannot bear. I do not think that it is overstating the case to say that over a period of time such a burden could erode the very bulwark of our civilization.

There are some areas where social experimentation can be tolerated for a time, but this is not one of them. This is why I have urged with all of the emphasis at my command that the Senate take all necessary action to end forced busing.

VA Training For Women

Veterans Administration education and training has started more than 130,000 women on their way to join the nation's trained personnel pool since the end of the Korean Conflict in 1955, W. R. Phillips, Director of the Winston-Salem VA Regional Office, said last week.

The number includes:

About 29,000 women veterans of military service who have trained under the current GI Bill since 1966, plus approximately 1,000 ex-service women who have received education and training under VA vocational rehabilitation for persons disabled as a result of military service.

Some 14,000 widows of men killed in military service, and wives of totally disabled veterans and of those missing in action and prisoners of war.

Some 86,000 young women between 18 and 26 years who are war orphans (children of men or women killed or permanently and totally disabled as the result of service in the armed forces, or of servicemen missing in action or prisoners of war). Women make up about 48 percent of the total number of the war orphans who have trained under VA assistance.

About 61 percent of each of the first two groups, Phillips said, were in college and university level courses. Nearly 73 percent of the 86,000 women war orphans were in college.

Currently, about 12,000 women veterans are enrolled under the GI Bill. About 5,500 wives and widows and 35,000 war orphans, of whom about 48 percent are women, are in training under VA educational assistance.

Although the program for wives and widows began in December 1968, it is not limited to those whose husbands were in Vietnam Era service.

Some 247,000 women are believed to be eligible for wives and widows educational assistance, including some of those whose husbands served during World War I, World War II, the Korean Conflict, and peacetime.

Phillips pointed out that VA provides extensive vocational and educational couseling to help veterans and the wives and widows and orphans choose occupations compatible with their interests and abilities, and to plan a course of training qualifying them for their chosen objectives.

Women interested in learning more about VA educational benefits should telephone, write or visit the VA Regional Office at 301 North Main Street, Winston-Salem, N. C. 27102, for a copy of the pamphlet "Federal Benefits for Veterans and Dependents."

MIZELL'S Action Line

Q. Dear Congressman Mizell: What is going on now in the House of Representatives as far as busing is concerned? J. A. M., Hickory.

A. The House Judiciary Committee will begin hearings on several bills related to the busing issue on February 28. Among the bills to be considered will be my constitutional amendment prohibiting the assignment of students to schools on the basis of race.

Q. Dear Congressman Mizell: How many Americans were in combat in World War II, and how many Americans died in that war? A. I., Denton

A. There were 16,353,650 Americans in the armed forces in World War II, and 292,131 were killed in that conflict.

Q. Dear Congressman Mizell: Is President Nixon the first President ever to visit China, or just the first President to visit since the Communists came to power? C. A., Lexington

A. He is the first President to visit China.

New Farm Tractors On Display Here!

Davie Tractor and Implement Co., Mocksville, N. C., is now displaying Ford's new 83-horsepower turbocharged Model 7000 farm tractor with revolutionary Load Monitor – a new hydraulic draft-control system designed to boost productivity through more versatile implement control. "Load Monitor, a Ford exclusive, represents a breakthrough in tractor design," said L. S. Bowden, Ford Tractor, owner. "It continues Ford's traditional leadership in hydraulics." The 7000 with Load Monitor reacts to total tractor and implement loads through torque changes in the drive line. Load Monitor is sensitive and quick to relay implement-adjusting signals, enabling it to handle automatically a variety of field conditions with improved levels of working depth. Offered in all-purpose and row-crop versions, the 7000 is powered by a completely new, four-cylinder turbocharged diesel engine and has a rugged, eight-speed manual transmission. Power steering is standard on both the all-purpose and row-crop models. A five-position, tilting steering wheel is standard on the row-crop model. Other 7000 features include mechanical, self-energizing wet disc brakes and a hydraulically-engaged, fully independent 540-RPM-PTO.

John Garwood Honored By Insurance Co.

John Frank Garwood, a local Representative of Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company, was honored at a luncheon sponsored by the President of Jefferson Standard, Roger Soles, held last week at the Benton Convention Center in Winston-Salem. The occasion was the presentation of the President's Trophy for 1971 to members of the Winston-Salem Regional Agency, judged number one in all-around performance among 70 agencies of the Company nationwide.

Garwood along with 22 other Representatives of Northwestern North Carolina, was honored for his sales achievement during 1971. In winning the silver trophy, Jefferson Standard's Winston-Salem Regional Agency, which serves a 10-county area, sold more than $13,000,000 of new life insurance in 1971, an increase of 36 percent over the previous year. The 10-county area includes the counties of Alleghany, Ashe, Davidson, Davie, Forsyth, Stokes, Surry, Watauga, Wilkes and Yadkin.

Other criteria used in selecting the winning agency included: quality of business - over 93 percent staying in force; development of new manpower - over 5 million from men with less than two years service with the company; and qualification of agency members for the Company's production honor clubs - a total of 13 men.

The Winston-Salem Regional Agency also won the President's Trophy for 1967.

John Frank Garwood on the right, is shown with President Roger Soles of Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company admiring the President's Trophy, which has just been awarded to the Winston-Salem Regional Agency at the Benton Convention Center in Winston-Salem. The trophy was presented for the best all-around performance in 1971 among 70 Jefferson Standard agencies nationwide.

Rebirth Of The Rolltop Desk

In Washington's corridors of power, in suburban family rooms, in mod offices, one of today's most prized status symbols is yesterday's rolltop desk.

Antique dealers sell every one they can get their hands on, often for many times the original prices of the 1890's.

Home owners are raiding the attics, cellars, and barns of their ancestral homesteads in search of that long-forgotten monster granddad used to love.

Furniture factories are turning them out by the hundreds: "exact replicas" of the real thing in quarter-sawed golden oak and low-silhouette "tambours" in stainless steel, smoky lucite, and teak.

Time was when a tolltop desk was an American monument to pluck and luck and nose-to-the-grindstone hard work, the National Geographic Society says.

The age of the tolltop dawned with America's post-Civil War mania for efficiency, order, and gadgetry. Those were the days when one man with one big desk could operate a large business himself and keep all his records in one fat file.

The rolltop obliged with dozens of pigeonholes, at least eight seemingly bottomless drawers, and maybe a few secret compartments.

Sometimes the rolltop surmounted a now-rare Wooton desk. Standing perhaps five feet square, the Wooton unhinged and rolled apart to produce dozens of drawers – like a fat man unbottoning his overcoat to reveal countless pockets in the lining.

Sitting on a bentwood swivel chair before a high-backed tolltop desk, facing all those cubby holes, flanked by all those drawers, made the meekest clerk feel like a mighty captain of industry.

The rolltopitself – the sliding tambour of rounded wood slats glued to a canvas screen – was both marvel and menace of a Victorian office.

Quickly snapped shut and locked, it could hide confidential contracts or a half-eaten lunch with a visitor's sudden arrival. But stuck in its two slides, it needed tugging and tarnation to work it free, and when it slid down too fast it threatened broken fingers.

Only the player piano or billard table outweighed a six-foot-long rolltop as a peril to 19th century flooring.

Many rolltops survive and are prized in Washington, D. C., especially on Capitol Hill where one venerable lawmaker's opinion of a colleague may still apply to others: "His mind is stuffed like a rolltop desk, jamed with misplaced memoranda and unfindable facts."

The rolltop's popularity faded as the industrial revolution shifted into high gear, bringing with it a flood of correspondence that overflowed the desk's cubby holes into new-fangled filing cabinets.

Inevitably, the male clerk's office world was invaded by wasp-waisted suffragettes who darkly despaired of the rolltops organized clutter.

Even more despised was one deluxe feature faithfully included in some of today's reproductions: a discreet but handy floor-level cupboard for the executive spittoon.

Whats In A Name? Roses Have 13,000

What do Queen Elizabeth, Helen Traubel, and Ma Perkins have in common?

They are roses. An avid rosarian also would know that Queen Elizabeth, a medium pink hybrid, has such appropriate botanical ancestors as Miss Edith Cavell, Robin Hood and Kitchener of Khartoum.

With 13,000 varieties blooming in gardens and greenhouses around the world, the great, near-great, and hitherto unknown all stand a good chance of having a rose named after them.

Amazingly, most of these garden varieties are derived from just eight Asian species. Botanists believe that the plant itself originated 60 million years ago in Asia, the National Geographic Society says.

Wild roses grow all over the northern hemisphere – even north of the Arctic Circle – but they bear little resemblance to the carefully bred garden varieties. The wild blossoms usually are spread open.

Years of hybridization have created such a genetic jumble that a breeder might raise 100,000 rose seedlings and only get one or two worth marketing.

An indefatigable lot, rose breeders even have managed to grow a thornless rose, but the goal of a true blue rose still eludes them. Closest so far are hazy lavender and lavender-blue hybrids.

The patron saint of modern rose breeders is Empress Josephine, Napoleon's wife. In 1804 she bought a chateau outside of Paris and started to grow roses there, though Napoleon complained bitterly about the expense when he wasn't away at Austerlitz or Jena.

Within 10 years, Josephine had more than 200 varieties blooming in her gardens, and horticulturists from all over Europe visited it. Her collection was so highly esteemed that when conquering British troops arrived in 1815, they were instructed to protect Josephine's roses.

Curiously, a French rose became one of the most popular flowers in the United States. In 1882, the historian and rose enthusiast George Bancroft received a shipment of roses named Mme. Ferdinand Jamin. Three years later, a Washington, D. C., nursery offered them for sale under the eppealing name, American Beauty.

The long-stemmed rose was an immediate success. Though difficult to grow in a garden, it was a florist's dream. For years no self-respecting Stage Door Johnny would think of arriving for duty without a luxurious bouquet of American Beauties.

American Beauties and other old-fashioned roses have been eclipsed in recent years by hybrid tea roses, hardy plants that bloom abundantly in many colors. Breeders still are looking for the ultimate yellow rose, and when they develop a fine one like the new hybrid tea called Apollo, they tend to rhapsodize (with a practical touch):

" . . . sunrise yellow, delicately infused at the base with shadowy infiltrations of crimson like the dawn of a misty morn. The dark green, disease resistant foliage makes a beautiful background for the flowers which stand out like rays of the morning light."

When a man signs a mortgage, what are his chances of not living to complete the payments? If he is 25 years old and has a 30 year mortgage there is a 14% chance that he won't make it. If he is 35 years old that risk goes up to 32%. At age 45 it is 74%. Actually, there is only about a one-half of one percent chance that a house will be destroyed by fire, yet the mortgagee insists on full protection for HIS interest. Should a man's family have any less?

For a widow, mortgage life insurance means she has . . .a HOME if she wants to live in it, an INCOME if she wants to rent it, or CASH if she wants to sell it.

if anything should happen to you, make sure your family will get a deed, not a debt.

A New Mocksville Business . . .

Making "Tank Tops"

Story by Sue Short

Hill Manufacturing Company is a new industry in Davie County. It is located on Highway 64 east, in the building adjoining Wyatt's 76 service station. The company began operating Jan. 24, 1972.

Sherman Hill of Davidson County is the owner and operator of the business. The product made is "tank tops" or "poor boy shirts" as they are called by some. An average day's production is 35 dozen a day. There are four full time workers and two part time that work approximately 40 hours a week.

Mr. Hill's previous job was as a sewing machine mechanic in a local garment plant. His wife, the former Jean Wood of Davie County helps at the plant.

Hill Manufacturing operation is called "cut, make and trim."The material for the "tank tops" is shipped in. The processing includes cutting, sewing and inspecting. The striped shirts are folded when they leave the local plant. The solid colored shirts are shipped to screen printers. Terry cloth is used for the striped shirts and the solid is 100 percent cotton tee shirt material.

The Hills live on Raymond Street in Mocksville with their two sons, 5 years old and 2½ years old. They are expecting their third child.

Mr. Hill stated that he " would like to thank the people of Davie County for accepting me. They have certainly treated me gentlemanly. I'm glad we chose Davie for our plant. My wife wanted to come back here, and that settled it!"

.... in the above photo, starting at the left front, Mrs. Williams is shown using small hand clips trimming strings and then she will inspect the finished garments; next, Mary Hilton, hemming the bottom of the shirts; Mrs. Hill and Vivian Hilton, hemming armholes and neck edges; Evelyn Stewart, overedging, and Mr. Hill.

Essay Contest Theme "The Choice Is Mine"

Among the events of Conservation Week, which will be held in the High School March 13-17, the Supervisors of the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District are holding an essay contest open to all students in the high school. The theme of the contest will be "The Choice Is Mine!"

All interested students should contact one of their teachers or Mr. Hyatt for rules. First prize will be a $25.00 Savings Bond, second prize $15.00 and third prize, $10.00.

All entries should be submitted to Mr. Hyatt by the end of the school day on Friday, March 17.

Studies show that other industries produce more than $13 billion worth of motor vehicle parts annually.

Lowe's, Inc. To Build New Store

Lowe's Food Stores, Inc. announces plans for a new 27,000 square foot food store located on the vacant lot at the intersection of Highway 29, 70 and 52, which will be known as NorLex Shopping Center. The Shopping Center will contain a large nationally known variety store and drug store; with several other small shops. Total amount of retail space is expected to exceed 100,000 square feet. There will also be space available for a branch bank and service center. To better serve the shoppers this center will provide over 500 free parking spaces. This new location will mark the 22nd store in the growing Lowe's Food Chain.

The new store will boast of being a specious and ultra modern food store with a new concept of exterior building design to further enhance the beauty of the community. Some of the many features of the new store include an unusual decor deplicting period designs and offer customers more variety in convenience goods. A special attraction will be a complete bakery with a separate donut shop producing fresh baked pastry. For the customer convenience, an adjoining lunch counter will offer a delightful menu and a chance to pause and refresh. A deli area will also offer shoppers a large variety of fresh prepared foods.

Twenty percent more refrigerated equipment will be used - over todays average food store. The new display shelving and wide aisle arrangement offers the customer more variety of merchandise than ever before possible, all this while shopping in complete leisure and yet holding with Lowe's well known low pricing policy.

The new store will handle more than 7,000 items with exception of Lowe's own high quality products marketed under the Lowe's and Champion labels, all other items are nationally advertised name brands . . . names known and trusted, traditional foods and all that's new.

All fresh produce items are rushed from all growing areas of the United States direct to Lowe's warehouses and food stores and are sold fresh, while the flavor is intact. Wide selection protected by the most modern refrigeration equipment - all offered to help the homemaker in providing a widely varied menu at Lowe's famous low low prices.

The Lowe's Food Chain has become famous in the North Western part of North Carolina for their high quality meats, all beef is U. S. D. A. Choice Government inspected to insure wholesomeness and Lowe's selected to assure complete customer satisfaction. All pork is Siwft's Tenderlean corn fed to assure the finest possible pork to be found anywhere. Only Holly Farms U. S. D. A. Grade A Fryers and Fryer parts are sold at Lowe's to assure the finest in Poultry. The Lowe's chain has a meat slogan that fits their meats, "We Sell The Finest Meat You'll Ever Eat, And We Guarantee It 100 Percent".

Lowe's features a well-stocked health and beauty aids discount department that will save everyone up to 50 percent on all of their health and beauty aids, and all at one stop, no need to run all over town to save a penny here and a penny there.

At the sign of savings, the entire Lowe's Food Store staff will go all out to bring to Lexington and the surrounding areas more value for their food dollars . . . plus those valuable Family Stamps with each purchase . . . all of this together make Lowe's your one stop savings food center.

According to Mr. J. C. Faw, President of the chain, the store will employ 30 local people.

Lowe's is looking forward to serving the Lexington areas in their new ultra modern food store when it opens its doors for the first time, with savings on all food items and friendly courteous local folks to serve the people of Lexington and the surrounding areas.

The opening is planned for late summer of 1972.

N. C. Museum Of Art Lobby Has "New Look"

Visitors to the North Carolina Museum of Art may feel they are walking straight into the church of St. John Lateran in Rome, thanks to a new look given the lobby of the museum.

Pier Leone Ghezzi's giant canvas, "The Lateran Convention," showing an interior view of the Lateran, and its equally large companion work, "The Pope Arriving at the Lateran Convention," have been hung on the walls facing the entrance.

Moussa M. Domit, the new associate director of the museum said, "In addition to making the lobby brighter and more receptive to the public, moving the pictures to this area has given us an opportunity to show them together in a proper setting for the first time.

"The pictures are the largest in the museum and had been crowded together in a small gallery on the second floor.

"The move points to our need for a more functional museum-type space to house the extensive collection," Domit said.

The Ghezzi paintings measure 100 by 122 inches. They replace a series of tapestries, lent by Miss Doris Duke, which have been taken down for cleaning.

The paintings are an architectural portrayal in which the deep perspective gives the spectator the feeling that he can walk into the scene.

Ghezzi, who lived from 1674 to 1755, was a painter and draftsman who was noted as a caricaturist and as a church painter to popes, the nobility, and cardinals and other churchmen.

The museum's two paintings, done for a Cardinal Lucari, are eye-witness accounts of events connected with the Lateran Convention of 1725. The Convention served primarily to condemn the Jansenist movement.

The paintings apparently were lost for some time.

The late Carl W. Hamilton, a New York art dealer who helped assemble the original museum collection, wrote museum officials that the paintings were "found in some obscure place on the New York Bowery. They canvases were separated from their stretchers and were rolled."

Also changed in the lobby, which has been repainted, is the position of the popular "Sir William Pepperell and His Family" by John Singleton Copley.

The Copley has been hung to the left of the entrance.

"The area where the Copley was hanging will provide a useful display space for new acquisitions, which we have rarely had space for before," Domit said.

Domit said also that further installation changes will be made in the museum from time to time to give the spectator a fresher, more comprehensive view of the museum's holdings.

The painting, "The Sully Children" by Thomas Sully, has been removed from the lobby and probably will be hung with the museum's collection of American paintings.

Moving the Ghezzis and Copley was no easy task.

The Ghezzi paintings, which had to be taken out of their frames in order to get them through the museum doors, required three men. Six men were needed to carry the smaller but heavier Copley. The Copley, measuring 90 by 108 inches, is heavier because of its heavier frame and its double relining.

Three paintings, Seghers' "St. Peter Denying Christ," LeClerc's "The Angel Freeing St. Peter From Prison", and Blauvelt's "The German Emigrant Enquiring His Way", have been re-hung after being on loan.

The Seghers and LeClerc works were in the "Caravaggio and His Followers" show at the Cleveland Museum of Art. The Blauvelt was in the "Lofe in America" show at the Museum of Fine Art, St. Petersburg, Fla.

Q. I am the wife of a veteran with a service-connected disability rated at 30 percent. Can I receive medical treatment at a VA hospital?

A. No. VA provides medical treatment only to eligible veterans.

Q. I have "V"-prefixed National Service Life Insurance and wonder if I can carry this insurance after age 50?

A. Yes, but it should be remembered that premiums for five-year level term policies increase every five years as you grow older.

I was attending college under the G. I. Bill and changed to vocational school. Can I change back to college?

A. Yes. VA may approve the second change if, after counseling, it is determined that the change is in keeping with your abilities and interest and there is a reasonable chance you can successfully complete the Filled With Soil!

Pictured is a 7' culvert filled in with soil from construction site. Sewer manhole in fore ground (At Stake) was 3' above ground before sediment was deposited.

Protect Our Natural Resources By Erosion Control

Each year more than a million acres of land in the United States is converted from agricultural to urban use. The soil erosion from this land is 10 times greater than on land in cultivated row crops, 200 times greater than pastureland, and 2,000 times greater than timberland.

This land use change in Davie County can be an asset if handled properly, but if not, it can destroy many of our natural resources. Each year streams and lakes in this county are filled with sediment from construction sites, thus causing land along the stream to be damaged by flooding, sediment and erosion. This sediment lowers the quality of water for industrial and municipal uses, and also increases wear on pumping equipment. Sediment carries with it chemical pollutants which degrades all water-based recreation and is also harmful to wildlife. Each year sediment causes 500 million dollars worth of damage nationwide.

The Soil Conservation Service, working through the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District, offers its assistance to builders, developers, town and county officials and others in working out land and water resource problems.

SCS can help you select the best side for development, according to soil suitability, which will help minimize potential problems. After site selection, a complete erosion control plan can be developed. This plan will include measures to prevent erosion during construction, and also measures to grade and stabilize areas after construction is complete.

Sediment control can be beneficial to you by saving time and money if you do it with a conservation plan - ONE STEP AT A TIME.

Wildlife Afield

BY JIM DEAN

With the deer seasons long since over, it was apparently a bad time to pull out some statistics I'd gathered.

"Did you know," I asked my deer hunting friend, "that in 1970, about one out of every five deer hunters in North Carolina apparently got his venison?"

"Do tell," snorted my friend. "Did you know one of your best friends hasn't killed a deer in nine years, and would rather not hear any statistics to the contrary?"

I ignore him. "According to a recent nationwide study, 190,731 hunters killed 38,406 deer from North Carolina's estimated herd of 350,000 whitetail deer," I read.

"Yeah, and every one of those deer passed my stand on opening day this past year," remarked my friend sarcastically, "and you know what? There wasn't an antler in the bunch. If Harry James had walked by with his horn, I'd have shot him."

For a fellow like my friend, statistics don't mean much, but they can be interesting. For instance, according to statistics, North Carolina offers hunters one of their best chances to bag a legal whitetail.

There are eight states in the Union with bigger whitetail deer populations than North Carolina, but only four of these states have better kill records.

In Texas, 504,424 hunters killed 280,000 deer in 1970 out of an estimated whopping population of over three million deer. Better than one out of every two hunters got his deer, even if the Texas whitetails are smaller than ours.

Alabama is apparently one of the best whitetail deer hunting states. The deer are much larger than those in Texas, and during 1970, 148,000 hunters killed 74,000 deer out of a herd of 500,000. That means one out of every two hunters made a kill. Florida is another state where roughly one out of every two hunters got his deer in 1970. One out of every four Minnesota deer hunters killed a deer in 1970.

The other states with larger deer herds than North Carolina included Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, New York, and Michigan, but a hunter's chance of killing a deer in these states during 1970 ranged from one chance in seven to one chance in ten—not very good odds.

What does all this mean? Nothing much, except it shows you where North Carolina ranks statistically in deer hunting with other states which have large populations of whitetail deer.

What often makes such statistics so misleading are the many factors which are not considered. For instance, some states with relatively small deer herds have good kill ratios. South Carolina is an example. The herd in 1970 was only 200,000 but 80,000 hunters killed 46,000 deer. Does that put South Carolina among the top deer hunting states? For the present, anyway.

Here's another example of the way statistics can be misleading. In 1970 Minnesota ranked high among the whitetail deer states, but in 1971, a severe winter lowered the deer population in that state so drastically that the hunting season was cancelled for a year.

And what about the fact that many good hunters legally kill more than one deer? That changes the odds.

Then, there are those unknown factors my unlucky friend has uncountered.

He knows the deer hunting is good in North Carolina because his friends have been killing deer. But it's been nine years since he's connected, and no "statistic" is going to change that.

"I never saw a single deer, not one, that was ever killed by a statistic," he says. "Maybe I'll get lucky next year."

The snow came and the snow left but not before Roland Cain and Mrs. Hilda Miller made that big bowl of snow cream.

How proud Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Cain are of their family. They think it is the greatest, especially when they can have such nice addition to their family. On Saturday, their grandson, PNSN William West was married to Miss Barba Petree of Winston-Salem. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelon Petree and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert West.

Those attending the wedding from here were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carter, Mrs. Hilda Miller and daughters, Vanessa, Priscilla, Cassandra and Maurisa., Mr. and Mrs. George Scott, Sarah Shirley and Eugene Scott, Mrs. Millie West, Dennis and Jerry, Mr. and Mrs. Odell Rhynehardt, Jr., and daughter, and Jerry Goosby. The wedding was held at the Macedonia Holiness Church with Bishop Johnson performing the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Carter of Mocksville were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carter and family.

Mrs. Hilda Miller visited her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Cain at Traphill on Sunday evening. Wilbur is doing fine at this time.

Mrs. Lillie Mae Scott of the Cedar Creek community has returned home after being by the bedside of her granddaughter, Tonjya Scott at the Memorial Hospital at Danville, Virginia. Little Tonjya is doing fine at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. George Scott and daughter, Arthur Scott and children Sarah, Clifton and Shirley motored to Danville on Sunday to see Tonjya and bring Mrs. Scott home.

Henry Scott of Paterson, New Jersey arrived in Virginia and wife, Katrina. He will remain here until Sunday. Our prayers go out to Tonjya and others on the sick list.

LOW-UPKEEP GARDENS

Low-maintenance gardens are gaining in popularity. These gardens use ground covers such as small rocks, pebbles, crushed marble, shredded tree bark, wood chips and pine needles. Such materials are best adapted to contemporary gardens and are well suited to use around buildings of modern architecture.

Ballroom Classes Will Begin March 2

The Spruce Street Y. M. C. A. ballroom department has scheduled three courses for adults of all skill levels.

The schedule is:

Ballroom I (beginner) - Friday, March 3

Ballroom II (intermediate) - Thursday, March 2

Ballroom III (advanced) - Monday, March 6

The courses will be one hour sessions for eight weeks, beginning at 8 p. m.

Missed lessons may be made up and participants do not have to enroll with a partner.

Instruction in standard and basic steps will be given in the beginner course, including cha-cha, fox-trot, waltz, rock, and jitterbug. Descriptive notes will be furnished.

The steps become progressively more advanced in the intermediate and advanced courses with the addition of South American dances.

Mrs. Dorothy Covington, Y. M. C. A. Adult Dance Director, will be the instructor; the "Y" ballroom staff will assist.

To register, call Whit East or Mrs. Covington at the Spruce Street Y. M. C. A. Telephone - 722-1163.

Letter To Editor

Dear Editor:

In memory of our father, H. H. Blackburn, who passed away on March 3, 1970.

Somewhere Beyond The Sunset

Somewhere beyond the sunset
A perfect realm is found
Where all earth's holy longings are fulfilled,
And endless joys abound.

Somewhere beyond the sunset
There is a place I know,
Where we shall find a friend
We've loved and lost,
In days of long ago.

Somewhere beyond the sunset,
The time is in God's hands,
When He shall summon us to Him above.
For all our ways He plans.

Somewhere beyond the sunset,
We'll see our Father, we adore.
We'll fall and worship at his dear feet
And reign with him forever more.

Pinebrook School Receives $8,000 Grant

James Everidge, superintendent of Davie County Schools, has received notification from A. Craig Phillips, State Superintendent of Public Instruction that the Project Media application which was submitted by the local administrative unit for Pinebrook Elementary School has been selected to receive a special purpose grant award of $8,000 under Title II of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act for fiscal year 1972.

Eighty-two administrative units submitted proposals for Project Media grants. Because of the large number of projects submitted, the amounts of funds allocated have been adjusted to accommodate maximum utilization of media acquired through Project Media.

Mrs. Helen Crenshaw, Media coordinator for the Davie County schools, offered more details concerning the grant to Pinebrook Elementary: "This grant will assist in securing a greater variety of print and non-print materials for our students. The Media centers are the key to our program of individualized instruction and the continuous progress approach to learning. We are elated over the opportunity not only to expand our services, but, within the guidelines of this project, to find more innovative as well as functional techniquest by which we may improve our Media services for our students."

Davie Commissioners Meet

Property To Be Taxed At 60% Of Listing

The Davie County property will be taxed at 60 percent of listed value this year.

The Davie County board of commissioners adopted this 60 percent assessment ratio on both real and personal property at their regular meeting on Monday.

In other business, the board acknowledged a letter from the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District expressing full support of county-wide zoning.

The letter, addressed to John Bailey, chairman of the board of commissioners, read as follows:

"At our regular meeting of the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District, the Supervisor's discussed land use planning for Davie County. We believe for the future development of Davie County this is an urgent matter and should be enacted upon at the earliest date possible.

"You have the full support of our Board for a county-wide zoning system. This plan is important in order that better use can be made of the resources we have so that we may continue to have a "livable county." It was signed by Brady Angell, Chairman.

The commissioners were informed that the local health department has had numerous requests to provide nursing services to patients in their homes. Most of these requests have come from the elderly but referrals have also come from hospital discharged patients including veterans. Individuals who are paying for home care through their insurance policies have made inquiries about home health or home nursing services. Many requests have been made for this service on a pay basis.

In other business, the commissioners heard reports from the various department heads of the county government.

Retail Sales

Gross sales in Davie County in December hit $3,010,597.

This was a gain of $622,484 over December 1970, which was $2,388,113.

Retail sales in Davie have shown a steady climb in recent months, indicating a solid trend for merchants.

Accident Occurs Friday Afternoon

Mocksville Policeman Doug Seaford investigated an accident Friday, March 3, at 4:35 p. m. on Depot Street at Salisbury Street.

Jacob Jefferson Baker of Route 2, driving a 1967 Chrysler, going west on Depot Street, stopped for the stop sign. Pearl Osco Renegar of Route 1, driving a 1959 Ford, also going the same direction, was unable to stop as his brakes failed and his car struck Baker's.

Damages were estimated at $200 to the Chrysler and $175 to the Ford.

There were no injuries and no charges.

College Credit Courses Underway

For the first time the Mocksville Division of Davidson County Community College has college credit courses under way.

They are Freshman English 101 taught by Barbara Harris and College Algebra, taught by James Brogdon. The College hopes to offer other courses in the future so that anyone interested in completing Junior College can do so here in Mocksville. This will mean a great deal to the people of the area.

The community has been very receptive to the programs offered here and Davidson Community College hopes to reinforce these programs with other community interest programs.

Gray Everhart wishes to express his appreciation for the cooperation of the community centers, fire station (William R. Davie), and Davie County High School for the use of their facilities. This type of cooperation is what has enabled the Mocksville Program to expand.

Applications Available For School Kindergarten

Applications are now available for the Mocksville Elementary School Kindergarten Program for the 1972-73 school year. Applications are available at the Board of Education Office and from Mr. Vernon Thompson at the Mocksville Elementary School.

Participatants selected for this program must be five years of age by Oct. 16, 1972. These applications should be returned by Friday, March 31, for consideration for this program.

Anticipated enrollment for this program will be 46 students. The Learning Institute of North Carolina, a consulting evaluation agent that coordinates the state pilot kindergarten programs will select the participants in this program for the 1972-73 school year.

Selection will not be based on a first-come first-served basis; the participant group must be representative of the composite picture of the school in relationship to sex, race, and the socio-economic background.

The Mocksville Elementary Kindergarten was one of the 45 kindergarten centers approved for operation in 1971-72 by the State Department of Public Instruction at a total cost of $1,417,500. Twenty additional kindergarten programs will be in operation next year throughout the state.

Cooleemee Kindergarten

Applications for the Title I kindergarten program for the 1972-73 school year at the Cooleemee Elementary School are now being accepted. Application blanks are available from Mr. V. G. Prim at the Cooleemee Elementary School and at the Board of Education office in Mocksville.

This kindergarten program is sponsored under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act and priority consideration is given to those children with the greatest relative economic need among all of the applications. Participants must be five years of age by October 16, 1972, in order to be eligible for the program.

Friday, March 31, is the deadline date for receiving applications for the kindergarten program.

Bowles Heads Men's Club

Jim Bowles was elected chairman of the Democrat Men's Club at the organizational meeting held Thursday, March 2, at the Court House.

Other officers include: Herman Cartner, vice chairman; and, Woodrow Howell, secretary-treasurer.

The club will meet again Tuesday night, March 21, at the Court House.

Grant Awarded Davie For Drug Education

Fourth District Representative Nick Galifianakis announced today that the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare has awarded twenty-two grants to North Carolina communities to help them set up preventive drug education programs.

The grants are authorized by the Drug Abuse Education Act of 1970, a bill which Galifianakis helped push through the House of Representatives. Averaging $2200 apiece, the grants will be used to support the training of teams of volunteers in techniques of combating drug abuse through education.

"The creation of these community education teams is an integral part of the three-pronged battle against drug abuse I am advocating," Galifianakis said. "We must have stiffer penalties for the commercial pushers, foreign aid sanctions to curb the importation of narcotics, and improved treatment and education for the users and potential users at the regional and local level.

Galifianakis said that among the recipients of the H. E. W. grants is Mrs. Prudence Johnson, Davie County Community Action Program.

Correction

Through error, names were mixed in last week's District Court report. The name, Donald Lyons, worthless check, was incorrect. Mr. Lyons was the prosecuting witness. The report should have read: Clarence Garmon, worthless check (2 counts), nol pros with leave. We regret this mistake.

Davie To Bar Students From Out Of County

No more out of county students will be accepted into the Davie County schools beginning with the 1972-73 school year.

The Davie County Board of Education made the decision at its regular monthly meeting Monday night. A spokesman for the school system said that there are presently 10 or 12 students who do not reside inside the county. The system is already receiving applications from the parents of other out of county students.

The decision was made because of the overcrowded conditions in the county schools.

The board also decided that it will give further study to the consortium proposal before making a final decision. The superintendents of the school systems in Rowan, Davie Stanly, Iredell and Cabarrus Counties have suggested that the systems make a joint applications for federal funds in the future. An office and director would be set up for this purpose if the agreement was okayed by all the boards involved.

Bill Bowen, Benny Naylor and Joe Murphy were appointed as a budget committee to work with the school superintendent is preparing the 1972-73 budget.

Election Board

Members of the Davie County Board of Elections were sworn-in Monday morning by Glenn Hammer, Clerk of Court.

They are: Dr. R. F. Kemp, Chairman; Harold Foster, Secretary; and William E. Hall. All are former members.

Plan To Organize

A meeting to organize a Basic Adult Education class in the Shady Grove section will be held Monday, March 13, at 7 p. m. in the Shady Grove School library. Representatives from Davidson County Community College will be present to answer all questions.

The book is a hard back volume in tan linen and consists of history of the Ferebee family from Europe (1085-1156), a record of the first of the name, a Norman-French Knight who came in the army of William the Conqueror to England, Sieur Guillime (William) de Fabry, the authenticated Ferebee Coat of Arms and pre-Colonial and Colonial America up to the present time.

This book is being published by the Hunter Publishing Company of Winston-Salem. Copies may be ordered from W. Wayne Ferebee, Yadkinville Road, Mocksville, N. C.

Farm Sign-Up Program Deadline Is Friday

Farm program sign-up for the 1972 set-aside programs for feed grain, wheat, and cotton is nearing an end, with March 10 the final day on which eligible producers may enroll. The County ASCS Office reminds farmers that when they come into the county office to sign up in the farm programs, they may also wish to request set-aside inspection and measurement service.

In the 1972 voluntary farm programs, participants agree to set aside a portion of their farm's base or allotment of whatever crop or crops they sign up for. Options are offered for additional voluntary set-aside in the wheat and feed grain (corn, grain sorghum, barley) programs, in order to aid farmers in bringing production into better adjustment with market demand.

No option for more set-aside for upland cotton is offered, since cotton is in short supply.

In return for setting aside a portion of their productive land, producers earn set-aside payments based on their farms' established yields for the program crops. Additionally, program crops on participating farms are eligible for support loans.

Jaycees To Host Regional Meet

The Mocksville Jaycees will host the West Central Regional meeting of the North Carolina Jaycees Saturday, March 11, at Hickory Hill Club and Country Club.

Around 200 [illegible] from Rowan, Davidson, Davie, Forsyth, Yadkin, Stokes, Surry, Alleghany and Iredell counties are expected to attend. Also attending will be State President Avery Nye and his staff.

The meeting begins at 9 a.m. with the Regional Speak Up Jaycee competition at the Davie County Library under the supervision of Julius Sulter. The business session will begin at Hickory Hill at 9:30 p. m.

After lunch, a golf tournament will be held.

Bill Foster, a local Jaycee, and chairman of the arrangements, says "It is an honor for the Mocksville Jaycees to host this large a meeting."

New Farm Bureau Director

The Board of Directors of the Davie County Farm Bureau wish to announce the retirement of David C. Rankin as insurance agent for North Carolina Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance Company.

Mr. Rankin's retirement was effective February 29, 1972.

The new insurance agent is W. H. Barfield, III, who assumed his new position March 1, 1972.

Davie Has 25 Students Enrolled At N. C. State

North Carolina State University's programs in the sciences, arts, technologies and humanities have enrolled young men and women from each of the state's 100 counties for the spring semester.

Davie County has 25 enrolled in these programs.

NCSU officials announced that registration stands 12,761 strong, 214 more students than enrolled at the state's Land-Grant University during the spring of 1971.

The School of Engineering, with growing emphasis on environment and human needs that can be met only through technology, continues to pace the enrollment at NCSU, with 3,083 men and women registered.

The second largest school on the campus is Liberal arts, with 2,681. The School of Agriculture and Life Sciences, conducting programs of instruction, research and extension across the state, enrolled 2,363 this spring.

Other schools and their enrollments are Design, 531; Education, 1,103; Forest Resources, 778; Physical and Mathematical Sciences, 1,262; and Textiles, 657.

Chancellor John T. Caldwell recently ..oted: "Excellence in science and technology are indispensable to the economic and environmental health of North Carolina."

He added: "The expectations of mankind are unrealizable without the knowledge and skills of literate scientists and engineers" -- including needs for curbing pollution, generating power, improving the quality of city life and feeding the world's population.

Task Force On Student Involvement Seeks Members

The Task Force on Student Involvement is looking for 16 new members for the 1972-73 school year. The Task Force, sponsored by the State Department of Public Instruction, is an organization through which students work with state and local officials to promote constructive change and improvement in the educational process. The policies and priorities of the Task Force are determined by the students themselves, according to Sarah Swearingen, Adult Director of the Task Force.

Any rising sophomore, junior, or senior in Davie County is eligible to apply. Genuine concern about the educational process and a desire to work for constructive changes and development are the primary criteria for membership.

Sixteen students from across the state will be chosen for membership on the basis of written applications and personal interviews. They meet regularly in Raleigh to work with state education officials in planning projects and activities in which student input and participation will be valuable. Mrs. Swearingen adds that school districts across the state often invite Task Force representatives to visit them to discuss student involvement with teachers, students, and administrators and to exchange information and ideas.

Many members develop special projects in their own communities in such areas as human relations, drugs, community redevelopment, mini-courses and others. Although only 16 are actual Task Force members, many other students work with Task Force members on projects and activities which directly concern them.

Student interested in working with the Task Force on Student Involvement should contact their guidance counselor for further information and application forms, or they may write the Task Force at: Task Force on Student Involvement, State Department of Public Instruction, Raleigh, North Carolina 27602.

JOHN MARK MINTZ, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mintz of Route 3, has been named on the Dean's List of the College of Arts and Sciences for the fall, 1971, semester at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. This honor is in recognition of the excellent work in all courses of study during this semester. To qualify for the Dean's List, a student must earn an average of B or higher on all work taken (not less than 15 letter-grade hours), with no grade lower than C. Fewer than twenty-three per cent of the students achieved this record. Mintz received congratulations from Raymond H. Dawson, dean, for the academic distinction he had attained.

Catawba Timber Company Pays $73,827 Into Davie

Davie County landowners and loggers shared approximately $73,827 paid out by Catawba Timber Company for pulpwood in 1971, according to the company's president, W. M. Morgan.

This is one of nearly 70 counties in the Carolinas, Georgia and Virginia where Catawba Timber purchased wood for its parent company, Bowaters Carolina Corp.

Although Catawba Timber owns and manages some lands of its own, a substantial majority of the wood it supplied to the mill was purchased from individual landowners.

Many of these landowners are tree farmers and are actively participating in growing the "South's Third Forest". This is the term used in describing modern-day efforts to meet growing needs for wood products.

Sixty years ago, the first forests of the South were believed to be exhausted, but industry and private landowners grew the second one, which has supplied timber during that time. During the past 20 years, the volume of standing timber in the South has been increased by 30 percent.

Despite this gain, foresters say more intensive efforts will be needed to keep up with growing populations and demands for forest products.

Government authorities estimate that the total need for forest products will double by the year 2000. They also project a 20 percent reduction in the acreage per person to meet these needs.

Catawba Timber and other forest landowners are taking steps to meet these needs by planting millions of new trees each year, more than are being harvested.

These forests also make a vital contribution to air improvement. An average acre of vigorously growing young trees consumes five to six tons of carbon dioxide a year, and gives off about four tons of fresh oxygen.

Young Republican Club Has Meeting

The Davie County Young Republican Club met Monday night, March 6, at 7:30 at the Court House.

Chairman Luther Potts presided over the meeting. He informed those present of the recent Young Republican Convention held in Greensboro.

Chairman Potts led in a discussion of voter registration. It was especially noted that those not 18 yet but who would be before the general election must not have registered before March 7, 1972. They must register between March 7 and April 7, 1972. This point was brought out in a recent newspaper article. Also it was noted that the final registration day for the May primary is April 7. The registration books in Davie County are open on Saturdays through April 1.

The April meeting will be held the second Monday night, April 10, because of the Easter holiday. At this meeting all local and state Republican candidates will be given an opportunity to speak and meet the people. Everyone interested is invited to attend.

Letter To Editor

Dear Editor:

I want to express my thanks and appreciation to the Mocksville Fire Department for their heroic effort in preventing a disastrous fire on Saturday morning March 5 at the home of Will Smoot which was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin. It was in a perfect blaze when the firemen arrived and it looked as though the other three homes of Mrs. Suddie Smoot, Mildred Brooks and John A. Smoot, which are only about 35 feet apart would also be burned but by their heroic efforts in getting water on them, they were saved. There were firemen there from other communities standing by to help; we are also grateful to them.

John A. Smoot

Longhorn Rodeo Set For Coliseum

The Winston Salem Coliseum will be the location for the Piedmont Triad's second annual Longhorn World Championship Rodeo. The rodeo is scheduled for three action packed performances on March 30 and 31 and April 1.

The rodeo events will again be sanctioned by the International Rodeo Association of Pauls Valley, Oklahoma, and the prize money payoff is expected to be in excess of $8,000 for the three days of competition. Competitive events to be seen will include bareback bronc riding, saddle bronc riding, calf roping, steer wrestling, cowgirls barrel racing, and explosive Brahma bull riding.

In addition to the rodeo competitive events will feature animal trainer D.C. Cogburn and his trained old English sheep dogs and cowboy monkeys working sheep in the arena. This breed of dog was used in England over 100 years ago for herding sheep and they reached immortal fame in Walt Disney's "Shaggy Dog", motion picture. D.C. Cogburn has the only known working old English sheep dogs being shown on exhibition.

Lecile Harris, the dancing, bull fighting clown of Collierville, Tenn., will provide several comedy segments during the rodeo and get down to the serious business of protecting the fallen riders during the bull riding competition.

Although the rodeo cowboys will be in competition for prize money and world championship points, the rodeo is also spiced with spotlighted production numbers and is presented as truly all around family entertainment.

N.C.A.E. Legislative Leaders Meet

Approximately two hundred and fifty N. C. educators met Saturday at the N. C. A. E. Center in Raleigh. They represented the various N. C. A. E. units of the State. Purpose of meeting was to view the proposed legislative program for the next legislative session.

Goals were:

1. Identification of members concern about proposed program.
2. Consensus - building on areas of disagreement.
3. Development of state wide unity in support of program agreed upon.
4. Identification of next steps in obtaining program.

J. W. Mask, legislative program chairman, presided at the meeting. Group was divided into twelve small groups for discussion of legislative items. They are:

1. salary increase and extended term 2. reduction of class size 3. kindergarten expansion 4. fringe benefits 5. state participation in Capital Outlay 6. summer personnel to be paid according to certificate 7. professional negatiation Act 8. professional practices act 9. personal leave expansion.

After group discussions, educators reassembled and heard reports regarding changes in legislative program. Complete unity was emphasized as being important if program is to be successful. Total cost of program is 236 million dollars.

E. B. Palmer, Associate Executive Secretary, announced that Dr. Jerry Paschal has resigned as PACE chairman. He asked that local unit turn money in rather than wait for 100 percent participation at local level. Mr. Palmer gave a report of PACE concerning backing of candidates. He reported that in the first primary PACE supported Pat Taylor and Jim Hunt in Democratic Primary and Jim Holshouser in the Republican Primary. Candidates were selected after interviews and responded to proposed legislative programs.

Navy To Cachet Apollo 16 Mail

The U. S. Navy's Manned Spacecraft Recovery forces in the Atlantic and Pacific will cachet and cancel philatelic mail for the April 16, 1972 launch of Apollo 16.

The special Apollo 16 covers will be processed through designated coordinators at Norfolk, Va., and Honolulu, Hawaii. From the Hawaii site, First Day covers will be forwarded to the recovery ship.

Atlantic covers sent to Norfolk will be processed through the local Post Office, which will use the standard "U. S. Postal Service" cancellation device.

This cancellation will not contain the name of an Atlantic recovery ship, since the Atlantic Recovery Force composition will not include a ship with postal facilities.

To ensure adequate time for handling covers, collectors throughout the world should send PRE-STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED envelopes to the appropriate coordinator before March 25, 1972.

Current U. S. Post Office regulations require that only United States postage may be used on covers. CASH, MONEY ORDERS OR CHECKS IN LIEU OF POSTAGE CANNOT BE ACCEPTED.

Collectors are requested to furnish standard-sized covers, 3⅝ inches by 6½ inches to simplify handling. A three-inch square should be allowed on the left-hand side of envelopes so the cachet may be applied. If adequate space is not left, the cachet cannot be applied to the front of the envelope without covering the cancellation or return address.

Each recovery force coordinator will ACCEPT ONLY TWO (2) COVERS PER COLLECTOR. When more than two are received, the extras will be returned unprocessed. Covers received too late for processing will also be returned.

Addresses for the Atlantic and Pacific area coordinators are: Atlantic: Apollo 16 Covers, Task Force 140, Naval Air Station, Norfolk, Va. 23511; and for the Pacific: Chief-in-Charge (Apollo 16) Task Force 130, Navy Terminal Post Office, Fleet Post Office, San Francisco 96610.

Of the most popular vegetables we eat, only corn and some kinds of beans are native Americans; garden peas are from Asia, cabbage was first used as food in China, the eggplant and cucumber are from India, spinach was first known in Persia, and asparagus is from the Mediterranean.

Suzanne Says...

Have you tried the electric chafing dish cooking? It's fun and you will like it. I have had several women to tell me they got one for Christmas. There are a few simple rules to follow in using your chafing dish:

Before using the first time, wash cover blazer pan and water pan in hot suds. Rinse and dry. Condition or season the teflon interior of the blazer pan by rubbing lightly with cooking oil or shortening.

Place food in blazer pan and set temperature dial to setting called for in recipe.

Use water pan when called for in the preparation of the recipe and to keep foods hot during serving.

When baking a casserole in the blazer pan, be sure the oven is completely pre-heated. Never place blazer pan or cover under the broiler unit. Never heat empty chafing dish pans. This could damage the finish.

Care and cleaning can be done with a minimum of effort. After heating base has cooled, clean thoroughly. Use metal soap pads or aluminum cleaner rubbing in a circular motion. Do not immerse base or temperature unit in water. To polish aluminum surface, use good silver polish.

The word chafing comes from the French word Chauffer meaning to heat or warm.

The chafing dish has always been synonymous with glamour. Foods preheat with a flourish. They were served with pride in the Victorian era. Every fair damsel was expected to woo her favorite by preparing at least one chafing dish recipe.

You can cook everything from an appetizer, entree, vegetables, casseroles, desserts and beverages in your chafing dish. Here are some appetizer recipes:

SHRIMP

½ cup dry white wine
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 cloves garlic minced
2 tablespoons worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon monsodium ghetamate
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon tabasco sauce
2 tablespoons butter
juice of ½ lemon or 2 tablespoons lemon juice
6 lemons sliced, cut in half

Blend wine and seasonings for marinade. Pour over shrimp and marinate for several hours or over night. Thoroughly drain shrimp reserving marinade.

Melt butter in blazer pan of chafing dish at high. Add reserved marinade and cook, stirring occasionally until reduced to about 2 tablespoons. Add shrimp and heat about 2 minutes, stirring constantly to coat shrimp. Sprinkle on parsley and lemon juice. Stir lightly. Garnish with lemon slices around inside of blazer pan. Place over hot water and keep warm, at medium heat for serving. Yields 2½ - 3 dozen shrimp.

Here are recipes for entrees:

SWEET AND SOUR CHICKEN

3 tablespoons oil
breasts of 2 chickens, boned, skinned and cut into ½ inch strips 1 -13½ oz. can pineapple chunks syrup from pineapple
1 cup chicken broth
½ cup vinegar
2 tablespoons soy sauce
¼ cup brown sugar
3 tablespoons corn starch
1 large green pepper cut in chunks
3 small tomatoes cut in eighths

Heat oil in blazer pan at high. Add chicken and cook, stirring frequently, about 2 minutes or until chicken is cooked through. Add syrup, ½ cup broth, vinegar, soy sauce and brown sugar. Continue to heat to boiling. Combine corn starch and remaining broth. Add pineapple, pepper and tomatoes. Cook over hot water at medium setting only until heated through. Serve with rice or chow mein noodles and tossed salad. Good to serve at an Oriental party and it is a Chinese dish. Or, it can be used informally any day for dinner.

MULLED CIDER

2 oranges juiced whole cloves
1½ quarts apple cider
3 cinnamon sticks
¾ cup sugar
lemon slices

Stick each orange shell with 8 cloves. Put all ingredients except lemon slices into blazer pan and heat to boiling at high. Reduce to medium. Cover and simmer 20 minutes. Remove orange shells and cinnamon sticks. Place over hot water at medium for serving. Float lemon slices on top. Yields 6 servings.

I hope you enjoy your chafing dish as much as I have mine!

Thompson — James

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Thompson of Lynchburg, Virginia, announce the engagement of their daughter Sharon Diane, to Steven Gray James, son of Mrs. Dorcas James and the late Harold Gray James.

Miss Thompson is a 1969 graduate of E.C. Glass High School, and is presently a senior nursing student at North Carolina Baptist Hospital in Winston Salem where she will graduate in May.

Mr. James is a 1970 graduate of Davie County High School, and attended Davidson Community College. He is presently employed at Ingersoll-Rand Company of Mocksville.

The wedding is planned for June 18 at Quaker Memorial Presbyterian Church in Lynchburg, Virginia.

Fish Makes A Nutritious Budget Meal...And It's Good Tasting

Light meals with easily digested main dishes ... which fall in the budget or low cost category can rely on the many varieties of fish now on the market. You'll find a selection of fresh, frozen or canned and the delicate flavor and texture are best retained by simple cooking methods. Go easy on the amount of heat and the time cooked. Marinating with a flavorful corn oil marinade will accent the flavor.

Interesting to many homemakers is the fact that both corn oil and fish are low in saturated fat and rich in the polyunsaturates so important to our health. Here are three interesting fish fillet dishes which were developed in the Best Foods test kitchens for their Mazola corn oil products.

Broiled Fish Fillets

1 pound fresh or frozen fish fillets
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Salt
One third cup finely chopped peeled tomato
2 tablespoons margarine (about)

Remove rack from broiler pan; line with aluminum foil, if desired. Preheat pan in broiler 5 minutes. Sprinkle fish with lemon juice. Arrange fish fillets in preheated pan; sprinkle with salt and tomato; dot with margarine. Broil 2 inches from heat until fish flakes easily with a fork, 6 to 10 minutes. Makes 4 servings. Serve with lemon wedges and carrot curls or sticks.

Cabbage Salad

2 tablespoons light corn syrup
2 tablespoons corn oil
2 tablespoons vinegar
Salt
4 cups shredded cabbage or lettuce
Green pepper

Mix together corn syrup, corn oil, vinegar and salt. Pour over shredded cabbage. Mix well. Cover and chill thoroughly. Garnish with green pepper slices before serving. Makes 4 servings.

Marinated Pan Fried Fish

1 cup corn oil (about)
One third tarragon vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 bay leaf
1 pound fresh or frozen fish fillets
Flour

Mix together about two thirds cup corn oil, vinegar, salt, Worcestershire sauce, pepper and bay leaf in shallow dish. Add fish. Cover and refrigerate, turning frequently. If using frozen fillets allow the fish to thaw in the marinade. It usually takes 5 to 6 hours. If fresh fillets are used marinate about 2 hours.

Heat about ¼ cup Mazola oil in medium skillet. Fry fish in hot oil over medium heat, turning once, until lightly browned and easily flaked with fork, 4 to 5 minutes on each side. Drain on absorbent paper. Makes 4 servings.

Note: Marinade may be refrigerated in a covered jar and reused within a few days.

Bake Sale

The Jaycettes will sponsor a Bake Sale on Friday, March 10, at Heffner's Land of Food on North Main Street beginning at 4 p. m.

Mrs. Paige Is Shower Honoree

Mrs. Janice Walker and Mrs. Mary Ann Hoover honored Mrs. Jack David Paige of Route 3, Mocksville, with a stork shower at Reynolda Manor in Winston-Salem Monday night.

Yellow and green booties topped the cake squares served with nuts, mints and punch.

Approximately 50 guests attended the party.

Junior Ratledge FetedOnBirthday

Junior Ratledge of Sheffield, was feted with an open house Saturday night, March 4, on his birthday anniversary. The affair was held at the home of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Barnes in Mocksville. Hostesses were Miss Etta Lashmit and Miss Jane Ketner of Winston-Salem.

A color scheme of blue and yellow was carried out in the decorations of the home.

Dainty assorted sandwiches, donuts, potato chips and pop corn were served with punch throughout the evening of fun and dancing.

Thirty guests enjoyed the hostesses' hospitality.

Fine Arts Festival Held In Thomasville

The Fine Arts Festival, District 6, of the Federated Woman's Club was held Saturday, March 4, in the Senior High School at Thomasville.

Mrs. James E. Kelly, president of the Mocksville Woman's Club, and Mrs. Donald Bingham, first vice-president, attended a director's meeting. Other members listened to music and drama and attended the Craft and Art exhibits.

Displaying arts and crafts were Mrs. James Boger who exhibited a landscape painting in oil; Mrs. Fred Crabb, still life in water color; Mrs. John Holsworth, a knitted baby sweater; Mrs. Merlyn Preston, a knitted afghan, Mrs. Graham Madison, a ceramic covered ginger jar and Mrs. Roland Schultz, an original family Coat of Arms done in Crewel embroidery. Mrs. Schultz was the only one to win a ribbon. Mrs. Madison and Miss Samra Howell modeled the outfits they made and Miss Cindy Reavis who has been nominated for the Sally Southall Cotton scholarship by the local Woman's Club, attended the judging for the scholorship.

Also attending the Festival was Mrs. Garland Still, chairman of Crafts.

Church Activities

UNION CHAPEL

Birth Announcements

KEVIN JOSEPH HAMMILL

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hammill of Route 2, Gold Hill have announced the birth of their first child, a son, on March 1, 1972 at Rowan Memorial Hospital. The baby weighed seven pounds, 11 ounces and has been named Kevin Joseph.

Mrs. Hammill is the former Sharon Hege, daughter of Mrs. Elvie Hege of Cooleemee. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Billy Hammill of Route 2, Gold Hill.

KELLY DAWN CAMPBELL

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Campbell of Route 2, Booneville announce the birth of their second child, a daughter, Kelly Dawn, on February 27, at Hugh Chatham Memorial Hospital in Elkin. The baby weighed seven pounds, ten ounces. They also have a daughter, Candice Deanne, 2.

Mrs. Campbell is the former Jane Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Mills of Cooleemee. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Campbell of Route 2, Booneville are the paternal grandparents.

Miss Patricia Dwiggins Is Sweet Sixteen

Miss Patricia Lynn Dwiggins was honored with a surprise birthday party Saturday night on her sixteenth birthday anniversary. The party was given in the Moose Lodge on Salisbury Road. Hostesses were the honoree's mother, Mrs. Margaret Dwiggins and Miss Nancy Seaford.

ALL SMILES . . . and why not? Everyone smiles back at a pretty girl in a pretty dress. This classic shirtdress styled by Cinderella® in gold red lilac plaid is made from Spring's favorite fabric, seersucker. Gold button trim on bodice and cuffs, a yellow patent belt add to the crisp look. And the new "Stop the Press"® finish means easy care: machine wash, spin dry, let the wrinkles all hang out.

A pink and green color scheme was carried out in the floral decorations and refreshment course.

The hostesses, assisted by Miss Betty Jean Bowens, Miss Debbie McBride and Mrs. Ann Rich served birthday cake, cheese crackers, nuts, mints and evergreen punch to approximately seventy guests. Miss Dwiggins received many lovely birthday gifts from the guests attending.

April Bride-Elect Honored

Miss Sarah Call who will marry Michael Surratt of Salisbury in Liberty United Methodist Church in April, was honored with a bridal shower Saturday, March 4, at the home of Mrs. Ray Childers in Salisbury.

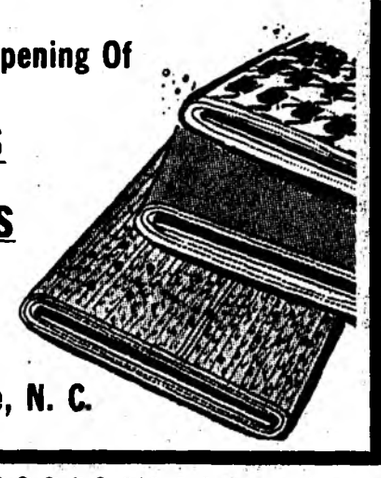

A tiered decorated cake and wedding bells were used in decorations of the refreshment table. Punch, cake, mints and nuts were served to twenty guests prior to bridal games played.

The bride-elect received many useful shower gifts from guests attending.

Davie County Landowners Are Upset!

The Yadkin River Park Project

Davie County landowners along the Yadkin River are upset about the projected plan for preserving a 35-mile stretch as a state park.

They have turned out in mass at four meetings during the past month to express their displeasure.

These property owners have indicated at these meetings they are:

– Mad because they were left out in the planning for their property.

– Upset because they have been left out of the decision-making that could turn this planning into a reality.

– And very much upset because they have not had any say-so about how to get them involved.

This resentment first became public in January. However, the most violent eruption occurred on February 29th at a meeting in Salisbury after Sen. Hamilton Horton, Republican of Forsyth, reported that a non-profit corporation able to raise money for the project has been chartered and that bylaws have been drawn up to direct the corporation.

These bylaws call for a permanent board of directors that would be composed of seven Davie residents, seven Davidson County residents, five Rowan residents and five Forsyth residents.

Of these, at least two of the Forsyth and Rowan members and at least three of the Davie and Davidson members would be required to own property along the river.

This proposal proved very upsetting to the Davie delegation. They contended:

– They had not been invited to organizational meetings in Winston-Salem and Salisbury a few months back where the executive committee that approved the bylaws were elected and where the wheels were set in motion to create the non-profit corporation.

— They contend that the number of representatives should be altered to 10 each for Davie and Davidson counties and two each from Rowan and Forsyth.

The Yadkin River Park plan, that is proving so upsetting, was developed by Prof. Joe Porter's students at N. C. State University's School of Design. A seven-week study by 14 State students was intended to draw attention to the need for preserving water quality of the Yadkin River and the scenic open space along the river.

The study proposed a series of park areas on the river banks between Winston-Salem and Salisbury with access roads from the highways which parallel the river.

The study was presented to a group of N. C. legislators who suggested it be presented to the state parks board.

People in Rowan, Davie, Davidson and Forsyth Counties later established the Yadkin River Park and Preservation Committee to devise means of implementing the study's suggestions. And this had led to misconceptions.

Ed McKnight, a Forsyth legislator who is chairman of the park committee, other committee members, Porter and his students, and several state officials have spent considerable time during the past month trying to clear up the misconceptions that have created this mistrust.

They have repeatedly told the property owners:

— Not a foot of their property will be taken through the state's power of eminent domain.

— There are no exact plans, only a concept, for the park at this point.

— No sites have been picked for the string of small parks proposed along the 35-mile stretch of the river and that a map that seems to pinpoint the sites simply shows the most interesting bluffs along the river.

— The visual or scenic easements proposed between the small parks could give park users the right to look at the land but not to walk on it. Such easements, if signed by the owners, would not alter present uses of the land but would restrict unsightly development in the future.

— Access easements would have to be bought to any land that park users actually walk on.

— An organization of the owners might provide the necessary muscle to keep people now trespassing on the property off and to clean up the Yadkin's polluted – and, at times, stinking – waters.

— That the Yadkin River Preservation group is in no way connected with the state. It is a private group which has no right to arbitrarily obtain land.

Speaking pointedly to the Davie delegation at the Salisbury meeting, Professor Porter pointed out that the main idea and intent of the plan was preserving the Yadkin River. He told the Davie group:

"It's one thing to be a constructionist and another thing to be an obstructionist. We are willing to change, just let us know.

"We've already changed our tune. We're going to change our ideas because we cannot have this if you don't want it.

"What you should do is participate in this organization and decide what you want to change. Ideas can be changed, but don't give such a negative response that our students become gun shy about giving out ideas.

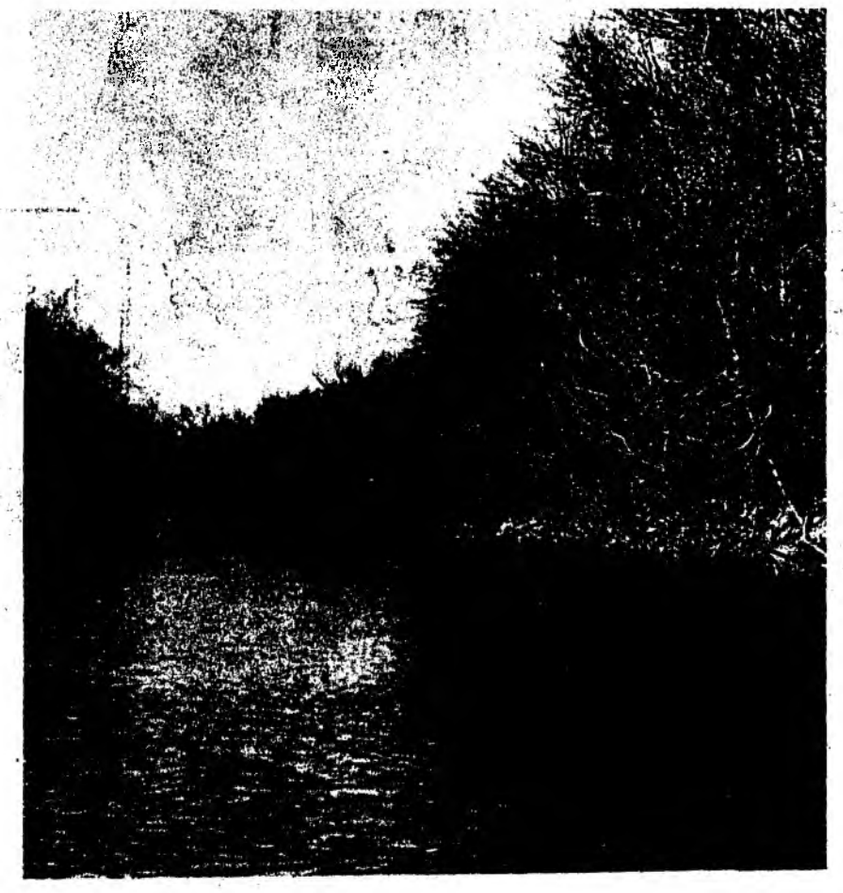

"The thing that has to be resolved is whether you as a community can get together and decide."

At the Salisbury meeting, the Davie delegation indicated they were in favor of preserving the Yadkin River and were in favor of forming an organization to preserve the river.

A suggestion was made by Ken Hoots, a Davie landowners, to:

"Let's put the cards back on the table, reshuffle and deal again."

And the dealing of a new hand on the Yadkin River park proposal may be exactly what is needed.

Letters To Editor

Mr. Gordon Tomlinson
Davie County Enterprise Record
Mocksville, N. C.

Box 11063
Greensboro, N. C.
March 2, 1972

Dear Gordon:

Finally, I am getting to you the comments about "Bits of Life" from readers of the Davie County Enterprise Record.

You will recall one of Mary's columns, when I was in the hospital (Baptist), suggested that readers of the column might send a card to the hospital.

Received from the area covered by the Davie County Enterprise Record were 114 cards and letters. We have gone through the Cards and letters and are passing along to you these which specifically mentioned the "Bits of Life" column.

Naturally we are pleased with the response and thought you would be interested in seeing the comments.

Sincerely yours,

Roscoe Brown Fisher

COMMENTS about "Bits of Life" from Readers of Davie County Enterprise Record

"We are so glad your column in the Enterprise is still being written by your daughter. We enjoy 'Bits of Life' very much." – Mr. and Mrs. James York, Mocksville, N. C. 27028.

"Thank you for the "Bits of Life' and all the nice things you do for others, for your compassion and love and for your great humility in being a great servant for our Lord." – Mrs. Mary Frances Berrier, Route 7, Mocksville, N. C. 27028.

"I enjoy your "Bits of Life' in the Mocksville paper. I also enjoyed the one your daughter wrote last week. -- I sure hope you are much better by now. I had thought of writing and telling you how much I enjoyed your writings, but I never did." – Mrs. Audrey C. James and Children, Route 4, Lexington, N. C.

"It's a pleasure just to send happy greetings to a friend; Somehow, God seems closer, too, when I think of folks like you." – "Bits of Life" Readers . . . George, Nell, Angela, Mark and Donna Lawrence, Cornatzer Community.

"My sister asked me to let you know that she looks forward to reading your 'Bits' every week. I sent her a subscription to the Davie County Enterprise for her Christmas present." Mrs. Laura Lee Robertson, Route 3, Mocksville, N. C. 27028.

"We send our prayers – Women's Fellowship Bethesda Moravian Church." Mrs. J. W. Miller, 621 Mission Rd., Winston-Salem, N. C. (A Bits Reader).

"We continue to pray for your speedy recovery and look forward to the resumption of your 'Bits of Life'." Mr . and Mrs. Ward Setzer, Cooleemee, N. C. 27014.

"Sorry to hear you're under the weather! Please get well soon!" Jimmy Kelly, Jr., Mocksville, N. C. (Reader of Column)

"I read 'Bits of Life' in the paper every week. And I wish for you a speedy recovery." Mrs. Claudie E. Boger, Cooleemee, N. C. 27014.

'Read your column regularly d enjoy it so much. So glad ur daughters can help out. ey write well also." Mrs. Ruth Mabe, 453 Maple Avenue, Mocksville, N. C. 27028.

"We are thinking about you during your illness and have enjoyed your 'Bits of Life'." Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Jones, 4 Joyner St., Cooleemee, N. C. 27014.

Dear Editor:

I am writing in loving memory of Danny Rumple, December 16, 1950 to March 10, 1968. He was a dutiful son and cherished brother:

I'll lend you for a little time,
A child of mine, God said.
For you to love the while he lives.
And mourn for when he's dead.
It may be six or seven weeks
Or seventeen years or three.
But, will you, 'till I call him back
Take real good care of him for me?
He'll bring his charm to gladden you
And should his stay be brief
You'll have his lovely memories
As solace for your grief.
I cannot promise he will stay
Since all from earth return.
But are lessons taught down there
I want this child to learn.
I looked the wide world over
In my search for teachers true,
And from the throngs who crowd life's way
I have selected you.
Nor will you give him all your love
Nor think the labor vain.
Nor hate when I call round
To take him back again?
I fancy that I hear you say
"Dear Lord, Thy will be done".
For all the joy this son has wrought
All faithful risks we run.
We sheltered him with tenderness.
We loved him while we may.
And for the happiness we've known
We shall forever grateful stay.
But you came round to call for him
Much sooner than we'd planned.
Dear Lord, forgive our grief
And help us understand.

By his mother, Ada Rumple

News From Your

County Farm Agent

A lot of people have voiced concern about the rising cost of living. Very few realize that egg prices are at a very low level. In fact, producers are selling eggs at below the cost of production. Producers are losing about five to six cents per dozen when eggs are sold at the wholesale level. Today, the consumer is getting a bargain in eggs says Leo F. Williams, Extension Agent, Davie County.

Here are some points for the consumer to consider in helping to reduce the food cost.

E GGS are one of the best ways to stretch the food budget.
A PPETITES are kept stimulated by serving eggs in a variety of ways,
T HE price of eggs makes them the best protein food buy on today's market.
E VERY day you need protein, vitamins and minerals for good health.
G O Power in eggs gives you the energy you need for daily activities.
G ET 25 percent of your iron requirements by eating two eggs every day.
S UPPLY 25 percent of your daily vitamin A needs with two eggs a day.
O NE of Nature's natural sources of vitamin D is eggs. Two eggs supply 25 percent of the daily needs.
F ORTY or more nutrients are found in eggs to help your body perform at its best.
T WO eggs a day helps keep you alert, efficient and resistant to fatigue.
E GGS contribute to our well being from infancy through the golden age group.
N UTRITIONALLY you cannot beat an egg. The best in protein and over 14 vitamins and 14 minerals are found in eggs. Also, the protein, vitamins and minerals are in good proportion to each other and eggs are very low in calories.

Williams say there is no need to get tired of eggs because with over 100 ways of serving eggs, you can keep appetites stimulated day after day. If you can't have eggs for breakfast, try an omelet for lunch or supper to help keep your food budget in line.

Miss Glenda Bowles Visits At UNC-G

Miss Glenda Bowles, of Mocksville, a student at Davie County High School recently attended "Operation 76", a special program designed to acquaint high school seniors with the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

The program was called "Operation 76" because the next entering class of freshmen will graduate in 1976.

Glenda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor C. Bowles of Route, 4, Mocksville.

More than 400 high school seniors from North Carolina and several other states participated in the special program. They were personally welcomed on campus by UNC-G Chancellor James S. Ferguson.

The seniors had an opportunity to meet with UNC-G faculty members and discuss their academic interests. In addition, they met with student leaders on campus and learned about extracurricular activities at UNC-G.

They also had a chance to talk with representatives of the Admissions Office, Financial Adi Office and other UNC-G officials. On the lighter side, the students saw a student dramatic production, a humorous orientation film about UNC-G and toured the campus.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

The number one cost item of animal agriculture – feed – will be cheaper during 1972. This means prospects are generally good that beef, pork, broiler, turkey, egg and milk producers should see some degree of improvement in their "take-home" pay.

For many of these farmers, the improvement would have to be substantial in order to offset losses experienced in 1971 when feed costs were sent soaring by the 1970 corn blight epidemic. Practically all producers, with the possible exception of cattlemen who enjoyed a good marketing year, will be trying to recover this year.

Here in brief are prospects for the various animal commodities as seen by North Carolina State University extension economists:

Pork – Overall, the price outlook for both top hogs and feeder pigs shows good increases compared to the very low prices of 1971. Top hogs are expected to average well above $20 for most of the year.

Lower corn prices will be a big factor in improving net income for pork producers.

Beef – Cattlemen, particularly feeder cattle producers, had a pretty good year during 1971. The outlook for both slaughter and feeder cattle prices indicates another year of moderately increasing supplies offset by substantial increases in demand. Slaughter prices are expected to average roughly $32 for Omaha Choice steers.

Milk – North Carolina farmers can expect farm milk prices about equal to those of 1971 with a relative balance between increased production and sales. The average price received January through September, 1971, was $7.19 per hundredweight for milk testing 3.5 percent butterfat, compared to $6.96 a year earlier.

Broilers – Broiler production is expected to increase moderately, but not quite as rapidly in North Carolina during the first quarter of the year as in other states. Prices will be about the same as a year earlier for the first half of 1972. Prices may pick up over 1971 levels during the third quarter. Income should improve, but this improvement is expected to result primarily from lower production costs rather than higher prices.

Turkeys – Prices during the first half of the year should average well above the same period a year earlier. In the second half, prices will be about the same as a year earlier. Turkey production in North Carolina is expected to increase about 5 percent.

Eggs – Prospects look moderately brighter in 1972 following a period of unprofitable prices in 1971. The outlook is especially brighter for the last six months of the year. Improvement is expected through both lower production costs and higher egg prices.

N. C. Little Symphony Plays Here March 23rd

THE SYMPHONY IS COMING . . Thursday, March 23, to present two concerts in Mocksville at the auditorium on North Main Street. Students at William R. Davie School, pictured here, are looking forward to the children's concert as well as all school students. The children's concert will be at 1 p.m. and the night performance will be held at 8:15 p.m. Thomas Conlin, assistant conductor, will conduct both performances of the North Carolina Little Symphony. Featured soloist will be Marl Tsumura, violinist. This promises to be an outstanding event for the season.

Blues — Part Of Way Of Life

"Blues are part of the black way of life," says famed blues singer and guitarist B. B. King in an article in the current issue of Words & Music magazine.

In trying to explain how meaningful the blues are to himself and to other blacks brought up in a plantation atmosphere or in any atmosphere of poverty and want in a land of plenty, B. B. puts it this way:

"The blues are a feeling. If a guy sings the blues it's about hard times, women, not having enough to eat, or maybe because he needs more money or, just wants to be happy. White or black people have them in one form or another.

"For me, I express that feeling in my songs," continues B. B. in the Words & Music article. "It's a feeling of release. You get so heavy inside that you feel like crying. Sometimes I do cry while singing. My singing helps me feel better afterward. It also tells other people how I feel.

"So if I cry while I sing it helps me laugh at things when I'm not singing. It doesn't help by being mean and bitter. You have to go on living and you should try and be as pleasant as you can.

"Singing the blues has always helped to keep me going. You could say that singing the blues keeps me one step ahead of the blues. It's my way of expressing what's in my heart and even today it makes me feel less alone.

"Singing the blues is the B. B. King form of psychotherapy," he concludes in the Words & Music article. "It makes me feel better and at the same time it brings happiness to other people."

Law Changes In Income Tax Guide

All 1971 tax law changes are fully detailed in "J. G. Brown's 1972 Income Tax Guide," currently available at newsstands.

J. Gilbert Brown, a renowned C. P. A. with extensive tax experience, gives complete explanations of every change in tax law and offers sound advice on how the individual can best take advantage of each of them.

Included in the guide are such topics as increased allowance for dependents, capital gain and loss rules, charitable deduction rules, how to save by incorporating, and salesmen's mileage allowances.

Most experts acknowledge that "Brown's Income Tax Guide" is the most comprehensive and useful book of its kind available to taxpayers.

A Though For The Day

Do I praise God with my life as well as my words!
Am I trying to be prepared to answer Christ's call at any time?
So when Jesus comes to reward his servants, whether it be noon or night
Will he find you and me still watching with our lamps all trimmed and bright.

March brings breezes loud and shrill and stirs the dancing Daffodills. You can expect most any kind of weather.

A very good and enjoyable Sunday school reported at Cedar Creek Baptist Church, with Supt. brother Thomas Eaton in charge. The Adult class was instructed by the teacher, E. J. Eaton.

Callers Saturday at the home of Mrs. Lula West were her sons, Hubert West of Winston-Salem and Glenn West of Spring Lake, N. C. and Mr. and Mrs. Lonzo West Jr. of Winston-Salem.

Mrs. Lucy Tatum visited her son, Frankie Tatum who recently underwent surgery at the hospital in Winston-Salem. He is reported doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Ridgell attended worship at the Mainsville A. M. E. Zion church Sunday afternoon.

Darrell and Kenneth Eaton, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Odell Eaton of Redland was home for the weekend. They visited their grandmother, Mrs. William Eaton while here. They returned to school in Raleigh Sunday evening.

Mrs. Lula West and Mrs. Nora Eaton attended the Womans Home and foreign mission county unionheld at the Forbush church Sunday afternoon. The President, Mrs. Myrtle Hampton of Jonesville was in charge. A good spiritual meeting was reported.

Our prayers go out to the sick and shut-ins, especially Mrs. Minnie Campbell that the Lord will keep them safe, and a speedy recovery.

Funeral services for Lawrence Brown Jr., formerly of Davie County, who died recently in New York, were held at Clark S. Brown and Sons Funeral Chapel in Winston-Salem. Burial was in Cedar Creek church cemetery.

Mr. Brown was a former member of Cedar Creek Baptist Church.

Every place has an interesting past. But few people care enough about the historical interest to dig into it.

This is not altogether true in the little town of Advance in Davie County. Like most small villages, everybody is kin to everybody - or they know enough about each other to be kin.

That could very well be one of the reasons Advance's past is so fascinating for ten eighth graders at Shady Grove Elementary School.

These youngsters have done enough research in the past several weeks to fill almost 40 pamphlets on a large variety of topics ranging from wildlife along the Yadkin River to the "lost town of Clinton."

According to David Joyner, Wayne Jones, and Ken Cornatzer, three of the students who have worked so hard on the project, they "just started doing some work on it one day and got so interested we just couldn't stop."

They have spent almost all of their time on the project since they began - but they have done so with the blessings of their

Pamplets of historical information on the surrounding area of Advance fill a couple of table tops.

Ken Cornatzer holds their most prized possession, a silver fruit bowl that was a gift from General Stonewall Jackson's wife, Mary, to her sister, Emma, of Salisbury. At right is a drawing of the grave marker of Squire and Sarah Boone.

Newspaper clippings and pencil sketches of the local churches are also displayed.

Other items such as the antique books, telephone and old World War I helmet are included in the displays. The youngsters have gathered enough material to fill several table tops.

Catch Bigger Fish By Fertilizing Pond Now

By: Calvin T. Evans,
Soil Conservationist

Would you like to take bigger bass and bluegill from your pond this summer? If your answer to this question is yes, then you need to fertilize your pond.

Natural waters usually have low fertility. For good fish production, ponds usually need the addition of commercial fertilizer. You should start fertilizing early in March and continue fertilizing until cool weather in October or November.

Fertilizer increases the growth of microscopic plants. Small worms, insect larvae, and other aquatic animals live off of microscopic plants. Fish live off the small aquatic animals.

It takes 4 or 5 pounds of small aquatic animals to produce a pound of bluegill, and it takes 4 or 5 pounds of small bluegill to grow a pound of bass. The high production of microscopic plants in fertile water results in more pounds of fish.

High fertility also prevents the growth of submersed waterweeds. With enough fertilizer, microscopic plants color the water to a depth of 18 inches or more and prevent sunlight from reaching the bottom. Submersed waterweeds cannot grow without sunlight. Further mosquito larvae are eaten by bass and bluegill if the larvae have no weeds to harbor them.

You need to build up your pond's fertility quickly and early in the spring. Most fish grow very little during the summer spawning season. Start fertilizing early in March and fertilize until October or November.

You can determine when to fertilize your pond by testing the water with a device that you can make yourself. Nail a white disk on the end of a stick. Mark the stick at 12 inches and 18 inches above the disk. Submerge the disk in the pond waters. If it goes out of sight about 12 inches below the surface, the pond is fertile enough to feed 300 to 400 pounds of fish per surface acre. If you can see the disk at 18 inches or more you need to fertilize.

A good fertilizer analysis for ponds is 8-8-2. You may use a stronger fertilizer such as 16-16-4 or 20-20-5. Just use less and be sure it has as much nitrogen as phosphate. At each application use 100 lbs. of 8-8-2, or 50 lbs. of 16-16-4, or 40 lbs. 20-20-5 per acre.

In the spring you can expect to fertilize three to six times at about 10-day intervals. Test the water with the white disk. When the water satisfies the disk test your pond is fertile enough. When the pond begins to clear, add fertilizer to correct the color. Most ponds require about 12 applications of fertilizer per year.

Fertilizer can be broadcast by hand from the bank or from a boat. It is better to palce the fertilizer in water no deeper than three feet deep. An application up one side of the pond and down the other is enough.

For further information, contact the Soil Conservation Service Office located in the County Office Building.

'Income Averaging' Lessens Tax Bite

"Income averaging over a period of years can save you big money on your income tax," advises financial expert Anthony Scaduto in his recently published Paperback Library book, "Handling Your Money."

In a chapter on the ways in which one can reduce personal income tax liability, Scaduto discusses the reasons for allowing income averaging and the circumstances under which a person might benefit.

"If your income suddenly spurts this year, rising well above what it has been in the last few years, you can benefit from the income averaging provisions of the tax laws," says Scaduto.

"Though they were written as an aid to actors, lawyers, writers, doctors and others whose incomes can fluctuate markedly, the income averaging rules apply to every taxpayer," he continues

"In effect, the law permits the high income of one year to be averaged with the earnings of the previous four years.

The example used in Paperback Library's "Handling Your Money" book is of a man who made $6000 a year in each of the last four years, and $20,000 this year. Without income averaging, he would pay $6525 on $20,000 taxable income, but by averaging, he would pay just $5450--a $1075 saving.

Davie Girls Win North Piedmont Tournament

Davie High girls claimed their second North Piedmont Conference basketball tournament championship in four years last week by downing North Stanly High 33-25 in the tournament finals.

Coach Bill Peeler's team took the lead for keeps in the second quarter, but had to hold off a late North Stanly rally to take the victory.

Although center Nancy Reavis led the Davie scoring with 14 points and also paced her team in rebounding, Coach Peeler got outstanding play from forwards Pam Reavis and freshman Jane Athey, and guards Patricia Dwiggins and Paula Barnhardt.

Pam Reavis and Athey also rebounded well, while Dwiggins and Barnhardt sparkled as ball handlers and playmakers.

Nancy Reavis hit three field goals and connected on eight of 11 free throws to lead both teams in scoring. North Stanly's Genessa McClendon scored eight points, all on field goals, to lead the Comets.

Davie led by 5-3 after one quarter of play with each team making only one field goal. The score was deadlocked at 7-7 early in the second quarter when Davie streaked away from the Comets.

Davie outscored North Stanly by 10-2 during the final 5:30 of the first half to take a 17-9 lead at intermission. Barnhardt's basket put the War Eagles ahead at 9-7 with 5:30 to play and Davie stayed out front the rest of the way.

Nancy Reavis hit a free throw, then Camilla Kelly scored for North Stanly to cut the lead to 10-8.

Athey hit a free throw for the War Eagles, then Nancy Reavis drove in for two points. North Stanly's Connie Roseman stopped Davie briefly with a free throw, cutting the lead to 13-9.

Davie then scored the final four points of the first half, all on free throws by the Reavis girls – two by Nancy, one by Pam, and another by Nancy.

Davie stretched the eight-point halftime lead to 11 points twice in the third quarter, the first time at 24-13 and again at 26-15 when Dwiggins hit from outside with seven seconds left in the stanza.

Field goals by Teresa Whitley, McClendon and Terry Misenheimer pulled North Stanly within seven points in the final quarter. After a free throw by Athey, North Stanly closed the gap to four on outside shots by Terrie Dewey and Whitley. The score stood 29-25 with 1:30 to play.

North Stanly couldn't score down the stretch and Davie scored four points in the final 33 seconds to finish with an eight-point margin.

Nancy Reavis' three-point play with 33 seconds left and Barnhardt's foul shot eight eight seconds remaining completed the scoring.

Davie and North Stanly split their two regular-season meetings and tied for third place in the league standings. Top-seeded Mooresville fell to Davie in the semifinals, and second-seeded South Iredell lost to West Rowan in the first round.

Davie won Thursday night's game with accurate free throw shooting, hitting 15 of 29 as compared to three of 15 for the Comets. North Stanly made 11 field goals and Davie hit nine.

Davie, which has reached the NPC tournament finals four times in five years, also won the 1969 tourney crown by defeating South Iredell.

The scoring summary:

DAVIE COUNTY (33) — Athey 4, P. Reavis 4, N. Reavis 14, Dwiggins 3, Barnhardt 5, Shoaf, Ward 3.

NORTH STANLY (25) — Kelly 1, Martin 3, McClendon 8, Dewey 4, Whitley 6, Roseman 1, Sikes, Misenheimer 2.

Score by quarters:

Davie County	5	12	9	7	33
North Stanly	3	6	6	10	25

Reavis And Barnhardt Make All-Tourney Team

North Piedmont Conference tournament winner, Davie High girls, placed two on the all-tourney squad.

They were Nancy Reavis and Paula Barnhardt.

Other players selected were Carolyn Martin of North Stanly, Jan Gillean of West Rowan and Renee Weisner.

Other players who received votes included Patricia Dwiggins of Davie; Terrie Dewey and Genessa McClendon of North Stanly, Ann Ellis of South Iredell and Donna Sherrill of Mooresville.

The boys all-tourney team was composed of James Henderson and Randy Hutchins of North Rowan; Clint Hall of West Rowan; Larry Ellis of South Iredell and Michael Gainey of North Stanly.

Paul Beaver of Davie received honorable mention.

Basketball Camp At Catawba College

Applications are being accepted now for the second annual Catawba College Basketball Camp slated for this summer in the college's new Abernethy Physical Education Center.

Head basketball coach Sam Moir has announced that the camp will be run in three sessions: June 19-23, June 26-30, and July 10-14 and will feature basketball, swimming and other activities.

Moir says all boys are welcome to apply between the ages of 8 and 18. He has assembled an outstanding faculty of collegiate head coaches to instruct in the camp including Tom Childress of Pfeiffer and W. C. "Red" Meyers of Erskine. In addition, there will be five members of the Catawba basketball squad assisting in the program.

In addition to the basketball instruction in Goodman Gymnasium, which contains three fullsize basketball courts covered with the new Uni-Turf surface, boys in the camp will be able to use the Johnson Pool, a collegiate-size indoor swimming pool.

The camp will be limited to no more than 72 boys at any one session. This will enable the faculty to work with the boys in groups of no larger than 12 which, in turn, allows a great deal of personalized instruction for each boy. There will be game-type scrimmages at each camp session.

The costs for the camp are $60 per week for boarding students residing in the college dormitories, and $30 per week for commuting students. The camp fee includes meals and insurance.

Interested boys are urged to contact Coach Moir at Catawba College for additional information and application forms.

A letter from Miss Helen Bailey, a retired missionary of the Presbyterian church who is now in the Phillipines was received last week by Unity Presbyterian church. Miss Bailey has been in the foreign missionary fields since 1920, the letter states that she received the Christmas gifts from the church and also the annual monthly check sent by the local church which has helped sponsor her in the work. Altho she has retired, she is still very active in her work despite her age which is over 75. It has been some 15 or 20 years now since she has been home or in the states, and her many friends are anxious for her return.

Many local hot house tomato plants are looking good at this time. J. B. Collins has 2 houses that are unusually nice and healthy and are now beginning to put on small tomatoes and will be ready for the market about the middle of April.

Davie Girls Lose To Belmont

A pressing defense in the second half helped South Point High's girls of Belmont to eliminate Davie in the opening round of the Western North Carolina High School Activities Association tournament last Saturday afternoon at Hickory.

South Point, champion of the Southwestern Conference, held a slim 28-26 lead at halftime when it altered its defensive setup. The Belmont crew forced the Davie girls into 13 turnovers in the third period as they outscored Dagie 17-5. Up to that time Davie had been charged with only three errors.

Davie tied the score at 28-all in the third period but then South Point reeled off 11 straight points to take charge of the action.

Sherlie Hart made a field goal to put Belmont ahead to stay. Beth Beaty followed with two goals and Hart made a steal for a layup. Beaty canned a free throw and Hart intercepted a pass for an easy field goal and a 39-28 lead.

Davie fought back to close the gap to eight points but couldn't catch up.

Coach Bill Peeler's girls gave South Point a rugged time in three of the quarters. The teams fought to a 12-12 deadlock at the end of the first stanza and South Point got 16 points while Davie scored 14 in the second quarter. South Point edged Davie 15-14, in the final setto, but it was in the third quarter that the big damage was done.

Hart paced South Point with 24 points. She made 10 of 24 field goal attempts and sank four of seven at the foul line. Hart got 16 of her points in the last half, including nine in the important third quarter.

Barnhardt was the high scorer for Davie with 16. Nancy Reavis was next with 12. Pam Reavis led Davie at rebounding with 14. Nancy Reavis had 11.

It was the 21st win against one setback for South Point. The loss ended Davie's season at 18-6.

N. C. Highway Maps Available

The new official North Carolina highway maps for 1972-73 have been received by the State Highway in Raleigh.

The maps are distributed free to motorists to provide travel information with the provision that they are not be to used for commercial, promotional or political purposes, the Commission announced.

On the back of the new maps, as usual, are color photographs of scenes depicting life in North Carolina from the coastal region to the mountains. The maps also contain lists of points of interest in various sections of the states.

The maps are distributed by the Highway Commission and by the Travel and Promotion Division of the State Department of Natural Resources.

H. Boyce Midgette, state locating engineer, said that the press run on the new maps is 850,000.

Wildlife Afield

BY JIM DEAN

NEVER TOO HOT FOR QUAIL

On the last day of the quail season, I headed north in the afternoon through the rolling hills of Wake County toward a farm near Oxford. The air conditioner in the car poured a welcome icy blast into my face.

It was hot. Radio man said it was 78 degrees. What a way to end the quail season. Everybody I've talked to says there is no point in going hunting on such a hot day.

"You can't find quail on a hot day," one hunting friend told me. "Dogs can't smell 'em anyway. It's a waste of time. You might as well go fishing."

I have taken his advice seriously. I have my shotgun and boots, but at the last moment, I also threw in two fishing rods and a tackle box. While driving to the farm, I try to remember the last time I carried fishing tackle on a quail hunt. I half hope my companion—we plan to meet at the farm—will forego the quail hunt and fish one of the ponds. I've even brought an extra rod for him. But I'm unable to persuade him.

"You can go fishing tomorrow, but you can't hunt quail tomorrow," he argues. "I know it's hot, but we'll take it slow."

I can sympathize with him. After all, he's right. It's the last day of the season, and we've got to store a few more memories to tide us over the summer until next fall.

We let Buck out of the pen and move through the fields slowly, wiping sweat with every step. I'm wearing only a short-sleeve shirt, and the briers in the thicket are doing my arms no favors.

Then Buck points.

"It couldn't be birds," I say as we walk up behind him. "He must be smelling his upper lip." Whoooosh! They're up, weaving and darting through the straw and 10-foot pines. We shoot. We miss.

"Must have been a fluke," I remark. "After all, everything has got to be somewhere, and we just stumbled onto this covey. I'll bet we don't find anymore."

Less than an hour later, Buck is pointing again, but the birds get up wild and nobody shoots. We hunt the singles and get a couple of birds. Buck doesn't seem to be having any trouble smelling the birds. In fact, despite the heat, he is hunting better than he's hunted all season.

The third covey is in the woods. The fourth covey is in an open field. It is getting a little ridiculous. Here it is, hot as blue blazes, and we're finding quail everywhere. Some are in the fields, some in the woods. It's weird. We're not supposed to be finding birds. I've heard all my life that when it's hot, you don't find quail. I've used the same excuse myself on days when the temperature was in the high 40's. But today—the last day in February—the temperature is in the high 70's, and we're finding quail. Butterflies are flitting about. Grasshoppers are jumping in the grass. Frogs are croaking in the bottoms, and I've swallowed my share of gnats. Even the bugs are confused.

Just before dusk, Buck finds the fifth covey on a day when it was an odds-on bet that he wouldn't be able to smell a bird if it lit on his nose.

There is only one conclusion to make. It is obvious that it can't get too hot to hunt quail, and it's obvious that dogs can smell quail when it's hot. Another myth bites the dust.

On the way back to the house, we pass the pond. Fish are feeding all over it. It's the first time I've thought about fishing all afternoon.

It took 16 years – from 1896 to 1912 – to produce the first million motor vehicles in America. Currently retail sales of cars and trucks, including imports, run nearly a million units a month.

Travel Is My Beat

VENI, VIDI VENEZUELA

Venezuela is not a coming place. It is, to coin an expression, a "becoming place." Caracas is a modern city which has all the facilities that any traveler could want on any vacation. While on a tour that I wrote about in my last column, I had the opportunity of visiting twice with Dr. Diego Arria who is the head of the soon to become autonomous Conahotu Tourist Corporation which will coordinate all tourist and related activities for the Venezuelan government. Dr. Arria is not only a member of the Aeronautics Council, acting in an advisory capacity to the Venezuelan Foreign Ministry and Ministry of Planning, but he is also the head of the South American regional association of the International Union of Travel Organizations. This latter is intended to become an integral part of the United Nations, much in the same way as UNESCO. He is also president of the South American Travel Organization with offices in Miami and Lima.

At 33, the dynamic young man already has under his belt a tour of duty as an economist with the International Development Bank and has gathered around him competent young associates from the finest families in Venezuela.

It was no surprise to learn that there were more than 100 projects in the tourism field under his aegis. One magnificent conception is the development of 200 miles of coastline - all of it a 4½ hour drive from Caracas - soon to be reduced to 1½ hours by virtue of the extraordinary planning and investment that is going into the development of the El Litoral — close to a billion dollars with completion in 1980.

The thinking is so advanced that the planning stage will be three years before a real move is made. In the interim, the development team, contains not only architects, engineers and geologists, but social scientists and personnel concerned with, and expert in, the special needs of the Venezuelan people. It is no accident that the present stage of planning calls for only one-third of the area, which boasts sheer precipices looking down on miles of beautiful beaches, for tourism. The rest is earmarked for the recreation, pleasure and living of the Venezuelan people who now have the highest standard of living per capita in South America.

Because money is no object, Conahotu and Dr. Arria will spend in excess of $10 million dollars on these projects, the refurbishment of existing facilities, and in promotion to let the world know about it.

This certainly marks the advent of the long talked about upsurge in travel to South America, and Venezuela is ingeniously using the Caribbean as a bridge. Adjacency to the United States mainland gives it parity in air fares with the Caribbean, but the hotel rates are lower.

Nor are Venezuela, and Caracas in particular, solely havens for Americans seeking the benefits of weather and escape. Tourists, like myself, mingle in the major hotels with citizens from Italy, Germany, Japan, and businessmen from all over the world are beginning to hold conventions there.

Because of the intelligence displayed by the new force in the country which will soon make tourism the third greatest industry (construction is second to petroleum) it is to be expected that great efforts will be expended to avoid the cast of commercialism that has been the inevitable fate of many "in" places.

Even so, now may be the best time to see the country, particularly for those who have two weeks or more to spare.

Presently, the important tourist sites are Caracas, Canaima, Merida and Margarita. In the not-too-distant future, you will be hearing more about Cumana and its Hotel Cumanagoto, San Cristobal and its Hotel El Tama, Urena and its Hotel Aguas Calientes, Trujillo with the Hotel Trujillo and Coro with its Hotel Miranda. The there is Maracay with its Hotel Maracay.

Symptomatic of Caracas becoming the place to go, suburban housewives are beginning to take their husbands there for four day weekends, like commuters, and now VUASA has elaborated on its original package of 8 days and 7 nights by demonstrating that couples can go at $200 each, including air fare, hotels and transfers.

Like to go? Indeed see a travel agent and for more information write to the Venezuelan Government Tourist Bureau, 485 Madison Avenue in New York City; VIASA, 18 East 48th Street, New York City, or Camino Tours, 1140 Avenue of the Americas, New York City.

Debate Revival In Progress At UNC

AROUND THE OLD WELL
By Nan Friend

CHAPEL HILL -- Not since 1903 when Carolina debaters S. S. Robbins and R. O. Everett trounced Johns Hopkins University before a full house in Gerrard Hall has debating been so popular and successful here.

More students are "going out for the team", and the varsity and novice debate teams have grown from 10 members last year to 30 this year, according to coach Robert Cox, assistant professor of speech.

Loveland and McGuire, nicknamed "the dynamic duo," have made debate history by winning, in one season, three of the ten major tournaments. Called national qualifying tournaments, these contests determine which teams will compete in the national tournament at the University of Utah in April.

Earlier this month, they won the national qualifier at Northwestern University by defeating old rivals UCLA, 1971 national champions, and Southern California in the quarter-and semifinals and the University of Michigan in the finals. Cox called the Northwestern contest "one of the strongest in the country". More than 90 teams participated.

"We clearly have one of the strongest teams in the nation," he said. "We have won three national qualifying tournaments and have placed no lower than the semi-final in three others." Loveland and McGuire also won the Emory University "Peachtree" and the UCLA Tournaments.

Called "the Cinderella team" last year because they were an unexpected success, the UNC pair has proved "they are for real" in tournament after tournament.

At the National Invitation Tournament last spring, they started breaking debate records. For the first time, two debaters from the same college were named to the top ten speakers list. And Loveland was the first sophomore ever to be named top or "first" speaker.

For a time last year, it looked as if the Carolina debaters would be limited to East coast tournaments. Money was scarce. The situation improved when UNC's Chapel Hill Alumni Club beat Durham's Club in a "brunchfest" before the UNC-Duke football game. The Chapel Hill alumni won $2,000 which they donated to the debate team for a trip to three West Coast tournaments. That trip gave Loveland and McGuire the exposure and experience necessary to compete in the country's top collegiate debate circles.

This year, the financial situation is much improved, according to Cox. The team has received funds from Student Government. This money is necessary if the program is to grow, he continued. Some weekends, UNC debaters may compete in three different tournaments.

Since UNC has established its reputation in debate circles through the "tremendous talents" of Loveland and McGuire, coach Cox is now hoping to build the debate program even more "so it won't be an accident when we produce a good team." The object now is to recruit talented freshmen for the team, he said.

Cox pointed out that this year's freshmen debaters are of the same quality as Loveland and McGuire. Freshmen are Ed Furr of Deep Gap, Arthur Myers of Thomasville, Charles Bond of Nashville, Tenn., Jim Rast of Enka, Tom Dillard of High Point, and Cole Campbell of Winston-Salem.

Varsity debaters Kay Kernodle of Williamsburg, Va., Brent McKnight of Charlotte, Hewitt Rose of Chapel Hill, Maurice Ayers of Bakersville and twins Harold and Harvey Kennedy of Winston-Salem are also competing well this year, said Cox.

Miss Kernodle, voted outstanding freshman debater last year and the only female on the team, described the debate program here as "great. We have freshmen who are really good." The team's biggest asset, she said, "is that everyone is willing to work."

Each debater usually spends between 10-15 hours a week researching the topic selected for debate by all American collegiate teams during the year. UNC students started digging up material for this year's topic, "Resolved: that more stringent controls should be imposed on government agencies gathering information on U.S. citizens," in July. Team members must be prepared to defend and attack this idea, Cox said.

Deaths And Funerals

WILLIAM A. WILLIAMS

William Anderson Williams, 68, of Mocksville, Rt. 7, died Wednesday night at Davie County Hospital.

Mr. Williams was born in Davie County to Albert R. and Mary Jane Call Williams. He was a member of Edgewood Baptist Church and was a retired textile worker and farmer.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Brownie Powell Williams; two daughters, Mrs. James Greene of Cooleemee and Mrs. Donald Beam of Mocksville, Rt. 7; four sons, M. Sgt. William Baxter Williams of Korea, Wayne A. Williams of Cooleemee, S. Sgt. Kenneth G. Williams of Fort Wolters, Tex., and Sgt. Roger Dale Williams of the Air Force at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base in Goldsboro; and a sister, Mrs. Clyde Ridenhour of Mocksville, Rt. 4.

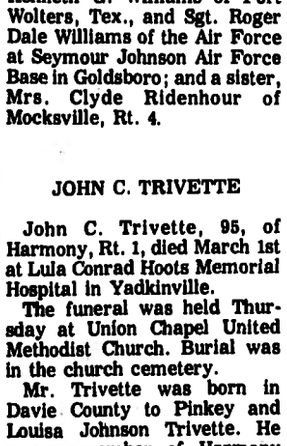

JOHN C. TRIVETTE

John C. Trivette, 95, of Harmony, Rt. 1, died March 1st at Lula Conrad Hoots Memorial Hospital in Yadkinville.

The funeral was held Thursday at Union Chapel United Methodist Church. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Mr. Trivette was born in Davie County to Pinkey and Louisa Johnson Trivette. He was a member of Harmony Grove Friends Church and was a retired farmer.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Stanley McEwen of Mocksville, Rt. 5, and Mrs. Ebba Rich and Mrs. Vera Campbell of Harmony; and three sons, Guy Trivette of Mocksville, Rt. 5, Wade Trivette of Winston-Salem and Issac Trivette of Yadkinville.

JOHN ELLIS SMITH, 59

John Ellis Smith, Jr., 59, of 522 Maupin Avenue, Salisbury, died February 29th at 1:35 p.m. after an illness of six months. He was a native of Davie County.

Mr. Smith was widely known as "Big Jes" and his verse, both humorous and thoughtful, appeared regularly in the Salisbury Post under that nickname.

He was formerly associated with Thomas and Howard Company, was the first manager of WSAT, Salisbury radio station, and at the time of his death had been a salesman for Whitfield-Alago Company for 15 years.

Funeral services were held Thursday at the St. John's Lutheran Church in Salisbury.

Mr. Smith is survived by his second wife, Mrs. Julie Shirey Smith; a son, John Ellis Smith III of Salisbury; a daughter, Mrs. Ben T. Banks of Charleston, S. C.; his mother, Mrs. Lillie Fox Smith of Salisbury; two brothers, Dr. Raymond A. Smith of Greensboro and Pelham E. Smith of Lancaster, S. C.; two sisters, Mrs. Noble W. Lee of Chicago and Miss Lillian Smith of Salisbury; two grandchildren. His first wife, Mildred Murrow Smith, died in 1936.

Mr. Smith was born August 20, 1912 in Cooleemee, the son of Mrs. Lillie Fox Smith and the late John Ellis Smith. He was educated in the Davie County schools, Oak Ridge Military Academy and graduated from Duke University. He was a member of Johnny Long's orchestra at Duke and served as its manager.

A man who loved to eat well and heartily, he struggled, mostly unsuccessfully, against his tendency toward fat. This accounted for the "big" part of his nickname and the Jes came from his initials.

Mr. Smith traveled extensively for the Alabama pickle company and to pass the long evenings in motel and hotel rooms he developed the hobby of writ ing rhymed verse. Most of his pieces were short and pithy but occasionally he would write longer verse.

He frequently used his verse to comment on the day's happenings and normally they were humorous and philsophical. But he could also use a pointed last line to puncture egoes.

Mr. Smith was quite concerned about the nature of life and religion and this facet of his nature often surfaced in both his shorter and longer verses. His verses, printed in The Post, became a popular feature and the comment, "Did you see Big Jes today?" was often heard.

Like his verse, his conversation was sparkling and reflective at the same time, and his avility to tell an anecdote or a joke was unexcelled.

W. G. HARDING

William (Bill) Harding, 47, of Back Creek Church Road, Charlotte, Rt. 10, formerly of Winston-Salem, died at 9:15 a. m. March 4, at Charlotte's Mercy Hospital.

Mr. Harding formerly a field representative for the Social Security Administration, had been in declining health for three years. He had lived in Charlotte 15 years.

He was born in Forsyth County to Joseph R. and Lila Sandefur Harding and lived here for more than 25 years. He attended schools in Winston-Salem and also High Point College. He was a veteran of World War II, serving with the Marines. He was of Presbyterian faith.

He married Miss Edna Crawford, formerly of Cooleemee.

Surviving are his wife of the home; his mother of 211 Bond Street, Winston-Salem; two sons, Robert G. and Donald L. Harding, both of the home; a daughter, Donna L. Harding of the home; three brothers, Jerry S. Harding of Clemmons, Joseph Robert Harding of Alexandria, Va., and Walter B. Harding of Birmingham, Ala.; three sisters, Mrs. Beatrice Smith of 4114 Reich Street, Winston-Salem, Mrs. Ethel Lawter and Mrs. Ruth Lillie, both of Alexandria.

Funeral services were held Monday, March 6, at Back Creek Associate Reform Presbyterian Church. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Mrs. Harding is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Crawford of Cooleemee.

Cards Of Thanks

Hellard

I wish to thank all my friends and neighbors for the many cards and beautiful flowers during my stay in the hospital. Also many thanks to Dr. Spargo, Dr. Lockart, Dr. Watts and the nursing staff of the third floor, East, at Rowan Memorial Hospital for their kindness and service. May God bless each one in every way. Thanks again.

Mrs. Lillian Hellard

Gaither

I would like to thank each and everyone in the Davie County Hospital and in Davie County for their prayers, food, money, cards, phone calls and every thought of me while in the hospital in Medical Park and the 15 days that I was in Davie County Hospital. Now I am home and doing fine.

People everywhere in life from every walk and station,
From every town and city and every state and nation,
Have given so many things intangible and dear.
I couldn't begin to count them all or even make them clear.
I only know I owe so much to people everywhere.

May God bless each one of you.

Bits Of Life

Between Traffic Lights

By ROSCOE BROWN FISHER

We were waiting at a stop light; my friend was driving. The light seemed to stay red longer than usual. I turned to my friend, after taking another look at the stop signal, and remarked rather impatiently, "These lights waste a lot of man's good time. If you were to add it up, over a period of 50 years, you would find you had lost enough time to write a book."

My friend did not answer. Just then the light turned to green and we pulled off. Not being quite satisfied with the silence of my friend in response to my statement, I asked, "Why didn't you say something when I spoke about that red light?"

"I didn't hear you, for I was talking."

"Talking? To whom?"

"To God. I do that frequently as I wait for the green light. I just say a little prayer for someone—never for myself. Waiting for the light never bothers me any more. Sometimes I have to cut my little prayer short, but I think God understnads. Now and then a horn blows behind me, but my practice has never gotten me into trouble yet. I don't mind the red lights any more. I really like them now."

As we rode on down the street and turned at the next corner I had no more to say.

Who Passed Away March 13, 1963

We saw you fading like a flower
But could not make you stay.
We nursed with tender kindness until God called you away.
Oh! Mother dear, we loved you and our hearts ache for you still,
Forgotten by some others, but by us you never will.

The Children

...about your Social Security

by Vernice Fulcher

For as long as I can remember I've heard this old saying, "Ignorance of the law is no excuse". As a child I was fearful I'd find myself behind bars one day and never know why. Well, you all know my fears were groundless. However, not understanding your rights and responsibilities under social security could cost you a lot of time and money. I'm thinking in particular about household workers. So often neither the homemaker nor the employee understands what reports must be filed. Many times the employee may feel she needs all of her salary and asks the homemaker not to report her earnings; or the homemaker may feel she just doesn't have time to fill out those papers. When this happens, the law is broken. The employer is obligated to report the employee's earnings to the Internal Revenue Service if those earnings amout to $50 cash in a calendar quarter, and the employee must not resent the employer withholding the social security from her wages.

I realize how serious this sounds, but the side of the picture I see is often worse. I want to tell you about two cases - one concerning a disabled worker and the other concerning a woman filing for retirement benefits. We will discuss these two cases in the following weeks, so be sure to check your newspaper then.

For information on any part of the program, write or call the Salisbury Social Security Office, 105 Corriher Avenue, Salisbury, N. C. 28144. Our telephone number is 633-6470.

Walking History Books

history teacher, Jim Jones, and the school principal, Thomas Emly.

They are very proud of the work these students are doing and said they can continue to work on the project, as long as they keep up their other studies.

"These students may just be junior historians," Jones said proudly, "but they are walking history books."

The youngsters found it quite fascinating to interview the elderly folks in the community to find out about it's history. And, what makes it even more interesting is knowing the people they are talking about and being able to see the places of historical interest.

People like W.A. Hendrix, for example. He was the first - and according to everybody's recollections, the last - mayor of Advance. Hendrix was elected in the late 1800s when the area incorporated itself to meet the number one legal requirement for operating a distillery.

Prohibition soon eliminated the need for a mayor, but until it did you could stand on the church steps and see the smoke from eight distilleries.

Another fact that made Hendrix so interesting to the students was because he was Leesa Potts' great-grandfather and Leesa was also working on the project with Ken, David and Wayne. The other junior historians are Stephen Barney, Becky Myers, Danny Robertson, Weldina Allen and Joanne Godbey.

David, Ken and Wayne also worked on a project on Davie County history last year that won them two first prizes and one third prize in the William Kezziah Memorial History Award, which is statewide competition.

The information they collected for this project is also included in their present collection.

The students' display contains a great variety of treasures dating to the early 1800s and all were collected by these youngsters. The arrowhead collection took a great deal of searching in the Advance area near the Yadkin River.

The boys said "We are hard to find after school and on weekends now." They are never just "slumming around home" anymore. They spend their time poking around old deserted houses or fields for anything that would contribute to their collection.

Included in their display is an 1892 prayer book, a 1911 spelling book which was used from the first through the seventh grades, old documents, peddlers stamps, whisky stamps and an insurance claim for whisky, old tax receipts, yellowed newspaper clippings, coin collection, old keys, maps, letters and relics of World War I. Several table tops are covered with collections of the past.

Their most prized possession, according to David, is a silver fruit bowl that was purchased by General Stonewall Jackson's wife, Mary as a gift for her sister, Emma, who was living in Salisbury. The inscription "Sister Emma from Sister Mary" is engraved in the center of the bowl. Also, displayed was the 1915 newspaper clipping of Mary Jackson's death at her residence on West Trade Street, Charlotte.

The fruit bowl and a pair of matching candlesticks were bought at auction by the father of one of their classmates, Joanne Godbey, who brings it to school for display on special occasions.

These young historians plan to keep on digging into the community's past, but in the meantime they are delighted to give guided tours through their collections.

Awaiting spring could well be the title of this picture made in the Davie Academy community.

U. S. Plywood-Champion Names Vice President

Sander P. Alexander and Aubrey L Cole have been appointed senior vice presidents of U. S. Plywood-Champion Papers Inc., the company announced today. They will report to Karl R. Bendetsen, chairman and chief executive officer of the company.

Sander P. Alexander was named senior vice president-finance. Previously, he had been vice president-finance for the company. In his new position he is responsible for financial planning, capital facilities programs, financial relations and the treasurer's office. In addition, his duties span the company's real estate and corporate development programs.

Mr. Alexander joined U. S. Plywood-Champion Papers as vice president-finance in 1970 from the Londontown Manufacturing Company where he had been senior executive vice president and a director. He also had served as the vice president-operations and finance of the Susan Thomas Company, and, before that, was with the Irving Trust Company and the Raytheon Company.

Mr. alexander was graduated from Brooklyn College where he studied finance and accounting. After taking graduate courses at Columbia University, he taught finance at Columbia and Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute. Mr. Alexander and his wife, Margaret, make their home in Manhattan.

Aubrey L. Cole has been appointed senior vice president-lanning and control. He had been vice president-planning and control. Mr. Cole is responsible for the office of the controller, profit planning, management information services, tax management and management services which include purchasing, traffic and operations research.

Mr. Cole joined U. S. Plywood-Cahmpion Papers in 1949. He advanced through a succession of increasingly responsible divisional posts and was appointed corporate director of management information in 1967. He was named a vice president in 1968 and became vice president-planning and control in 1969.

He holds a Bachelor's degree from the university of Texas. Mr. Cole and his wife, the former Jeanne Willson, reside in Hamilton, Ohio.

Social Security

— Questions And Answers —

Q. Is it true there have been instances in which men have posed as Social Security Representatives in this area as a pretense for getting money from social security and medicare beneficiaries?

A. Yes. There has been one or two reports of such incidents in Charlotte. If someone comes to your door and says he is from the social security or medicare office, ask to see his credentials. Any bonafide social security representative will readily show you his identification and will not mind at all if you want to double check by calling the social security office on the telephone. Our telephone number is 633-6470.

Q. I read a tragic story in the paper recently about a young woman out West who apparently committed suicide while on a drug "trip", leaving several small children. No one knew where their father was either. Is there anyting social security can do to help in such a sad situation?

A. I hope so. If the mother had worked on a job covered by social security for a sufficient length of time, the children would be entitled to monthly benefits on her record. We are fortunate to have such good relations with funeral directors because they keep us informed of death cases. Through them we are able to contact a member of the family for full development of a claim for benefits.

Q. My cousin is a career serviceman with nearly 20 years service but recently had to be brought home from Vietnam for hospitalization which may last year. I know the government is obligated to take care of him until he is well, but I am especially worried about his wife and two teen-aged children are going to make it in the meantime with prices the way they are today. The children are planning on quitting school to get jobs to help their mother. They don't know where to turn for assistance and are too proud to beg. Does social security fit into this picture in any way?

A. Yes it sure does. Social security disability benefits may be payable to your cousin, his wife, and their children. Please ask your cousin (or his wife) to call the social security office nearest them. I'd like for you to tell them that social security benefits are not "hand-outs" but an insurance type payment.

Q. I have worked for the past 11 years and would like to quit to stay home with my little boy. If I quit now what effect will this have on my social security when I retire?

A. Since you have over 10 years coverage with social security you would be guaranteed a check, but the amount of the check would depend on your date of birth and your average earnings. I would need more information to give you a complete answer. Please call our office and we will discuss this further.

Q. I receive widow's benefits now and will be 65 next year. Will I be covered automatically by Medicare at that time?

A. You will receive a notice about Medicare from the Social Security Office a few months before your 65th birthday. Hospital insurance coverage will be automatic for you at the beginning of the month you reach 65, but you will need to complete and return the enrollment form to start your medical insurance coverage. In order for the medical insurance to start with the month you reach 65, social security must receive the enrollment card before the beginning of the month in which your 65th birthday falls.

Q. What happens to the social security credits I have before I get married if I change my name on the social security record?

A. When you change your name with social security you keep the same number. The Social Security Administration will make sure that the credits you have now are under your new name.

Registration For College Credit Courses

Registration for the college credit courses being offered by Davidson County Community College in Mocksville is taking place this week. English 101, History 101, College Algebra and History 201 are being offered this quarter.

The required Red Cross First Aid Classes will also be offered by the college in order to help the different businesses in Davie County comply with the new state requirements for safety. An advanced course is also being offered for those interested in increasing their knowledge in First Aid.

If you are interested in enrolling in the above classes call Gray Everhart or Barbara Harris at 634-3514.

VA Expected To Make Payments

Some 63,000 wives, widows, and children of veterans are expected to receive Veterans Administration payments up to $175 per month, by going to school during this fiscal year, according to W. R. Phillips, Director of the Winston-Salem VA Regional Office.

The education allowance is in addition to other Veterans Administration benefits the individuals might be eligible for.

Enrollment hit 60,000 during fiscal year 1971, Phillips said, and it was 52,000 the pervious year.

Based on the first half of 1972, VA expects enrollments for the current fiscal year to include 53,000 children and 10,000 wives and widows.

Training under the program may be taken in schools and colleges only, and it may be full-time or part-time. Monthly rates under the program at the present time are $175 for full-time; $128, three-quarter time; and $81, half-time. For those enrolled for less than half-time, the tuition is paid up to a limit of $175.

A payment of $141 per month can be made to those enrolled in full-time cooperative courses – alternating classroom study and related experience on the job. Students continue to receive their other VA benefits as well.

Phillips said persons eligible for the educational assistance include the wives, widows, and children of veterans who die from service connected causes or those whose service connected disabilities are total and permanent. The wife and the children of a serviceman qualify when he is a prisoner of war or missing in action for more than 90 days.

The veterans's death or disability could have resulted from any period of service after the beginning of the Spanish-American War on April 21, 1898.

Complete information on the educational assistance program is available at local VA offices and from local veterans service organizations.

Gobble, who resides at Route 3, Mocksville, has been employed at Davie Tractor & Implement for 1 year. He has extensive background in farming and mechanics.

Boonville Woman Heads Mrs. Harper's Campaign

Mrs. Frank Bryant of Boonville has been named by Margaret Harper as state co-manager of Mrs. Harper's campaign for lieutenant governor. In this role she will be working with Semi Mintz, with her principal area of responsibility being to coordinate the activities of existing women's organizations.

Mrs. Bryant has an impressive record in working with woman and young people on a state level. Currently she is Chairman of the Youth Advisory Board for North Carolina, which was established by the 1969 General Assembly and is a member of the Governor's Advisory Committee on Children and Youth. She was appointed North Carolina delegate to the White House Conference on Children and Youth in December, 1970.

The Boonville housewife is past president of the N. C. Federation of Women's Clubs and currently is Chairman of the Public Parks and Recreation Division of the General Federation. She also holds the office of 1st vice president of the N. C. Council of Women's Organizations.

Her husband is a former member of the N. C. General Assembly and now serves as Supervisor of the Winston-Salem Tobacco Market. He is vice president of the N. C. Farm Bureau and is chairman of the Five-State Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Committee.

Mrs. Bryant is president of Yadkin County Democratic Women and is a former member of the State Democratic Executive Committee. She says this is her first involvment in a statewide political campaign.

"I have worked on the stae level with various organizations," she said, "including travel to district meetings during my term as president of the State Federation. I like travel and I enjoy working with people. From all appearances I should get plenty of both during the next two months.

"I am very excited about being invited to help with Margaret Harper's campaign for Lieutenant Governor. I agree with her that it is high time the women of our state get busy to put into practice some of the things they have been advocating and sponsoring for many years. We have a good chance to help elect a woman to high state office is we will work together. My job is to do my best to see that this is done."

State Nurses Meet Thursday

District Six of North Carolina State Nurse's Association will meet Thursday, March 9, 1972 at 7 p.m. at the Salisbury Recreation Center, Salisbury, N. C.

A social hour will precede the program. The Board of Directors will meet at 7 p.m.

Fleets

It is estimated that 75,000 fleets of 10 or more motor vehicles are now operated in the United States with some 45,000 containing 25 or more vehicles.

Senator Jordan Reports

In the past couple of weeks the Senate debated at length the Emergency School Aid and Quality Integrated Education section of the Higher Education Act of 1972.

The purpose of the emergency school aid proposal was to provide financial assistance to local educational agencies as a means of assuring equal educational opportunities for all children — a goal in which I firmly believe.

I gave the measure my support when it was passed by the Senate in April, 1971, as a bill separate and apart from the Higher Education Act. Questions were raised at that time concerning the relationship of busing to education and I stated repeatedly my feeling that our efforts to provide quality education for our children are jeopardized by concentrating instead on the logistics of moving pupils from one place to another.

I believe mandatory busing is unfair, educationally unsound, and economically unjustifiable. It has long been my feeling that the freedom of choice concept is the most feasible approach toward achieving desegregation. Under this system each parent (regardless of his race, economic level, etc.) could decide which school would best meet the needs of his child — whether it be the school across the street or the school across town.

With equal distribution of funds and equipment for education purposes each school would be prepared to offer its students the best possible education — and unless that function is fulfilled then we will have done a great disservice to the young people of this nation.

Therefore, as I did last spring, I have again supported an amendment to this proposal to prohibit mandatory busing of school children and to allow freedom of choice.

The first major vote concerned the Scott-Mansfield amendment. It stated that federal funds could not be used for busing unless the money was requested by local authorities, that busing was prohibited if the health or safety of the children was at risk, and that the enforcement of court decisions would be delayed until June 30, 1973, to allow adequate time for appeals.

It seemed to me that the amendment offered no substantial clarification for us and I voted against it. We have already received too many ambiguous statements including even Chief Justice Burger's own comment that "the constitutional command to desegregate schools does not mean that every school in every community must always reflect the racial composition of the school system as a whole." I simply do not believe we need any more vague pronouncements on the question of busing.

I gave my support instead to the Griffin amendment which was passed the next day (February 25) by a vote of 43-40. Its passage represented to me the first really meaningful step to deal with the issue.

The amendment would first of all have taken away from federal courts the authority to order pupil busing aimed only at accomplishing that objective. Second it would have forbidden the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to require forced busing as a condition for receiving federal funds. Finally it would have stayed the effect of any court orders until all appeals had been exhausted.

In my view this amendment was appropriate and necessary to eliminate the turmoil in which our schools are now caught.

Unfortunately on February 29 another vote was taken on the Scott-Mansfield amendment and it was passed by a vote of 63-34 and an amendment containing both the Scott-Mansfield amendment and the Griffin amendment was defeated by a single vote (48-49). Efforts on March 1 to approve the Griffin amendment were unsuccessful and the matter was closed as far as this particular legislation was concerned.

I still want to see freedom of choice recognized as a legitimate form of desegregation and the fact that only a handful of votes made the difference between the approval or rejection of this position indicates that there is a growing concern in all parts of the nation about the practice of busing.

I believe all of us want our school system to go forward and not backward, but surely this can be done while preserving those parts of our past which were sound and reasonable. I think the neighborhood schools have proved to be beneficial influences in communities around the nation and I would be very sorry to see them destroyed.

Mizell Seeks To Establish Common Emergency Number

U. S. Representative Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell (R.-N.C.) is co-sponsoring legislation to establish 911 as a common telephone number to be used for emergency calls throughout the nation.

The bill will require the Federal Communications Commission to establish a standardized emergency telephone call referral system, making the emergency number the same all over the country.

The number 911 has already been designated for emergency purposes in several major U. S. cities, Mizell said.

Postponed

WASHINGTON AND SMALL BUSINESS

AS HEARD BY HEARD

Dopey Government

One of the rarest commodities to come by these days, it seems, is common sense, especially in government circles.

On one hand, you have legislators being stampeded by demagogues into making stronger and often ridiculous laws to require that autos be made safer, regardless of the cost to the consumer.

* * *

In addition, there is a great deal of discussion and debate over the concept of so-called "no fault" insurance to presumably lower the cost of automobile insurance and also to unclog the court calendars of a huge volume of auto injury cases. In states where the National Federation of Independent Business has surveyed on this question, independent business people are heavily in favor of no-fault insurance.

* * *

Then there is a blue ribbon Federal commission studying whether or not penalties should be reduced for the sale and use of marijuana. Many so-called experts take the position that marijuana is no more harmful than alcohol.

There may be some validity to this contention, and again, it may be false. But any discussion of this point is frivolous.

* * *

There are laws against drunk driving. Many states have procedures to enable law officers to make tests of drunken drivers, the results of which will stand up in court as evidence.

* * *

But insofar as public safety is concerned, a driver who is high on alcohol or high on marijuana is the same. Both are equally as dangerous.

But unfortunately, those who enforce the traffic laws have no way of establishing evidence that a driver is under the influence of marijuana. A driver can be stopped going down the highway in an erratic, unsafe manner, the officer can be completely certain that the driver is under the influence of marijuana, yet there is no test devised whereby a court can be supplied concrete evidence that the driver was under the influence of marijuana as can be done with alcohol.

As the death toll on the highways mounts, no one can say with any certainty how much of this carnage is due to marijuana, but it seems to be agreed that the drug is responsible for a substantial share.

* * *

Insurance companies are currently being criticised, especially by some of the bleeding heart liberals, because in many areas they are making investigations into the habits of those who apply for policies.

It is perhaps prudent they do so, because a marijuana driver is unsafe at any speed.

* * *

Thus if the current drive in some sectors of government to relax the regulations against marijuana succeeds there should also be passed a law outlawing the auto and bring back the horse. At least a horse has too much sense to smoke marijuana.

Golden Age Club

On Wednesday morning, 37 senior citizens assembled in the Rotary Hut. The meeting opened with a hearty welcome from the president, Mr. Jim Bowles followed by a song fest led by Mrs. N. Lashley and Mrs. Elva Cash at the piano. The songs carried the group back to younger days of school days of fun and fancy. The devotionals were conducted by Rev. Jim Weekly, pastor of the Oak Grove United Methodist Church. His subject was "How to be a good Grand parent in three not-so-easy lessons. The first step taken was from Proverbs 4 "Keep my commandment and live and set a good example of love and patience. Step two from Phillipians 4, Rejoice and be happy, emit joy to grandchildren. Step three from Ephesians 6 Provoke not children to anger - discipline through love. He closed with prayer for grandparents.

Two new members were voted into the club, Mr. and Mrs. Gray Sheets. Four visitors were also welcomed, Miss Norma Furches, Mrs. Era Murph, Mrs. Sadie Forrest, and Mrs. Guy Collette. Happy birthday was sung to five members who have anniversaries in March. A covered dish luncheon was enjoyed by everyone as they visited in friendly fellowship.

Symphony Presents Madame Butterfly

The Winston-Salem Symphony Association has announced that two fully-staged performances of Giacomo Puccini's opera Madame Butterfly will be given at Reynolds Auditorium March 17 and 18. John Iuele will conduct, and the operas will begin at 8:15 p.m. Admission will be charged and reserved seats are still available.

The production will be directed by William Beck, a baritone member of the voice faculty of the North Carolina School of the Arts. Beck will also sing the role of "Sharpless", and is a former member of the Goldovsky Opera Theater. David Partington, conductor of the Winston-Salem Symphony Chorale, has prepared the chorus.

The role of "Madame Butterfly" is to be sung by Canadian soprano Heather Thompson of the Sadler's Wells Opera Company in London. Miss Thompson reached worldwide recognition in a performance of Faust in Montreal at Canada's EXPO '67. She has appeared with the operas of Pittsburgh, San Diego, New Orleans and the New York City Opera. She has sung in Prague, Vienna, Geneva and Glasgow. She sang her first "Madame Butterfly" in 1971 in Edmonton. She recently appeared with the Charlotte Opera Association in a production of "La Boheme".

Mezzo-soprano Rita de Carlo will sing the role of Butterfly's maid, "Suzuki". Miss De Carlo has sung with several of today's operatic luminaries; including Roberta Peters, Jerome Hines, Franco Corelli and Renata Scotto. She has performed with the opera companies of Philadelphia, Honolulu, Central City, Edmonton, Vancouver, New Orleans, Cincinnati and San Antonio.

Tenor Robert Moulson returns to Winston-Salem to sing the role of "Lieutenant B. F. Pinkerton." He last appeared here in the Winston-Salem Symphony's production of Tosca in 1970. Once a football player at the University of Georgia, Moulson left the gridiron to study at the New England Conservatory. Later in New York, he studied with Frederick Jagle and Samuel Margolis. He was a finalist in the Metropolitan Opera Auditions. His first professional engagements were in leading roles with the Chatauqua Opera Company, the New York City Opera, New Orleans Opera, the Boston Opera Company and the San Francisco Opera. He appears very frequently in Europe as guest soloist with the operas of Hamburg, Dusseldorf, Cologne and Stuttgart. He has appeared as soloist with the Berlin Philharmonic.

Tenor Arthur Graham of New York City will sing the role of Goro, the marriage broker. He is a graduate of the Julliard School and has been engaged by both of the New York City Opera and the Metropolitan Opera. He has been active with companies all over the United States, notably Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Connecticut, and San Antonio. His repertory includes over one hundred roles.

Other roles in Winston-Salem's March 17 and 18 productions of Madame Butterfly will be taken by local residents including: Sherry Keily, soprano, as "Kate Pinkerton"; David Shepherd, tenor, as "Prince Yamadori"; Arts School student basso Charles Eanes as "The Bronze"; bass-baritone Andrew Beattie as the "Imperial Commissioner" and tenor Howe E. Van Riper as the Registrar.

Thomasville organist Timothy Cahill will sing the baritone role of "Uncle Yakuside".

Janet Shepherd (Mrs. David) will appear as Butterfly's mother; while mezzo-soprano Suzann Amos, a Salem College student, will fill the role of Butterfly's cousin.

The blond four and one-half year-old twin boys, James and John Combs, will share the role of Madame Butterfly's son "Trouble". The boys are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Roma R. Combs of 939 Kearns Avenue, Winston-Salem.

The action takes place in Nagasaki, Japan. The opera will be sung in Italian, and a printed synopsis will appear on each programme.

FOOD TOPPING

If family members complain about plain old vegetables, try this. Top vegetables with blanched slivered almonds and crushed sesame crackers, browned in three tablespoons of margarine or butter. This topping is also wonderful on boiled or baked fish or casseroles.

Spring Is Here!

Cynthia Stubbs, 10, could almost lose herself in the lovely dafodils at the home of her neighbor, Miss Ossie Allison of Maple Avenue, Mocksville. Dafodils, or buttercups as they are also called, are among the first flowers to welcome the arrival of spring to Davie County, and Miss Allison's yard is quite a showplace. Cynthia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Stubbs.

Voter Registration Deadline Is April 6

April 6th is the deadline for registering to vote in the May 6th Primary. Registration for the primary election will be closed as of April 7th.

The Davie County Board of Eelctions office, located in the courthouse, will be open on Saturday from now through April 1st. The office is also open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Dr. R. F. Kemp, board of elections chairman, pointed out that all registering must be done at the office located in the courthouse. No registering will be done in the precincts.

"Previously in Davie County the registration books were open in the various precincts thirty days prior to an election. However, Davie is now under the statewide system of around the year registration which closes all registration 30-days prior to an election," said Dr. Kemp. "Anyone not properly registered by April 6 will not be able to vote in the May 6th election."

This is the first election in which 18-year-olds have been permitted to register and vote.

In order to register, an 18-year-old must have lived in the state for a year and in the voting precinct for 30-days.

Seventeen-year-olds may register and vote in the May 6 Primary provided they will be 18-year of age by the date of the general election (November 7, 1972).

Persons cannot vote if they have moved from one county to another within 30-days of the election. However, if they move from one precinct to another within the county they can vote.

Mrs. Joan Humble is executive secretary of the Davie County Bord of Elections and manages the office located in the courthouse.

Riddle Heads Davie Cattle Referendum

Donald R. Riddle has been named chairman of the Davie County Cattle Referendum Committee. The statewide cattle referendum will be held April 5.

Serving with Riddle on the Davie County committee will be Paul H. Stroud and Charles B. Phillips.

Chairman Riddle says his committee has the responsibility of informing all cattle producers on the purpose of the referendum, and how the money collected will be used. The committee also will urge all eligible persons to vote in the referendum.

This is the fifth assessment referendum to be held by the North Carolina cattle producers. The question at stake is whether they wish to continue the promotional programs for the North Carolina beef industry.

Pollution Problem Temporarily Closes Plant In Cooleemee

by Marlene Benson

The Versatech Division of Burlington Industries has announced plans to close a portion of its Cooleemee Plant until further work can be done on dust and lint collecting systems.

The local plant processes textile fiber waste into an intermediate paper product. The plant manager, John Nelson, said the decision to close the plant temporarily came after unsuccessful efforts to adequately contain the dust and waste lint, which is released into a hopper on top of the plant.

"It is apparent that this dust and lint has caused a problem in the community", he said, "and we thought it best to close a portion of the plant until we could make engineering refinements that will improve the situation."

Residents in the immediate area of the plant were affected greatly from the pollution which was being discharged through a large hopper on the roof of the plant.

The biggest percentage of the fine lint was trapped on the roof, according to personnel manager Earl Gus, but the small percentage escaping, created a air pollution problem.

The dust-like lint would settle in the vicinity of the plant, literally covering the trees, lawns porches and automobiles. The residents were quite upset, and justly so. It was a discomfort to even breathe during the time the dust was falling and a nusiance to clean up afterwards.

Mr. Gus said that the Burlington officials had been aware of the problem since it began in January and their Central Engineering Department has been searching for a way to eliminate it.

The decision came this week to close a portion of the plant and not resume operations until the pollution problem can be completely eliminated.

Gus explained that Versatech's operation in Cooleemee is a unique manufacturing operation. "I don't know of Help!

HELP . . . is on the way. The screened-in porch at the home of Mrs. K. J. Shockley on Main Street worked like a filter in trapping the fine dust-like lint that was discharged from the top of Burlington's Cooleemee plant. But help is definitely on the way and operations at the plant will cease until the program is solved.

Two Segments Are In Davie County

Survey Shows Local Highways To Be Outdated By 1990

A Raleigh planner predicts that segments of 19 highways serving 10 Northwest North Carolina counties will be deficient by 1990 unless a lot of as-yet-unplanned work is done. Two of these segments are in Davie County.

The total segments add up to 304 miles -- or 45 percent of the total number -- of interstate and arterial highway miles in the 10-county area.

And, he says, 141 of the 304 miles expected to be deficient in 1990 are already deficient in 1970.

The planner, Robert Martin of Kimley-Horn and Associates, Inc. reached these conclusions during a study of the transportation needs of Ashe, Alleghany, Avery, Davie, Forsyth, Surry, Stokes, Wilkes, Watauga and Yadkin counties.

Martin's study is being financed with a $41,400 grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission and is being supervised by a committee of residents of the 10 counties.

Martin told the committee members last November that their counties are being served by highway arteries which have "big gaping holes" where roads are needed, a railroad system that does not transport people, and buses that are headed in the wrong directions at the hours they are most needed.

He is expected to spell out some possible solution to these problems at a special meeting to be held Tuesday, March 21, at 7:30 p.m. in Room 406 of Hayes Hall at Wilkes Community College at Wilkesboro.

Martin will also discuss the study at a meeting of the 11-county Northwest North Carolina Development Association Wednesday in Elkin.

In the survey, Martin has spelled out the highway segments he feels will be unable to provide the "level of service" needed in 1990 in an interim report to members of the supervisory committee.

Martin says a State Highway Commission manual defines level of service as "a qualitative measure of the effect of a number of factors which include speed and travel time, traffic interruptions, freedom to maneuver safely, driving comfort and convenience and operating costs."

The level of service, he concludes, "varies inversely with the volume of traffic" and drops as the stops and starts and congestion increase.

The two segments in Davie County include US 64 from NC 108 west to Mocksville; and US 601 from Rowan County north through Mocksville to four miles North of I-40.

Other segments listed by Martin that are either already or destined to become inadequate begins with the stretch of Interstate 40 and includes:

US 158 from I-40 at Winston-Salem northeast to Guilford County.

US 221 from US 421 at Deep Gap north to Ashe County, from NC 194 at Baldwin north to West Jefferson and from Jefferson northeast to Virginia.

US 311 from Guilford County northwest to I-40, through Winston-Salem northeast to NC 66 at Walkertown, and from Forsyth County north to NC 89 at Walnut Cove.

US 321 from Caldwell County north to US 421 at Boone and from US 421 at Vilas west to Avery County.

US 421 from four miles inside Forsyth County west to near

Davie Receives Federal Grant

Trained Teams To Combat Drug Abuse

The Davie County school system has been notified by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare that they are among 22 groups in North Carolina which will receive drug abuse prevention "mini-grants" enabling them to participate in a program designed to train community "teams" in drug abuse.

According to the Drug Education Office of the U.S. Office of Education, the community teams chosen from North Carolina will be trained at the University of Miami at Coral Gables, Florida. Detailed information on schedule, time, and other arrangements will be sent to the grantees in the near future.

The Yadkin Valley Economic Development District coordinated a meeting last November attended by representatives from county boards of education and youth councils in the area. These grants were discussed and application plans made. The basic idea of the grants is that they "help communities to help themselves" and that they center on active involvement from the community as a whole, the youth and minority groups.

Plans are for the community team members to spend two weeks at the Florida training site. The sessions will be designed to enable the participants to return to their local communities trained to:

1. Determine local drug problems
2. Provide local residents with the ability to act on drug problems within the community.
3. Assess and mobilize community resources.
4. Develop a coordinated community program to respond to problems.

The Davie County proposal states that the school system - as a result of the grant - hopes to bring about a genuine understanding by all ages in the community of the potential dangers involved in drug abuse. Davie would like to have a resource group established to talk with various clubs in the area concerning drugs - hoping that factual information will "turn people off" of experimenting with drugs.

Driver Charged After Accident

State Trooper J. Leon Payne investigated an accident Saturday, March 11, at 1:15 a. m. on I-40 six miles east of Mocksville.

Arthur Larry Barnhill, 28, of Wake Forest, driving a 1970 tractor-trailer, was traveling east on I-40 when a 1965 Plymouth, being operated by Jimmy Neil Ashley, 27, of Lenoir, traveling in same direction, at high rate of speed, ran into the rear of the tractor-trailer.

Ashley was injured and taken to Davie County Hospital.

Damages were estimated at $100 to the tractor-trailer and $800 to the car.

Ashley was charged with driving under the influence.

Mrs. Nancy Fullbright District 6 'Woman Of The Year'

Mrs. Al (Nancy) Fullbright was selected the District 6 "Outstanding Young Woman of 1971" by the North Carolina Federation of Women's Club recently at District Junior Day on Boonville.

District 6 covers the six county area of Forsyth, Davidson, Rowan, Davie, Surry, Stokes and Yadkin and includes the cities of Winston-Salem, Salisbury, Thomasville and Lexington. District selection is the late stage of competition in the state.

Mrs. Fullbright was selected for her leadership ability, her contributions to civic enterprise, and participation in community activities for community welfare and betterment. She was cited not only for her work with the Woman's Club, but also for her cooperation with individuals, groups, and other civic organizations of the county. Her name will be entered in the state contest to be held in February.

In addition to her full-time administrative duties as Davie County Librarian, Nancy is President of the Mocksville Jaycettes, 2nd Vice President of the Woman's Club, and a member of the North Carolina and Southeastern Library Associations. She is also doing graduate work at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

During the past year as Education Chairman of the Woman's Club, she was responsible each month for the Outstanding Student Guest and for the education programs of the club. She assisted in the selection of the club's nominee for the Sallie Southall Cotton Scholarship and the March of Dimes Scholarship winner. In October she initiated a special project to honor the teachers of Davie County during American Education week and provided programs in the fields of education and library service. She assisted in the drive for the Children's Home at Western Carolina Center, the Fire Arts Show, the Bi-Annual Tour of Homes, and all other ways and means projects of the club. Nancy is also the club photographer and obtains pictures and news for the newspaper and radio station.

National Debt Figures $2,160 Per Davie Resident

What is it that Davie County residents pay three times as much for, via their Federal taxes, than for aid to education?

What is it that takes a bigger piece out of their U. S. tax dollar than Federal spending for pollution control, aid to housing, price support for agriculture, manpower training and the space program, all combined?

Interest on the national debt, that's what.

Because the ceiling on the national debt, $430 billion, is about to be reached, the Nixon administration, faced with a massive deficit in the next fiscal year, has requested a multi-billion boost in the legal debt limit.

Since $430 billion is a sum too colossal to grasp, it is broken down for better understanding.

If it had to be paid off at this time and if everyone in Davie County and in the rest of the country had to chip in an equal share to liquidate it, it would require $2,160 from every man, woman and child, or more than $8,000 per family.

Since there is, of course, no plan to pay off the debt, it presents no immediate problem. What is of concern, however, is the huge amount of interest that must be paid on it annually.

It will total no less than $21.2 billion during the next fiscal year, second only to the cost of national defense, the new budget shows.

Residents of Davie County will be paying approximately $1,632,000 toward these interest charges, in line with their normal share of the overall tax load. Per local family, it amounts to some $280.

Since 1941, when Congress moved to put a limit on Federal spending, during Franklin Roosevelt's presidency, by placing a ceiling on the national debt, there have been many changes in the ceiling.

Congress has raised the legal limit 23 times in the subsequent years, as Federal spending continued to mount. As a result, the ceiling is now many times as large as it was initially.

The annual interest charges have grown proportionately. Since 1960 alone, they have climbed from $9.2 billion a year to the current rate of $21.2 billion.

another company in the United States that processes textile fiber waste into an intermediate paper product", he said.

He also said that the machinery used "was specially designed" for this manufacturing operation. "It is not standard machinery and it can not be bought on the market."

When Versatech first began operations at the Cooleemee plant, Gus said they started with "a clean grade of waste" which created no problems. They gradually developed machinery to handle a much lower grade of waste which obtained a good deal of trash and as in any new business venture, there are problems to be solved.

Burlington's Central Engineering Department is in the process of seeking other measures to eliminate the exhausting of any pollution into the air. Definite recommendations have been made for the permanent installation of equipment that will handle all waste and therefore, eliminate this problem.

Frank McNeil, the regional air pollution engineer of Concord, was notified monday of the closing of the Cooleemee plant.

Burlington is in the process of applying for a temporary permit to discharge cotton lint into the air, which is a routine procedure for all industries when they anticipate any type of amount of pollution escaping into the air.

Highways To Be Outdated

Martin said the segments add up to 304 miles and only 28 of these miles are included in the projects the State Highway Commission has planned through 1974.

The 28 miles, he says, makes up only part of the segments of US 221, US 311, US 421, and US 21 included on his list.

Martin said the planning area is well covered with collector highways and secondary roads, but pointed out that many are not all-weather roads and that travel on them is severely limited during periods of bad weather.

He noted that many of these roads were developed along "the path of least resistance," creating circuitous travel patterns and excessive travel distances.

Davie Student To Attend Leadership School

One high school junior or senior from Davie will be selected to represent his county in a six-week leadership program at Mars Hill College in Mars Hill which will begin June 11. The purpose of the experimental program, which is jointly sponsored by the Department of Public Instruction and the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation, is to develop potential leadership abilities in the 100 high school students selected.

According to Mrs. Mary Evans, coordinator of the program for the state education agency, any student who wishes to compete must submit an application form to his principal by April 14. Candidates will be selected by local screening committees, and then one student from each county will be chosen by the state screening committee. Winners of the scholarships will be notified by May 3.

The basic "subject matter" of the leadership laboratory will be the identification and analysis of specific problems and concerns facing young people today. According to Mrs. Evans, once the problems have been identified, the students will learn to develop programs and activities to involve students, teachers and others in the community in resolving them.

Mrs. Evans noted that one of the most important emphases of the program will be the development of decision-making skills. A variety of methods will be used throughout the program including independent study, open discussions, interviews, local and outside consultants, audiovisual materials, and self-evaluation.

Room, board, and tuition, will be provided for each student, but transportation and spending money must be provided by the student or a local organization who may sponsor him. The community will benefit from the program, says Mrs. Evans, in that each student who attends the school will work throughout the year with a faculty adviser on a leadership project in his own school or community.

State Superintendent Craig Phillips added that the undeniable need for leadership in all segments of society demands special focus on this aspect of education. The schools of the state do not intentionally overlook leadership development, but it is believed that concentrated attention on preparation for leadership responsibilities may provide a quality of leadership not normally emerging from the public schools.

Final Check

The telephone crew is shown making the final check on the new equipment. The office is located on Highway 801, North of the Shopping Center. Residents on the Cooleemee exchange will be able to use direct dialing for all long distance calls immediately after the 2 a.m. switchover.

Bowles Heads Hunt's Campaign

Jim Bowles has been named Davie County campaign chairman for Jim Hunt, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor.

In making the announcement while in Mocksville last week, Hunt stated, "This state needs more men who have worked for their community and state through the years, as Jim has done. He is a credit to his community and his state and we are very happy to have him on our team."

The semi-retired native of Davie County is presently serving as chairman of the Democratic Men's club in the county and is president of the Davie County Golden Age Club.

Bowles was born in Davie County and attended Holman's Crossroads School in Davie County. He has served as Commander of Post 174 of the American Legion for four separate terms. Bowles served his community as a member of the police force in Mocksville for about three years.

Hunt, a Wilson attorney, has called for a revitalization of state government to make it more responsive to the needs of the citizens. He has said that participation in the political process by all the people is the first step in this revitilization.

Hunt was chairman of the Democratic Party Study Commission which proposed leadership positions in the party for youths, minorities and women. The commission was also instrumental in bringing about the presidential preference primary which will be held for the first time this spring.

Bowles is married to the former Pauline Wagoner of Cooleemee in Davie County. The Bowles are members of the First Methodist Church in Mocksville.

Democrat Club

The Davie County Womens Democrat Club will meet on Tuesday, March 21, in the Grand Jury Room at the Court House in Mocksville at 7:30 p.m.

All members and interested persons are invited to attend.

Old Enough For Symphony??

How old is old enough for Symphony music?

Age is no barrier, as the North Carolina Symphony Educational Concert Series has proved. In its 26 touring seasons, the North Carolina Symphony and its two Little Symphonies have brought more music to children than any other symphony orchestra in the nation.

Last year alone, 85 admission-free educational matinees were performed for some 188,000 elementary school students. This year, the figures will be about the same.

A recent innovation has been the "high school pop concert" series, designed to follow up the exposure and training students receive in the lower grades.

An important facet of the Educational Concert Series is pre-concert preparation. The Symphony Children's Division, under the direction of nationally-noted music educator Mrs. Fred B. McCall of Chapel Hill, issues two training publications each year: "Symphony Stories", for use by students in the classroom, and "Tips to Teachers", to assist classroom teachers. Additionally, regional workshops are held each year to familiarize teachers with music to be played in Children's Concerts and to assist them in techniques of music education.

The terms "Music education" and "classroom preparation" might convey an uncomfortably formal and structured idea to some people. Those who have experienced a North Carolina Symphony Children's Concert know this is not the case.

The real goal of this "music education" is the goal of learning that music is fun. And "classroom preparation" is a process of experiencing the enjoyment that comes through music.

In the classrooms, students hear recordings of the music to be played at their concerts, and they discuss -- in simple terms -- the composers who wrote the music. They are encouraged to express their feelings in response to the music in various ways, including finger-painting and free body movements.

Students at all children's concerts of the North Carolina Symphony sing and play instruments with the orchestra.

In short, it is an exposure to symphonic music on a personal, informal, and enjoyable level.

The N. C. Little Symphony will present two concerts in Mocksville, Thursday, March 23.

Fashion Esprit for Spring—

The Cotton Feel '72

For spring '72, American designers are pursuing the mood of today's nature-conscious environment in style.

And they're turning to cotton as the fiber of nature that best depicts the mood. They like its "feel"—its styling potential and inherent suppleness, and, above all, its dye-ability, work-ability, and wear-ability.

Trend-setting spring looks for the natural fiber include such new fabrications as Cotton 365 fabrics for year 'round wear; soft, uncrushable corduroy-seersucker combinations; random-cut cotton velvets; and the new alliances of cotton knits with wovens.

These innovational looks for cotton have been translated into clothes deftly tailored to contemporary lifestyles and jet-propelled environmental changes.

Fashion becomes an ecology-minded memo to wear—with prints, appliques, embroideries, needlepoint, and stenciling as mediums for the message in sportswear, separates, and accessories.

Printed cottons are as often inspired by Oriental colorations as by the abstract in geometric art form. Many offer a whimsical touch of nostalgia or a prophetic view of the futuristic.

Silhouettes are individually keyed, and lengths are a matter of mood or personal preference.

Dresses and ensembles by day are quietly turning to softened shapes or clear, uncluttered classic lines. Clothes for p.m. pursuits project the romance of supple, sinuous knit fabrications as well as colorful outbursts in ultra-modern or humor-struck prints.

Sportswear classics are in full swing for spring, with short and long pantsuits paving the way to town or travel plans.

The "jeaning of America" has spread beyond our borders to Mexico, South America, Europe, and the Far East.

Cotton denim jeans have become a mobile art form. Young fashion motivators around the world fringe, fray, and convert jeans into signature fashion statements by silver studwork, grommet-patternings, and hand-painted designs.

As contemporary tempos quicken, man instinctively is returning to nature . . . and fashion this spring is returning to nature's fresh, comfortable feel: the cotton feel.

LADYLIKE—Fashion in the classic manner is beautifully depicted in this double-breasted coat of jacquard-woven cotton. The sculptured fabric is styled in softened tones of turquoise and white. By Originala.

Miss Debbie Snyder Shower Honoree

Miss Debbie Snyder, who will marry "Mike" Green Saturday, March 18, was honored with a Floating Bridal Shower Thursday, March 9th from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

The party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hammer with Mrs. Hammer and Mrs. Tony Green as hosts. They were assisted by Mrs. Atlas Smoot, Mrs. Mack Everette and Mrs. Marshall Green.

A color scheme of yellow and white with green was carried out in the refreshments. They consisted of party cake squares, nuts, mints and evergreen punch.

Among the approximately 30 guests attending were the mother of the bride-to-be, Mrs. Thomas Fred Snyder and the mother of the groom-to-be, Mrs. John S. Green.

They received many beautiful and useful gifts.

Suzanne Says...

Did you know . . . one half of bulk or packaged cheese . . . any variety . . . equals 2 cups of shredded cheese?

Always cook cheese at a low temperature and never overcook. High heat and overcooking will toughen a protein food . . . especially cheese.

Cheese should always be served at room temperature.

Cheese should be refrigerated but not frozen. Extremely low temperatures tend to change the flavor and texture of all cheese.

Pasteurized processed cheeses should be re-wrapped in their original packaging after cutting. This will maintain the flavor and texture.

Salad greens should be washed thoroughly under cold running water but do not cook them. After washing, drain well. It is important to have greens crisp and dry so that the salad dressing will cling to every leaf.

Greens may be stored in a covered vegetable crisper or plastic bag in the least cold surface of the refrigerator. Another way to keep greens fresh is to wrap them carefully in large pieces of aluminum foil.

Mayonnaise keeps best in the refrigerator but not near the freezing unit. If you blend mayonnaise with honey, fruit juice, tomato juice, chicken broth, whipped cream or any liquid dressing, you create wonderful dressing variations.

Here is a recipe for:

LAZY DAY FRUIT SALAD

1 cup mayonnaise
½ cup cranberry juice
5 pineapple slices leaf lettuce
5 pear halves
13 oz. package cream cheese milk
water cress

Combine the mayonnaise and cranberry juice, and mix until well blended. Arrange the pineapple on lettuce on a serving plate with a pear half cut side up. On each slice, garnish the pineapple with rosettes of the cream cheese whipped with a little milk and forced through a pastry tube. Fill the center of the plate with watercress and pour cranberry dressing over each pear half.

MARSHMELLOW BANANA PIE

2 or 3 bananas
1 8 or 9 inch pastry shell
1 package of instant vanilla filling
2 cups miniature marshmellows

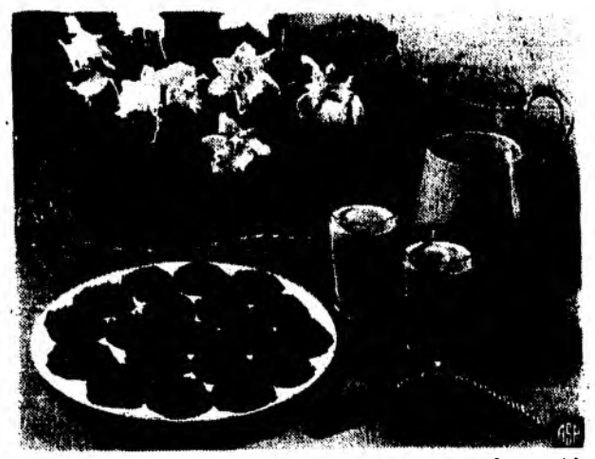

Slice the bananas into the pastry. Prepare the pie filling. Pour over bananas. Let stand about 5 minutes. Sprinkle the marshmellows over the top. Place in broiler few minutes. Chill for 30 minutes.

Nature's Own Cookies

Many cooks are celebrating spring in their kitchens with natural foods. The fashion and fondness for natural foods is spreading fast, and old-fashioned molasses is right at the top of the list. Make cookies that Dame Nature herself might have designed to celebrate spring. The natural sweetener, molasses, flavors as well as sweetens the batter, and such natural foods as rolled oats, grated carrots and raisins help produce a wonderful, old-fashioned texture. The whole family will find these highly-nourishing, delicious cookies a fine way to discover that spring is here! Serve the cookies with Taffy Milk, made by stirring a tablespoon or two of old-fashioned molasses into a glass of milk.

Spring Cookies

½ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
½ cup old-fashioned molasses
1 egg
¼ cup non-fat dry milk
1 cup sifted flour
¼ teaspoon each, nutmeg and cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup grated carrots or grated raw sweet potatoes
¼ cup raisins
1¼ cups rolled oats

Cream together shortening, sugar, molasses and egg. Sift together non-fat dry milk, flour, spices, salt, baking soda and baking powder; stir into creamed mixture. Add grated carrot or sweet potato, raisins, and rolled oats; mix well. Drop by level tablespoons on a lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake in 400°F. oven 10 minutes. YIELD: 6 dozen cookies.

Mrs. Thea Brown Attends Seminar

Mrs. Thea G. Brown was among the permanent hair dressers and barber stylists from throughout the country who recently attended a 3 day Scientific Educational Seminar at the White House Inn in Charlotte.

Educational lecture and demonstrations were scheduled for small groups of professionals with special attention concentrated on hair coloring because of current public interest. Re-conditioning of hair, permanent waving and new processes for radial, blunt and geometric hair cutting were demonstrated. Other processes were devoted to microphotography, a system used for hair analysis which is directed towards the improvement of customer service.

John Meehan, executive vice president of Redken Laboratories, the sponsoring organization of the 3 day event, reports that more than 52,000 hair dressers and barber stylists in the U.S. and Canada have been trained to use the scientific approach to hair dressing and beauty methods since Redken initiated it's educational system of seminars in 1960.

Events also included a banquet on Sunday evening and awards presentation on Tuesday evening for professionals for achievement in the study of the scientific approach to hair dressing and beauty.

Senator Jordan Reports

Week before last the Senate passed by a vote of 88-6 the Higher Education Act of 1972, which may well be one of the most important education bills passed in several decades.

It authorizes funds for a number of new programs for our colleges and universities and, as always with education legislation, I was glad to give the bill my support.

For the first time in the history of education legislation, funds are to be given directly to colleges and universities to use in ways the administrators feel will be most beneficial to the schools. It seems to me that school officials, rather than administrators miles away in Washington, are the best qualified to determine the needs of their own institutions and I am pleased with this new approach to reduce excessive earmarking of funds.

The bill creates a Basic Educational Opportunity Grant program whereby any student attending a college or university would be entitled to a grant of $1,400 per year, minus the amount his or her family can reasonably be expected to contribute for his or her post-secondary education. For students who need more assistance, a Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant would be available. The United States Commissioner of Education is to decide the amount students would be eligible to receive with the reasonable expected contributions of the family to be determined by a complex formula relating to the family's financial situation.

Action was taken on the floor of the Senate to add a provision stating the sense of the Congress that governing boards of educational institutions should be encouraged to accept student participation and membership on those boards. The experiences of schools which have already added students to their boards show that the students have made valuable contributions at the administrative level. I felt it was appropriate that Congress indicate its approval of voluntary inclusion of students in the decision-making processes of their schools and I supported the amendment.

In view of my strong support of the Equal Rights Amendment and my belief that women should be allowed the same opportunities as men, I was also happy to support another floor amendment to prohibit sex discrimination in education programs receiving federal funding.

In addition the bill contains sections on Indian education and vocational education and also includes a title providing safety regulations for youth camps.

The most controversial section of the bill is the Emergency School Aid and Quality Integrated Education Act. Several amendments were proposed to prohibit forced busing and at one point those of us who oppose mandatory busing were successful in having one of the anti-busing amendments accepted.

In the end however, only mild regulations were added to prohibit the Department of Health, Education and Welfare from using federal funds for busing unless the money had been requested by local authorities, to delay implementation of court orders requiring busing until all appeals are exhausted, and to forbid federal agencies from requiring busing if such action would risk the health and safety of pupils.

The is the second time that this education bill has been passed by the Senate. It was passed with my support last year on August 6 and then it was sent to the House. The House decided to add the lengthy section relating to school desegregation necessitating Senate re-consideration of the bill.

The bill now goes to a Senate-House conference committee and I hope that agreement can be reached quickly because still more steps must be taken to appropriate the funds which this bill authorizes. These funds are badly needed now by our young people and I hope there will be no further delays.

Stamp Savers

How many American consumers save trading stamps?

A nationwide survey just released shows nearly 8 out of 10 U. S. households saved trading stamps in 1971. That is just about the same proportion as the poll has found each year since 1959.

Men are almost as interested in stamps as women, the survey shows. About 73 per cent of men contributes to the family collection, compared to 78 per cent of women.

The key finding of the national study shows that some 49.6 million American households save stamps. That is 77 per cent of the estimated 64,400,000 households in the country.

The survey was conducted by Benson & Benson, Inc, of Princeton, N. J., one of the nation's leading market research organizations, on behalf of the 76-year-old Sperry and Hutchinson Company, which operates the S & H Green Stamp promotional service.

The poll was the 15th annual study by the firm of consumer attitudes toward trading stamps.

In support of the consistent attitudes found toward stamp saving, Benson and Benson reported 77 per cent of all stamp saving families have been saving stamps for five years or more.

The study shows clearly that people in all age brackets save stamps. As might be expected, married savers are more numerous than singles. It finds that 78 per cent of married persons (22,854,000) from 18 to 34 years of age are savers; 79 per cent (15,563,000) from 35 to 44 years of age; 81 per cent (15,552,000) from 45 to 54 years, and 76 per cent (17,784,000) 55 years and over. Sixty-six per cent (28,182,000) of all single adults save stamps.

Large families are slightly more inclined to save than small ones. Among households of three and four members, 80 percent or 16,800,000 save stamps, while among those of five or more, 81 per cent or 10,692,000 are collectors. In households of one or two, only 73 per cent are savers.

Stamp saving is popular among people of all educational levels.The survey finds that people with high school training are just as inclined to save stamps as those with more or less exposure to education. Seventy-seven per cent of those with a high education (37,191,000) save stamps, 77 per cent (23,793,000) with some college training, and 74 per cent (23,828,000) with some grammar school training.

The stamp saving habit has no respect for income levels. Middle and high income families are shown to be strong stamp savers. But even among households with wage earners making less than $5,000, 71 per cent (8,767,000 households) save stamps; those with income of $5,000 - $6,999, 78 per cent (5,928,000), and where family income is $10,000 and over, 79 per cent (24,964,000) are stamp savers.

The Benson & Benson report shows that, occupationally, people in all walks of life collect trading stamps. Among families where the head of the household is at the professional or managerial level, about four out of five are savers. The same proportions held where occupations are sales or clerical, skilled or semi-skilled. Among service and labor households about three out of four save stamps.

While there are many brands of trading stamps available throughout the country, the survey found that 53 per cent (34,132,000) of all stamp collectors save S & H Green Stamps.

Most consumers reported that they appreciate the extra value of trading stamps. About two out of three households said they like and want stamps. They continue to take a dim view of interference in their right to save stamps. Only five per cent of U. S. households favor governmental action to eliminate the stamps. This percentage has remained almost constant since the first Benson & Benson nationwide survey in 1957.

Girl Scouts in Mocksville and Davie County met at the gymnasium of North Main Street Monday, March 13, for a special program in observance of National Girl Scout Week, which is March 12-18.

The program consisted of each Troop showing some of the thing they had made during the past year and telling about some of their activities. Each Troop presented their contributions to the "Thinking Day" fund which is used to help establish new Scout Troops around the world. A total of $25.90 was collected for this fund.

There are nine Troops in the county with 176 registered Scouts and leaders.

Punch and cookies were served to the Scouts, parents and friends at the conclusion of Monday's meeting.

GIRL SCOUT Week MARCH 12-18

It began with a gathering of a small group of girls at the home of a dynamic, forward-thinking woman who had as she said, "...something for the girls of Savannah, and all America, and all the world and we're going to start it tonight."

The date was March 12, 1912; the place was Savannah, Ga; the woman was Juliette Gordon Low; the "something for the girls" was Girl Scouting.

This was the genesis of an idea which grew to become a spur to action for nearly 32 million girls, men and women who at one time or another had been members of Girl Scouts of the U. S. A. In the best American tradition, it is a success story; a youth movement" dedicated to the purpose of inspiring girls with the highest ideals of character, conduct, patriotism, and service that they may become happy and resourceful citizens."

The Girl Scouts of the U. S. A. this year is celebrating its 60th anniversary.

Because its informal education program has remained flexible through the years and because its membership reflects all racial, economic, and cultural backgrounds, Girl Scouts of the U. S. A. has always been head of its time. For the first troop of 18girls, 60 years ago, to today's nearly four million girls, men and women Girl Scouts, the by-word has been action -- social action, inter-action, ecological action, and community service action -- all stemming from the inner awareness and growth of the individual members.

As we mark Girl Scout's 60th Birthday this year, it is our pleasure to extend congratulations and thanks to a youth organization that is a positive force for good and an important part of the American scene.

Girl Scouts, here and across the nation, are setting their sights on the future. But they are working today, to translate into reality their visiton of how tomorrow's world should be.

Girl Scouts operate day care centers.

Girl Scouts work in hospitals.

Girl Scouts clean up polluted rivers.

Girl Scouts find people who need help, and work with them, not for them.

Girl Scouts, as individuals and in troops, do these things because that is the Girl Scout way. From 7 through 17, girls in Scouting are given unusual opportunities to learn about a wide variety of things -- careers, community and national problems, international affairs, the arts, homemaking, religion, pollution, camping, sports.

Each Girl Scout is encouraged to find out about the things that interest her, and Girl Scouting gives her a chance to learn and use skills that relate to her interest.

In Girl Scouting, girls are involved in making decisions, planning projects and following through on them. Service is the hallmark of Girl Scouting. Through learning and service Girl Scouts have fun. And they are working today for a better world tomorrow.

Suspended Sentence Given In Assault

Rayford Harris of Mocksville was found guilty of assault with intent to commit bodily harm in the session of Davie County District Court held Monday.

Judge C.H. Dearman sentenced Harris to one year, suspended for five years on the payment of $100 fine, court costs, and medical costs, and be on probation for two years.

Harris was originally charged with assaulting an officer and resisting arrest as the result of an incident January 10, 1972. The warrants were taken out by Mocksville Policeman Ralph Wayne Groce after Harris allegedly attacked Groce at his home around 7:30 p.m. that night.

Special Service

The district "Day Apart Service" will be observed on March 28 from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon at the Liberty United Methodist Church.

The theme will be : "A Sower Went Forth."

The speaker will be Mrs. C.C. (Bobbi) Phillips. Mrs. Phillips is area program chairman of spiritual growth of the Charlotte District.

Mrs. Geraldine Pilcher urges all WSCS members to attend and said visitors are invited.

Honor Roll Students Named

Of the five students who made the Honor Roll for the winter quarter at Salisbury Business College, three were Mocksville residents.

The three were Mrs. Anne L. Martinez, Miss Lois Shore, and Mrs. Joey H. Williams.

Mrs. Martinez, a Secretarial student, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L.F. Lipham, Miss Shore the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D... G. Shore 1121 Yadkinville Road, is enrolled in Junior Accounting. Mrs. Williams, wife of Sgt. William B. Williams, completed the Junior Accounting course in March.

Bowles Names Lady Coordinator For This Area

Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles, Democratic candidate for Governor, announced Friday the appointment of Mrs. J. M. Robertson of Harmony as ladies' coordinator for a six-county area in his drive for the Governor's office.

Mrs. Robertson will supervise women's political efforts in the counties of Rowan, Davie, Iredell, Alexander, Catawba and Wilkes.

A native of Wilkesboro and a graduate of Catawba College, the former school teacher serves as president of the Democratic Women of Iredell County. She also is deputy director of Democratic Women for the Ninth Congressional District.

She recently was named to the board of directors of the state organization of the American Cancer Society.

In making the announcement, Bowles said, "Ann Robertson can get the job done. Her long and distinguished record of community service and work within the Democratic party provides a sound basis for her work in the campaign. I am delighted to have her on our team."

Larry Harris In Sub School

Navy Seaman Apprentice Larry G. Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Harris of Route 2, Mocksville, N. C., has graduated from Submarine School at the Submarine Base in Groton, Conn.

He received training in the basic operational and emergency procedures used aboard our sub-surface ships, and after more than six months additional training aboard a submarine, will be qualified to carry out virtually any task aboard in an emergency. At that time he will be eligible to receive the Submariner's Silver Dolphins.

Caution Advised In Donation To Law Enforcement Journals

The Consumer Protection Division has issued a warning to Tar Heel Businessmen about placing advertising in so-called law enforcement journals. These magazines are represented to be official publications of law enforcement organizations. The representatives of these magazines have told businessmen that money donated through their advertising would be used to aid the families of State law enforcement officers.

One magazine claimed to have set up a scholarship fund at the University of North Carolina for children of North Carolina law enforcement officers. Officials of the university tell us that there is no such fund. Investigations have shown that these magazines have no paid subscriptions. They are not affiliated with, nor do they in any way financially assist, law enforcement agencies or associations. Advertisements placed in these magazines are of no value. These publications are in existence for the sole purpose of soliciting contributions and selling advertising to State businesses.

Several businessmen told us that they received a bill in the mail for advertising supposedly placed in one of these magazines. Several firms paid the bill before realizing that they never had placed such an ad and knew nothing about the publication. Representatives of these magazines have also solicited advertising and donations over the phone, using a promotion designed to take advantage of a citizen's interest in furthering the cause of law and order in his community.

The Attorney General urges all persons who receive bills for advertising or who are asked to purchase advertising or make contributions to supposed law enforcement journals, to contact the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office in Raleigh.

Senator Phil Kirk Is Appointed To Council

State Senator Phil Kirk, a candidate for re-election in Davidson, Davie and Rowan Counties, was appointed to the new Council on State Goals and Policies by Governor Bob Scott early this afternoon in Raleigh. Fifteen citizens were selected by the Governor to serve on this Council.

Governor Scott said, "This is one of the most important councils to be named during my administration. The work of the Council will make a very significant impact on North Carolina in the long range. North Carolina will benefit from your service as a member of this Council."

Senator Kirk, who is serving his first term in the legislature, is in Raleigh for a series of meetings in connection with his appointment.

The new council will be a high level advisory board to consider across the board all activities of state government that relate to the development of North Carolina. The group is charged with the task of identifying and expressing the total needs, and aspirations will be expressed in the form of specific goals for state action, along with a timetable within which the goals can be reasonably achieved.

Governor Scott charged the Council to develop a plan for the next 20 years for growth in the state. Legislation creating the Council was approved by the 1971 General Assembly. The group will study the resources of the state and will recommend policies, both short and long-range, which should receive priority consideration. The present structure and activities of state government will also be studied. The Council is also charged with informing the general public of the main problems facing North Carolina.

"I am pleased to be named to this council, and I look forward to this challenging assignment," Sen. Kirk said. It is the third special committee he has been named to since the General Assembly adjourned. He is also a member of the Citizens Committee on Schools and the legislative committee which is studying all motor vehicle laws.

MOCKS

The March meeting of the Mocks 4-H Club met March 7 at the Fellowship Hall of Mocks Church. The president, Lynn Jones, called the meeting to order. Everyone was welcomed.

Mrs. Ruby Carter and Marcia Myers had the devotions. The pledges to the flags and the songs were led by LuRae Ayers and Lucille Carter.

Everyone answered the roll call with what Easter meant to them. The answers centered around love and life most.

Old business consisted of the Bread Contest, Camp, and the Pecan Sale.

New business was the Talent Show held every year in each club. We will have our talent show at the next meeting. The winners will go on to compete with talent from other clubs in the county talent show. Demonstration Day was also discussed.

Mrs. Ruth Hockaday had the program. She talked to us about the proper way to introduce people. Also on the program was the correct way to set tables, and how to serve people. All the members participated in the program. Several demonstrated how to act when you go in a restaurant with a date and many other helpful things were discussed. Everyone should know how to act when going to formal places.

The club was dismissed. Refreshments were served by Larry Carter and Marcia Myers.

Marcia Myers

Davie Academy

The Davie Academy 4-H Club met Monday, March 6, 1972, at the community building. Jimmy Koontz called the meeting to order and led in the pledges to the 4-H and American flags. Donna Sharpe had devotions and Christa Tulbert called the roll and read the minutes. We had one new member, Lynn Ferebee, and two visitors.

For the business session we discussed the Breads Contest and the Talent Show.

"Egg Craft" was the name of our program and we decorated eggs.

Mrs. Marie Sharpe served refreshments.

Paula Shew,

SHADY GROVE

The meeting was held on March 10 in the Community Building. The president, Karen Cornatzer, then called the meeting to order. Then we sang the song, "The President on the Dollar" directed by Jill Carter, Ben Nayder and Charles Potts. We talked about having a candy sale. Then we talked about having a singing group for the talent show. Next we had an achievement quiz. Melany Shoaf and Catherine Nayder served refreshments.

Yadkin Valley News

The valley enjoyed the missionary conference last weekend with the Rev. Frank Rosser of the Baptist International Missions, of Chattanooga, Tenn.

On Friday night Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jessup of Harvard Road, Winston Salem attended the service and had a short part in telling of their mission work which is to begin in July in Canada. On Saturday night Mr. Larry Sellers showed slides and talked on his mission work in the Wilder Mountains of Tennessee. Mr. Rosser has been in mission work for 17 years and spent most of his time in Central America. He said he used John 1:12 to win more souls than any other scripture.

We are all so proud of the bus and the captains, drivers and all who work with it. And we are especially proud of each child that rides the bus and so glad that God is still in the saving power. We had several bus pupils saved in the Sunday service. The bus had the largest number on Sunday. There were a total of 48. Let us each and every one pray for the safety of our bus, and that God will continue to help the children and also grown ups to come and worship with us at the valley.

Mrs. Jennie Howell celebrated her 80th birthday March 12 at the home on Yadkin Valley Road with approximately 30 people to enjoy the large table of delicious food and fellowship . Those present were her sister Miss Dulcie Hauser, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Howell and Judy, Mr. and Mrs. Reeves Young and family, Mrs. Pansy Tuttle and Louann, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pigram and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Warner and family, Mr. and Mr. Vernon Howell Mr. and Mrs. Larry Blackburn of Greensboro, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Howell of Courtney. Mrs. Howell is the wife of the late Mr. Will Howell.

Mrs. Ann Rothrock and Mrs. Clifton Boles visited Mrs. Maude Hauser and Ruby McBride last Thursday.

Wesley Hauser was on the sick list last Friday with a virus and could not attend school.

Mr. and Mrs. David Smith and Allyson visited his parents in Portsmouth, Va. Mr. and Mrs. Charlie B. Smith.

Those visiting Mrs. Maude Hauser and Mr. and Mrs. Henry McBride, Sunday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Turner Hauser, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Hauser of East Bend, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Riddle, Mrs. Pansy Allen Jean Steelman, and Kelly Baity and Mrs. Lou Hauser, Letty and Wesley.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvis King are visiting a brother, Mr. and Mrs. Rob King and other relatives this week.

Mrs. Bessie Smith is still staying with her daughter Grace Langston.

Everyone is invited to attend a youth revival Saturday March 18 at 7:00 and on Sunday at 11:00. The young people and adults are all urged to attend these services at the valley.

Mr. Donald Miller and Wade Atkins is with the Crawford Door and working with them in West Jefferson this week.

Everybody Does It!

When Johnny was six years old, he was with his father when they were caught speeding. His father handed the officer a $5 bill and his driver's license. "It's O. K., son, his father said as they drove off. Everybody does it."

When he was nine, his mother took him to his first theater production. The box office man could not find any seats until his mother discovered an extra $2 in her purse. "It's O. K., son," she said. "Everybody does it."

When he was twelve, he broke his glasses on the way to school. His Aunt Francine persuaded the insurance company that they had been stolen and they collected $27. "It's O. K.," she said. "Everybody does it."

Whe he was fifteen, he made right guard on the high school football team. His coach showed him how to block and at the same time grab the opposing end by the shirt so the official couldn't see it. "It's O. K., kid," the coach said. "Everybody does it.", Whe he was sixteen, he took his first summer job at the big market. His assignment was to put the over-ripe tomatoes in the bottom of the boxes and the good ones on top where they would show. "It's O. K., kid," the manager said. "Everybody does it."

When he was eighteen, Johnny and a neighbor applied for a college scholarship. Johnny was a marginal student. His neighbors was in the upper three per cent of his class, but he couldn't play right guard. Johnny got the assignment. "It's O. K.," they told him. "Everybody does it."

Whe he was nineteen, he was approached by an upper classman who offered the test answers for $3. "It's O. K., kid," he said. "Everybody does it." Johnny was caught and sent home in disgrace. "How could you do this to your mother and me?" his father said. "You never learned anything like this at home." His aunt and uncle were also shocked.

If there's one thing the adult world can't stand, it's a kid who cheats.....

The New Directions

Musical Group At Liberty Sunday

The New Directions will be in Davie County at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, March 19, at the Liberty United Methodist Church. They will be presenting a Contemporary Concert revolving around the greatest Revolution the world has ever known - The Revolution of the Love of Jesus Christ.

Youth with a purpose - a sight today's people applaud - this is The New Directions. Originating in 1968 in Burlington, N.C. as just a handful of dedicated young people, the present organization now consists of over 50 active members.

The evident enthusiasm of The New Directions and their purposeful existence both revolve around one key figure, Jesus Christ, whose message they project through music. Their sound is contemporary, yet versatile, and, above all, honest. They developed their own particular musical witness to Christ long before the Jesus era in rock music made its appearance. As one group member explains, "To us Jesus Christ is not a fad, he is a fact."

The group is inter-racial and inter-denominational in composition. The members are high school and college youths from Burlington, Charlotte, and other surrounding areas in North Carolina. They travel with their own back-up rock band. Their reportoire consists of many songs composed and arranged especially for them by contemporary Christian Rock Musicians. With three albums already recorded, the New Directions are making plans for a fourth.

Since the summer of 1968 The New Directions have taken a yearly three-week singing tour to communicate their message about Jesus Christ. In yearspast, they have visited Mexico, Jamaica, and Haiti and have sung throughout the Southeastern US. This past summer their sights turned northward towards the Northeastern and Midwestern United States and Canada, with these areas commanding a large portion of their 1971 traveling itinerary.

Only this past June they traveled to Connecticut to assist Layton Ford, of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association, in his crusade in Bridgeport. The Christian foundation of these young people extends beyond the merely musical aspect. Their Director, J.L. Williams, requires each member to complete a specific series of Bible study programs. He also expects them to be able to offer counseling and support not only to those who seek it after their concerts but also to each other.

Director Williams lists other areas in which The New Directions have become meaningfully involved terming them the group's ministries. They publish a newspaper entitled Rebirth, and maintain the Life-Dig-It radio show in Charlotte, Burlington, Chapel Hill, and other cities. In Burlington they run a recreation area and playground for underprivileged black children. For the first time this summer they are also sponsoring a day camp in the country for elementary age children. Each of these ministries is manned and run by the young students who comprise The New Directions.

Friday Is Deadline For Conservation Poster Contest

Friday, March 17, is the deadline for the Conservation Poster Contest being sponsored by the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District in the seventh and eighth grades in Davie County. The posters are not restricted to soil and water conservation but to any sound conservation idea of our natural resources that the student may wish to present.

Rules for the poster contest may be obtained from any seventh or eighth grade teacher. Ribbons will be presented to winners of each school. Engraved plaques will be presented on the county level for first, second and third prize.

Judges for each school and the county level will be selected by the Board of Supervisors of the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District.

When the temperature goes down, your electric bill goes up.

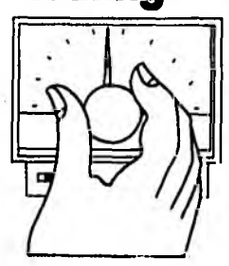

Here's how you can save.

Your electric bill is higher at this time of year. This is partly because of the recent rate increases—but mainly because you use more electricity during the winter months.

Here are some helpful suggestions on how to use electricity more efficiently in your home—and reduce your electric bill.

Heating

Set your thermostat at the lowest comfortable temperature. Each degree you reduce the temperature can reduce your heating cost by 5%.

Check for air leaks, and caulk or weatherstrip as needed. Open draperies in the daytime to let in the sun's heat; close them at night to keep out cold.

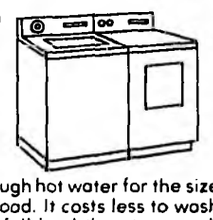

Clean re-usable filters or replace others often in furnaces. (Remember—it takes quite a bit of electricity to operate oil and gas furnaces, too.)

Water Heater

Don't set the water heater thermostat higher than necessary. Repair leaking faucets. Even a small dripping wastes water and can make your water heater work overtime, particularly when the water supply is much colder in the winter.

Washer and Dryer

Use only enough hot water for the size and type of load. It costs less to wash and dry one full load than two small ones, and saves you time, too.

Clean lint filter after each load. Don't overdry clothes; overdrying wastes electricity and damages fabrics.

Range and Oven

Use flat-bottomed utensils that match the size of your surface units. Cover utensils when possible.

For small meals, toaster ovens, fry pans and similar small appliances are more economical to use than the range oven.

When boiling water is used, set the element on high to come to a quick boil. Then, use the lowest setting that will continue the boil. Boiling harder does not make the water any hotter; it just wastes electricity.

Plan meals to use the oven for several foods at the same time. Never use your oven to heat your kitchen.

Lighting and Appliances

Turn off lights and TV when not actually needed.

Turn off small appliances as soon as you're through with them. Much electricity is wasted by carelessness.

These hints can help you get the most from electricity and reduce your electric bill.

Farm Family Of Year

Floyd and Model Munday. . . home and farm in background.

DAVIE COUNTY
ENTERPRISE RECORD
Features THURSDAY, MARCH 16, 1972 Page 1-B

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd M. Munday of Route 2, Advance were presented an award Monday for the FHA Farm Family of The Year" for Rowan and Davie Counties by Clarence Sink, local unit representative.

The annual award is presented each year to a farm family in recognition of contributions to the improvement of the home community, both socially and economically, through a successful family farm operation presented by U. S. Department of Agruculture - Farmers Home Administration.

The Mundays live on a 120 acre well-kept farm, where Floyd was born and worked as a boy.

Their biggest operation now is raising pigs. They sell part of their stock for feeder pigs and the remainder for slaughter hogs.

Mr. Munday says they do raise some tobacco which they dry and cure themselves and they raise wheat for feed purposes. But basically, they do very little farming. They buy about 85 per cent of the feed, which is more profitable to buy and bring in their own mill, than to grow it. This way, he says the weather is never a problem.

They also have about 60 head of beef cattle which they are also raising for slaughter.

They started the hog operation in 1965 and have been constantly adding to their operation since. They have 180 sows at the present time and more little piglets than the average person would see in a life-time.

They are well equipped with farrowing houses (Mrs. Munday says this is the maternity ward), nursing pens and the fedding out pens. "This operation has been fairly good", Mr. Munday explained, with the exception of last year. He said that the profit margin "was way down last year. "There was a larger supply than there was a demand over the entire United States."

Mrs. Munday helps a great deal in the farrowing house and also keeps a pretty good set of books, in addition to her regular chores around the home.

They agree that the operation is a team effort and could not be done by an individual. They have the latest equipment for the operation, such as automatic feeders, controlled simply by the flip of a switch.

Their son, Kenneth, came back to work full time this year and Floyd says he will soon be a partner. They also have a son, Billy, who is a senior at Davie High School.

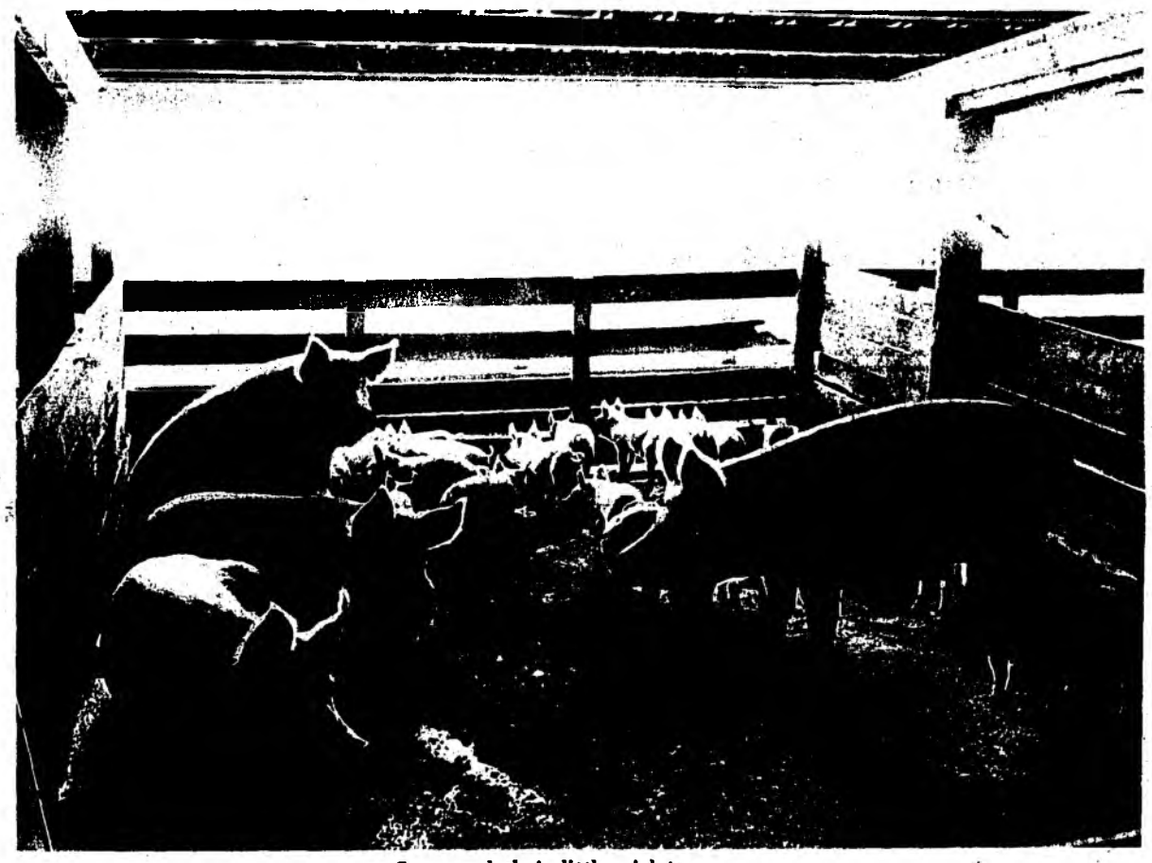

Billy plays football and with the other school activities only helps with the chores on a small scale. The entire operation is run by the three of them.

All the pens were built by Kenneth and his father, and they are now in the process of a new pen. Upon completion, they will be able to take care of 2000 head.

Mrs. Munday is very proud of the work her husband and her son has done on the farm, and although she didn't help them build the pens, she said she did "bring them a cold Pepsi while they were working", and supplied a good deal of moral support.

They feed the slaughter hogs until they weigh between 220 and 240 pounds and then sell them. If they get over the 240 mark, Mrs. Munday says they don't get as good as price for them.

She also says that a sow is capable of having from eight to 19 little piglets. "Nineteen is the most I have ever seen at one time."

Floyd said it takes 20 tons of feed a week to feed his pgis or approximately three tons per day, therefore, the weather could create a problem if you tried to raise all the feed yourself.

Floyd has been a farmer all his life. At one time, he did only work part-time at farming and at the same time was employed with a firm in Lexington. He soon decided farming was what he wanted altogether, and quit his other job.

Sink, the FHA representative was very pleased to present the award to Model and Floyd Munday. He pointed out that they had made a great deal of progress during the past several years and that they also were very good to cooperate with other agencies such as the Agriculture extention Service, Soil Conservation Service and the ASCS.

The Mo-Flo Farm (named for Model and Floyd) is quite an operation. After a complete tour, about all one can say is "that's a lotta ham!"

Miss Bowles Is Alternate

District Finalists Selected For Reynolds Scholarships

Two finalists and two alternates (one from Davie County) have been named by alumnae committees in each of the 11 districts in North Carolina in the 1972 competition for the Katharine Smith Reynolds Scholarships at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Finalists in district eight are Susan Lynn Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Guy Roberts, 1611 Second St., Salisbury, who attends Salisbury High School, and Vera Leigh Crooke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Smith Crooke, Rt. 9, Monroe, who attends Sun Valley High School.

The first alternate in district eight is Carol Ann Barnhardt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manlus Crawford Barnhardt, Jr., 124 Ridge Ave., Salisbury, who attends Salisbury High School. The second alternate for the district is Glenda Sue Bowles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Collins Bowles, Rt. 7, Mocksville, who attends Davie County High School.

The first alternate will be advanced to a finalist if for any reason either of the two finalists in the district withdraws from the competition before the final scholarship selections are made.

Final interviews for the 22 finalists will be held March 20 at UNC-G by the Reynolds Scholarship Central Committee. The group will select one Reynolds Scholar from each district and one such scholar from the state at large.

Each Reynolds Scholarship is valued at $1,600 per year, and is renewable for three additional years of study beyond the freshman year. Thus, a Reynolds Scholarship will be worth a potential of $6,400 to each of the 12 freshmen winners. The awards cover board, room, tuition, fees, books and miscellaneous expenses.

The scholarships are awarded on the basis of scholastic ability and attainments, evidence of moral force of character (including truthfulness, courage, devotion to duty, unselfishness and consideration of others), and capacity to lead and to take an interest in fellow students.

The Reynolds Scholarships were established by the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation in memory of Mrs. Katharine Smith Reynolds, a Woman's College (now UNC-G) alumna, wife of the founder of Reynolds Tobacco Co., and mother of the late R. J. Reynolds Jr.

The Foundation has made a grant of $81,000 to support the awards during the 1972-73 academic year at UNC-G.

Selection of Reynolds finalists was delegated to the Alumni Association of UNC-G by the Reynolds Foundation when the program was initiated in 1962. District committees were appointed to serve this function.

Northwest Historical Association Meets

The Northwest N. C. Historical Association quarterly meeting was held in Yadkinville, N. C.

Prior to the meeting the group visited the Richmond Hill Law School, once the home of Chief Justice Richmond Mumford Pearson, where Jimmie Hutchens and Pride Wooten conducted informal tours through the building.

The group then assembled at the new Yadkin County Library for a tour of the History Room, including the Hugh T. Lefler History Collection and the Richard B. Walser Literature Collection.

After refreshments, Joe C. Matthews, President of the Northwest N. C. Historical Association called the meeting to order, welcomed the guests, and elaborated on the fine stabilization which has been done at the Richmond Hill Law School.

The meeting was turned over to Jimmie Hutchens who introduced the speaker, Dr. H. G. Jones, Director of the State Department of Archives and History. Mr. Hutchens presented a plaque to Dr. Jones and his staff in appreciation for the expert help which the Yadkin County Historical Society has received from them.

In his talk on "The Historic Preservation Picture in N. C.", Dr. Jones pointed out that only recently have conscious efforts at restoration been made–the mania for monument building has given way to the idea of preserving what remains from the past. He pointed out that in N. C. today there are 5 historic sites of national significance which are owned and operated by the federal government; there are 15 State Historic Sites, which are properties owned, staffed and maintained with state funds. The prospect for obtaining funds for historic preservation in the future is not hopeful, because too many people view this as an unnecessary allocation of state money. Dr. Jones ended by saying that local interest and adaptive usage is the best means for preserving sites of historic importance.

After Dr. Jones' speech, Mr. Matthews proceeded with the business meeting. Mrs. W. W. Pitt talked to the group about possible plans for a tour of historical places in N. C. and sketched out two such tours as examples for consideration. Sponsoring a bus tour would be a possible method of creating interest in the historical association; there will be more discussion on this subject at the next meeting.

The next item of new business was discussion of annual membership dues. Mr. Hutchens made a motion that the association have yearly membership dues set at $2.00 for individuals and $5.00 for a family; the motion was approved unanimously.

Anyone wishing to join or visit an association meeting may contact Mr. Joe J. Matthews, Government Building, Winston-Salem, N. C.: Mrs. Betty Pitt, Historic Bethabara, 2147 Bethabara Road, Winston-Salem, N. C. 27106; or Mr. Jim Wall in Mocksville, or Mrs. Jack W. Paige, Route 3, Mocksville.

Cooleemee News

The Cooleemee Parent Teachers Association will hold their regular meeting on Monday, March 20, in the Cooleemee Elementary School Auditorium at 7:30.

The Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Foster were Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Foster, Tom and Norma, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Swicegood, Sharon and Regina,and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Koontz of Woodleaf.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sisk of Statesville were the Sunday afternoon guests of her mother, Mrs. Annie Swicegood. They also visited with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Swicegood of Rt. 3, Mocksville.

Mrs. Guy Beane, mother of Randall Beane of Cooleemee, was released from the hospital in Valdese after undergoing treatment for the past three weeks. She is recuperating at her home in Lenoir.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Stout of Raleigh were the weekend guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Stout of Cooleemee. They returned home Sunday.

Pre-School Children

All parents of pre-school children who wish to enter the Cooleemee School in the fall, are asked to either call the school or drop by and register their children by Thursday, March 23.

Gerald Hunter Completes Workshop

Gerald T. Hunter from Mocksville Middle School has completed a workshop in the Carolina Heritage Series at the Supplementary Educational Center, in Salisbury, North Carolina.

"From Antebellum to Civil War", number two of the series began in January and ended this week. Topics included in the workshop were: Federalism and Jeffersonian Democracy, North Carolina's general attitude, Reaction to Federal acts, Indian removal, the War of 1812, The "Rip Van Winkle State' The Convention of 1835, Prelude to War, The Civil War.

Cooleemee Senior Citizens

The Cooleemee Senior Citizens met on Monday March 13, with 70 members attending.

Mr. J.H. Jarvis led the devotional program, speaking on "A Trip to the Holy Land through the Four Gospels."

"The Ole Gray Mare Ain't What She Used to Be" was the theme for the program in which several members participated.

The club was given an invitation to sing at the First Baptist Church on March 27, and also, at the Cooleemee United Methodist Church on March 28.

Sandwiches and coffee were served during the fellowship hour and door prizes were won by Ruth Painter, Mrs. Barber, Sam Myers and Mrs. C.R. Ridenhour.

The theme for the next meeting will be "Easter Parade". Each member is also asked to bring a sandwich, coffee will be furnished.

The Story Of Marijuana

Cannabis, or marijuana, is obtained from the flowering tops of hemp plants. It is a very ancient drug and is mentioned in the herbal of the Chinese Emperor Shen Mung (ca. 2700 B. C.).

Other names for this include hashish, charas, bhang, ganja and dagga.

The common hemp is an herbaceous annual, of which Cannabis sativa is the sole species and Cannabis indica and americana are some of the few varieties. The resinous exudate of the tops of the female plant contains most of the active ingredients; in the Middle East and North Africa the resin is called hashish; in the Far East it is called haras. The dried leaves and flowering shoots of the female hemp plant, containing smaller amounts of the active substance, are called bhang, and the resinous mass from the small leaves and brackets of inflorescence is called ganja.

In the United States the term marijuana is used to refer to any part of the plant or extract therefrom which induces somatic and psychic changes in man. Most commonly, the plant is cut, dried, chopped, and incorporated into cigarettes.

Animals given marijuana show vomiting and diarrhea, fibrilary tremors and ataxia. The drug does not produce gross sedation or dypnosis in animals. Blood pressure and respiration are usually depressed, and the heart rate is somewhat increased. In mice, some of the more potent synthetic analogs prolong barbiturate sleeping time and also potentiate the increase in activity produced by amphetamine. Such synthetics also lower blood pressure, relax the gut, and depress certain polysynaptic reflexes.

In man the drug is usually taken by the inhalation of its smoke. The effect occur within a few minutes and the duration of effect is relatively short. After ingestion, usually of the more purified resin, one-half to one hour may elapse before onset of effect, and the influence may persist for 3 to 5 hours.

There are no lasting ill effects from the acute use of marijuana and no fatalities have ever been reported. On smoking the drug, there is usually an increase in pulse rate, a slight rise in blood pressure, and conjunctival vascular congestion; blood sugar is slightly elevated; there is urinary frequency without diuresis; and dryness of the mouth and throat as well as nausea, vomiting and occasional diarrhea have also been noted. A marked increase in the appetitie (especially for sweets) and hunger are said to be characteristic.

The subjective effects of the drug are exquisitely dependent not only on the personality of the user but also the dose, the route of administration, and the specific circumstances in which the drug is used. The most common reaction is the development of a dreamy state of altered consciousness in which ideas seem disconnected, uncontrollable, and freely flowing. Ideas come in disrupted sequences, things long forgotten are remembered, and others well known cannot be recalled. Perception is disturbed, minutes seem to be hours, and seconds seem to be minutes; space may be broadened, and near objects may appear far distant. When larger doses are used, extremely vivid hallucinations may be experienced; these are often pleasant, but their coloring, sexual or otherwise, is more related to the user's personality than to specific drug effects. There are often marked alterations of mood; most characteristically there is a feeling of extreme well-being, exaltation, excitement and inner joyousness (described as being "high"). Uncontrollable laughter and hilarity at minimal stimuli are common. This is often followd by a moody reverie, but occasionally the depressed mood may be the initial and predominant reaction.

With the larger dose, panic states and fear of death have been observed; the image may seem distorted; the head often feels swollen and extremities seem heavy. Illusions are not uncommon, and the feeling of being a dual personality may occur.

Even with smaller doses, behavior is impulsive and random ideas are quickly translated into speech; violent or aggressive behavior, however, is infrequent. When the subject is alone, he is inclined to be quiet and drowsy; when in company, garrulousness and hilarity are the usual picture. Given the properly predisposed personality and high enough dosage, the clinical picture may be that of a toxic psychosis. In studies of cases of prolonged use, subjects became indolent and nonproductive and showed neglect of personal hygiene; they quickly lost interest in both assigned vocational tasks and recreational pursuits.

The influence of marijuana on intellectual functions and on emotional reactions and general personality structure have been studied with the conclusion that basic personality structure is not changed and that thoughts or emotions totally alien to the individual are not aroused by the drug.

It is difficult not to be struck with the remarkable similarity between the description of the behavioral and subjective effects of large doses of marihuna and similar descriptions of the psychotogenics such as LSD, mescaline, and psylocibin. This is especially true when the more potent synthetics are used rather than marijuana itself.

Although marijuana was once used for a wide variety of clinical disorders and has even been demonstrated to have antibacterial activity, there are at present no well-substantiated indications for its use. It is no longer an official drug.

In the United States marijuana is taken by inhaling the smoke from cigarettes called "reefers". It is also known as "tea", "Mary Jane", "pot", or "the weed". Depending on the purity, it usually take only one or two cigarettes to produce the desired effect. Most users limit their intake and avoid the unpleasant hallucinatory effects of high dosage.

Since 1937 it has been listed separately under the federal narcotic control laws, and its illegal possession or distribution is subject to the same severe penalties as prescribed for violations of the narcotic laws. It must be admitted that at the time of the passage of these laws histories from some, but not all, heroin users indicated that the use of marijuana had preceded the use of heroin. However, the casual relationship between these two events has never been substantiated. In spite of the once-heated interchanges among members of the medical profession and between the medical profession and law enforcement within the medical community, marijuana apparently does not directly cause criminal behavior, juvenile delinquency, sexual excitement or addiction. Therefore, while attempts to limit its use are appropriate, the hazards of use should not be exaggerated.

Government Spending Is Discussed For Rotary

"We're going broke . . and going broke fast!"

That was what the Rotary Club was told Tuesday as the speaker discussed "inflation and irresponsible government spending."

The speaker was Charles Benbow of Statesville, a general agent with the Integon Company.

Mr. Benbow told the Rotarians that twenty years ago he heard the prediction and warning of inflation.

Then Coca Colas were a nickel . . today they are 20 cents; then a movie ticket was 25 cents . . today $1.50; then you could build a good house for $10,000 . . today that same house will cost you $40,000; an auto then cost around $2,000 . . today it is more in the neighborhood of $6,000," said Mr. Benbow.

"And if we don't stop it pretty quick, in ten years the price of a Coca Cola will go to a dollar; a movie ticket will be $10; the $40,000 house of today will be $200,000; and we will be paying $30,000 for an automobile," he said.

Placing the blame on Congress, Mr. Benbow said what was needed was "hard nose, cost conscious businessmen as law makers."

Using charts Mr. Benbow discussed the various health care plans now being considered in Congress and pointed out the weaknesses of each.

Roy W. Collette had charge of the program and introduced Mr. Benbow. President Leo Williams presided.

DECA Schedules Raleigh Meeting

Nearly a thousand outstanding high school students will meet in Raleigh March 17 and 18 for the annual State Leadership Conference of the North Carolina Association of Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA).

Participating in the conference will be students from Davie High.

The students will take part in contests for public speaking, advertising, sales demonstration, Miss DECA, and DE Student of the Year.

While in Raleigh the distributive education students will tour several businesses and industries including Southern Bell Telephone, WRAL-TV, Wachovia Bank, Dillon Supply Compnay, WPTF Radio Station, and Cameron Village. Tours have been arranged for the North Carolina Legislative Building, the States Archives Building, and the Museum of Natural History and Art.

DECA is the youth activities organization for distributive education students in the state's high schools. Distributive education is a program designed for juniors and seniors which teaches marketing functions in our free enterprise system.

Davie Baseball Team In Game Here Friday

The Davie High baseball team will open its season here Friday afternoon with a conference game here against South Iredell. The game will be played at Rich Park at 4 p.m.

The War Eagles met the West Forsyth Titans in a practice game Tuesday.

Coaches Julius Suiter and Kenneth Boger will field a strong team of veterans from last year's championship team.

Coach Suiter has indicated that the following players will be the line up for the Friday opener.

David Poplin, catcher; Robert Anderson, 1st base; Randy McDaniel, short stop; Paul Beaver 3rd base; Billy Wall, left field; Army Riddle will move from center to right field; and Ricky Allred, will play center field. Mike Alexander will play second base. Allred and Alexander are the two rookies.

Paul Ijames and Terry Johnson are the veteran pitchers from last years conference that had a record of 14 wins and 2 losses.

Davie will play seven night game this year, five of which will be played in Mocksville.

On Tuesday, March 21, Davie will play North Iredell here at 4 p.m.

Davie Rebels Campout At Midway

The Davie Rebels, Chapter of the National Campbers and Hikers Association, attended a campout March 11-12 at Midway Campground. A covered dish supper was held at the Club House Saturday night.

In the past year, the Club has completed three projects which entitled them to three merit stripes.

First, the Club members pickup up litter in the litter survey. Jerry Swicegood spoke to the group on "Litter and Highway Beautification". Second, bird and duck houses and feeders were made for families and Conservation Director, Calvin Evans spoke on "Wildlife". The third project was setting out pine seedlings for Forrestry. Wayne Draughn and Mike Neeley, Forrestry leaders, showed films and made comments on fire prevention, Forrestry Management, Southern pine and Ips beetles and pest control.

The next meeting is set for April 8 at Als Marino on Lake Norman.

Not Exactly Irish, But . . . A Lilt of Laughter, Yes!

WINSTON-SALEM – There will be no malice intended if a basketball player throws a green orange at a referee Friday night in the Winston-Salem Coliseum and then gleefully shouts, "The Irish Debil made me do it!"

It will be St. Patrick's Day, and one of the teams will be the Harlem Globetrotters – the celebrated black merrymakers who are unequaled in mixing basketball wizardry with fun (and they're not above an occasional good-natured ethnic joke).

The Trotters, in their 46th season as the game's top attraction, will play the New Jersey Reds in the feature of a 2½-hour program scheduled to start at 8 p.m. in the 8,500-seat arena.

Pre-game and halftime shows will include a variety of gymnastics and other sports. Among them are table tennis aces Jack Bender of England and Norikazu Fujii of Japan; the balancing act of Johnny and Walter Yong, the German-Chinese brothers; Colorado's Pickering family, trampolinists; baton-twirling champion Joyce Rice of Iowa; and the German "rubber man," contortionist Eddy Seifert.

North Carolina products Meadowlark Lemon and Fred "Curly" Neal are headliners with the Globetrotters. Lemon is a Wilmington native. Neal, of Greensboro, is a graduate of Johnson C. Smith University at Charlotte.

At Wilmington's Williston High School, Lemon won all-state honors in basketball and football. He spent two years in the Army before joining the Globetrotters in 1954, after a tryout while he was serving in Germany and the Trotters were on a European tour.

Neal became a Globetrotter in 1963, after all-state basketball honors at Greensboro's Dudley High School and all-conference selection at Smith University. Nicknamed "Curly" in jest of his shaved and shining pate, and sometime comic as one of the game's most accomplished dribblers, he is also a deadly shot from long distance – one of the game's few high-arching, long-shot artists.

Still another Tar Heel with the internationally famous "Magicians of Basketball" is Jackie Jackson, who was born at New Bern. Jackson grew up in Brooklyn, where he was a basketball and track star at Boys' High School. He played college basketball at Virginia Union University in Richmond – where he averaged 23 rebounds and 19 points a game for three seasons, and was team captain in his senior year. He became a Globetrotter in 1966, after two years in the Army.

MEADOWLARK LEMON . . . Globetrotters' "Clown Prince."

Debbie Burton Second In Overall Conference Scoring

North Rowan's James Henderson is the North Piedmont Conference's boys basketball scoring champion for the 1971-72 overall season.

Henderson averaged 23.5 points with 588 points in 25 games to lead the conference. He also won the regular season title.

Paul Beaver of Davie scored 327 points in 22 games for a 14.9 average. Terry Smoot had 284 points in 22 games for an average of 12.9 points.

Debbie Burton of Davie was second in the overall season in the girls division with 257 points in 17 games for a 15.1 point average. She missed the last seven games due to a kidney operation.

The winner of the girls' division was Ann Ellis for the third straight year, scoring 377 points in 21 games for a 17.9 average.

Paula Barnhardt of Davie scored 237 points in 24 games for a 9.9 average.

Skiing On Weekends Only

Skiing at Beech Mountain will be limited to weekends only for the remainder of the season.

In announcing the decision, Ernie Rhymer, director of corporate services, said he hopes to be able to operate on weekends at least through March. "It all depends on the weather," he quickly added.

Daily recreational activity will still be available at Beech. The outdoor ice skating rink, located on the heart of Beech Tree Village, will remain open on a daily basis. The 60' x 120' rink was opened in December. Rental skates and professional instruction are available.

Beech Mountain, an all-seasons' resort located in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Western North Carolina, is eastern America's highest and the southeast's largest ski resort. Beech Mountain was developed by Carolina Caribbean Corporation who is also the developer of Land Harbors of America, a resort for campers at Linville; Triple-C-Mini Ranches near Charlotte; and The Reef, a condominium complex of 101 villas at St. Croix, U. S. Virgin Islands.

Davie Drama Students Attend Speech Festival

Thirteen drama students from Davie High attended the 16th annual speech festival held on the campus of Wake Forest University last Friday and Saturday.

Twenty-two schools in North Carolina participated.

There were six speech categories: Extemporaneous, radio announcing, oral interpretation, duo acting, after dinner speaking, and original oratory.

The participants from Davie were: Andy Reavis, oral interpretation and duo acting; Sherri Dull, oral interpretation; Lynn Hicks, after dinner speaking, original oratory, radio announcing; Jane Steele, oral interpretation; David Call, radio announcing; Susan Hart, oral interpretation; Sandra Hart, oral interpretation; Jackie Mauldin, duo acting and oral interpretation; Ricky Hendrix, duo acting and radio announcing; Danny Miller, duo acting.

Attending for observation were Pam Russ, Betty Davis, Gary Godbey and Kathy Paige.

Awards were given to all participants. Among the top winners were Cindy Reavis, Jane Steele and Lynn Hicks, winning superior awards.

Sherri Dull, Lynn Hicks, Susan and Sandra Hart won excellent rated awards.

Mrs. Joyce Hart, speech and drama director at Davie High, also attended.

Wrestling At Lexington

Rip Hawk and Swede Hanson - wrestling's Blonde Bombers - will meet the mammouth Man Mountain Mike and Abe Jacobs in a Lexington YMCA wrestling feature Saturday night.

The Bombers are big, especially Hanson, but they will still have to spot weight to their opponents because Man Mountain Mike happens to weigh 612 pounds, all by his lonesome, and Jacobs adds another 235.

Rock Hunter and Jap Matti Suzuki meet the popular Texas team of Nelson Royal and Paul Jones in the semi finals.

Girl wrestlers Toni Rose and Vicki Williams will meet in a special event that follows an opening match between heavy weights Bobby Paul and Nick Russo.

An important message for People who prepare their own income tax returns.

Maybe you've been cheating yourself all these years.

When it comes to income taxes, amateurs should depend on H & R Block.

For example, do you know all about deductions for child care or casualty losses? And maybe you aren't aware that if your income increased last year, you may be able to save tax dollars by "Income averaging."

Yes, maybe you can save a couple of bucks by doing your own return but it really may be costing you a lot more by not having your return done by H&R Block.

"Scholar Trek '72"

Skip Senior Year, Enter College

"Scholar Treck '72" was launched this week by Mars Hill College in an effort to locate 25 qualified high school juniors willing and able to skip their senior year and enter college this summer.

College freshman courses are often duplicates of what high school seniors study, according to Dr. John M. Hough, associate dean for academic affairs and directors of "Scholar Trek '72". He said the project is an attempt to avoid such duplication for outstanding high school juniors whereby they may earn a high school diploma and complete their freshman college year at the same time.

The 25 students will take a freshman English course and an elective during the July-August term of the Mars Hill summer school. Upon successful completion of the two courses (equivalent to eight semester hours of credit) and a demonstrated capacity to adjust to college life, the students will be admitted as freshmen this fall – "providing their high schools will award them diplomas in the spring of 1973," Hough said.

The idea is not new, he said, and several other colleges in the state are recruiting high school juniors also. He noted that Mars Hill has had academic courses for high school students for several years. "We found many stable and mature high school students who were academically qualified and emotionally ready for college," he said.

Hough and his staff began the search this week with inquiries to 5,000 high schools in North and South Carolina, Virginia, Tennessee, Georgia, Florida, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and Ohio.

Green Meadows

Mid-week services have been cancelled at Green Meadows Church, so that members may attend the Southern Baptist Missionary Convention meeting this week at Winston Salem Convention Center, Tuesday night through Thursday morning.

The Green Meadows congregation will join with the Blaise Church congregation in a joint baptismal service, at Blaise Baptist Church on Hwy. 601 near Mocksville on Sunday March 19.

Welcome to Mr. and Mrs. W.G. Smith who have moved their trailer onto a lot near Spillman road. The Smiths are newlyweds. Mrs. Smith is the former Vicky Vanhoy of Kernersville.

Mrs. Gray Matthews has been confined to her home for several days with a sore leg.

Visiting the Tommy Harper family on Sunday were his parents of Statesville. They attended the morning worship service at Green Meadows.

Joe Langston visited Mitchell Wheeler on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Wheeler who has not been well for some time has an added ailment of ear infection.

The Green Meadows Church were happy to welcome last Sunday into their fellowship Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hanes.

Eugene Lee will enter the progressive care department of Baptist Hospital on Wednesday for a series of tests for a heart condition that has kept him confined for over 4 months.

Sandra, Lisa and Chris Smith visited their grandmother Bessie Smith on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Smith remains with a daughter Grace Langston, recuperating seeming slow and she would like to thank everyone for the many visits, cards, fruits, flowers and other thoughts of kindness. She is still confined to the house and appreciates the visits of friends.

Long lines of cars at the seed stores on Saturday verified the fact that spring is almost here and if that didn't tell one anything, I believe everyone who owned a motorcycle was out riding on Sunday.

Tests For Food Handlers Discontinued

Tests for tuberculosis and syphilis required for food handlers in North Carolina until repealed Oct. 28, 1971, by the N. C. State Board of Health were time consuming and largely worthless procedures, according to Dr. J. N. MacCormack, head of the Communicable Disease Control Section, N. C. State Board of Health.

The decision to discontinue the requirements for annual examinations was supported by the majority of local health directors throughout the state.

Dr. MacCormack said neither human tuberculosis nor syphilis is transmitted through food. "Since the primary function of the food handler examination was to protect the public against foodburne disease, the examination as conducted was without basis."

Answering numerous critical inquiries concerning discontinuing the tests, Dr. MacCormack pointed out that common foodborne diseases do not lend themselves to control through the screening of food handlers. "Proper food handling techniques are more important than an annual examination for diseases which are not transmitted through food." He revealed that a committee of state and local health department people are working on a statewide plan for educating food handlers in proper handling techniques.

Dr. MacCormack also expressed doubt that food handler examinations are worth performing simply as a screening procedure for syphilis and tuberculosis on a cost-effectiveness basis. "Of 807 cases of infectious syphilis turned up during fiscal 1969-70, only two were discovered as a result of food handler examinations."

Dr. MacCormack emphasized that there are more effective ways to screen for tuberculosis, as indicated by a recent survey of the 50 state health departments and 212 of the largest local health departments which showed that only 0.1 percent of food handlers had positive X-rays.

Bits Of Life

James Edwin Chapman

By ROSCOE BROWN FISHER

My recent 19-day confinement at the North Carolina Baptist Hospital was only five minutes old when I first met Jimmy Chapman.

Jimmy was one of the four doctors that night at 11:05 a.m. when they rolled me into room 305.

"Yes, I remember quite well," Jimmy said several weeks later as I sat in his Winston - Salem apartment chatting with him and his lovely wife of four years — Phyllis Kay.

We were discussing those earlier moments when I lay critically ill at the mercy of the four doctors, who worked relentlessly over my faultering body that night — a night I have re - lived a 1000 times since . . . it seems.

Jimmy continued, "A Medical Center as the Baptist Hospital is like a pyramid. There is the attending physician — who is in charge, the resident physician, the intern, and last, the medical student. I happened to be the medical student on duty the night they brought you to the emergency room."

I am grateful for the contributions of all the assisting physicians who assisted in saving my life — yet, there was that added personal attachment that grew and grew as Jimmy made daily visits to my small room at the hospital during the time a "one to one" relationship meant so much.

What a treat! To be aware that my path had crossed that of a young doctor, ready to step through the threshold into that large world of healing power . . . a young soon-to-be physician with such personal capacity for the sick, the maimed, the lonely, the dying — all that vast and unending crowd of humanity crying out for mercy.

Jimmy is a senior medical student at the Bowman Gray Medical School. He has already passed part one of the National Board which will enable him to practice in any of the 50 states.

His list of honors and achievements reads like the glories of a college president: Honor graduate of Carson Newman College, Jefferson City, Tennessee; President, Beta, Beta, Beta; Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities; Blue Key Honor Fraternity ... and on and on. While working in the summer to earn money to add to that Phyllis made teaching school, he initiated a screening heart detection program for the Forsyth Public Health Department in Winston - Salem. It is still in operation.

Being in the presence of Jimmy Chapman and his soft - spoken wife seemed to he enough that night — the words made little difference. Then, we three slipped into the nursery to provide at least a glance of the three - month - old "bundle from heaven" — Lauren Elizabeth . . . and when the infant raised her tiny torso and small head upon her little arms and hands ... and smiled — this was the overflow from the cup of life that night for me.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Ellis and family had lunch with Mr. and Mrs. Ausbon Ellis Sunday.

There were quite a few members that had been out sick, but saw them back at church Sunday.

Those still in the hospital are Mrs. John Cope, Fordie Beauchamp, Leonard Howard, Sam Howard are in Davie County Hospital and Tillett Walker is a patient at Forsyth Memorial Hospital.

Bryant Cook is still in the South Miami hospital, and I am sure he would appreciate a card from the church members. I, Dorothy Ellis, did not realize how much a card could mean to an individual, until I was in the hospital, and I was one of those that really looked for cards, and know how much it made a day to get them. So let's not forget the sick!

Mrs. Ben Ellis and Cindy West went shopping in Winston-Salem last Saturday with Mrs. Elwood Carter.

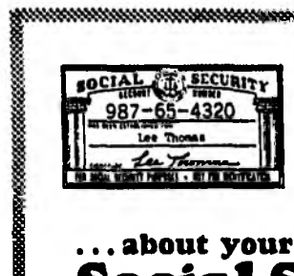

I would like to remind the men of our church that there will be a work day on the graveyard and church grounds, Saturday, March 18th. Please keep this in mind and be there to help.

What's new in herbicides?

AAtrex® 4L. It pours.
New AAtrex 4L is the brand of atrazine that pours. This special liquified product controls most annual grass and broadleaf weeds in corn and sorghum right up to harvest just like AAtrex wettable powder.
But with AAtrex 4L there's no premixing. You simply shake and pour it directly into the tank. And apply in a minimum of 10 gallons of water per acre.
Easier handling. A minimum of agitation. And less chance of nozzle and screen plugging. That's AAtrex 4L. And we have it! In 1 gal. and 5 gal. containers. If you prefer, we'll apply it for you.

...about your Social Security
by Vernice Fulcher
Do you remember in last week's article I told you I had two examples I wanted to share with you? Well, here is the first one and next week we'll have the other.
Some months ago I was interviewing a young woman who had cancer. She had reached the point where she could no longer work and she wanted to file for disability benefits. Since her husband had left her three years before, she had been the sole support of her four year old twins. Her only work experience had been as a maid in a private home. She told me she had worked for the same family since before her twins were born. She said she had asked her employer to report her income to social security, but this was never done. However, her employer had furnished her with a statement each year of how much money she had earned.
Since it is basically the responsibility of an employer to report earnings for social security, we contacted her employer, reconstructed her work record, reported the earnings through the Internal Revenue Service, and credit the woman's social security record making is possible for her to meet the work requirement for disability benefits. The employer was penalized for not paying the tax timely and the woman was about to be denied eligibility for disability benefits. The delay in reporting cost the employer extra money and almost cost the employee a disability monthly benefit.
Don't let this happen to you or anyone you hire to work in your home. Find out what your responsibility is. Call or write the social security office at 105 Corriher Avenue, Salisbury, N. C. 28144. Our telephone number is 633-6470.

James Beard In "Such Good Friends"

Davie Resident Pleased With Role In Film

The latest movie of James Beard, who lives on a farm just out of Mocksville, Rt. 4, began running last week at the Reynolda Cinema in Winston-Salem.

The movie is entitled "Such Good Friends" and was made last summer. It is directed by Otto Preminger and features Dyan Cannon, James Coco, Jennifer O'Neill, Ken Howard, Nina Foch, in addition to Mr. Beard.

Mr. Beard, currently teaching acting at the North Carolina School of the Arts, saw the finished version of this movie for the first time last Thursday in the company of about 20 of his students.

After viewing the film, Mr. Beard told a Winston-Salem reporter that he was "pleased with the way it came out".

Most all of the scenes he made for the film are in the final version of the picture. Often a lot of scenes are cut from the film and the actor never knows until he sees the final version which scenes he is included in.

"Just about all my scenes are there, though," he said. "They didn't use a couple of shots, but the major scenes are there."

In this picture, Mr. Beard has a small part, but one that is very crucial to the story.

James Beard

The movie, based on Lois Gould's best seller, is about a young wife, played by Dyan Cannon, whose husband goes to the hospital to have a mole removed from his neck.

The operation is a "success". However, due to medical incompetence and a series of complications, her husband's condition turns critical.

While he is lying unconcious in the hospital, the wife learns that her husband, whom she has always thought to be faithful to her, has been having affairs with all of her friends.

James Beard plays Dr. Mahler, the surgeon who removes the mole and cuts an artery in the process, thus starting the chain of events that leads to the husband's death.

Mr. Beard has four or five big scenes, totaling 15 minutes or more, most with Miss Cannon and James Coco, who plays her family physician. Like the entire picture, Beard's scenes, which took over 20 hours to film, are grimly and bitterly comic.

In what was described by an arts reporter as one of his best scenes, Beard comically slices up a baked apple, surgeon style, and proceeds to eat it while casually informing Miss Cannon of her husband's failing condition.

The laughter of the audience during this scene indicated to Beard that he had done it successfully.

"Most of that was my own invention. Preminger usually lets his actors work that way," said Mr. Beard.

Mr. Beard also appeared in the Otto Preminger film, "Tell Me That You Love Me, Junie Moon".

Mr. Beard also used his own beard (which he has since shaved) and his own clothes in the film.

"I'm wearing one thing that isn't mine, though, a bow tie. It belongs to my father, and he recognized it when he saw the movie," Beard said.

You Break My Heart, Mister

By W. O. NEWMAN
Kentucky State
Commissioner of Public Safety

Are you one of the people who call me on the telephone or write me a letter to tell me my troopers are stopping motorists and giving them tickets for "no reason at all"? I wouldn't know. You never give your name.

You tell me you're a good citizen and a safe driver just using Interstate 64 for what it was intended — speed. And that "dumb cop" gave you a ticket. You break my heart! I hope the next time you're tearing down the road at 85 mph that a trooper catches you before you smash into a concrete bridge abutment and he has to help pry your lifeless body out of that crushed speed machine of yours. I hope we can teach you a lesson with a ticket so maybe you don't cause a wreck and cost somebody else his life or her life.

You really break my heart telling me you don't have time to go to court about that ticket. I wish you could come with me to the scene of a wreck sometime. I wish I could make you stand and watch a man writhe in the gravel on the shoulder of a highway while he waits for an ambulance that will get there too late to do anything but carry him to the morgue. I wish I could make you help scrape the bits of bone and flesh of a whole family off the asphalt and into baskets. You'd vomit just like my troopers do, but you'd think differently next time you climbed into your car.

You said you were driving safely when the trooper stopped you. The road was clear and there was no harm in edging over the speed limit a few miles per hour, you said. I'm really impressed with your ability to judge road conditions. I'm only sorry a trooper wasn't at that same place a few months ago when a man with a wife and four children had a blowout at over 80 pmh. He might have slowed him down, and his children would still have a father, and his wife a husband.

Oh, am I getting you mad again? That man might have been mad if a trooper had stopped him. He might have written me a letter. But he'd be alive. Your letter doesn't bother me, friend. What bothers me is that you apparently haven't learned your lesson. You're probably going to bet back behind the wheel of your car, thinking you own the road and nothing can happen to you. You don't think about the other people on the road who want to go on living.

And who gave your kid driving lessons? You? Then he's probably got a couple of tickets, too. It's no wonder he weaves in and out of traffic, speeds and leaves strips of burned rubber at stop lights. I hope we catch him, too, mister; before we have to call you and your wife to identify his body at the morgue. I don't want to catch you crying and wishing you hadn't let him have a car until he learned to drive maturely.

You say you want my troopers to let you off with a warning. What you really want is for us to stop doing our jobs. You want us to let you go until you meet another guy just like you — head on.

You're mad because you get a ticket, and you have to take time off from work to go to court. You break my heart, mister.

Debbie Benson Is Actress In Mitchell College Play

A Mocksville girl has a leading role in an Edward Albee one-act play that will be presented this weekend at Mitchell College, according to the director Roy Colquitt.

Debbie Benson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Benson of Mocksville, Rt. 4, plays the role of "Mommy" in "The American Dream". This is a very domineering character who puts Daddy down at every turn, constantly telling him when he is wrong. Grandma, Debbie Crouch, urges Daddy to become more forceful.

"The American Dream" is an absurdist comedy that satirizes the family structure and the American view of marriage. In the play Mommy and Daddy and Grandma await the arrival of the social worker who sold them a baby a few years ago.

Paula Benfield is the social worker who must either refund the purchase price of the baby or provide an appropriate substitute. A choice in the latter direction introduces the American Dream, played by Bo Gainey, a very handsome character with no intelligence.

The curtain goes up at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday nights at Rotary Auditorium in the Mitchell College Library.

Mrs. Doris Betts Writes 5th Novel

Mrs. Doris Betts of Sanford has written her fifth book of fiction THE RIVER TO PICKLE BEACH. It is 400 pages and is being published by Harper and Row.

Mrs. Betts, a native of Statesville, now lives in Sanford and commutes to the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where she has been a member of the English faculty since 1966.

She has twice won North Carolina's highest fiction prize, the Sir Walter Raleigh award, for earlier novels TALL HOUSES IN WINTER and THE SCARLET THREAD. Her other books, both collections of short stories, include THE GENTLE INSURRECTION and THE ASTRONOMER.

The new novel is set in a fictionalized area of Brunswick County, on the North Carolina coast, at an imaginary beach which derives its name from the pickerelweed growing in marshes along the southeastern seaboard. The novel takes place in the summer of 1968 and explores a local murder against the national violence which included the assassinations of Martin Luther King and Robert F. Kennedy.

Rowan Tech Honors List

The Honors List of students attending Rowan Technical Institute during the winter quarter has been announced by President C. Merrill Hamilton.

To qualify for the Honors List, a student must take a minimum work load of 12 quarter hours and maintain at least a 3.0 ("B") average with no grade lower than "C".

Students from the county included on the list are: Patricia Brooks of Cooleemee, Medical Secretarial Science; Robert Brogdon of Cooleemee, Electronics Technology; Annie Cranfill, Carolyn Richards, Estelle Sammons, and Kathy Stanley of Mocksville, and Ethel Wilson of Cooleemee, Practical Nurse Education.

rates

If you bought a Packard or a Ford or a Pontiac in 1938, and you got your loan from Central Carolina Bank, you were charged the same interest rate as you'll pay if you get a new car loan tomorrow.

Central Carolina Bank hasn't increased its new car loan rates since 1938. Through good times and bad, we've held the line.

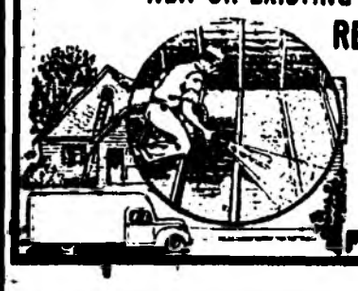

So if you're in the market for a new car, remember that it's the price of cars that's gone up, not the cost of financing them at CCB.

Compare before you buy, compare before you borrow. Get a new '72 to drive — at the same old '38 rates!

TOBACCO MARKETS

North Carolina is "tobaccoland" from the coast to the mountains. The state's tobacco marketing system is the most extensive in the world. There are four flue-cured belts and the mountain burley belt. There are eight markets on the Border Belt, 17 on the giant Eastern belt, 10 on the Middle Belt and 13 on the Old Belt. There are three burley markets.

Diamonds

Conditions needed for producing a diamond out of pure carbon – a million pounds of pressure per square inch and temperatures above 2,500 degrees F. – exist in nature only at depths of at least 150 miles, the National Geographic says.

Cards Of Thanks

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express to all our friends and neighbors our deepest appreciation for the many acts of kindness shown to us during the illness and death of our dear father, Thomas Edward McDaniel. Also we would like to express our heartfelt thanks for the beautiful floral offerings. And, we would like to express a special appreciation to the staff and personnel of Davie County Hospital.

The Family

Bowles

The recent bereavement which has visited our home has brought to us a greater appreciation of our friends. Such kindnesses and neighborly thoughtfulness can never be forgotten. The James Bowles Family.

Little Juliana

Perhaps the first vessel powered by twin-screw propellers similar to those that drive modern ships was Little Juliana, a steamboat invented by Colonel John Stevens that chugged from New York to Hoboken in May 1804, according to the National Geographic's book, "Those Inventive Americans."

Dealers Should Post Real Price!

New car dealers in North Carolina were reminded today that they may not post an auto's "sticker Price" as its base price.

"An automobile dealer must post the base price, the price at which he actually sold cars during the base period rather than the sticker price," J. E. Wall, Internal Revenue director, said.

Auto dealers are classified as retailers under Economic Stabilization Program rules. The base price is the highest actual price charged by the seller in a substantial number of transactions during the freeze base period, July 16 to August 14.

Once determined, the base price does not change, Wall said. Recent price increases granted to auto manufacturers have no effect on a dealer's base prices.

Although the purchaser of a new car seldom pays the sticker price, Wall said, the sticker price may be the same as the base price if a dealer gave no discounts during the base period.

RESPONSIBILITY

Every person is responsible for all the good within the scope of his abilities, and for no more, and none can tell whose sphere is the largest. Gail Hamilton.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

North Carolina farmers face what one expert describes as a "catastrophic" seed situation in planning this year's soybean crop, according to Woody Upchurch, agricultural information specialist at N. C. State University.

The Prolonged warm, drenching weather last fall delayed harvest in major production areas and caused the beans to deteriorate.

The supply of locally produced bean seed apparently has been sharply reduced. Seedsmen are making a major effort to bring in large quantities of seed from other states to supplement the local supply.

These beans are coming primarily from Tennessee, Mississippi, and Arkansas. Avallability of out-of-state seed is limited by quality problems in other eastern seaboard states and also by the necessity to import beans from only those states that grow the same varieties as North Carolina. This rules out the Midwest.

Spokesmen for the North Carolina seed industry are optimistic that enough seed will be available to plant the 1972 acreage – which could be one of the largest in recent years.

This is the second consecutive seed crisis for Tar Heel farmers. It comes on the heels of last year's severe shortage of blight resistant corn seed.

The problem with soybeans this year is one of quality, according to Gene Sullivan, extension seed specialist at North Carolina State University. Tests of seed samples clearly indicate a serious quality problem.

George Spain, head of seed testing for the N. C. Department of Agriculture said early maturing varieties, such as Dare and York, seem to have been more affected by the weather than the later maturing varieties, such as Bragg and Lee. But all have been reduced in quality to some degree.

Spain estimates that only about a third of all soybean seed being tested are meeting the 70 percent germination minimum standard for commercial seed.

It is expected that growers will be able to purchase enough seed to plant the 1972 crop. However, supplies of some varieties may be shorter than others and prices may be up from last year.

Sullivan said one of the greatest risks some farmers can run this year is to plant seed that haven't been tested for germination. Growers who do are almost certain to run into trouble, and could have a complete stand failure.

RESPONSIBILITY

Some people grow under responsibility, others merely swell. Carl Hubbell.

New Highways Cost Davie $276,000

Car owners in Davie County are beginning to realize that Uncle Sam's 42,500-mile Interstate Highway System, now three-quarters finished, has become a more costly undertaking than expected.

They know that because they, along with the rest of the motoring public, are footing the bill through their purchases of gasoline, tires and other items.

At the present time, the Federal government is collecting some $276,000 a year from car operators in the local area. The bulk of it is derived from the four-cent tax levied on every gallon of gas.

Not included in this total are the auto-use and gas taxes collected by the state.

The revenue is deposited in the Highway Trust Fund, which pays 90 percent of the cost of construction. The other 10 percent is borne by the states.

For the typical driver in Davie County, who covers 10,000 miles a year and gets 14 miles to the gallon, the annual cost is about $30, according to government figures. For those who travel more or less than this average, the cost varies proportionately.

Based upon the 9,200 cars in operation in the local area during 1970, it adds up to $276,000 a year.

The increasing cost is attributed to the expansion of the highway system from the original 41,000 miles to 42,500 miles and to the fact that the expected completion date is now 1978 instead of 1972.

As a result of the changes, the ultimate expenditure will be about $76 billion, it is estimated. That is nearly double the figure set in 1956, when the project was started.

Because of the extended construction time, car owners in Davie County will be contributing an additional $1,656,000 before it is finished, six years hence.

There is special interest in the Highway Trust Fund at this time because of the demand by many civic groups that it be used, in part, to support some public needs that they consider more urgent.

They contend that there is a pressing need to refurbish other transportation facilities, such as railroads, airports and mass transit generally, and that some of the money should go in that direction.

For POW's And Missing In Action

Week Of Concern Begins Sunday

Sunday March 26th, will mark the eighth year since the first serviceman was imprisoned in Southeast Asia.

It was on March 26th, 1964 that Capt. Floyd Thompson, U.S. Army, was lost while on patrol in Southeast Asia.

And it is appropriate that this anniversary mark the beginning of the National Week of Concern for those prisoners of war and missing in action.

The resolution designating the week of March 26-April 1 as National Week of Concern and Missing in Action in Southeast Asia was passed by Congress. It has been proclaimed in North Carolina by Governor Robert W. Scott who issued the following proclamation:

WHEREAS, prisoners of war have been held by the enemy in Southeast Asia since March 26, 1964; and

WHEREAS, North Vietnam and its agents continue to disregard the basic humane standards by the Geneva Prisoner of War Convention and refuse to identify all of our American servicemen being held; and

WHEREAS, the enemy also refuses to permit impartial inspection of prisoners of war camps, refuses to release the seriously sick and wounded prisoners, and refuses to permit prisoners to correspond regularly with their families; and

WHEREAS, our nation can do no less than work continuously for humane treatment of known prisoners, for full accounting of all prisoners to that the ffate of men listed as missing in action may be assessed, and for the earliest possible release of all prisoners; and

WHEREAS, it is proper that America be kept aware of the prisoner of war-missing in action situation;

THEREFORE, I proclaim March 26-April 1, 1972 Week of Concern in North Carolina for known prisoners of war and for men listed as missing in action, and commend this observance to our citizens.

Sunday will be observed as a National Day of Prayer.

Citizens are asked to fly the American flag all the week in honor of the missing in action and prisoners of war.

Th American people are being asked to write letters to the foreign ambassadors at their embassies in Washington, D.C.

Motorists are asked to burn their headlights on March 28th in honor of the captured and missing men and as a reminder of their grim circumstances.

On Thursday, March 31st, a tree will be planted and a plaque unveiled on the grounds of the Governor's Mansion in Raleigh. The plaque is to read "In Honor of Our American Men Missing in Action and Prisoners of War in Southeast Asia."

Major Samuel Edwin Waters of Mocksville is still carried by the War Department as missing in action in Vietnam. He has been carried as "missing in action" since December 13, 1966.

Rescue Squad Elects Officers

The Davie County Rescue Squad held a fish supper recently and elected new members. They are as follows:

Marvin Hellard, Chief.
Harry Lee Howell, Captain.
Tom Cook, Equipment Officer.
Gene Harris, Lieutenant.
Larry Wilson, Lieutenant.
Larry Allen, Rescue Training Officer.
Bob Keller, First Aid Training Officer.
Abe Howard, Chaplain.
Secretary-Treasurer, Lonnie Tutterow.
George Harris and Carl McCulloh, Sergeants.
Tommy Cook, Reporter.

Plans were made for a fish fry to be held on April 29.

Sentenced For Graffiti

Two young men were sentenced to 60-days in prison Monday at district court for damage to public property.

Robert Whisenhunt, 24, of Mocksville, Rt. 2, and John Henry Lambeth, 20, of Winston-Salem were charged with scrawling obscenities over the walls of the men's rest room in the court house.

The two were spotted leaving the rest room around 7:15 Monday morning by custodian Alvin Dyson. Entering the rest room, Mr. Dyson found the scrawling on the walls and the two were apprehended before they could leave town.

They were tried at the session of district court on Monday presided over by Judge C. H. Dearman.

Reward For Vandals

Carmen Ijames of North Cooleemee has offered a reward for the vandals that cut down four little trees in his yard.

According to Ijames, the trees were cut down "with a pocket knife".

Dick Nail has been elected a State Vice President for the North Carolina Jaycees. He will serve as Area Vice President for 8 clubs. The selection was made at the West Central Regional meeting held at Hickory Hill Golf and Country Club March 11th. Approximately 200 Jaycees attended this meeting.

ESC To Have Office In Old Jail

The North Carolina Employment Security Commission will have an office in the old jail building.

Davie County is now in the Winston-Salem District and offices will be open here in about a week.

Davie was formerly in the Salisbury district which sent a representative here each Wednesday.

Fires

A fire Monday night around 8:20 caused water and smoke damage in the pressing department of Monleigh Garment Company. The fire was believed to have been caused from overhead wiring.

A truck caught on fire near Boger's Texaco Service Monday afternoon. It was extinguished and went on its way.

The Mocksville Volunteer Fire Department answered both calls.

Holy Week Services

Special services for Holy Week have been planned. Those that have been reported are as follows:

GOOD FRIDAY

Good Friday, March 31, the churches of Mocksville will hold a union service at First Presbyterian Church at noon, 12:10 ; 12:50.

FIRST METHODIST

Wednesday, March 29, at 7:30 p.m. there will be a worship service in the sanctuary. On Maundy Thursday, March 30, the Lord's Supper will be observed. Easter Sunday, April 2, worship service will be at 11 a.m.

FIRST BAPTIST

The Lord's Supper will be observed in services on Maundy Thursday, March 30. A worship service will be held Easter Sunday, April 2, at 11 a.m.

ST. FRANCIS

Services for next week include: Thursday, March 30, at 5:30 p. m.; Good Friday, 5 p. m.; and, Saturday, April 1, 8:30 p. m.

The Center United Methodist Church choir will present an Easter cantata entitled "No Greater Love" Sunday morning, March 26, at the 11 a. m. service. Church school will be held at 10 p. m.

The choir is under the direction of Randy Emilson and James N. Anderson is the accompanist.

Cars Collide At Intersection

Mocksville Police Chief Joe W. Foster investigated an accident Thursday, March 16, on South Main Street at the intersection with Salisbury Street, at 12:30 p.m.

Alexander Abbey Piper, 73, of Route 7, driving a 1966 Dodge, was traveling south on South Main Street. James Clay Tucker, 17, also of Route 7 driving a 1963 Chevrolet, traveling north, made a left turn in front of Piper's vehicle at the intersection of Main and Salisbury Street. Piper could not stop and his car struck Tucker's car in the rear.

Tucker was charged with safe movement.

Damages were estimated at $300 to the Dodge and $300 to the Chevrolet.

School Holidays

Barring any school closing for a complete day due to bad weather conditions between now and March 31, the following Easter Holiday period will be observed by the Davie County Schools:

All schools will be closed Friday, March 31, and all of the following week of April 3-7. Schools will reopen on Monday, April 10, and follow a regular school day schedule. If any days are missed between now and March 31 they will be taken from the end of these Easter Holiday dates.

The last day of school for Davie County Schools will be May 31 for students and the last day for teachers will be June 2.

Liquor Load Is Seized

A routine check by the Davie County Sheriff's Department discovered 90-gallons of untaxpaid white liquor around 2:10 a. m. Sunday morning.

Charged with illegal possession for the purpose of sale was Dwight Eugene Sparks of Roaring River Rt. 2.

The liquor was found on the front and back seats of a 1968 Oldsmobile being driven by Sparks who was stopped on Highway 601 North, about six miles from Mocksville.

Sparks posted $1,000 bond for his appearance at court.

Davie County Included In Area Transportation Study

Davie is one of ten counties included in a transportation study being made by Robert Martin of Kimley-Horn and Associates, Inc., of Raleigh. The study is being financed by a $41,400 grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission and is being supervised by a committee of public officials and interested people in the 10 counties.

Mr. Martin cited a need for a mass transportation system last week at a meeting of the directors of the Northwest North Carolina Development Association. He said the system should fit the work patterns of the people in the area.

Mr. Martin discussed a system of mass transportation that would take individuals – or rather, an average of one and half people – out of each car and take thousands of cars off the highways.

Martin said 12,000 to 13,000 people commute to Forsyth each day from Davie, Yadkin, Surry and Stokes counties . . . and there is also quite a number commuting daily from Forsyth and Yadkin counties into Davie.

Martin said that "a demand-response type system" was needed that would operate when and where needed rather than on fixed routes at fixed times.

Martin, in an earlier report, said the antipoverty agencies in the 10 counties have an average of only half a vehicle avaible for every 1,000 disadvantaged people.

He estimated that 21½ percent of the population in the 10 county area can be classified as disadvantaged under Office of Economic Opportunity guidelines.

The guidelines, he said, rank any family of three with a total income of $3,000 or less a year as disadvantaged, and there are close to 100,000 people in the 10 counties who are in this income level.

The percentage range is from 15 percent in Forsyth to 39 percent in Ashe. Davie has 18 percent. Percentages for other counties: Alleghany 32; Avery 35; Stokes 27; Surry 23; Watauga 36; Wilkes 26; and Yadkin 24.

Bicycle Rider Is Injured

Mocksville Policeman Doug Seaford investigated an accident Monday, March 13, at 7:15 p.m. on Salisbury Street.

Roger Wayne Blackwelder, 18, of Route 6 driving a 1966 Chevrolet was traveling north on Salisbury Street. Frank Orlee Clodfelter, 16, of Route 4 riding a bicycle, was also traveling north. It was dark and the bicycle had a reflector on the rear but no light on front. The car following had lights on dim and driver stated he did not see bicycle in time to avoid hitting it.

Clodfelter received injuries and was admitted to Davie County Hospital.

Damages were estimated at $75 to the car and $30 to the bicycle.

Pino-Farmington Outstanding Citizens

N. C. Symphony Here Thursday

The North Carolina Little Symphony will present two concerts in Mocksville at the gym on North Main Street Thursday, March 23. The Children's Concert will begin at 1 p. m. The Adult Concert will be presented at 8:15 p. m. Membership admissions will be available at the door. Thomas Conlin will conduct the orchestra. Mari Tsumura, violinist, will be the soloist. The concerts are sponsored by the Davie County Chapter of the North Carolina Symphony Society.

Swicegood Heads District Campaign For Gardner

Jerry Swicegood

GOP Gubernatorial candidate Jim Gardner announced Friday that Jerry Swicegood of Mocksville will serve as his 8th District Campaign Chairman.

Swicegood, a real estate broker, has served two terms on the Board of County Commissioners from Davie County. Presently he is a member of the Davie County Young Republican Club, Davie County Chamber of Commerce, Historical Publishing Association, Chairman of Davie County Child Development Commission, member of the advisory Commission on Technical Education for Davie County and member of Davie County School Planning Commission. He is also past Zone Governor Club officer for the Jericho-Hardison Ruritan Club.

He is a graduate of Salisbury Business College where he was elected President of the Student Body.

Swicegood is married to the former Judy Gobble of Salisbury. They have two children: Tood, age 7 and Kyle, age 5. The Swicegood family attend the Jericho Church of Christ in Mocksville.

Pino-Farmington Man And Woman Of Year

Mrs. Eva Lee Miller McMahan and Donald Reich Riddle werre honored as the outstanding woman and man of the year at the Pino-Farmington Community Development Association's 10th annual awards banquet held last Saturda, March 18, at the Farmington Masonic Lodge.

The citizen award project was begun in 1962 with Mrs. Queen Bess Kennen and Mr. Wade Groce being the first recipients of the honor.

It has been continued every year since.

Master of ceremonies for this year's banquet was A.O. Wooten.

Preceeding the banquet, the Rev. Fred Shoaf led the invocation.

Following the meal, Mrs. Kenneth (Babe) Smith, her sister Mrs. Ernest (Tootsie) Cope and the Smith children and husband Kenneth entertained those gathered with songs and performances on piano, guitar, trombone, while a son introduced the various members of the local entertaining family.

Prior to the presentation of the award to the most outstanding woman of the year, Mrs. Clayton J. (Laura) Groce last year's recipient of the honor pointed out the many contributions made to the community by this years winner, Mrs. Eva Lee Miller McMahan, wife of C.H. McMahan.

Among the many contributions mentioned were school teacher; faithful and active church member at Wesley Chapel Methodist Church; serving on church committees, attending as long as her health permitted; first president of the Farmington PTA; school grademother; charter member of the Homemakers Club; charter member of the Friendly Book Club; office holder in community clubs and county clubs as well.

A charter member of the Pino Grange organized in 1935; holder of several grange offices and member of several committees; always one ready to help a friend or neighbor in sickness or need; and the mother of three fine daughters -- Mrs. Mary Lee Hoyle, an 8th grade teacher in Cooleemee; Miss Betty McMahan, Phd., zoology teacher and researcher at UNC in Chapel Hill; Mrs. Edith Campany, a kindergarten teacher in Charlotte.

Upon receiving the award, Mrs. Eva Lee McMahan, who attended the banquet in a wheel chair with the assistance of the Davie Rescue Squad, had her daughter Miss Betty McMahan to extend her appreciation for the honor bestowed on her by the community.

Speaking on her mother's behalf, Miss McMahan said, "Mother said she does not deserve this honor. She protested when we told her you wanted to honor her this way. But we in the family agreed with your decision. In our family she has been mother of the year for a long time."

Richard J. Brock last year's recipient of the outstanding man of the year award also commented on the contributions made to the community by this years winner, Mr. Donald Reich Riddle before presenting him with the award.

Among the contributions attributed to Mr. Riddle were his work as a 4-H leader; service as a Ruitan Club member; service to Farmington Baptist Church; past president of the Farmington PTA; working on several committees of the Pino-Farmington Community Development Association; coaching little league baseball for 7 years; coaching little league basketball for several years; coaching little league football 4 years; helping to organize the first Davie County Little League Football Association; and personal help and concern given to the many young boys who have grown up in the Farmington community.

Mr. Riddle is married to the former Betty Daniel of Mocksville. They have 6 children, 5 boys and a girl. He is employed by the American Cattle Breeders Association as an artificial inseminator.

After receiving his award, Mr. Riddle said, "This is truly a great honor, but the greatest honor will be when we see our boys grow up to be men in the community."

Riddle recalled several experiences of his little league coaching days. "The most outstanding thing I've done, I haven't done enough of it yet," he added.

Commenting further, he said, "Many boys today who play would not be playing high school sports if it had not been for the little league sports programs."

Following the awards presentation, Wade Groce introduced the speaker for the occasion, Sam Furches, a former Farmington native who is now an agriculture teacher at King, N.C.

Furches talked about pride in working in ones own community and community development.

Referring to Farmington, Furches said, "not many communities can take pride in the type of citizens they have turned out, as you can."

He recalled several experiences associated with activities of the Pino-Farmington Grange and talked of what the community had meant to him during his boyhood days.

Furches was chosen citizen of the year in King, N.C. in 1964.

Rev. Floyd Stanley

Stanley Is Honored

The people of the Mocksville Pentecostal Holiness Church chose the birthday of the pastor, Rev. Floyd Z. Stanley, as a special day to show him in a small way the deep appreciation of all the many things he had done for them.

A group gathered together in the local community building with filled picnic baskets and a decorated birthday cake for a surprise dinner.

"We feel most fortunate to have had Rev. and Mrs. Stanley with us these past nine years and hope they choose to remain with us for as long as possible," said spokesmen. "We invite all of you to come and worship with us and those of you who do not have a regular chuch-home are given a special invitation to come and be with us and receive the blessings of God," they concluded.

Donald Bingham Heads Helms Campaign

Former N. C. Representative Don Bingham of Advance has been named chairman of the Davie County campaign committee for Jesse Helms, a Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate.

Bingham, who represented Davie County in the N. C. House of Representatives during the 1965 and 1966 sessions, is a director of Branch Bank and Trust Company in Mocksville, a director of the Davie County Library and a member of the Small Business Administration.

He will be responsible for coordinating the Davie County primary campaign for Helms, a Raleigh T. V. Executive.

Turkey Products Sold In England

A North Carolina turkey processor last week sold 25,000 pounds of turkey products to a new customer in England.

Handled through a broker in New Jersey, the sale was a direct contact made at the Hotelympia Show in London last month by North Carolina Department of Agriculture Export Marketing Specialist Eugene Carroll.

"This broker sold 3 million pounds of North Carolina turkey to other Europena Countries last year," Carroll said, "but this was their first contact in London.

"North Carolina participation in exports has shown a steady increase as a result of the trade missions and exhibits of our export section," said Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham.

"This is the first tangible benefit of this show in London, but the trip last year to the Carribean is showing direct benefits almost daily.

"In fact Tony Brannock, of A. B. Brannock, Ltd. is now shipping 40,000 pounds of feed and 40,000 pounds of mixed chicken parts to one buyer on St. Martin Island as a result of that trip.

"Brannock also has a steady market for $40,000 worth of North Carolina poultry each month to a chain of Kentucky Fried Chicken stores on three Caribbean Islands," continued the Commissioner.

Davie Craft Assn. Formed

A new Association was formed Monday, March 20, in the County Office Building Auditorium. After months of planning, the Davie Craft Association was formalized and officers installed. Dr. Elizabeth Mayrand will serve as the first President.

The new organization will unite craftsmen in Davie County and provide an outlet for the exhibition and sale of member's work. Davie Craft Corner will remain the Association's major activity for the benefit of the Davie Association for Retarded Children.

Other officers include Mrs. Lib Anderson, Vice-President; Miss Anne Hubbard, Secretary; and Mrs. Edwina Long, Treasurer. They will be assisted throughout the year by various Committee Chairmen.

By-Laws of the Davie Craft Association were presented and accepted by those attending. Membership shall be accepted on two basis: Exhibiting member - craftsman whose work has been approved by the Standards Committee for exhibit and sale; and Associate member - those persons with an interest in crafts, but who are not exhibiting craftsmen.

All craftsmen who are interested in exhibitingin the 1972 Davie Cratt Corner should contact Mrs. Nell Dillion, 998-8329, of Mrs. Nancy Hartman at 634-2634. The Standards Committee will meet in late June to approve crafts for exhibit and sale.

Any person interested in the Davie Craft Association may contact the above or any of the officers for membership.

Clock Change Is On April 30

Davie County residents have started asking questions about Daylight Saving Time -- when it begins, when it ends.

Daylight Saving Time will begin at 2 a.m. on the last Sunday in April -- April 30.

When you go to bed on April 29 advance your clocks and watches one hour. If you retire at 11 p.m., for example, set the timepieces at midnight. You will lose one hour of sleep.

The lost hour of sleep, however, will be made up on the last Sunday in October -- October 29. When you go to bed on October 28 set your clocks and watches back an hour. If you retire at midnight, for example, set the timepieces at 11 p.m.

MRS. MICHAEL HENNINGS GREEN
..... was Deborah Renee Snider

Snider—Green Vows Are Spoken In Penecostal Holiness Church

Miss Deborah Renee Snider became the bride of Michael Hennings Green in a candlelight ceremony performed by the Reverend Zella Stanley Saturday evening, March 18. The Penecostal Holiness Church, Mocksville, was the scene of the wedding.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Zella Stanley who sang "Whether Thou Goest" and "The Wedding Prayer".

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thomas Snider of Route 3, and is a 1971 graduate of Davie County High School.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sanford Green of Route 1, also graduated from Davie County High School and is presently serving with the United States Navy. He is stationed in Charleston, South Carolina.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride's gown featured an A-line skirt attached by a ruffle to an empire bodice overlaid with organza and fashioned with appliques of Alencon lace and seed pearls. The watteau train was attached under the ruffle and overlaid with a floor length veil of appliqued silk illusion. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white mums, pink daisies and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Ray McCulloh of Mocksville was the bride's only attendant. Her floor-length gown in rose pink floral print was styled with an empire bodice and short puffed sleeves. A matching velveteen bow accented the back and a second one was used as a headpiece. She carried a nosegay of pink carnations and daisies centered with a lighted candle.

Miss Sue Ellen Bennett served as flower girl for her cousin. Her dress in deep pink polyester featured an empire waist and was accented with pink daisies at the neckline and a velveteen bow in front. She wore a matching bow for her headdress and carried a basket of pink and white flowers.

The groom's father served as best man. Ushers were Tony Green, brother of the groom, and Joe Everette, a cousin, both of Mocksville. The bride's brother, Keith Snider, served as acolyte.

The bride's mother wore a lace polyester dress in willow green fashioned with long cuffed sleeves and banded neckline. She used matching accessories and a white orchid.

The groom's mother was attired in a blue and pink jacquered weave polyester A-line dress and used matching accessories. She wore a white orchid.

The guest register was attended by cousins of the couple, Miss Cynthia Hendrix of Mocksville and Miss Carla Green of Winston-Salem.

Mrs. Benny Proctor, cousin of the bride, directed the wedding.

For her wedding trip, the new Mrs. Green wore a Nassau blue polyester dress with Navy accessories and a corsage of mums lifted from her bouquet.

The couple will live at 3213 Rivers Avenue, Apartment I, Charleston Heights, South Carolina.

Reception

Following the wedding, the bride's parents entertained with a reception in the Fellowship room of the church.

The refreshment table overlaid with a white satin cloth was accented with pink streamers and lighted tapers flanking the three tiered wedding cake. The bride's cake was decorated in a variety of spring flowers and topped with sugar wedding bells and lace.

The punch was served from a crystal punch bowl encircled with spring flowers and evergreens. Assisting with the serving were Mrs. Fred Murphy, Mrs. Rison Hendrix, Mrs. Otis Hendrix and Mrs. Elmo Foster, aunts of the bride.

Guests were greeted by the Rev. and Mrs. Zella Stanley and goodbyes were said to Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hammer, aunt and uncle of the groom.

Miss Snider Is Shower Honoree

Miss Deborah Snider who was married to Michael H. Green Saturday, March 18, was given a miscellaneous shower Friday evening, March 10, at the home of Mrs. J. E. Brown on Route 1. Hostesses were members of the Young Adult Class of Mocksville Penecostal Holiness Church.

A pink and green color scheme was carried out in the refreshment course consisting of lime punch, decorated cake squares, potato chips, mints and nuts.

The bride-elect wore a pink and white floral print dress and corsage of pink carnations.

The refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth over green. The centerpiece was an arrangement of early spring flowers.

Approximately thirty guests attended the shower.

Miss Snider was also honored at a shower Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Richard Beeding when the employees of Belk of Mocksville joined in entertaining. Miss Snider's mother is one of the employees.

The honoree received a unique corsage of kitchen untensils upon her arrival.

Bridal games were played prior to the opening of the shower gifts.

The refreshment table was decorated with candles and an arrangement of yellow and white mums. Decorated cake squares, pickles, nuts, mints, potato chips and punch were served.

Phillip Everidge Has Birthday

Phillip Everidge, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lee Everidge, was honored on his 5th birthday with a party at his home in Sheffield Park when his mother entertained Friday, March 17th, in his honor.

Guests were greeted by Miss Kathy Chaffin. A combination of birthday and St. Patrick's Day motifs were used. Green and white streamers decorated the home. Flowers as a gift of Mrs. Phoebe Sampson, were green and white. The refreshment table was covered with a white lace cloth.

Nuts, mints, pickles, cake squares decorated with Shamrocks, ice cream and iced colas were served to the following guests: Tim Everidge, brother of the honoree; Mrs. Earl Millsaps of Murphy, great grandmother of the honoree; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn McHan, grandparents, of Winston-Salem; Barbara McHan, and Mrs. D. H. Sink and Carrie, Donna and Troy, also of Winston-Salem; Mrs. Faye Chaffin and Kathy, Keith and Brian; Mrs. Glenda Cook and Debbie and Eddie; and, Mrs. Shirley Murdock and Karen, Dennis and Dee Dee, of Mocksville.

Phillip received many gifts. Party favors and hats were presented to his guests as they departed.

Girl Scout News

The Tarheel Triad Girl Scout Council is announcing the appointment of directors for the council's two resident camps and plans for the summer of 1972.

Mrs. Flynn Michael (Dotsy), Lexington, N. C., will direct Shirley Rogers as she has for the past six years. She is also directing the Lexington Day Camp. Dotsy has been a Girl Scout for more than 30 years; has had camp director's training; and serves as a Senior Advisor for Troop No. 147. She is a member of the American Camping Association and is treasurer of the Trinity United Methodist Church, as well as a Sunday school teacher. Her three children are Debbie, in the 12th grade; Wayne, a junior at UNC-CH; and Randy, 3rd year Divinity School, Harvard University. Mrs. Michael is a graduate of Ashmore Business College and is a self-employed accountant.

Mrs. William Lemly (Buzz), Lake Worth, Florida, who has been a Scout for 23 years, will direct Old Mill Camp again in 1972. She has been a camp director for the past seven years. As a Girl Scout volunteer, she served as a leader, neighborhood chairman, council trainer, and member of the Board of Directors. Both of her daughters are active Girl Scouts; one in high school, the other one at Florida State University. Mrs. Lemly is a graduate of Florida Atlantic University where she continues as a part time graduate student. She teacher high school English at Lake Worth High School.

Camp Shirley Rogers, located in Roaring Gap, N. C., will operate for three two-week sessions, June 25-July 8; July 9 - July 22; July 23 - August 4. In addition to the regular camp troops, the following special programs will be offered:

Canoe Unit: June 25 - July 15 (three weeks)

Emerald Mining: July 9 - July 22 (two weeks).

Backpacking Unit: July 23 - August 4.

Senior Aide Unit: July 23 - Agusut 4. (Especially for Seniors interested in Program Aide, Aquatic Aide, and-or Ranger Aide training).

Old Mill Camp, near Whitsett in Guilford County, will operate for three two week sessions. One week sessions are being offered also during the first two weeks the camp is in operation. Dates for the one week sessions are June 19 - June 24; and June 25 - July 1. The three two week sessions are June 18 - July 1; July 2 - July 15; and July 16 - July 29. In addition to the regular camp troops, the following special programs will be offered:

Aquatic Unit: July 2 - July 15.

Gold Mining Unit: July 2 - July 15 and July 16 - July 29.

All the campers live in troop size groups with a troop leader and two assistant leaders. Meals are served in a central dining area, except when a troop decides to cook out. Girls, except in the special program units, decide what they will do while at camp with the help of their leaders. Some program possibilities are swimming, canoeing, hiking, badge work, folk dancing, cook outs, and camp outs, camp fires, singing, nature study, ecology and-or conservation projects. Girls are encouraged to bring new ideas to camp with them.

Further information about the camps is in the camp folders which are to be distributed to girls at their regular troop meeting during Girl Scout Week, March 12-18. Girl Scouts who need financial assistance with the camp fees may apply to the Wider Opportunities Fund for help. This Fund is made possible by the Cookie Sales since 4 cents per box sold is set aside for this purpose. Camp development and maintenance is also financed by the profits from the Cookie Sale.

Brady teaches art classes by the demonstration and critique method at Rowan Technical Instute and conducts at least 30 other classes in Virginia, North Carolina, and South Carolina.

...about your Social Security

by Vernice Fulcher

Here is the other example I promised you concerning the importance of reporting earnings for the help you hire to work in your home. Not long ago I helped a lady file for retirement benefits. She had worked hard all her life and was looking forward to retiring. Her work had been scattered domestic work - a day here, a day there. I asked if her employers had reported her earnings for social security, and she said only a few had. She said she had asked them not to report it because she needed her entire salary. After I explained she would need at least 20 quarters of coverage (five years of work) under social security to be entitled to monthly checks, she looked worried, and rightly so. When I received her work record from our department in Baltimore, I discovered she only had 10 quarters of coverage (2½ years of work).

This woman had no records or proof of her work. She furnished a list of her employers and we are still trying to locate them. So far we have learned two are deceased and no relatives left who can offer any information. We are using all our resources to establish her correct earnings, but we may not be able to locate the people involved and she may have to continue working a little longer until she gets the quarters she needs.

If you work as a maid, gardener, handyman, sitter, patient helper, or any similar job, be sure you know when your employer should report your earnings. For more information call or write the Social Security Office, 105 Corriher Avenue, Salisbury, N.C. 28144. Our telephone number is 633-6470.

1972 car loans

at 1938 rates

If you bought a Packard or a Ford or a Pontiac in 1938, and you got your loan from Central Carolina Bank, you were charged the same interest rate as you'll pay if you get a new car loan tomorrow.

Central Carolina Bank hasn't increased its new car loan rates since 1938. Through good times and bad, we've held the line.

So if you're in the market for a new car, remember that it's the price of cars that's gone up, not the cost of financing them at CCB.

Compare before you buy, compare before you borrow. Get a new '72 to drive – at the same old '38 rates!

Miss Mocksville Brightens Life Of Sick And Elderly

. . . at Lynn Haven with Mrs. Booe

. . . at Fran Ray with Mr. Groce

By Debbie Bingham

On March 17th and 18th, I had the rewarding experience of visiting Lynn Haven Nursing Home, Fran Ray Nursing Home and Davie County Hospital as the reigning "Miss Mocksville". It was a trip I shall never forget.

I arrived at Lynn Haven Nursing Home last Friday afternoon and was greeted by Mr. Gene Seats, the administrator. As I went inside, I noticed what a beautiful, sunny day it was outside.

After chatting with Mr. Seats for a few minutes, I began visiting the patients of Lynn Haven. The first person I talked to was Mrs. Pernie Booe, a fascinating, lively, sparkling woman. I was amazed to discover that she was 92 years old, born on November 3, 1879, in Yadkin County. She has been at Lynn Haven for nearly two years, but one wonders why, when it becomes evident that this little lady can see and hear and think and speak as well as anyone. Her hair was darker than mine, an interesting fact to ponder since she has lived for almost a century. She laughed and joked with me, and I promised to send her a birthday card next November. As I left her room, I carried the memory of a warm clasping of our hands and fervent thanks for coming.

As I walked along the corridor, I noticed how clean and orderly everything was. It was obvious how well-taken care of the patients were. Kindness and consideration were main factors in treatment.

I had an interesting conversation with Mr. Pleas Williams, 79. He asked me how old I was and I told him that I was 18. He then asked me if I was married and of course I said "no"! Mr. Williams revealed that he was married at the age of 20 and that he had "done a lot of living" between then and now.

Another gentleman I spoke with was Mr. Henry Groce, 80 years old and a strong Democrat. We immediately became involved in a political discussion. I told Mr. Groce that I was going to vote for the man, and not the party; and he replied that the only good men on the ballot were Democrats! When Mr. Seats asked him if he thought there were politics in the church, he retorted, "Have you ever seen a church that didn't?" Upon leaving, I hugged his neck and laughingly said, "Mr. Groce, I like you, even if you are a Democrat!"

I next visited Fran Ray Nursing Home. All of the patients had gathered in the main lounge, anxiously awaiting my arrival. My mother had promised Mrs. Foster, the supervisor of the daytime shift, that I would sing several selections. I had reminded her that my talent was drama, not voice, but she told me that the residents of Fran Ray loved to hear people sing. I reluctantly agreed.

But as soon as I began, I was very glad that I had decided to sing. The pleased, happy faces were more than enough reward for me. I went from "He Lives" and "When We All Get to Heaven" to "The Old Rugged Cross", and finished with "I'll Tell the World :that I'm a Christian)". Everyone was singing along with the piano and Mr. Killen came up to the front to sing "How Great Thou Art" in a gusty, rich baritone. I was enjoying myself so much, that I was reluctant to go! I shook hands with everyone and received many heartfelt thanks for coming. However, I felt that they had given me much more than I had given them. I decided then to return again before my reign ended.

My last visit was to the Davie County Hospital. I talked briefly with Cynthia Angel, a freshman at Davie County High School. I also met Virginia Boger, a very pleasant and warm person. She chatted with me as if we were old friends, making her seem 15 instead of 50. I felt as though we were meeting over a cup of tea; her enchanting personality dissolved the walls of the hospital room.

In the next room I visited, Mrs. G. R. Madison welcomed me. Amid a jungle of luscious flowers, she described the way she got her engagement ring. We conversed for quite some time together.

Mr. William Roark, administrator of the hospital, guided us around and showed my mother and I many of the modern devices Davie County Hospital is fortunate to have. Each patient I visited was treated with the best of care and in excellent hands. Although I am certainly no inspector, everything looked clean and neat and in good working order. The nurses, maids, candy-stripers, and other hospital personnel were all very friendly and cooperative to me, and the patients that I visited were well worth the time spent.

My only regret is that I could not meet and visit all of those in the nursing homes and the hospital. Some were much too sick for visitors. And even though many of the patients were able to sit up and entertain company, I felt strange to be able to leave after staying only a short while. I could go back to the outside world; they could not. After visiting and meeting so many wonderful people, I wondered why I had not thought of this before. I decided then to make this as much a habit as my schedule allowed.

Do you realize how much good you could do yourself and others by spending just a little of your time with someone who needs you? Perhaps you do not know anyone in a hospital or nursing home; they still need the reassurance that someone cares enough to come and see them. It is so easy to forget about those who are not able to move about as we can. If we were in their beds, perhaps we would be a bit more considerate.

I learned so much from my two-day visit. I learned that even though you may think you are doing someone a favor, the favor is returned to you threefold.If you offer just a little love to someone who thirsts for it, that love, and more, will be returned to you.

Visit a sick or elderly person soon. The rewards will be everlasting.

New Officers For Jaycettes

The Mocksville Jaycettes held their monthly meeting Thursday, March 16, at Davie County Library.

Mrs. Lester Cozart gave the devotionals. Various plans for raising money for a Scholarship Fund were discussed. Mrs. Al Fullbright presided.

Officers for the oncoming year were elected. They are: Mrs. Tom Drillette, president; Mrs. Julius Suiter, vice president; Mrs. Bill Foster, secretary; Mrs. Bob Shelton, treasurer. Directors elected include: Mrs. Lester Cozart, Mrs. Al Spainhour, Mrs. Gene Tutterow and Mrs. Ross Wands.

Mrs. Bill Dwiggins and Mrs. Melvin Martin were hostesses. There were twenty-one members present at the meeting.

Miss Bennett Made Phi Beta

Miss Cindy Bennett of Mocksville, was among twenty-one Mitchell College students recently joining Phi Theta Kappa, the national honorary scholastic fraternity.

The Mitchell College chapter of Phi Theta Kappa was organized in 1965. Freshmen members of the fraternity must have a 3.3 cumulative grade average on a 4.0 system. Sophomores must maintain a 3.2 cumulative grade average. Other criteria for membership include good moral character and recognized qualities of citizenship.

Green Meadows

A community wide drive to collect items for the flood stricken area at Man West, Va., is being sponsored by the Womans Missionary Union of Green Meadows Church. Anyone who can donate items for this project may take them to the home of Jim Zimmerman. If you have items but are unable to deliver them call: 998-4206 day or night or 998-8919, 998-8917, or 998-4288 night only and someone will try to pick them up. Trucks will be provided by members of the church to transport the goods to a church in that area to be distributed. Some suggested items are clothes, bed linens, blankets, quilts, pots, pans and dishes, canned foods, personal items such as tooth brushes and paste, etc, towels , shaving cream and shaving articles. A truck will be loaded Friday night to start early Saturday for the delivery. If possible have all items in before Friday night.

Mrs. Jimmy Bowles has been confined to her home for three weeks with muscle spasms of the back. She is improved at this writing.

Mrs. Ronnie McKnight participated in the Trap Shoot at Spartanburg, S. C. last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse King visited Mrs. Bessie Smith Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Smith continues to improve at the home of her daughter.

Oscar Riddle of the Bethlehem community was hospitalized recently but is now recuperating at his home.

Mrs. Bessie Tucker was admitted in serious condition to the Davie County hospital last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Douthit and Mr. and Mrs. Grady Beauchamp and son, Douglas visited Mr. and Mrs. Earl Douthit at Goldsboro on Sunday while there they toured the Seymour Johnson Air base.

Eugene Lee returned home Sunday from the Baptist hospital to continue medication at his home. If this treatment does not work, a different type will be necessary.

Several members of Green Meadows W. M. S. were able to attend the missionary convention of Southern Baptist last Wednesday and Thursday in Winston-Salem. Many glowing reports were given on talks given by Mission workers from Vietnam, Japan and Africa.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Langston of Statesville visited the Joe Langstons on Sunday. Mrs. Langston has been having inner ear difficulty for several weeks and does not seem to improve.

Another familiar face is missing in the community. Everyone here extends sympathy to Mrs. Lula Sparks and family in the home, in the passing of John Sparks who had been in declining health for several years.

At Consumerama — — A Psychedelic Food Happening!

"How Far Out Are You?"

A New York home economist will come roaring into Winston-Salem's Convention Center on a motorcycle Saturday, April 8, to present a psychedelic food happening.

The happening, which she calls "How Far Out Are You?", is designed to bombard teenagers with all the sights and sounds they can stand on obesity and fad diets.

The home economist is Dr. Sarah H. Short, an assistant professor of nutrition at Syracuse University.

She uses at least two overhead projectors, up to three 16 mm movie projectors, nine carousel slide projectors, a tape recorder, blacklights and strobe lights – all at the same time – in her presentation.

And she's the first to admit that "it's a crazy way to teach nutrition."

It's apparently one that works, however, Dr. Short has speaking engagements – or rather performances – all over the United States this month and next.

Her happening will be the last in a series of events planned at the center April 5-8 as part of Consumerama 2 to help cooks who specialize in everything from TV dinners to gourmet fare.

Beatrice Sandler of Food Imagineering in New York will, for example, demonstrate methods of "Making Food Come Alive" and Sara Beck of the United States Department of Agriculture will give tips for buying, storing, handling and cooking meat and poultry products.

Joreka Loomis of the General Electric Company will conduct a tour through the "Wonderful World of Small Appliances."

And at least a dozen of the 90 exhibitors signed up for the show will be displaying new kitchen aides ranging from electronic sinks and garbage compactors to the new see-through plastic baking bags and canopeners that cup lids off below the rim.

Many of the products will actually be in use during the four-day show, and compulsive nibblers will have a field day sampling:

– Steaks cooked on an electric range that has an open grill capable of turning raw meat into a well-done entree without a single whiff of smoke.

– Turkey and chicken that has been precooked into patties, rolls and even Polynesian dishes.

– Peanuts that taste like walnuts.

– Freeze-dried canned food that can be kept up to 15 years in the kitchen cabinet or the neighborhood fall-out shelter.

– Bacon cooked on both sides simultaneously in a microwave oven.

– Souffles, omelettes and quiches prepared by a representative of the state's Egg Marketing Association.

– Oysters wrapped in bacon, broiled and christened "angels on Horseback" by the North Carolina Seafood Marketing Association's home economist.

– And jams and jellies manufactured in Winston-Salem and spread on hot biscuits that will be baked on the spot under the oven-like hood of a gas-powered stove.

Home sewers and amateur decorators will find a comparable array of exhibits, speakers and demonstrations in their areas of interest at the combination exposition and symposium. Consumerama 2 is designed to teach North Carolina consumers how to get what they're paying for, whether they're shopping in the supermarket, the furniture store, or the appliance center.

It is a non-profit educational show sponsored by the 11-county Northwest North Carolina Development Association and the extension service in its member counties – Alexander, Alleghany, Ashe, Caldwell, Davie, Forsyth, Stokes, Surry, Watauga, Wilkes and Yadkin.

The association's directors in the 11 counties and extension staffers in all of the state's 100 counties are selling advance tickets.

Advance tickets for adults cost $1.25 per day or $4.00 for the entire show. They will be $1.50 at the door. Student tickets will be 75 cents a day.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

There won't be a corn seed problem for the 1972 crop.

Supplies of hand-detasseled, blight-resistant hybrids adapted to local growing conditions should be adequate to fully meet grower requirements.

This is indicated in results of a survey of some of the major seed suppliers conducted by Gene Sullivan, extension seed specialist at North Carolina State University.

The seed firms indicated that only 100 percent hand-detasseled adapted hybrids will be sold. They do not plan to offer for sale any blends of T cytoplasm (blight susceptible) and N cytoplasm (blight resistant) types. Neither will they offer flint or flint-dent types.

These less desirable types, along with second generation and open pollinated seed, were pressed into use last year due to the shortage of blight resistant hybrids.

Prices of these hand-detasseled varieties may be higher than growers would like to pay due to the cost of hand detasseling, but some comfort can be found in the fact that these hybrids offer the growers maximum potential for producing top yields.

Sullivan noted that growers who have the proper planting equipment – specifically plateless planters – should be able to realize a considerable savings by using the so-called "economy" grades or ungraded seed. They will be priced lower than other grades.

Corn breeders are hopeful that a new source of male sterility can be developed that will allow seed to be produced without the costly task of hand-detasseling the seed-bearing plants.

The T cytoplasm that was used extensively for this purpose prior to 1971 led to the 1970 southern leaf blight epidemic. The T cytoplasm carried with it a susceptibility to blight. For this reason, T cytoplasm is being discarded in the production of commercial seed.

Seed firms are researching a number of sources of male sterility in the hope a new and satisfactory one can be found. If some of the costly detasseling in seed corn production can be eliminated, this savings could be passed on to the farmer.

While expressing confidence that one or more of these materials will be proven acceptable, seed firms said they had no idea how long it will take.

A group of agri-businessmen and farmers from Vance and Granville counties visited the farms of Paul Stroud, Spurgeon Foster and Floyd Munday Thursday. The tour was sponsored by the Agricultural Extension Service and Southern Railway. Southern Railway allows groups to use the specially equipped bus for educational tours. The group arrives (above) and are taken on a tour by Leo Williams and Bill Westbrook (below). The Davie County Agents used the bus for a tour Wednesday.

Rowan Tech Offers Course In Behavior

A course in Understanding Human Behavior will be offered by the Adult Education Division of Rowan Technical Institute. The class will meet from 7-10 p. m. one night per week for a total of 13 weeks. The sessions will be on Wednesday nights beginning March 29. Mr. John Whitfield will be the instructor.

The course is designed for any adult who desires to better understand his own behavior and attitudes as well as those of other people. Various types of normal and abnormal behavior will be presented and examined. Special emphasis will be placed on understanding and controlling anger, fear, guilt and other emotions. Any adult 16 years old or older and whose original high school class has graduated is eligible to enroll in this course. Class enrollment will be limited and will be made on a frist come-first served basis. There will be a $4 fee for this course.

Pre-registration will be by phone. To pre-register, contact the Adult Education Division of Rowan Technical Institute at 636-6480.

Referendum Is April 5th

Demands Increase For Tar Heel Beef

Dimes are creating new demands for Tarheel beef.

According to Donald R. Riddle, Chairman of the Davie County Cattle Referendum Committee, beef consumption has increased from 80.5 pounds to 114 pounds per person in North Carolina since the cattle promotional program started in 1958.

The dimes have been collected for the N. C. Cattlemen's Association through an assessment program whereby farmers contribute 10 cents per head on all cattle sold to promote North Carolina beef and beef products.

Through the N. C. Cattlemen's Association, funds collected from the assessments have been used to improve and increase production, consumption and aid in marketing of North Carolina beef and beef products. Chairman Riddle says promotional efforts during the existence of the program have been carried on in 21 different ways. Newspapers, radio and TV as well as direct contact at all levels from production through consumption, were used to tell the story of North Carolina beef and beef products.

Farmers will vote on whether they wish to continue this assessment program on Wednesday, April 5, 1972.

All persons who share in the proceeds from the sale of cattle are eligible to vote in this referendum. Voters may choose to cast their ballot at polling places most convenient to them.

Chairman Riddle urges all Davie County cattle producers to vote in the April 5th referendum.

POLITICS AND WAR
Daniele Manin

In politics, as in war, we meet with certain ardent minds which never understand the utility of marches, countermarches, ambuscades, and affairs of outposts, but are always, and under all circumstances, for pitched battles. Such men may be very good soldiers, but they would be very bad captains. The wise general never gives battle but on favorable ground; and until he has found it, he maneuvres, skirmishes, and harasses the enemy. For in politics, as in war, not combat, but victory, is the object to be pursued.

Church Activities

COOLEEMEE BAPTIST

Revival services will begin at the First Baptist Church in Cooleemee Sunday, March 26, at the 11 a.m. worship service and continue each evening through Friday, March 31. The evening services will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. Ray Pennell, the church pastor, will be conducting the services, this being his first revival since moving to Cooleemee. Lynn Hopkins, the church's minister of music, will serve as the revival music leader.

A nursery will be provided and the church bus will run each evening.

The entire Sunday School has been working for the past month on an attendance program, also as a part of the upcoming Revival promotion. The church council has suggested that each class or department meet in their regular classrooms at 7:15 each evening to discuss briefly their plans for visitation, contacts and to hold prayer prior to the 7:30 service.

The Sunday School attendance goal for April 2, is 300.

BEAR CREEK

The Spring Revival will be held at Bear Creek Baptist Church the week of March 27 through April 2nd. Services will be held at 7:30 p. m. each evening.

Rev. Grady Tutterow, pastor of Friendship Baptist Church in Yadkin County, will speak each evening. Special singing is planned.

Everyone is welcome.

Davie High Occupation Students

Help Hospital !

The Health Occupation Classes, which are now well into the fourth year at Davie County High School, are among the 56 such courses offered in the state.

The classes are offered to the juniors and seniors of the Davie County High School under the instruction of Mrs. Kate Wilson, an experienced Registered Nurse.

The first year students work only in the classroom at the school, which is well equipped. In fact, a portion of the classroom is set up exactly like a hospital room, complete with hospital beds and bedside tables.

The second year students actually work with the patients at Davie County Hospital, under the close supervision of Mrs. Wilson.

The Hospital's director of nurses, Mrs. Betty Slaughter says: "These girls do a tremendous job and I don't know what we would do without them sometimes."

Mrs. Slaughter, along with administrator, William E. Roark, agree that the health occupation students are doing a great job in the hospital and the classes at the high school provides an excellent opportunity for students interested in entering the field of nursing.

Mrs. Wilson says her students "get a good deal of experience, but no credits when they enter nursing school". She also explained that it is to the students' advantage to take the HO course in high school, if they anticipate a nursing career, and during these two years they know enough to decide whether or not whey want to become a nurse.

"It's not an easy course," she said, "they really have to work."

The second year HO students do everything in the hospital that a nurse's aide is permitted to do. They take the patient's blood pressure, temperature, give bed baths and even prep for surgery, with the instructor, of course. They also change bed linens, supply the patients with fresh water and any number of small chores that are helpful to the patients.

The students are also taught anatomy, which former students now in the field of nursing, say was a tremendous help and a very well taught class.

Mrs. Wilson is employed by the county, but the course is set up through the state. And during the past four years, she has set up her own standards for teaching these classes. The results have been very rewarding. A big percentage of her students have graduated from nursing schools.

Each year Mrs. Wilson has between 25 and 30 girls to enroll in her HO classes, and she tries to offer them as much of a variety as possible. While some may be more interested in working in the hospital, others may choose to work with a dentist.

They all have one thing in common -- learning as much as possible in the field of nursing.

They have also been helpful in their

Direct Distance Dialing Comes To Cooleemee

Richard Beck makes one of first calls

by Marlene Benson

Customers on the Cooleemee Exchange of Western Carolina Telephone Company will now be making calls the DDD way (Direct Distance Dialing.) The switch over took place at 2 a.m. Sunday, March 19.

The first long distance call dialed direct from Cooleemee went to Mrs. Eugene Milholen in Emerson, New Jersey. The call was placed from the new telephone office by Mrs. Milholen's niece, Mrs. Marlene Benson, a lifetime resident . . and took only a matter of seconds to complete.

Mrs. Milholen became quite excited when she learned she had received the first DDD call over the new equipment. "The very first call - - - And it was to ME?"

She also commented on how clear the call was. . . . "you sound like you're just next door."

Richard Beck, manager of Central Carolina Bank in Cooleemee, also placed a DDD call immediately following the one to Emerson. Richard dialed his cousin at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida,Mrs. Peggy Troutman.

Mrs. Troutman, too, was overwhelmed to the point of tears after being told the purpose of the call . . "And you thought of ME?"

C.O. Stanfford, of Weaverville manager of the Eastern District of Western Carolina Telephone Company and district manager Tysinger were also in the office at the time.

"This is the fourth cut-over this year", Stafford commented, "and it's certainly no easier, but we have learned a great deal."

Stafford said the residents could expect problems after the cut-over to the new equipment, but a full crew would be working round the clock to restore the service as soon as possible. He also said that only 45 to 50 percent of the new cable would be in use at this time. They plantto keep several men in Cooleeme through the summer or until all the new cable is in use. The new office has 1550 cable pairs compared to 700 in the old office.

At the present time, there are 985 customers on the Cooleemee exchange and 1100 phones. There is an average of 20,000 calls per day made.

Stafford also said that by dialing direct on your long distance station to station calls, you could save approximately 50 percent over the operator assisted calls.

"There will be no difference in rate charge at this time," Tysinger said, "but a blanket increase will come through in the future."

Western Carolina applied to the N.C. Utilities Commission in February for a 33 percent increase in rates and charges for telephone service in its service area. Before an increase can go through, Tysinger explained, that the Commission will have to approve it and "I don't know when, probably around June or July."

Tysinger also said he had been approached by several local residents concerning the possibility of getting "toll free" calls throughout the entire county. He explained that this could only be done if the residents petition for it. After receiving the petitions, the commission would then contact Western Carolina to make a study of all calls made to see if there were enough to justify having toll free calls throughout the county. "The commission has the final ruling, " he said, "not the local company."

Residents will continue to pay their phone bills at Central Carolina Bank in Cooleemee or in the mailing envelope received with their statement each month.

All information needed to place a DDD call can be found in the front of the temporary directory which was issued last week.

Blaise Plans 'Open House' Of New Building

Blaise Baptist Church will have "Open House" Sunday, March 26, from 2 until 5 p.m. in the new Educational Building.

Blaise is located 2 miles north of Mocksville on Highway 601, just beyond I-40.

Plans for the new building were made on the first Sunday in April of 1971. It was decided to begin a new children's Educational building containing seven class rooms, a conference room, three rest rooms, and a Fellowship Hall. Due to an existing church debt, it was decided to build on a "pay as you build basis". This was done, and this $40,000 building is now completed.

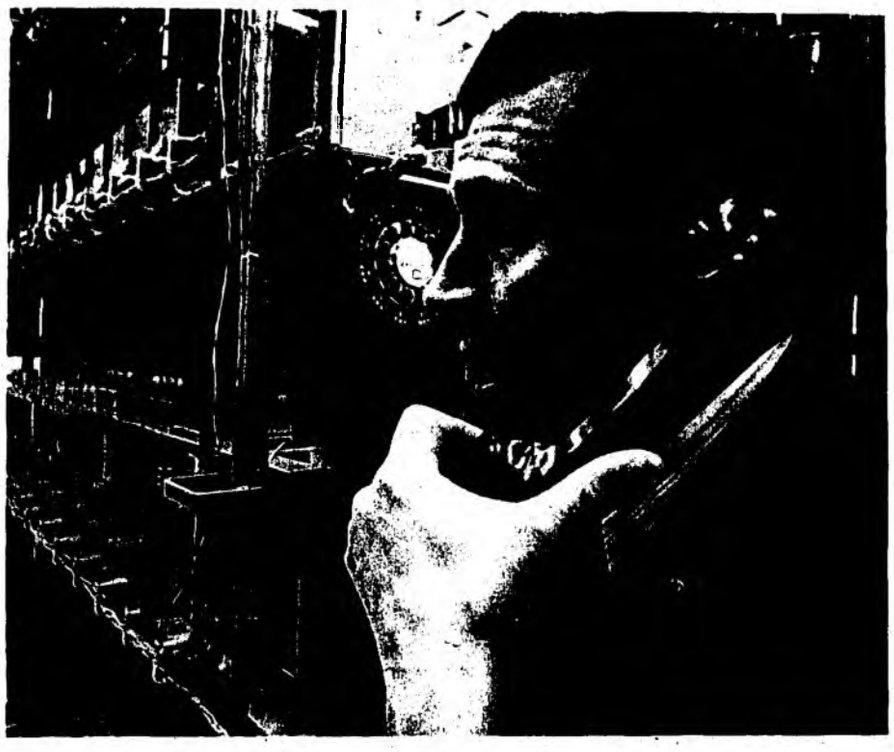

Vern Dartt served as chairman of the building committee along with the other members, namely James F. Irvin, Madison Angell, Howard Sherrill and Zeb Brinkley.

Many generous donations were given to the church by various individuals, business firms and industries. Donated labor by men outside of the church was also very useful and valuable.

Blaise Baptist Church is a mission point established in April of 1962 on the Frost land. The original building is used as an Adult Educational building. The sanctuary building is used for worship services twice each Sunday at 11 a.m. and 7:45 p.m. The membership of the church has grown from zero to above 200 members with a Sunday School enrollment of 169 for all ages.

The entire membership and the present pastor, the Rev. Alvis C. Cheshire, join in extending a cordial invitation to the Open House service this Sunday, March 26.

Refreshments will be served.

Cooleemee PTA Has Meeting

The Cooleemee Parent Teachers Association held their monthly meeting Monday evening in the school auditorium. Mrs. Allen Snipes, chairman of the nominating committee, presented a new slate of officers for the 1972-73 school year, which was approved.

The newly elected officers are: Mrs. Hayden Benson, president; Ward Setzer, vice president; Mrs. Ann McCullough, secretary and Tom Ridenhour, treasurer.

William Gales presented a most interesting program to the group along with the film "To Tough A Child", Vernon Stout, head of the Cooleemee Recreation Commission, also spoke to the group concerning the summer recreation program.

Stout said that the recreation facilities will be open again this summer and they will continue to operate as long as possible. He also expressed a need for volunteer workers to help with the youth program this summer. Interested persons may contact Stout, Ward, Setzer or any member of the commission.

Mrs. Ellis' homeroom was the winner of the attendance prize.

Letter To Editor

Dear Editor:

The 1967 Legislature adopted the present practice of electing members of the various county boards of education on a non partisan basis.

This simply means that the names of the candidates shall be printed on the ballots with out reference to any party affiliation and any qualified voter residing in the county shall be entitled to vote such ballots.

There is no regulation against "single-shot" voting and there is no provision for a second primary. In other words a plurality of votes is all that is necessary to be elected in a non partisan election.

This year there are two vacancies to fill on the six member board. The two receiving the highest number of votes in the May election will serve six year terms.

Sincerely,

CLARKSVILLE HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB

4 – H News

The last meeting of the Smith Grove 4-H Club was held at the home of Mrs. Nancy Hartman. The meeting was called to order and the business discussed. Cindy Ellis had devotions. The program was on drugs. A booklet called "Drug Abuse and You" was given out and questions about drugs were discussed. Two movies on drugs were seen.

Teresa Myers had refreshments and the meeting was adjourned.

Davie Wins Opener; Rain Halts N. Iredell Game

Rain stopped the baseball game Tuesday between Davie and North Iredell at the end of six innings. The score was 1 and 1 between the two rivals at the Davie field.

Davie scored a run in the fourth inning. Dail received life at first when the first baseman dropped his fly ball. He moved to second when the N. Iredell 2nd baseman erred Johnson's grounder. Randy McDaniel then hit a double to score Wall.

North Iredell bounced back to score in the first half of the fifth, putting together a walk, fielder's choice and an error for their score.

Terry Johnson, on the mound for Davie, struck out four and issued 3 walks. Simmons of North Iredell struck out 2 and issued 4 passes.

McDaniel and Poplin each had a double to lead the hitting for Davie. Beaver and Wall had singles.

Davie will play Friday at East Rowan and will be at North Stanly on Monday. They will have an open date on Tuesday and play North Davidson here Thursday, March 30.

Paul Ijames pitched a two-hitter as Davie won their opener Monday with a 5-0 triumph over South Iredell High.

Ijames fanned nine and walked four. He was never in trouble after his teammates spotted him a 2-0 lead in the second inning.

Robert Anderson singled in that inning and Billy Wall doubled. Randy McDaniel's grounder was erred and both runners scored.

Davie added two in the fourth. Ijames singled and went to second on a wild pitch and to third on an error. McDaniels singled in Ijames. He later scored on Mike Dwiggins base hit.

Wrestling School Planned At ASU

Applications are now being accepted for the 1972 Appalachian State University wrestling school.

The school is open to any boy 10 years of age and over.

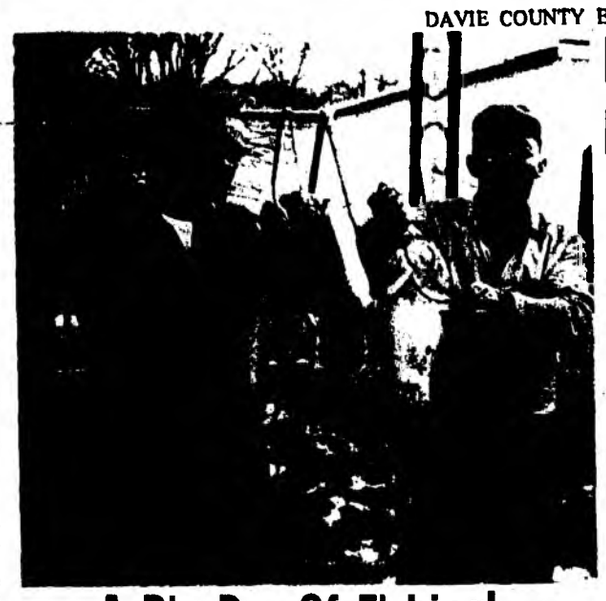

Instruction is provided in all major wrestling areas and instructors include R. W. Watkins, former wrestling coach at Appalachian; Steve Gabriel, present wrestling coach at ASU; J. W. Welborn, wrestling coach at East Carolina; Bill Bachardy, assistant coach at ASU; and Walter Braine, head coach at Andrew Lewis High School.

A boy can attend one or both of the two weekly sessions. The first session runs from July 16 until July 22, and the second session is held from July 23 until July 29.

The cost for each session is $70. This fee includes room, board, insurance and the use of all recreational facilities at the University. There will be a special section and coach for boys between the ages of 10 and 14. Coaches are also invited to attend the school.

The school is designed to handle only 60 boys during each session, so all applications should be sent in as soon as possible.

Inquiries concerning applications should be directed to Coach R. W. Watkins, Athletic Department, Appalachian State University, Boone, N. C. 28607.

A Big Day Of Fishing!

J. W. Snyder (L) and Jim (Ozz) Osborne of Cooleemee had quite a day of fishing Thursday on the Big Rover. Their prize catch (at far right) is a 13 pound catfish.

Ozz took a lot of kidding from an ole fishing buddy, Sonny Foster, about his eight pound catch earlier last week ... and if it's one thing a dedicated fisherman can't take ... it's being outdone by another fisherman.

Well, Ozz did it ... he outdid Sonny. For the time being at least. He said it took him all of 15 minutes to land the big one and he swears it had jaw teeth ... but the picture clearly shows that it is a catfish.

The follwoing morning, Ozz and Sonny set out for the river banks together. They caught about seven or eight, including the one that got away.

The way that happened ... so Ozz says ... was when Sonny hung one, but when he jerked, the fish came off the hook and the line went up into a tree.

Sonny immediately jumped in the knee-deep water and with his bare hands, caught the fish that had gotten away.

"The way I figure it", Ozz said, "that fish was give out!"

It's hard to say who is the better fisherman, although, it is a little unusual to hear me catching them with your bare hands ... in any case, the fishing duel is still on!

Ozz did, finally, admit to his wife Kay that his fishing was getting a little out of hand and that he had decided "to cut down to five days a week."

Davie Golf Team To Play Match Here Thursday

In the first conference golf match of the season, Davie County will be host to the following teams: East Rowan, West Rowan, North Rowan, North Stanley, North Davidson, South Iredell, and Mooresville.

This golf match will be played at Twin Cedars Golf Course. It will be 18 hole total strokes for a four-man team from each school. The match will start at 2 p. m. Thursday, the 23rd.

Interest in the golf team at Davie High has doubled in participation for the past three years. In the first year of the golf program at Davie, there were about six players; last year there were about 12 golfers; this year there are about 20 players coming out for the team. Davie has about 5 lettermen playing with Robin Benson, Darrell Jones, and Sammy Cozart playing their fourth year.

Robin Benson is the captain of the golf team. The other golfers are Billy Clark, Ronnie Blackwelder, Steve Seamon, Darwin Holler, Robert Dwiggins, David Dwiggins, Mitchell Whitaker, Luther Fisher, Clay Barney, Michael Pardue, David Neal, Craig Michael, Ricky Seamon, Jimmy Harris, and Paul Ellenburg.

Davie County will host the association tournament this year. It will be held May 15. The event will be a 36 hole total strokes play.

The tournament will be played at Twin Cedars Golf Course and Hickory Hill Country Club. Eighteen holes will be played on each course.

Coach Suiter Talks Baseball To Rotarians

Coach Julius Suiter told members of the Mocksville Rotary Club Tuesday that the Davie High baseball team will again be battling for the North Piedmont Conference.

This is Coach Suiter's second year as head coach of the baseball team. Last year Davie won 14 out of 16 games and the conference championship.

"Last year they fought for and earned the championship and this year we are going to try it again.....but it is going to take a lot of hard work and self sacrifice", said Coach Suiter.

Coach Suiter pointed out that during the Easter vacation, when the Davie schools are closed, the baseball players will return and play three games.

"This means they will give up beach trips, vacation with their family, and other pleasures for baseball," said Coach Suiter.

Coach Suiter stressed the "developing of character and moral fiber" in all the sports at Davie.

"We urge our players to attend church. Before each game we get together and observe a moment of silent prayer....giving each individual a chance to give thanks or ask for guidance....then we go out and play hard together," said Coach Suiter.

Coach Suiter also cited the need for an expanded Little League baseball program in Mocksville.

George Shutt had charge of the program and introduced Coach Suiter. President Leo Williams presided.

Richard Hauser was inducted as a new member by Dave Rankin.

Basketball Banquet

William R. Davie Basketball teams were honored at a banquet in the cafeteria of the school, Friday night, March 17th. Stacy Beck, introduced the speaker, Rev. Bill Bruton, pastor of Eatons Baptist Church. He brought some very timely advice on sportsmanship and a challenge to each player, as they are involved in the game of Life to remember the Golden Rule in a game of basketball, in the class room, out in their life's work. Mrs. Polly Latham and her staff served a ham supper to 115 players, parents, and friends who had helped with the fund raising through the season. Edith Beck and Ina Howell, coaches, gave each girl a trophy to remember the first team from the school. There were 21 girls. J. T. Smith, Jr. and Paul Ijames, the boys coach, awarded 19 trophys. The 7 cheer leaders were recognized by leading every one in a rising cheer for the Raiders.

Bowman Gray Opener To Be Televised April 18

A track record purse of more than $20,000, including $16,365 for the featured NASCAR Grand American division, has been announced for the nationally televised stock car raeing season opener April 8 at Bowman Gray Stadium.

Track manager Joe Hawkins also announced the complete schedule for the 11-event program. The final six events, in the Grand American and Modified divisions, are slated for "live" television from 5 to 6:30 p.m. on the ABC network's "Wide World of Sports" program. The main event will be a 100-lap Grand American race.

Hawkins said the track will be open for practice from 2 to 6:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday, April 6-7, and again from 11 to 2 p.m. on Saturday, April 8.

Official competition will begin at 2 p.m. Saturday with an hour of qualifying trials, one-lap timed runs, for the Grand American Division. The next hour, from 3 to 4 p.m., will be devoted to two 10-lap qualifying heats and a 20-lap feature.

A 40-lap modified feature is scheduled for 4 p.m., followed by 10-lap Grand American qualifying heat. Those two events will be videotaped by ABC for inclusion in the national telecast which will start at 5 p.m.

The telecast also will include two other 10-lap heats and a 10-lap "consolation" race for the Grand American division, and the 100-lap main event.

The Grand American division is for intermediate sport sedans – such as Mustang, Firebird, Camaro and Cougar.

Hawkins said money from television rights, added to the Grand American and Modified purses, will make the purse for the program nearly double any previously paid at the municipal stadium's quarter-mile asphalt track. First place in the main event is worth $2,500.

The previous stadium purse record was about $11,000 for the Myers Memorial (Grand National, Modified and Hobby) event here last August.

Donnie Allison To Race In Atlanta 500 March 25

Pack up the makeup kit. Put the broadcasting blazer in mothballs. Break out the old crash helmet and drivers uniform.

Donnie Allison's going racing again.

The younger brother of Bobby Allison has been named to drive a brand new Chevrolet in the March 25 Atlanta 500. Thanks to brother Bobby.

Donnie, left without a ride, when Ford Motor Co. withdrew its stock car racing support this season, took a seat in the broadcast booth of ABC-TV. He became a color commentator for the television network coverage of NASCAR's grand national series. Swapped the grease and grime of Grand national competition for the glare of television lights.

Donnie, however, will be back where Bobby and stock car fans feel he belongs next week, on the race track at Atlanta International Raceway.

Bobby Allison, oldest of the two Alabama brothers at 35, is currently known as driver of one of the hottest cars in racing, the Junior Johnson Chevrolet. Apparently, Bobby feels nothing is too good for his brother.

"We were building a new Chevrolet in our shop at home because there's something we want to try out," said. Bobby. "Atlanta will be a good place to try them out.

"Picking a driver for the car came natural. My brother's the best race driver around right now without a ride."

The Atlanta 500 will mark Donnie's first appearance in a major grand national event this season. So far, he's had a mike in his hand rather than a steering wheel.

The past two seasons, the 32 year old driver wheeled a Ford for Banjo Matthews, who has since withdrawn from participation, and a Wood Brothers Ford and Mercury.

The Wood Brothers split driving time last season between Donnie and defending Atlanta 500 champion A. J. Foyt. However, the famed Stuart, Virginia car builders choose veteran David Pearson to drive their machine in races this season not open to United States Auto Club member Foyt.

Donnie simply became a man with no machine.

No more. Not for the Atlanta 500 anyhow. The Donnie and Bobby Allison show will be back where it belongs, on the race track.

Practice for the $110,000 race begins Wednesday, March 22nd with poll position runs on Thursday. Tickets are available at the Raceway Ticket Office.

Bass And Crappie Tournaments Scheduled For Lake Norman

Once again, as a token of appreciation to the outdoorsmen who have supported it down through the years, the Sportsmen's, Boat, Camping and Vacation Show of the Carolinas will sponsor lucrative fishing competition for Carolina anglers.

Only this spring, there will be two tournaments rather than one.

On the agenda are competitions for both bass-fishing buffs and crappie enthusiasts.

The bass tournament is set April 22-23, while the crappie contest is a one-day event slated April 22. Headquarters for both will be Wher-Rena Marina on Lake Norman.

Amateur anglers from both Carolinas are eligible to enter.

The largemouth bass entrants will be casting for a purse of $2,100 plus merchandise prizes and trophies. In retail value the top merchandise award is a 1972 Mercury outboard fishing motor donated by Kiekhaefer-Mercury.

Crappie fishermen can reel in $500 in cash awards along with fishing tackle and trophies.

This is the second year of Sportsmen's Show sponsorship of the tournament, which during its inauguration in 1970 was restricted to Tar Heel fishermen only.

The 1971 tournament, held in late May, was won by W. A. (Bill) Williams of Raleigh. Doug Shivar of Charlotte captured the '70 event.

Foul weather and unfavorable water conditions hampered the catch both years, so at the request of participants, the bass meet was moved up a month for the '72 tourney.

"The fishermen felt that April would be much more conducive to good catches of big bass, so we changed the dates," explains John Ringley, an official of the Sportsmen's Show.

"Since April is also a prime time for crappie fishing, we decided that the people who prefer to fish for this species should also get in on the fun, too, and added the crappie competition."

Fishermen in both divisions will be required to fish in pairs with strangers.

Bass competitors must use only artificial lures, however, crappie fishermen will be permitted to utilize live bait.

Only the 25 largest crappie catght by each angler will be eligible for weigh-in.

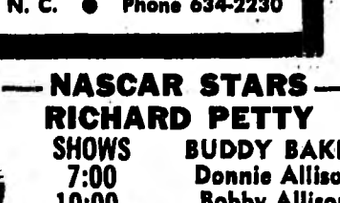

Detailed information and entry forms for both divisions may be obtained by writing to Fishing Tournament, P. O. Box 9091, Charlotte, N. C. 28205.

Senator Sam Ervin Says

For the 24th time since World War II, the Senate has voted to increase the ceiling on the Federal debt. This time the increase was from $430 billion to $450 billion. I voted against this increase as I have done in the past.

In my judgment, we have yet to face up to some hard fiscal facts confronting our Government. Even this $20 billion increase is but a temporary plateau on our way to ever mounting debt. The President has already urged the Congress to approve a new budget wherein he estimates that the Federal debt will rise to $493.1 billion by June 30, 1973. In a matter of months, Congress will again be called upon to go through the legislative mockery of raising the debt ceiling. I say this because there is little restraint now on how much the Federal Government can borrow. Every time the President asks for new borrowing power his request is granted, and our Government dives deeper into a sea of financial irresponsibility.

A few months ago, we ought to have heeded a drastic warning when the European nations lost confidence in the American dollar. I had hopes then that the President and the Congress would face up to the gravity of the situation and take steps to restore our financial standing in the eyes of the world.

Yet, that clear warning has been ignored. In recent months, we have administered a "band aid" in the form of wage and price control, we have lowered taxes, which I did not approve, and we have now shown no inclination to hold down spending and the national debt.

If anyone doubts the seriousness of the situation, he need only look at the statistics. During the eleven fiscal years beginning June 30, 1963, and ending June 30, 1973, it is now estimated that we will incur deficits totalling nearly $200 billion. Even more disturbing is the fact that huge deficits seem to be the accepted way of financing virtually every new governmental program here in Washington.

Recently, I am told that the Governor of Massachusetts, testifying before the Senate Finance Committee, urged that Committee to approve a $10 billion addition to the welfare program. When asked where he thought the revenue to finance this expenditure ought to come from, his reply was simple and direct: "Just add it to the deficit." Tragically, that is the kind of thinking that has brought us to the brink of economic chaos.

I have fought against Federal deficits ever since I have been in the Senate. I have voted against billions of dollars of appropriations that were approved that I thought we could do without. But, I have also recognized that if these programs are established by the Federal Government that we ought to have the courage to vote taxes to pay for them. For this reason I voted against the reduction in taxes at the last session of the Congress.

The sooner we get rid of the false notion that we can get something from the Federal Government for nothing, the sooner we will rid ourselves of the delusion that we can pay for everything by "just adding it to the deficit."

SCS Publishes Fishpond Booklet

A new information booklet, "Warm Water Fishponds," has been published by the USDA-Soil Conservation Service and is now available from SCS offices in North Carolina, State Conservationist Jesse L. Hicks said last week.

"This will be of interest to landowners who want to produce bream, bass, catfish and other warm-water varieties," Mr. Hicks said, "and I believe this will apply to lots of people in North Carolina."

The publication, USDA Farmers Bulletin 2250, is available without charge from Soil Conservation Service offices.

It is the second recent SCS publication on fish production. Several weeks ago Farmers Bulletin 2249, "Trout Ponds for Recreation", came off the press and is also available from SCS offices in cold-water areas of North Carolina.

Unemployed aerospace and defense industry workers are now eligible for retraining and job-training services under the Manpower Administration's Technology Mobilization and Reemployment Program, according to the Department Labor. Previously confined to 14 target areas, the program has been extended to all States. It provides job-search grants, relocation grants and institutional training for people made jobless by defense or aerospace cutbacks.

ROAMED ALASKA

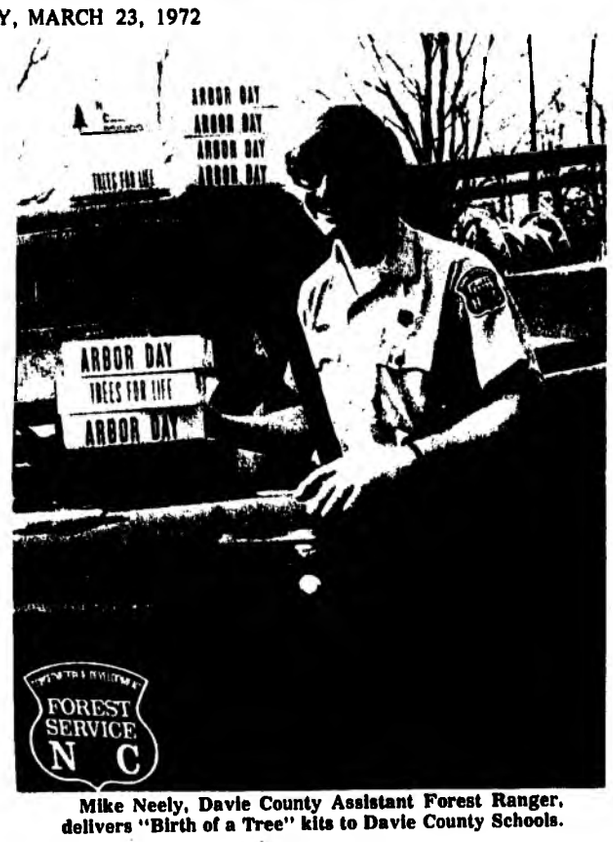

Lions, camels, elephants, and 12-foot-high mammoths roamed Alaska 12,000 years ago, National Geographic says. They lived on interior grasslands sheltered by mountains from the ice that blanketed much of the Northern Hemisphere.

Greenland

Glorified real estate advertising is hardly new. When Eric the Red discovered Greenland in 982, he gave the Arctic island its misleading name in a successful bid to attract Viking colonists.

NO EARTHQUAKE

North Dakota is the only state in the union never to have recorded an earthquake.

Mike Neely, Davie County Assistant Forest Ranger, delivers "Birth of a Tree" kits to Davie County Schools.

Arbor Day Kits Are Distributed To Schools

Each fifth grade student of Davie County Schools will have the opportunity to observe the birth and development of a forest tree seedling in observance of Arbor Day.

For generations Arbor Day has been observed by planting a small seedling or sapling with an appropriate program and ceremony. The North Carolina Forest Service encourages such programs but also feels that other opportunities exist to make Arbor Day more meaningful. Our forest resources are vital to our continued property and every student is encouraged to learn as much as possible about our natural environment. The North Carolina Forest Servicels, therefore, sending each school "birth of a tree" kit which allow each fifth grade classroom to have a new and different Arbor Day experience.

This proejct provides for classroom planting of loblolly pine seeds. The entire class can anxiously observe the birth and development of the tiny seedling which is the start of a stately tree capable of growing 80 to 100 feet in height. In about 7 to 14 days the first signs of life will appear. The class can have a daily experience of watching the seedling emerge, shed its seed cap and send out its first leaves in search of life-giving sunlight.

This package contains six synthetic soil blocks, plus the required number of pine seeds. Planting directions and related teaching aids are included.

Farmington

Mrs. Frank Wood of Charlotte spent the weekend with her sister, Miss Norma Furches and her brothers, Duke and McGuire Furches.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Westmoreland and children, Phillip and Lisa, were Sunday visitors of the John Hartman family.

Early Monday morning Mrs. B. C. Brock Sr., James Brock, Miss Carolina Brock and John B. Tabor of Greensboro left for Lake Park, Florida, where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frasier Tabor.

District School Boards To Meet

The annual meeting of the District 13 School Boards Association will be held at East Iredell Elementary School, Statesville, on March 23, 1972. The theme of this year's gathering of school board members, district committeemen, and school administrators is "Public Education -- Keep It Working." School units in this district are: Alexander, Catawba, Davie, Iredell and Rowan County Units, and Hickory, Mooresville, Newton-Conover, Salisbury, and Statesville City Units.

Following registration, the afternoon session will consist of a General Business Meeting, and Presentations to Groups on topics: Local Control - Its Privileges and Responsibilities, and The Teacher Tenure Act.

Mr. Eugene Causby, Assistant State Superintendent for the State Department of Public Instruction will be the evening speaker. His address will follow a dinner session that will begin at 6:45 p. m.

These area conferences of the North Carolina School Boards Association annually attract over 4,000 school board members, committeemen, educators and other interested persons. An attendance of about 200 is expected for this meeting. C. Wilson White is serving as District President, and W. T. Poston is serving as District Secretary.

The Association was organized in 1937 and through its history has been dedicated to seeking improvements in North Carolina Public Education. From its offices in Raleigh the Association works with school board members and school committeemen at the local level of education. The late Dr. Guy B. Phillips of Greensboro was the principal organizer of the Association, and served as executive secretary for many years. Dr. Raleigh E. Dingman is currently serving as executive secretary.

Macedonia

Mrs. Nannie Ellis' children honored her with a birthday dinner last Sunday at the Mason lodge in Farmington. All of her twelve children were present, also grand children and great grandchildren and some guest from Winston-Salem.

Mrs. John Cope has been moved to the Lynn Haven Nursing Home.

Mr. Bryan Cook has returned home from the hospital and is doing very well.

Mrs. Carolyn Hockaday had surgery last Friday. She is a patient at Forsyth Memorial hospital. Tillett Walker also remains a patient there.

Mrs. Ella Ellis is a patient at Davie County Hospital.

Mrs. Betty Frye was hostess to the Primary Department teachers at her home last Monday night. There were 9 teachers present. Following the business part of the meeting, she served delicious refreshments.

Mrs. Grace Call and Mrs. Nera Godbey visited Mrs. Call's daughter and family in Charlotte last Sunday evening. One of Mrs. Call's grandsons was having a birthday.

Passion Week will begin Sunday at 7:30 p. m. at the Macedonia Morvian Church.

The Primary Department will have their Easter egg hunt Saturday from 2:00 to 3:00 p. m. Each child is requested to bring 2 eggs. In case of rain, the hunt will be April 1.

We extend our sincere sympathy to the family of Mr. John H. Sparks.

MUSIC

Life is like music, it must be composed by ear, feeling and instinct, not by rule. Samuel Butler.

Kappa Club Has Meeting

Ten Homemakers of the Kappa Club met Thursday, March 9, at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Otis Snow for their regular meeting.

Mrs. William Walker, president, presided. For devotions, Mrs. Snow read about Easter from the World Book.

Among the leaders' reports were suggestions for substitutes for lettuce and a recipe for a salad dressing, suggestions for managing our time. Also, washing instructions for polyester material, repairing linoleum and suggestions for preventing break-ins were given.

Mrs. West gave the lesson on "Furniture Periods and Styles". Announcements were made about Consumerama 2 and it was noted that tickets would be available from the Home Agent.

The hostess served graham cracker cake, pickles and coke.

The next meeting of the club will be held April 13 at 7 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Armand Smith.

Bible Translations

The way of translators is hard, but hundreds of dedicated souls are helping to make the Holy Bible speak in divers tongues.

The Bible already has been translated into 1,473 languages and dialects, and linguists around the world are working on 500 new versions, the National Geographic Society says.

South African missionaries and scholars are busy converting the New Testament into a curious Bushman dialect called Kung, in which clicks of the tongue act on consonant sounds.

The sounds of Kung are unwritten and the vocabulary limited, but the group is pushing on, undaunted by the knowledge that translation of the Bible into the related Nama language took from 1825 to 1967.

Missionaries have translated all or parts of the Scriptures into such obscure languages as Ogoni, spoken in Nigeria; Kekchi, used by some Guatemalan Indians; Kambera, an Indonesian tongue; and Mao Naga, an Assamese dialect.

Feidl translation has its pitfalls. A translator in the Solomon Islands found that he had rendered the Psalmist's phrase, "the wild asses quench their thirst" as "the cannibal pigs drink water to stop hiccoughs." A Congo missionary transformed "five loaves and two fishes" into a veritable feast - "five loaves and two elephants."

A missionary among the Tarahumara Indians of Mexico tried to obtain the word for "jump" by acting it out. The Indians chorused an expression which the clergyman happily wrote down, only to learn later that it meant, "What is wrong with you?"

A translator throught he was writing "nation shall rise up against nation" in Eskimo dialect, but actually he had written "a pair of snowshoes shall rise up against a pair of snowshoes." He had made an error of a single letter in a 17-letter word.

Abstract ideas pose even more difficulties. The Bulu language of West Africa has no word for "trust" or "holy", and "righteousness" must be translated by "straightness," but there are ten different kinds of "seeing."

Though they must solve linguistic problems, modern translators face lesser hazards than their predecessors. William Tyndale, for example, was strangled at the stake as a heretic in 1536 for translating the Bible into everyday English.

Even the revered King James Version was attacked when it appeared in 1611. "I had rather be rent in pieces with wild horses than any such translation by my consent should be urged upon poor churches," thundered a noted scholar. "The new edition crosseth me. I require it to be burnt."

The scholar is dead, the King James Version lives, and current work goes on in the spirit of the King James translators, who wrote in their incomparable style:

"Translation it is that openeth the window to let in the light; that breaketh the shell, that we may eat the kernel; that putteth aside the curtaine, that we may looke into the most Holy place; that removeth the cover of the well, that we may come by the water, even as Jacob."

Deceptive Sale Practices Cited On Sewing Machines

Deceptive practices by sewing machine promoters were the subject of a warning issued today by R. E. Hitchcock, Managing Director of the Better Business Bureau.

Hitchcock outlined four major come-ons common in this kind of promotion; first is bait and switch.

New or used machines are advertised at a very low price. The customer finds the product to be old, in poor condition, not available, or is given the impression by the salesman it is a poor buy. Then comes the switch -- to a more expensive model.

In the cabinet scheme, a sewing machine isto be given away "free." The catch is that a cabinet must be purchased to qualify for the machine. The BBB says the cost of the machine and a handsome profit are included in the price of the cabinet. In offerings of this kind, the value of the machines may be overstated by several times.

Another gimmick is requiring purchase of a service and instruction policy to get a "free" machine. Again, the policy can cost much more than the market value of the machine. A recent innovation is requiring the purchase of fabrics over an extended period of time; again at an inflated price, to receive the machine.

One of the most common pitches is the discount certificate. A "winner" of a discount certificate, usually distributed following a fake contest or drawing, will find that the cost of the machine, minus the amount stated on the certificate is no bargain at all.

The Better Business Bureau has found that the sewing promotions use such terms as "nationally advertised price" and "advertised price" in a way to cover the cost of the machine and the discount certificate.

The BBB says some firms sell sewing machines only in conjunction with discount certificates. The true price of the machine, according to the BBB is much lower than the inflated "Advertised Price" when sold alone.

Honest contests are of limited duration and true discounts are temporary reductions in real value established over a significant period of time on the open market.

If a deceptive promotion is brought to your attention, BBB says, warn your neighbors and contact your Better Business Bureau.

Hungry to Bed

Do you know how many people go to bed hungry each night? One million? Two million? Colorado State University's "Pesticide Pipeline" reports two billion people — that's two-thirds of the world's population — have an insufficient food supply. This hunger leads to 10,000 deaths from starvation every day. Undernourished children and adults become victims of diseases the average person probably has never seen or heard of, or die from illnesses which our well-nourished bodies fight off with ease.

Sunday School Attendance

Richard Ferebee of Mocksville, Rt. 2, looks at bars on coat that denotes 36 consecutive years of perfect Sunday School attendance at the Eaton's Baptist Church. Mr. Ferebee completed his 36th year of perfect attendance in February. The 36th year bar was presented to him by the church pastor, the Rev. Bill Burton, on March 12th.

"Pitch-In" Containers To Combat Litter Problem

A new statewide litter prevention program was unveiled today by Governor Bob Scott and officials of the State Highway Commission and the North Carolina Beer Wholesalers Association and the United States Brewers Association.

The program is built around a new drive-in litter container called "Pitch-In". It will eventually lick North Carolina's roadside litter problems, the Governor said, if people will literally "Pitch-In".

The first of the neatly designed, wide-mouth litter receptacles was demonstrated in front of the Governor's office at the Administration Building on Jones Street. Among those particpating in the event were Chairman D. Lauch Faircloth and Administrator George S. Willoughby, Jr., of the State Highway Commission and Charles F. Green of Wilmington, president of the Beer wholesalers association.

Green explained that the beer wholesalers association is donating 250 of the "Pitch-In" containers to the state. Highway officials plan to place the units in all rest and park areas along the Interstate system, and in strategic locations along the primary highway system.

In making the presentation to the state, Green said: "Studies show beer cans constitute only a relatively small part of the highway litter. Even so, we feel we have a responsibility to do all we can to keep litter off the highways and preserve the natural beauty of North Carolina."

Green lauded the work of the Highway Commission's Landscape Department, which worked with Roald Sorensen, president of Sorensen Christian industries in Angier, in designing and developing the new containers.

Governor Scott commended the beer wholesalers association for developing the idea for the program and working with the State Highway Commission to get it started. He also commended the U.S. Brewers Association, which is conducting a national anti-litter information campaign, featuring a variety of network radio and television announcements on the "Pitch-In" theme.

"The only way to beat the litter problem is to encourage people to put their trash in the trash can," the Governor said.

"To accomplish this," he added, "we need thousands of these attractive "Pitch-In" litter receptacles at convenient stops along the highways and we need the assistance of the communications media to urge the people to use them."

"If people use these containers as extensively as we believe they will, we hope many other business and civic organizations will join the beer wholesalers in donating more "Pitch-In" containers to the state to continuously expand the program and make it more effective," Governor Scott said.

Highway Chairman Faircloth observed that "littering is an expensive, thoughtless form of misbehavior that irritates all responsible citizens. If unchecked, it can hurt our prospering tourist business, the state's third largest industry. This past year, cleaning up the roadside litter cost the taxpayers more than $2,000,000."

Highway officials feel the new "Pitch-In" containers will substantially reduce the man-hours required of its maintenance crews to clean up an area. Litter thrown from cars into the large mouth of the "Pitch-In" containers is collected in disposable polyethylene bags. The back of the containers flip open for easy removal of the liner bags by highway maintenance crews.

The North Carolina program is a pilot one which, tied into the national effort by the Brewers Association, is expected to be started in other states.

Rural Homeowners Wanted

Land Use

Farmers aren't the only ones who benefit from the use of pesticides. Any of us who enjoy a day outdoors benefit, too. Without pesticides and agricultural technology, much of the land now available for wildlife and recreation would have to be cultivated. In addition to the 320 million acres of crops now harvested, it is estimated that over 300 million acres — equal to the area of Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Tennessee, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama — would be needed to feed the U.S. population.

BOND ELECTION

to be held on Saturday,
May 6, 1972 in the

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA

on the issuance of $150,000,000
STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA
CLEAN WATER BONDS and $2,000,000
STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA
ZOOLOGICAL PARK FACILITIES BONDS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to the qualified voters of Davie County that Governor Robert W. Scott by Proclamation dated March 13, 1972, has called a State bond election to be held in each County of the State of North Carolina on Saturday, May 6, 1972

at which the question of the issuance of $150,000,000 State of North Carolina Clean Water Bonds and the question of the issuance of

$2,000,000 State of North Carolina Zoological Park Facilities Bonds

will be submitted to the qualified voters of the State of North Carolina, which questions shall be voted on separately.

The issuance of the Clean Water Bonds and the Zoological Park Facilities Bonds has been authorized by Chapters 909 and 953, respectively, of the 1971 Session Laws of North Carolina, subject to a favorable vote of a majority of the qualified voters of the State who shall vote on each question in said election.

The polls for said election will be open from 6:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m.; provided, however, that at voting places at which voting machines are used the County Board of Elections may permit the polls to remain open until 8:30 p.m.

Absentee ballots will not be allowed in said election.

In accordance with the general laws of the State of North Carolina, the times and places for registration and the names of the election officials will be determined by the authorized officers of the County and information with reference thereto and as to the location of the voting places may be obtained from the County Board of Elections. Qualified voters who are not certain whether they are registered for this election should contact the County Board of Elections.

Dated this 17th day of March, 1972.

DISNEY GENIUS

Walt Disney World in Florida is the showcase for Disney's "Audio-Animatronics." This technique combines lifelike sounds and actions in three-dimensional animated figures. Used in the Pepsi-Cola/Frito-Lay "Country Bear Jamboree" in Frontierland, the sophisticated electronics animates guitar plucking, down-home-singing grizzlies. "Audio-Animatronics" is used in a serious way in Liberty Square's Hall of Presidents. Here, the Disney genius brings history vividly to life.

4-H HORSEMEN GROW IN NUMBERS

One of the fastest growing 4-H projects — care to guess? It is the national 4-H horse program, currently reporting over one-quarter million members! Any way, in this age of industrialized-computerized fast living should the horse be so popular with youth? Well, there's many reasons according to the Cooperative Extension Service, which supervises 4-H, and Merck & Co., Inc., which sponsors the 4-H horse program. Kids from rural areas, the suburbs and small towns, and even the metropolitan areas, are enrolling to participate in horse shows, judging contests, trail rides and to simply learn how to care for and handle an animal. Those who own horses — not a requirement of the project — take turns letting the other youths practice their horsemanship so everyone learns. If you're between nine and 19 this could also include you – contact your local 4-H office for further information.

Questions And Answers

Q. Someone told me about a situation which concerns drawing social security if you have been out of work for several years. I would like to have a correct answer.

A. I appreciate the question, but I would have to obtain a little more information to answer it. Are you referring to disability benefits, or are you 62 years of age and want information about retirement benefits, or are you a widow interested in survivor benefits?

Q. I will be 65 in July, 1973. My wife is considerably younger. I have a son who will be 9 years old at that time. Will he receive any benefits from my retirement?

A. Your son will be entitled to a check each month that you receive a check until he is 18 (or until age 22 if he is a full time student) and unmarried. Your wife would also be entitled on your record until your son is 18 and again when she reaches age 62.

Q. I wrote you almost two months ago and requested information about patient helpers. I never received a reply.

A. Although your letter was answered you never received it. Your address was not on the letter and I could not find it in the telephone book. I took a chance and sent it with an incomplete address, but it was returned. Please call our office and give us your address and the information you requested will be mailed to you.

Twenty-five people returned March 16 from a ten day tour to the Holy Land, Rome, Egypt and Athens, Greece with the Madison Tours conducted by Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Madison of Mocksville. All reported that they did not experience any disturbance in anyway or see anything that reminded them of war. It was truly "a great trip and everyone thoroughly enjoyed the entire tour." Seven members of the Tour were from Greenville, S. C. Two people were from Tampa, Florida, and, the others were from Statesville, Salisbury, Spencer, Hickory, Yadkinville and Mocksville. The Madisons are planning another trip to the Holy Land in March 1973.

Better Business Bureau Warns

Beware Of The Free Vacation Promotions

A number of promotions, originating mainly in Florida, are offering certificates to the public promising "free vacation." A typical promotion will say, "Congratulations! You've won second prize . . . "

The "winner" must pay fees of $12 to $15 to get the certificate, so the "vacation" is not free, nor will the certificate provide a "vacation" since it offers use of a hotel room for a brief stay and the use of the hotel's facilities only.

The usual features of a vacation, such as transportation, meals, beverages, taxes, tips, outside entertainment, telephone and other incidentals, are not included.

The promoter's method of operation usually is to set up a booth in a retail store, shopping center, trade show or fair, and invite the public to register to win a prize. Sometimes an actual vacation is awarded to one or two registrants if the retailer purchases a "grand prize" but the vase majority of the others are notified that they have "won second prize."

Besides the payment of a fee for the "free vacation" a number of terms and conditions must be met by the user before the certificate will be validated by the hotel or motel. There has even been a requirement that the user must be in a certain group, must be married, etc.

If used during the winter season, nominal daily charge is levied by the hotel. In the off-season there usually is no additional charge.

When a promotion of this kind is tied in with a Florida real estate developer, as a number of them are, certificate users must submit to promotional activities to sell lots. Disclosure of this sort of requirement rarely has been made in the advertising or promotional literature.

Other certificates do not require participation in real estate promotion but the holders usually are urged on several occasions by salesmen to do so. Several certificate companies claim they give "winners" a book of "vacation dollars". They are not spendable as dollars, however, but only provide small discounts on paid admissions to attractions or on the purchase of various goods and services.

Many complaints have arisen from disappointed persons who thought they were "lucky winners" of a drawing entitling them to an all-expense-paid Florida vacation. After paying the "processing" fees for the certificate and reading the many conditions and requirements, they realize they have been deceived. What they had paid for was a certificate good for use of a hotel or motel room for three or four nights without a charge in the off-season.

The Butter Business Bureau urges recipients to read all the fine print on certificates in order to understand the many terms, limitations and qualifications contingent on their use.

Yadkin Valley

The Youth Revival was enjoyed by all who attended during the weekend. We are very proud of our young people and glad to see them take part in the services. Salem Bible College was in charge of all the services. Special singing was presented by the Valley choir and a trio from the Bible College.

There are still several on the sick list from the Valley and we wish each and every one a speedy recovery so they can be back in church.

Mr. and Mrs. Doc Caudle and Mrs. Wrenn were Sunday night supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fate Caudle.

The Valley community extend their deepest sympathy to the family of Mr. John Sparks. He was loved by all and was also good to visit the sick when he was able. He will surely be missed.

Mr. and Mrs. Rob King visited Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Hicks of Winston-Salem Sunday evening.

The Spring Revival will begin at the Valley April 16th with the Rev. Larry Winkler doing the preaching. Everyone is invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. John Phelps and children were Friday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sherrill Rupard of Lewisville.

Mrs. Pearl Wyatt and Lawrence Craver of Fork visited Mrs. W. R. Craver Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Jones of Redland, Mr. and Mrs. Paul G. Jones, Gary and Wayne Jones of the Baltimore Road visited Miss Claudia Jones recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jones were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Martin of Germanton.

Advance News

A Lay Witness Mission was held at the Methodist Church during the weekend. The Fellowship supper at 5:30 p. m. on Saturday was enjoyed by approximately 150 church members and Lay Witness guests and their families. Services were held at 7 p. m. at the church Saturday night and 10:30 a. m. on Sunday morning. Guest speakers for the occasion were Johnny Allen, Rosalie Allen from Mocks Methodist Church; Kenneth Blakley, Donald Sain from Elbaville Methodist; H. R. Hendrix from Mocksville Methodist; Foy Cope, Mrs. Foy Cope from Liberty Methodist; Van Poplin from Dutchman Creek Baptist; Jim Frye, Terry Wood from Macedonia Moravian; Elmer Hendrix from Dulin Methodist; Henry Miller from Davie Baptist Tabernacle; Ed Mottinger from Smith Grove Methodist; Lawrence West, Herbert Smith from Bethlehem Methodist, from the Good Hope Methodist in Davidson a number of young adults and teenagers were witnesses. They were Mr. and Mrs. Otis Mendenhall, Robie DeLapp, Leudean DeLapp, Kim James, Vicki Mendenhall, Jane Walser, John Walser, Sheila Weaver, Carrol Wellons, Lynn Huffman and Mike Utt. The services were very moving and impressive. Everyone attending received a spiritual blessing. The Witness Mission was under the direction of the church pastor, Rev. W. C. Anderson and Taylor Howard as Coordinator.

Mrs. Brenda Z. Hill and Miss Karen Gaulrapp of Long Island, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Chris Farley of Arlington, Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry D Hendrix of Union, South Carolina were weekend guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Zimmerman. The occasion was to celebrate a combination of birthdays with Mr. Zimmerman and Mrs. Farleys on March 13th, Mrs. Hills March 17th and Mr. Hendrix's on March 25th. Another reason for their visit was to be photographed as a family group for the Methodist church directory. Photographs of the 88 church families were taken Friday and Saturday for the directory.

John Markland of Laurel, Maryland spent the weekend here with his brothers and sisters. He came especially to visit his mother, Mrs. G. E. Markland, who underwent surgery at Davie hospital last week. We are happy to report Mrs. Markland is showing some improvement.

Little Miss Jo Ann Boger of Farmington was a Saturday overnight guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Recie Sheets.

Mrs. John Orrell is a patient at Forsyth Memorial hospital where she underwent surgery for kidney stones last Thursday. We wish her a speedy recovery.

Charlie Latham spent Saturday and Sunday at Pinehurst where he attended a Skeet Shoot.

Miss Rebekah Talbert has been confined to her home for the past two weeks by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Blake Smiley and son, Jimmy spent the weekend at Camp Lejuene visiting their son and brother Marine Lester Smiley. Marine Smiley was seriously injured in an auto accident Thursday, his parents were notified and were requested to visit him at the base hospital.

Mrs. Ed Vogler is confined to her home by illness. A weekend visitor was her daughter Miss Janine Vogler of Winston-Salem. Mrs. Taylor Howard is also confined by illness. We wish both these ladies speedy recoveries.

YMCA Sets Adult Ballroom Course

The Spruce Street Y. M. C. A. Ballroom dancing department has scheduled a course for adult beginners starting Monday, March 27.

The course will be one hour sessions for eight weeks, beginning at 8 p. m.

Missed lessons may be made up and participants do not have to enroll with a partner.

Basic, standard, and popular steps will be taught including cha-cha, fox-trot, waltz, rock (discotheque), and jitterbug. Descriptive notes will be furnished.

Mrs. Dorothy Covington, Y. M. C. A. adult dance director, will be the instructor; the "Y" ballroom staff will assist.

Daytime classes for persons who work nights will be arranged upon request.

For further information, call Whit East or Mrs. Covington at the Spruce Street Y. M. C. A.

WASHINGTON AND SMALL BUSINESS

AS HEARD BY HEARD

Who Killed Cock Robin?

Recently Senator Adlai Stevenson of Illinois raised the question as to why since World War II the number of American farms has dropped from 5,900,000 to 2,900,000. This is somewhat along the line of the old classic query of "who killed Cock Robin?".

* * *

The Senator also went on to enumerate the vast holdings in farm land by the big corporate giants asking "what is the meaning of this vast change?"

* * *

It is somewhat astonishing that any of the nation's lawmakers would propound such questions, because after all it is the lawmakers who write the tax laws. And it is the tax laws which are the root cause.

* * *

In ancient Egypt there was a chap named Joseph who made points with the Pharoah on this matter of laying up food stocks in the lean years for the years of famine ahead.

* * *

These big corporations who have gone into the ownership of huge tracts of farmland apparently have their own Josephs around who apparently are not only pretty good journeyman prophets but good tax accountants, as well.

According to all the predictions of the demographers, the world population is going to grow tremendously in the next quarter century.

It they are correct, and they probably are, food which today is in surplus in the United States, will become a scarcity, and at that time the law of supply and demand will push prices upwards.

Now under present tax laws, a big corporation can afford to operate farms at a loss, or even at the break even point, because the tax laws are rigged in the favor of a corporation so engaged.

* * *

And while the individual farmer cannot feed himself or his family on the expectations of a profitable operation some 25 years hence, a corporate structure can afford to wait.

So today the big corporations who have gone into farming ventures have the best of two worlds. Today, they have the tax breaks that make it profitable to go into such ventures. Tomorrow, or rather 25 years from now, they will have a virtual monopoly on food production in a very hungry world.

* * *

Thus it strikes as quite peculiar that any member of the Congress would ask what is happening to the farmer.

* * *

If this keeps up, it can probably be expected in the near future there will be a Congressional debate over whether or not the earth is round.

Davie Taxpayers To Fork Up Over $6-Million

How much will Uncle Sam be collecting from Davie County residents in income taxes on or before April 17th, which is the day of reckoning this year?

According to the government's calculations, it will be slightly more than was received from the local area a year ago, when it amounted to $6,035,000.

That is the estimate of what was turned in locally, as determined by a breakdown of the overall returns received throughout North Carolina.

The statewide total was $1,631,000,000, the Treasury Department reports. Included in the amount is the portion of the tax collected via the withholding process.

Despite the sluggishness of the economy during the past year, the budget makers in Washington expect the receipts this year to be slightly higher than last year's.

The reasoning is that, despite the unusually high unemployment rate, the great mass of the working population was fully employed in 1971 and, for the most part, had bigger earnings than in 1970.

Consequently, they will have larger taxes to pay. For the others, who did not have steady employment, the taxes will be lower.

On the basis of the figures, it is calculated that residents of Davie County have been contributing approximately 0.37 percent of the personal income taxes collected in the state.

Just how much more the Administration counts on receiving this year is indicated in the budget submitted to Congress in January. Nationally, it expects $86.5 billion in such revenues, or only about $300 million more than was collected in the past fiscal year.

Taxpayers in the local area will be bearing their portion of this increase. Their payments next month will be close to $6,053,000, it is estimated.

The new budget presented by the Administration, projecting income and expense figures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1973, calls for individual income taxes of $93.9 billion, which is $7.4 billion more than this year.

If Davie County taxpayers are to produce their share of this rise and maintain their present standard of living, total income in the area will have to go up by about 8.6 percent during this fiscal year.

VOL. II THURSDAY, MARCH 30, 1972 $5.00 PER YEAR —SINGLE COPY 10 CENTS

Residency Requirements For N. C. Unchanged

Voter Registration Deadline Is April 7th

The cutoff date for registering for the May 6 primaries and the state bond election is April 7th. All voting on May 6th must be registered by that date.

The Davie County Board of Elections Office, located in the courthouse, will be open 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and on Saturday, April 1st.

Dr. R. F. Kemp, board of elections chairman, pointed out that all registering must be done at the office located in the courthouse. No registering will be done in the precincts.

The executive secretary of the North Carolina Board of Elections has stated that a Supreme Court ruling voiding Tennessee's residency requirements is "contradictory" and said it was inconceivable the ruling would affect the May 6 primary in North Carolina.

"I think it's important to caution people that the ruling does not alter the constitutional provisions of North Carolina", Brock said.

"It is obvious that North Carolina will probably also will be in court on the same issue," he said, but added that until that happens, "nothing in this state has changed."

The May 6th Primary will be the first election in which 18-year-olds have been permitted to register and vote.

In order to register, an 18-year-old must have lived in the state for a year and in the voting precinct for 30-days.

Seventeen-year-olds may register and vote in the May 6 Primary provided they will be 18-years-of-age by the date of the general election (November 7, 1972).

Persons cannot vote if they have moved from one county to another within 30 days of the election. However, if they move from one precinct to another within the county they can vote.

Mrs. Joan Humble is executive secretary of the Davie County Board of Elections and manages the office located in the courthouse.

180 Register

In a special registration visit to Davie County High School Tuesday of this week, Mrs. Joan Humble, executive secretary of the Davie County Board of Elections, registered approximately 180 people. This number included 17 and 18 year olds and several teachers who had not previously registered.

Stolen Truck Is Recovered

A 1961 Chevrolet pickup truck, reported stolen on March 24th, was found early Monday morning behind the Davie Hospital.

The truck, belonging to Wayne Williams of Mocksville, Rt. 4, was reported missing at 6 p. m. on March 24th.

When found the vehicle was still in running condition. The Davie County sheriff's department is investigating.

Livestock Referendum To Be Held April 5

Davie County farmers have an important stake in the livestock referendum on Wednesday, April 5, Donald R. Riddle, county cattle referendum chairman, said today.

"Interest in cattle is increasing in the county," Riddle noted. "There are many ways cattle can contribute to the farm economy of the county, and we need the promotional work of the N. C. Cattlemen's Association here as much as anywhere in the state."

Anyone who sells cattle or gets income from the sale is eligible to vote in the referendum. Swine producers will be voting at the same time on a similar program. A two-thirds majority vote in both cases is necessary for the programs to pass.

The referendum is viewed as especially important to the North Carolina cattle industry, Riddle said. Assessments have dwindled in recent years due to declining cattle slaughter in the state. Until now, assessments of 10 cents a head have been made on slaughter cattle only. The vote to be taken on April 5 proposes to expand this to 10 cents per head on all cattle sold.

The money represents the producers' self-help effort, through the N. C. Cattlemen's Association, in promoting the production, sale and consumption of beef. "These activities benefit both beef and dairy cattle producers," the referendum chairman pointed out.

He outlined some of the activities supported by the dime assessments as improving marketing; conducting consumer education on selecting and preparing beef; sponsoring special calf and yearling sales; making contacts with out-of-state buyers of Tar Heel Cattle; sponsoring various producer educational events such as conferences and field days throughout North Carolina; helping with youth activities and helping communicate cattlemen's needs to national and state lawmakers.

Referendum Chairman Donald R. Riddle emphasized the work the farmer's 10-cemt assessments has done in sales alone, pointing out that N. C. producers received nearly $8 million for calves and steers at 39 special sales in 1971. Prices at these sales traditionally help establish price levels for all North Carolina feeder animals.

Polling places in the county on April 5 will be:

On March 25th Again

Snow Covers Davie

It seems to happen each year on March 25th.

Last year on this date there was around 3-inches of snow on this date. Last Saturday, March 25th, there was around 3.5 inches of snow.

The snowfall last Saturday came tacked onto the end of a month with an average high temperature of 60 degrees. Two days had high's of 78 and 10 days where the temperature reached 70 or above.

But March snows are not too unusual. Traces of snow occurred here during March of 1968, 1967, 1965, and 1963. A heavy March snow fell on March 5, 6 and 9 of 1962. It totaled over 1.45 inches. March 2, 9, 15 and 16 of 1960 brought a total of 20.25 inches of snow to this area. March 2, 1959, had 1.25 inches recorded.

On March 27, 1947 2.3 inches of snow fell, and Easter Sunday, March 24, 1940 snow covered the ground.

Snow began falling Saturday morning over the North Carolina mountains shortly after daybreak and hit this area around mid-morning.

A rash of accidents followed the onslaught of snow. A seven-car pileup occurred without any serious injuries on a snowslick bridge over the Yadkin River on the Davie-Forsyth county line.

The snow stopped before dark and temperatures in the high 50's on Sunday soon made most of the snow disappear.

Another Spring Snow!

Saturday's unexpected snowfall, which left almsot as quickly as it came, was quite an accumulation for the first week of Spring. Ronnie Blackwood, a Davie High School Junior, measures four and one-half inches of snow on the picnic table at his home on Edgewood Circle, Cooleemee. Could it be routine to welcome Spring with a snow in Davie? Maybe so, we also had a couple inches of the "white sutff" on March 25, 1971.

Young Republicans Meet April 10

The Davie County Young Republican Club will have a "Meet Your Candidates" meeting on April 10, at 7:30 p.m. at the Court House in Mocksville.

All local and state Republican candidates have been invited to attend and to give a short campaign speech. Several candidates have already accepted the invitation.

The public is invited to attend this meeting and get acquainted with the candidates.

Rainfall & Melted Snow Last Week: 1.44

Snow On Ground: 3.5

Gross Sales Up!

Gross sales and use tax collections in Davie County increased 9.23 percent from February of 1971 through January of 1972 over the corresponding period of 1970-71, the State Department of Revenue reported last week.

The increase was brought about by the gain in sales on which the taxes are collected.

The state-wide gain for the period was 11.33 percent over collections for the previous year. The report indicated 96 of the 100 counties in the state showed gains and the four counties which did not were Hyde, Pamlico, Graham and Transylvania.

Travel In Davie Was $2,370,000 In 1971

Travel in Davie County was $2,370,000, according to figures published in the 1971 North Carolina Travel Survey. The survey is published annually by the Department of Natural and Economic Resources' Travel and Promotion Division.

Total state expenditures were $850 million and $549 million of this total was spent by out-of-state visitors.

The 1971 survey has a new look. Through pictorial and graphic interpretation, the travel industry in North Carolina is presented is easy to evaluate fashion. The survey was done by Lewis and Leona Copeland of the Department of Statistics of the University of Tennessee.

Layout and ideas for easier interpretation were created by Charles Heatherly, Publications Editor of the Travel and Promotion Divison. Art work was by Gay Brantley of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources.

There are 15 black and white photos and both front and back covers are full color. Copies of the booklet will be distributed to news media, chambers of commerce, the Travel Council of North Carolina members, and those persons interested in travel in North Carolina. The first copy is distributed free to either a firm or an individual; however, additional copies may be obtained for $2.00 each.

The Travel Council of North Carolina is a co-sponsor of the booklet.

Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the County Commissioners for April will be held Tuesday, April 4th from 9 a. m. to 4:30

"Skipper" Bowles Visits Here

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles visited Mocksville Tuesday.

He spoke briefly and answered questions at a special breakfast held at Miller's Diner Restaurant.

Bob Shelton, county coordinator for Bowles, presided at the breakfast and introduced Bowles.

Among the questions from group answered by Bowles included:

Why did you suddenly change from "no comment" to the statement that you have evidence that Pat Taylor has the backing of Gov. Scott?

—"I was being asked that question every day. I finally told myself....who are you kidding....they know and you know....and so just say what you know....and that is what I did. However, I am running on issues and not on who is supporting who and who is backing who".

Mr. Bowles said that he was proposing that 50 percent of the state budget go for education.

"In this I am trying to take the honest approach and not promise more than can be delivered. This will be a big step forward inasmuch as only 48 percent of the state budget is now going for education".

As to taxes, Mr. Bowles reaffirmed his opposition to any new taxes or increase in taxes.

"I am convinced from a study conducted of the state budget and of economic forecasts that North Carolina's economy will be in such shape as not to need the addition of new taxes", said Mr. Bowles.

Mr. Bowles said that education....public school and an expanded vocational education program....was one of his foremost interests.

"It is through education and the development of skills that we upgrade the standard of living for everyone.....and in the end bring about a sounder economic condition in our state," said Mr. Bowles.

He proposed the exploration of the use of physician assistants and a expansion of the program of training of registered nurses in the solving of the problem of health care.

Mr. Bowles left here for a visit in Yadkin County.

Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles, Mrs. J. M. Robertson, area women coordinator, and Bob Shelton, Davie County coordinator for Bowles for Governor at the breakfast held Tuesday morning in Mocksville.

Davie Has 891 Farms

Davie county showed a total of 891 farms in the 1969 Census of Agriculture, according to figures released by the U. S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of the Census, a part of the Department's Social and Economic Statistics Administration (SESA(.

In the last previous Census of Agriculture (1964) the number of farms reported in the county was 999.

Of the county's total farms in 1969, 311 are reported as selling $2,500 or more of agricultural products in the year, as compared with 344 in 1964.

The report also shows average farm size in the county was 110.9 acres, and average value of these farms (land and building) was $36,321.

Other figures from the report are:

1. Value of all farm products sold in 1969, $5,924,011; in 1964, $4,247,850.

2. Value of all crops sold in 1969, $1,244,548; in 1964, $1,394,011.

3. Value of all livestock, poultry, and their products sold in 1969, $4,614,655; in 1964, $2,720,580.

Reported for the first time in an agricultural census is information on the extent to which the corporate structure is being used by operators of farms from which agricultural census is information on the extent to which the corporate structure is being used by operators of farms from which agricultural products totaling $2,500 and over were sold. Including family farms using this type of business structure, 6 of the county's $2,500-and-over- farms are incorporated.

Suzanne Says...

Easter is springtime and the religious festivals which honor the Resurrection, or rising from the dead, of Jesus. It is a joyous time of the seasons and is a joy for three reasons:

It marks the return to the life of Jesus.

It means the end of the forty days of Lent.

In the north temperature zone, it is early spring. It is the time for flowers and warm sun after a cold winter.

We will be looking for something different to cook during the Holiday Season. Have you tried a roast of lamb lately?

10-16 lb. rib roast
10-16 pieces of bacon
salt and pepper
Accent

Preheat oven at 325 degrees. Wrap rib ends with bacon pieces to prevent charring. Place roast upside down in roasting pan so fat from roast bastes rib ends. Fill center with sauteed cherry tomatoes. Serve with paper frills - gold or pastel colored - for Easter.

EASTER SALAD BASKETS

Lettuce cups
Mixed salad greens
Radish roses
Carrot "chrysanthemums"
Bell pepper strips
Blue cheese crumbled
Creamy blue cheese dressing

Chill all salad ingredients until well crisped. Fit two lettuce cups together to make the shell of the basket. Fill basket with tossed salad. Garnish with radish roses and carrot chrysanthemums.

Ham is always a good meat for this time of year.

BAKED HAM

1 ham
Brown sugar
Soft bread crumbs
1 teaspoon mustard
Whole cloves

Cover ham with boiling water, Simmer about 20 minutes per pound. Whenever possible, follow directions given by packers as to the best method for cooking their ham. Drain and remove skin. Mix sugar and crumbs. Add mustard and spread over ham. Insert cloves one inch apart, making a diamond pattern. Bake in a slow oven 300 degrees allowing ten minutes per pound.

Cancer Crusade Begins Nation-Wide April 1

The annual educational and fund-raising Crusade of the American Cancer Society opens April 1 against a background of the fight against cancer rating high national priority.

"We want to wipe out cancer in your lifetime, is the motivating theme," explained Dr. George Kimberly, president of the Davie County American Cancer Society Unit. "We will be asking everyone to back up this goal with an annual health checkup and a generous check when you receive your request in the form of a letter from Jeff Wells, Crusade Chairman.

Pointing out that there is more concern about cancer than ever before among Americans who are careless or forgetful of the need for regular health checkups.

Plans for the 1972 Crusade include nationwide distribution of 45,000,000 leaflets urging women to go for Pap tests for uterine cancer.

"Although a nationwide Gallup study showed a gradual increase in the percentage of people who do get checkups - from 57 percent in 1963 to 62 percent in 1970 - there was a slowing down in the rate of increase of those who went for specific cancer tests," Dr. Kimberly said.

The fact that many cancers can be cured if detected early enough and treated promptly is the urgent message the Crusade will bring to the American people.

"Today we are saving one out of three cancer patients," Dr. Kimberly declared, "but with our present knowledge we could save one out of two if only people were alert to the warning signals, the safeguards against cancer and the need for the regular checkup." The safeguards such as avoiding excessive sun, stopping cigarette smoking and others, will be stressed during the Crusade for year-round vigilance.

"We will use the Crusade this year to remind the public that there are 1,500,000 Americans today who are cured of cancer and that the number could be increased if everyone would try to protect themselves from cancer."

Anyone who does not receive a letter asking for a donation to the local Unit may send a check to Miss Cornelia Hendricks, treasurer, Davie County Unit

EASTER GREETINGS

Let the blessings of the season be yours...

Let us join together, young and old, to celebrate the glory of Easter . . . to rejoice in the meaning and the message of this season of rebirth. Let us praise Him, the risen Christ, as we sing the songs of Easter, and let us pray that the spiritual rebirth of Eastertide may be with us, one and all, a comfort and inspiration, day by day, throughout the year. With these Easter sentiments in our hearts, we greet you and sincerely wish that the season's blessings may be bountifully yours.

MRS. WAYNE FRANKLIN HILL
..... was Bonnie Sue Crump

Miss Crump, Mr. Hill United In Marriage At Mt. Carmel

Miss Bonnie Sue Crump became the bride of Wayne Franklin Hill at 4 p. m. Sunday, March 26, in Mt. Carmel United Methodist Church in Winston-Salem. The Rev. F. W. Dowd Bangle officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Crump of 1627 Paragon Drive, Winston-Salem. Mr. Hill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Hill of 1600 Paragon Drive, Winston-Salem.

A graduate of Massey College in Atlanta, Georgia and London, England, Mrs. Hill and her husband are owners of the Western Auto Associate Store in Mocksville. Mr. Hill is a graduate of Wingate Junior College and attended Western Carolina University. He served two years with the US Army including one year in Vietnam.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of candlelight silk organza designed with high neckline and long slim sleeves. On the empire bodice was an overlay of embrodiered Alencon lace embellished with crystals and seed pearls. Around the A-line skirt was an elaborate border of lace and pearls. Her chapel length mantilla of silk illusion was encircled with matching lace and she carried a semi-cascade of pale pink carnations centered with white cymbidium, gysophilia, snowdriff and pompoms in ivory ribbon streamers.

Miss Becky Gobble was maid of honor and Mrs. Harold Whitt, the bridegroom's sister, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jim Murphy of Chapel Hill; Miss Cathy Bryan and Miss Kay Whitted, cousins of the bride. Junior bridesmaids were Christi Whitt, the groom's niece and Cindy Valentine, of Cary, the bride's cousin.

The attendants wore long gowns of willow green crepe fashioned with Bishop neckline and long cuffed sleeves. Braided self-fabric cords around the high rise waist fell to the hemline in back of the softly gathered column skirts. They wore double Dior bows of willow green crepe with short veils and carried nosegays of mixed dark and light pink flowers with gypsophilia and light and dark pink ribbon streamers.

The junior bridesmaids wore long gowns of pink crepe with Bishop neckline and long cuffed sleeves. Around the bodice and neckline were borders of small light and dark pink flowers trimmed in green. They wore cluster bows with streamers and small pink flowers at each end for head pieces and carried small nosegays identical to the other attendants.

Raymond E. Hill, the groom's father was best man. Ushers were Harold Whitt; Mike Crump, the bride's brother; Terry Long; Mike Means of Clearwater, Florida; Larry Burgess of Greensboro; and, Michael Wallace.

RECEPTION

The bride's parents entertained at a reception following the ceremony at the groom's home. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Mike Means of Clearwater, Florida; Mrs. Michael Wallace and Mrs. Charles Valentine of Cary.

Mrs. Terry Long presided at the guest register.

The newlyweds left following the reception for a trip to Florida. Upon their return, the couple will live at Route 4, Mocksville.

MRS. RONALD CARROLL MILLER
..... was Beverly Dane Foster

First United Methodist Church Is Scene Of Foster-Miller Vows

A blanket of snow accentuated the Saturday afternoon wedding of Miss Beverly Dane Foster to Lieutenant Ronald Carroll Miller. The wedding vows were solemnized in the First United Methodist Church, Mocksville, with the Reverend Ardis Payne officiating, assisted by the Reverend Gilbert Miller, father of the bridegroom.

John Scott of Greensboro presented a program of organ music especially selected by the bride. Miss Gale Rudisill of Atlanta, Georgia, sang "One Hand, One Heart" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Elmo Utah Foster of Route 3, and the late Mr. Foster. The bridegroom is the son of the Reverend and Mrs. Gilbert Miller of Gastonia, formerly of Mocksville.

Both the bride and groom graduated from Davie County High School, Brevard College and Greensboro College. The bride received a Bachelor of Arts degree in elementary education and the groom, Bachelor of Science Degree in Biology. She is presently teaching in the Archer Elementary School in Greensboro and the groom is serving as an officer in the United States Army.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Alton Foster of Route 3, the bride wore a gown styled in white satin and Alencon lace featuring a Duchess neckline and long fitted sleeves of lace and satin. The A-line skirt with full cut chapel train extended from a raised waistline accented with band closing in back. Sprays of Alencon lace appliqued with pearls accented the skirt front. The bride's floor length veil of white silk illusion with scattered appliques was styled with a shorter tiered veil edged with Venice and Chantilly lace. She carried a cascade of daisies and yellow roses centered with iris from which she lifted a rosebud for each mother.

Mrs. Russell Pearson Jr. of Lemoore, California served her sister as matron of honor. Her gown of crocus yellow voile featured a raised waistline with bodice and sleeves trimmed in white lace. The full skirt featured a wide ruffle also edged with white lace.

The bridesmaids included Mrs. Toby Funderburk of Charlotte and Mrs. Ed Carpenter of Herman, New York, both college roommates of the bride, and Miss Helen Ferrell and Miss Patsy Hand of Greensboro. Their gowns were styled like that of the honor attendant. All carried nosegays of daisies and yellow rosebuds centered with iris. White daisies were scattered through the hair in place of a headdress.

Honorary attendants were Mrs. Mike Green of Charleston, South Carolina, Miss Cindy Hendrix, Miss Susan Garwood and Miss Lynn Foster of Mocksville. They wore dresses of apricot flocked voile and carried single long stemmed yellow roses.

The Reverend Mr. Miller served his son as best man. Ushers with Mike Hendrix of Cooleemee and Danny Treece of Charlotte were Bobby Propst of Conover, and Lt. Bruce Owen of Wayzata, Minnesota.

The bride's mother was attired in a dress of spring green featuring French lines with self belt and matching jacket. She used matching accessories and wore a lavender-throated orchid.

The groom's mother wore a coat and dress ensemble in apricot with matching scarf accenting the neckline. She also wore matching accessories and an orchid.

For a wedding trip to Williamsburg, Virginia, the bride changed to a tailored outfit in navy with red plaid over which she wore a white spring coat in mohair. Navy accessories and her mother's orchid completed the ensemble.

After April 5, Lt. Miller will be stationed in Germany where the bride will join him in June.

Cake-Cutting

Mrs. Elmo Foster entertained with a cake-cutting in the Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church, Mocksville following the Friday evening wedding rehearsal of her daughter, Miss Beverly Foster of Greensboro and her fiance, Lt. Ronald Miller of Gastonia, formerly of Mocksville.

The bride-elect's table was covered with a white satin cloth overlaid with yellow lace. Table decorations included an arrangement of yellow, lavender and white chrysanthemums, daisies and pom poms flanked by yellow tapers in silver candelabra and a silver punch bowl encircled with spring flowers.

The tiered wedding cake decorated with yellow rosebuds was topped with a bride and groom figurine. Assisting in serving the cake, nuts, mints and punch were aunts of the bride-elect, Mrs. Fred Snider, Mrs. Alton Foster and Mrs. Otis Hendrix.

Goodbyes were said to Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Propst of Conover, uncle and aunt of the groom-elect.

Reception

Following the ceremony, the bride's mother, Mrs. Elmo Foster, entertained with a reception in the church Fellowship Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Hendrix, aunt and uncle of the bride, directed the guests to the Fellowship Hall.

Miss Gale Rudisill presided at the guest register.

The refreshment table overlaid with yellow lace over white satin, was centered by an arrangement of yellow, lavender and white chrysanthemums, daisies and gladoli flanked by yellow tapers in silver candelabra.

Mrs. Mike Green poured punch from a silver bowl encircled with spring flowers. Assisting in serving cake squares, nuts, mints and party sandwiches were Miss Lynn Foster, Miss Cindy Hendrix and Miss Susan Garwood.

Goodbyes were said to Mr. and Mrs. Otis Hendrix.

Wedding Attendants Honored

The bridal attendants of Miss Beverly Dane Foster were honored with a dinner preceeding the Friday wedding rehearsal of Miss Foster to Lieutenant Ronald Miller. Hostess for the occasion was Mrs. Russell Pearson Jr. of Lemoore, California, sister of the bride.

The dinner was given in the El Toro room of the Holiday Inn in Winston-Salem. Guests were seated at tables spread with white cloths accented with yellow gingham runners. Favors given each guest were bread cloths and napkin rings made by the hostess.

Spring flowers in yellow, lavender, blue and white and blue and yellow tapers centered the bride's table. The smaller tables were centered with recipe boxes filled with flowers.

The honoree was given a corsage of yellow rosebuds and a silver tea bell.

She presented her attendants with engraved bangle bracelets and the bridal mothers with gold charms.

Special guest was Master Stephen Pearson, nephew of the bride-elect.

Robertson — Welcher Ceremony Held Sunday At Union Chapel

Miss Marguerite "Joy" Welcher became the bride of Eddie "Leon" Robertson in a ceremony performed at 3 p.m. Sunday, March 26, at Union Chapel United Methodist Church. Rev. Bobby Beck, pastor of Northwood United Methodist Church in High Point performed the ceremony.

Jimmy Wilson of Rt. 2, Advance, organist, and Mrs. Dale Lanier, of Advance, soloist, presented the music.

Mrs. Robertson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Welcher of Route 4, Mooresville (Lake Norman). She graduated from Davie County High School and is now employed by the Davie County Health Department in Mocksville.

Mr. Robertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Robertson of Rt. 2, Advance, graduated from Davie County High School, attended Appalachian State University and is now employed at Western Electric by Hugh Strickland Company.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of tiered Spanish lace over organza with a train, sweetheart sleeves and a neckline of seed pearls and rhinestones. Her headpiece was a lace mantilla over a comb that came from Spain. She carried a white lace fan covered with yellow roses.

Rosalen Keith of Winston-Salem, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Carolyn White was maid of honor. Both wore orchid organdy embossed with daisies over taffeta. They carried fans covered with yellow mums.

Bridesmaids were Jennifer Gabbert of Cooleemee and Betty Cornatzer and Lynn Orrell of Advance. Their dresses were of yellow organdy embossed with daisies over taffeta. They carried fans covered with orchid mums.

Dawn Binkley was flower girl and Chris Binkley was ring bearer. Both are from Winston-Salem.

Mr. Robertson was his son's best man. Ushers were Robby Welcher of Mooresville, brother of the bride; Buddy Mynhier of Winston-Salem; and Jeffery and Stacy Cornatzer of Advance.

For her wedding trip to Charleston, S. C., the bride wore an orchid polyester knit dress with matching accessories. She added the corsage of yellow roses from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will be at home on Route 2, Advance, after April 1.

RECEPTION

The bride's parents entertained at a reception in the Fellowship Hall of the church following the ceremony.

Mrs. Kitty Setzer of Rural Hall, Pam Ledford of Advance, Mrs. Vickie Carter of Mocksville and, Mrs. Karen Mynhier of Winston-Salem assisted in serving.

The bride's table was covered with a satin cloth. A four tiered wedding cake decorated in spring colors and topped with 2 large wedding bells centered the table. Yellow tapers in holders containing flowers were used on each side of the cake.

After the couple cut the traditional first slice, guests were served cake, punch, nuts and mints.

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Mascari of Los Angeles, California, grandparents of the bride, were among the out-of-town guests present at the wedding.

Blaise Baptist Church And New Education Building

Blaise Baptist To Dedicate Building

Blaise Baptist Church will have a Dedication Service April 1, at 11 a. m. for the new Educational Building.

Blaise is located 2 miles north of Mocksville on Highway 601, just beyond I-40.

Plans for the new building were made on the first Sunday in April of 1971. It was decided to begin a new children's Educational building containing seven class rooms, a conference rrom, three rest rooms, and a Fellowship Hall. Due to an existing church debt, it was decided to build on a "pay as you build basis". This was done, and this $40,000 building is now completed.

Vern Dartt served as chairman of the building committee along with the other members, namely James F. Irvin, Madison Angell, Howard Sherrill and Zeb Brinkley.

Many generous donations were given to the church by various individuals, business firms and industries. Donated labor by men outside of the church was also very useful and valuable.

Blaise Baptist Church is a mission point established in April of 1962 on the Frost land. The original building is used as an Adult Educational building. the sanctuary building is used for worship services twice each Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. The membership of the church has grown from zero to above 200 members with a Sunday School enrollment of 169 for all ages.

The entire membership and the present pastor, the Rev. Alvis C. Cheshire join in extending a cordial invitation to the Dedication Service Sunday, April 2.

Cana Homemakers Club Meeting

The Cana Homemakers Club held the regular meeting Thursday, March 23, at the home of Mrs. Carl Horton.

The president, Mrs. Wade Hutchins, presided and gave the devotions using the 21st chapter of Proverbs beginning with the 22nd verse. She led the group in prayer followed by the singing of "America the Beautiful."

Committee reports were called for and Mrs. Ruby Leagans responded in the interest of clothing. She discussed kinds and types of clothes and patterns called "pound thinners." She gave special emphasis to points that give slimming effects. These are the neckline, A-line and gored skirts. Three things to consider in the selection of materials are: hue, intensity and texture. All of these points influence the completed garment and affect its slimming effects. Mrs. Leagans displayed a collection of beautiful handmade mens' ties. She demonstrated the cutting of the inner facing which affects the shape of the finished ties. She called attention to some points given for tie construction by Lucille Rivers in her daily TV show "Fashions in Sewing."

Two outstanding women who have contributed much to homemakers everywhere are Miss Rivers on NBC and Julia Childs on WGBH through Channel 4.

The program was then turned over to Mrs. West who reminded us of the approaching date of Consumerama 2 in '72 which will be held at the Benton Convention Center in Winston-Salem from April 5-8. One of the most interesting programs to club members will be "Furnishing the Home" on April 5 at 11 a. m. This will be conducted by Ruth Clark of Heritage Furniture Company, James Troy of Karastan Carpets and Nancy Williams of Norman's Drapery Company. On April 7 at 11 a. m. John Harris, professor Emeritus of N. C. State University and well known landscape architect, will speak on landscaping. One suggestion he gave on his recent Saturday program "The Tar Heel Gardner" was the need of nitrogen by most plants. To supply this need use 10-6-4.

Mrs. West gave an able discussion on periods and styles of furniture and the satisfaction to be gained by the use of certain types and styles of the combination of these. She pointed out that style refers to design. Period, when used. Fashion, means change. She used a copy of Better Homes and Gardens showing classic designs in furniture, colors for draperies and items of art that add to and enhance the beauty and completeness of a room decorated in good taste that yields satisfaction and livability.

The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of daffodils, Easter eggs and an Easter rabbit.

The hostess served delicious home baked nut bread, ice cream, mints and coffee.

Home Agents Help With Consumerama 2

Mrs. Ostene West and Mrs. Nancy Hartman, Davie County Home Economics Extension Agents, are busy assisting with final preparations for Consumera 2 which will be in Winston-Salem Convention Center – April 5-8.

Mrs. West and a number of Davie County Extension homemakers will be in charge of ticket sales during the show.

Mrs. Hartman, a member of the housing and house furnishing committee for the show, will assist with exciting low cost decorating ideas to be displayed in a modular house in the parking lot of the Convention Center.

Mrs. Hartman will also a demonstration room coordinator during the show where exhibiting companies will demonstrate everything from sewing on men's wear and styling wigs to gourmet dishes with North Carolina seafoods.

"We have a wonderful program planned especially for you, Friday night, April 7, at 7:30 p. m. at Consumera 2 in Winston-Salem at the Convention Center," said Miss Faye McCotter.

Miss McCotter a home economist with the N. C. Seafood Marketing Division of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources, will present her demonstration on low calorie seafood dishes. She is doing regular demonstrations each day of Consumerama, but she wants to do this especially for those attending. She'll have everything from hors d'oeuvre to main dishes.

"We hope you will plan to come early enough to take in some of our exhibits and see the mobile and modular homes in the parking lot outside," said other officials. Paul Myer's who is catering the food service, will be serving dinner in the Convention Center that night.

Clarksville 4-H Club To Solicit

Easter Seal Fund Drive

A special drive for Easter Seal funds will be conducted by members of the Clarksville 4-H Club, under the leadership of Mrs. Frances Beck, on the Mocksville square this weekend.

Clarksville 4-H members will be soliciting funds on Thursday and Friday afternoon, and during the morning of Saturday, April 1st.

All money collected will go to the Easter Seal Association of which Miss Jo Cooley is county chairman.

Davie is one of 11 counties whose goal is $100,000.

Last year the Easter Seal association raised $2500 in Davie County and spent $2,000 for hearing tests for children in the Davie County schools. Plans are to have another summer speech clinic.

"Also, any handicapped person in Davie County is eligible to go to the Easter in the Pines C[illegible] at Southern Pines," said Miss Cooley.

Miss Cooley pointed out that this is the oldest direct health service in the United States and 90 to 95 percent of money collected is spent in this area.

C.F. Meroney Measures Each Morning

Precipitation

By Marlene Benson

C. F. Meroney of Mocksville has been measuring the rainfall in Davie County for the Weather Bureau for the past 20 years - and his father-in-law, the late L. S. Kurfees, 20 years before him.

The rain gauge stands in the back yard of the Meroney home on Salisbury Street and in case of rain, Mr. Meroney gets up at 7:30 a.m. to measure it to the 100ths of an inch. He does this, at the same time each morning, if there has been any rainfall during the 24 hour period.

This same procedure is followed for measuring any type of precipitation. The snow is measured in inches on the ground with a measuring stick and the contents of the rain gauge is melted and measured in liquid form, also.

A daily precipitation report is kept and totaled at the end of each month, at which time it is mailed to the Department of Commerce Weather Bureau in Asheville.

Mr. Meroney said that anytime there is more than two inches of rain at any one reading, he immediately calls the Statesville office, and the report also goes to the Weather Bureau in Washington, D. C.

The reports also show the approximate time of day or night the rain begins and ends.

Mrs. Meroney said that her father read a gauge tape that had been put in a well at their home place on Main Street (now the old jail building) in addition to the rain gauge. The gauge tape "was put in by someone from Raleigh and Dad would read it."

She said her father became very ill, prior to his death in 1952, and she kept it up until her husband began reading it in March of that year.

The gauge tape in the well measures the rise and fall of the water level, and it is still in the well at the old home place, which was sold to Hugh Larew, also of Mocksville, two years ago.

"He agreed to continue doing the well gauge since then," she said, "and C. F. only reads the rain gauge."

Mr. Meroney told of the time a lawyer from Salisbury called him "to see if it had rained the night before". It seems the lawyer had a client who had had a fight with his wife because he didn't come home that night. The client's reason for being out all night was that "it rained so hard that he couldn't get home."

Mr. Meroney laughed, as if he thought the client's story was "all wet", but said that he merely told the lawyer he

C.F.Meroney and his rain gauge.

"didn't want to get mixed up in any family matters."

He recalled another incident when a farm agent wanted to check the record of rainfall for six or seven months last year. This was concerning a supposedly damaged shipment of grain from a local farm and they were trying to find out if the weather was responsible.

Mr. Meroney said a lot of individuals have these rain gauges, but they are not accurate. "They can be bought for about six to eight dollars, compared to the $100 cost of mine."

Mr. Meroney is not paid for his services to the weather bureau, but said if anything should happen to his rain gauge, "I'm responsible for it."

But then, after being in the family for forty years, it just wouldn't be the same without the rain gauge.

Easter Sunrise Event Planned By Wilkes YMCA

Plans for the third annual Easter Sunrise Pageant sponsored by the Y's Men's Club of the Wilkes Y. M. C. A. were announced Friday.

The pageant, depicting the trial, persecution, crucifixion and resurrection of Christ will again be held in Mountlawn Memorial Park on Easter morning, Sunday, April 2. The pageant will get underway at 4:30 a.m.

The second pageant was held last year and was described as many who braved sub-freezing weather as being an excellent production. As last year, in event of heavy rain at pageant time the event will be cancelled and there will be no alternate site.

Mrs. Robert Foster wrote the script and will direct the pageant. The Rev. Allen Laymon, pastor of the North Wilkesboro First Baptist Church, will be narrator. Mike Gwyn, a Wilkes Central Senior, will be in the head role of Christ. Randy Cranor will be cast as Pilate, while Vernon McManus and Charles Craven from West Wilkes will have the roles of thieves flanking Christ on the cross. Other cast members include Mary Church, Ann Staley, Brenda Church as the three women and Marlene Miller as the angel.

Cast members are from the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y Clubs, and choruses from all four high schools in the county will provide music for the pageant, which has the title "Were You There?"

Between 250 and 300 young people will participate in the production. A rehearsal will be held on Monday, March 27 at 5 p.m., and a dress rehearsal will be held at 7 Friday, March 31, at Mountlawn Memorial Gardens.

Michael Seamon V. P. Of Class

Michael Ernest Seamon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest T. Seamon, Route 7, Mocksville, has been elected vice-president of the June graduating class at David Lipscomb College, Nashville, Tennessee.

His class is scheduled to graduate in commencement exercises in Alumni Auditorium at 6:30 p.m. June 3, and at the dean's breakfast for the class at 8 a.m., he will be recognized among other campus leaders who are to receive their degrees.

Seamon is a graduate of David County High School and is majoring in chemistry at Lipscomb. He has served as president of his Junior class, on the newspaper and yearbook staff. He is now serving as President of Collegiate Civitan and is on the President's Student Council.

Lipscomb is a senior liberal arts college offering the B. A. or B. S. degree for completion of major programs in 25 different fields of study. It is church-related and requires all students, from freshman through senior years, to have a Bible class every regular school day.

Leaf Emergence Marks Arrival

N. C. Has No 'First Day Of Spring'

North Carolina has no first day of spring.

Instead, it has several. It all depends, say UNC botanists, on where you live and the climate.

In the Tar Heel State, the first flowering of the dogwood, red maple and redbud trees coincides with the beginning of the vegetation season (leaf emergence) or the arrival of spring.

With the help of many college and high school students, garden clubs and agricultural research stations, Dr. Helmut Lieth and graduate student Richard Reader are mapping the arrival of spring across North Carolina according to the date of first blossoms as reported by this web of volunteers.

Spring comes first in the southeastern portion of the state, progresses up the Coastal Plain, then spreads to the Piedmont and to the mountains.

In 1970, the first year of the project, spring arrived the week of March 15-21 in Robeson County and a small area immediately adjacent. It took more than a month, until the week of April 19-25, for it to reach Watauga and Avery Counties, finally covering the state.

Last year, those folks in Robeson County welcomed spring the week of March 9-15, while that last mountain section didn't experience a seasonal change until the week beginning April 27th.

While spring awakening was first evident in the Southeastern Coastal Plain both years, the spring flowering in the northern portions of the Coastal Plain was up to 10 days earlier in 1971. In the Piedmont, both 1970 and 1971 dates were similar. The larger number of responses from observers in the mountain counties produced a slightly different, but more accurate picture of the timing of spring flowering there.

Since 1970, similar studies recording the first coloration of the red maple and tulip (yellow) poplar leaves in the fall have also been initiated. The pattern of autumn's arrival is a reversal; it comes first in the mountains, last in the southeastern coastal plains.

These studies are known officially as the N. C. Phenology Project and involve much more than simply recording the first dogwood blossom or the first yellow poplar leaf, according to Richard Reader.

"The photosynthetic period–growing period–is the key event on an annual basis," Reader said.

"In recognizing these patterns–leaf coloration in the fall, leaf emergence in the spring–you get an idea when they occur and how they are related to climatic variables. Then, you have the ability to predict when these things will occur in future years."

These predictions are very important, Reader said, from the natural resource management point of view. "It can help in things like planting crops and pest control," he noted.

The Phenology Project has already accumulated data on the average length of the growing season for most N. C. counties.

Since the activity of many animals is geared to the times of emergence and senescence of tree leaves, the length of the growing season, is again of great significance," Reader said.

In 1971, the average length of the growing season in the mountain counties was less than 180 days. The northern and central Piedmont regions had a growing season of 180-200 days, while the southern Piedmont had a growing period of up to 220 days. On the remainder of the Coastal Plains, the period was between 220-240 days.

The project also places an emphasis on environmental awareness of two levels—as part of the International Biologial Program where this data becomes part of worldwide computer studies, and as part of participants' personal lives, because they begin to observe and appreciate their environment.

Both Reader and Dr. Lieth have expressed much appreciation to the North Carolinians who are helping with these studies. "We rely on them entirely. Without them, there would be no North Carolina Phenology Project," Reader noted.

The N. C. project received national recognition after an article on it in Bio-Science presented convincing evidence that good scientific work can be based on the help of volunteers, if planned properly.

Reader noted that most of the observers prefer watching for spring's first blossoms to searching for the turning of leaves in the fall.

"Both events are important," he stressed. "We do have to make the volunteers understand that if we are going to make predictions about the length of the photo-synthetic period, that the end is as important as the beginning.

"We have found that it is easier to get people to go out and watch for flowers," he said. "While some people may have a different viewpoint as to when a leaf has 50 per cent coloration, their opinions about first flower opening are less subjective.

Using temperature and rainfall data collected at the North Carolina weather stations and flowering patterns, the UNC botanists hope to be able to predict the appearance of fall, 1972 before it actually occurs.

Dr. Lieth and Reader hope to continue the project until 1975. "A flowering and leaf coloration average based on five years of data should be reliable enough to determine the relationship between flowering date and specific environmental parameters, such as temperature or day length at various latitudinal, longitudinal and altitudinal combinations throughout the state," Reader said.

Present flowering patterns, based on 1970 and 1971 data, do indicate that there is a definite relationship between the elevation and geographical location of an area and flowering date.

Also, they plan to build up the same data about the arrival of fall.

More than 300 Tar Heels usually cooperate in each of these spring and fall studies. If you have not participated in the investigations so far and want to observe this spring's or next fall's events, send your name and address to N. C. Phenology Project, care of Richard Reader, Department of Botany, Coker Hall, UNC, Chapel Hill, 27514.

You will receive a letter explaining the type of observation desired, sketches of the events to note, and a response form.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

Changes in the national feed grain program are expected to result in less corn and more soybeans on North Carolina farms in 1972.

North Carolina State University extension economists point out that the less-corn, more-beans effect is the primary purpose of the changes that have been announced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The goal is to relieve the grain supply situation that plunged corn prices to the dollar a bushel level in many parts of the country last fall. Soybeans, on the other hand, are enjoying a good market and an optimistic forecast for continued strong demand.

In deciding what adjustments to make in their acreage of corn and soybeans, growers should figure as accurately as possible their total cost of producing each crop, the kind of yields that can be expected in a normal or average year and, using future quotations, project market prices for next fall's harvest time.

"A person who expects relatively low yields or relatively high production costs may be better off participating in the feed grain program," is the advice of Dr. Everett Nichols, grain marketing economist at N. C. State University.

But where the opposite is the case, a farmer might come out ahead by not participating.

There is a key provision of the feed grain program that must be kept in mind. If a grower plants less than 45 percent of his feed grain base, he can lose up to 20 percent of his base allotment for 1973. If the acreage isn't planted for three straight years, all of the allotment is lost.

The base or planting history can be protected, however, if the farmer doesn't accept program payment.

County reports to the state office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service show that some 53,000 acres of grain base were lost in North Carolina in 1971 for failure to plant or failure to report planting.

The basic changes in the feed grain program for 1972 are:

– The feed grain set-aside is increased from 20 to 25 percent of the base.

– Set-aside payments are increased from 32 cents per bushel for corn to 40 cents a bushel. Because of the corresponding change in acreage set-aside, the net money to the farmer remains about the same.

– Barley is included this year in the feed grain program.

By maintaining his set-aside and conserving base, a grower can raise as much feed grain as he chooses. And he may plant his remaining acres to any crop he wishes, except those under production controls.

He may plant soybeans as a feed grain substitute crop and receive planting credit this year.

Small People – Movers Challenge Traffic

Automated people-movers someday may break the automobile's stranglehold on traffic-choked cities.

Slung from overhead rails or whisked along guideways, the small vehicles would be operated by computers. Most would be scheduled for rush hours. At other times, passengers would simply call for a car by pushing a button, as in an elevator.

The first city people-mover system – called Personal Rapid Transit by the Department of Transportantion – is scheduled to begin service in Morganton, West Virginia, in September 1972, the National Geographic Society says.

Test at Transpo

Four other PRT's will be tested at Transpo 72, an Internation Transportation Exposition to be held in May and June at Dulles International Airport, near Washington, .D.C.

"The only way to lure the harassed motorist from the automobile is to make public transportation attractive and flexible," says Carlos C. Villarreal, Administrator of DOT's Urban Mass Transportation Administration.

"We hope one or a combination of these systems will turn the traffic tide in a hundred or more cities throughout the Nation by offering passengers a wider choice of routes, schedules, and speeds in downtown areas."

Morganton is an ideal site for the first practical test of a PRT. Straddling a narrow river valley, the city now is so clogged with traffic that students at West Virginia University cannot schedule consecutive classes between downtown and outer campuses. Buses often take 70 minutes to get them to their destinations, and massive jams occur eight times a day when classes change.

Morganton's varied climate will give the new system a workout in ice, snow, rain, fog, and summer heat.

Will Set Precedent

"This automated PRT will be the first of its kind in the world and will become a model for other cities," predicts Dr. Samy E. G. Elias, chairman of the University's Industrial Engineering Department and coordinator for the project in Morganton.

A fleet of more than 70 electrically powered, rubber-wheeled vehicles eventually will roll along 3.2 miles of ground level and elevated highways linking the campuses with the downtown business district.

Traveling at speeds of up to 25 miles per hour, each of the snub-nosed, fiberglass cars can carry 17 passengers. The time-saving will be enormous. As many as 1,100 students will be able to travel the entire system in only 20 minutes.

A computer control and communications center will start and space the cars, set their speeds, and guide them to precision stops to pick up ad let off passengers.

If trouble should occur, automatic controls will stop the vehicles. The computerized system will warn a dispatcher to assume control and will print out a corrective strategy for him to follow in holding or rerouting cars.

Bits Of Life

Worthy Of A Book?

By ROSCOE BROWN FISHER

What is it we do that lasts the longest? Often it is the small things that we never dreamed would amount to much.

Perhaps a kind word said at the right time . . . a thoughtful deed to a friend . . . a basket of fruit . . . a visit to a hospital . . . a gift sent anonymously . . . time spent visiting a lonely person . . . an encouraging word to an alcoholic . . . a telephone call to a shut-in . . . or a get-well card.

Never would I have dreamed this newspaper column, "Bits Of Life," would serve as an inspiration to so many people . . . just telling a brief story about someone we meet along the road of life, which the casual observer might overlook.

When the cards finally stopped coming to the Baptist Hospital, weeks after being dismissed, my heart was filled to the overflowing . . . and never again would I, after finishing a story late at night, wonder if the effort was worthwhile.

Many of the readers of the column are asking for a book of the Bits. Another chore? Nonetheless, this we will try to do.

Some months ago Pauline accepted the responsibility of putting together a format for a little book . . . and ere long, she ran into the problem of the decision of which to include.

Cartoonist Gene Payne has agreed to the use of his drawings. Gene, former Pulitzer-prize-winning cartoonist for the Charlotte Observer and now with WSOC-TV, has done most of the illustrations for the "Bits Of Life."

Some of the readers, who recently sent cards, mentioned their favorite "Bits Of Life." How about yours?

You could be of help if you would let us know the story which has meant the most to you . . . the story you would wish included in a book of the "Bits of Life."

Address mail to Bits Of Life, Box 27, Cooleemee, N. C. 27014

What's the best bank savings plan for me?

Central Carolina Bank offers a savings plan suited to the need of almost everyone. Here are three of the most popular, each one insured to $20,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Golden Certificate.

CCB's Golden Certificate, with a minimum of $1,000, earns 5 1/2% if held for one year, 5 3/4% if held for two years. Interest is accumulated from day of deposit. You can receive your interest quarterly by check, or quarterly by deposit to your CCB account, or at the maturity of the certificate. Of course your Golden Certificate is excellent collateral for loans, and will earn you a preferred loan rate.

Golden Passbook.

Golden Passbook, favorite savings plan of thousands of North Carolinians, pays 5% daily interest, compounded quarterly. After your initial deposit of $500, you can put in any amount, any time. Withdrawals of funds may be made without notice during the first ten days of the following calendar quarter. By using your CCB Golden Passbook as collateral, you can borrow at the lowest interest rate in town. And you can collect your interest in cash, by check, or by adding it to your account.

Regular Passbook Savings.

Most flexible of all savings plans, your regular passbook savings offers you the maximum interest a bank is permitted to pay on accounts of this type. No matter what other investments one has, a CCB savings account for emergency use is a "must," a rainy-day safeguard. Use Central Carolina Bank's Automatic Savings Plan to make regular, painless transfers from your checking account to fatten up your savings. Oh yes, the rate's a healthy 4 1/2%!

Davie Now Has 138 Families Participating

Food Stamp Program Changes Increase Participants

Changes in the Food Stamp program, which became effective March 1st, are expected to add to the number of eligible participants in the program in Davie County.

Mrs. Nancy Martin, director of the Davie County Social Services Department, said the program has been liberalized in some ways and tightened in others. The cost of the purchase price of the stamps has been reduced and the income levels raised for the determination of eligibility.

As a result of the new rulings, the Davie County Social Services Department is expecting an increase in the number of non-public assistance recipients of food stamps.

Mrs. Martin said that many more families in Davie are buying food stamps during March than in February because of these changes.

"We have had an increase of around 10 families during March but by May we can expect an increase of more than 80 families," said Mrs. Martin.

At the present time 138 non-public assistance families are participating in the food stamp program.

Mrs. Martin pointed out that with the changes, the ownership of property in reserve has been reduced, so that non-income producing farm land or a second car will count against the reserve allowed.

Mrs. Martin said that one change, scheduled to be effective July 1, would allow a family to buy one-fourth, one-half or the total amount of food stamps alloted them for a month,and once they have made a purchase for the month they cannot buy more. She said she fears this will reduce the purchase of food stamps by some people, and will result in inadequate diets for them. It will also mean more paper work for the Food Stamp clerks.

Mrs. Martin also announced the tightening up of restrictions for students and for groups receiving stamps, requiring that groups be related people, not commune dwellers.

During the past year, an average of 132 families, or 380 persons, per month received food stamp assistance.

The change in the standards raise the old net monthly income for a single person from $115 to $170 per month; for a two-person household, from $155 to $180 per month; three people from $180 to $293; 4 people from $200 to $360; five people from $220 to $427. For a household with ten people, the new net monthly income is $706, more than twice the old limit of $300.

Mrs. Martin pointed out that the period of certification for non-public assistance families is dependent upon the type and frequency of income and circumstances of the family. This requires frequent checking for certification. Some are certified for one month only, while others are certified for three, six or 12 months. The majority are certified for three months.

Davie County currently has one eligibility worker, Mrs. Margaret Hendricks, for non-public assistance certification. Mrs. Hendricks had 58 total contacts in February, 1972, with 40 certified, 2 rejected, and 16 held pending further information.

Non-public assistance means the person does not receive social security, social service assistance or veteran's administration benefits.

"We hope all cattlemen will turn out to cast their vote," Riddle said. "The kind of promotional program a favorable vote will make possible is needed and, in fact, is essential if we are going to have a thriving and successful cattle business. This is the time when cattlemen can demonstrate their willingness to work together to help themselves."

666 Persons On Stamp Program

There were 666 low-income Davie County people on the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Food Stamp program in January as compared to 628 the previous month, Russell H. James, Southeast regional administrator of USDA's Food and Nutrition Service, reports.

Taking the state as a whole, James noted, the number on the food stamp program increased by 4,409 while the food distribution program dropped by 697 to give an overall decrease of 3,712 from December's 298,316.

In the food stamp program, operating in 52 North Carolina counties, 177,115 people were issued $4.4 million. Of this amount, $2.9 million was in free or bonus stamps.

In the remaining counties which operate food distribution program, 117,489 needy people were given over 3.8 million pounds of USDA-donated food.

WASHINGTON AND SMALL BUSINESS

AS HEARD BY HEARD

Killing the Golden Goose

Currently, Congress has some eight bills for compulsory medical insurance in the hopper.

* * *

There can probably be no argument many people cannot afford needed medical care.

* * *

But one of the strangest Congressional proposals is one that would give medical insurance to everybody, with the employee being taxed 1 per cent of his wages or salary, and the employer an additional 3½ per cent.

* * *

Any more increases in the payroll taxes, surveys by the National Federation of Independent Business find, could and would force out of business many small employers, adding to unemployment.

* * *

The big corporations would not be so handicapped, because they would just add this added cost onto the prices they charge, and as they moved their products through distribution channels pyramided by mark-ups, the consumer would ultimately pick up the tab.

* * *

But over and beyond these points, when will politicians ever learn that eventually the goose that lays the golden eggs, the job giving employers, can be killed off by constantly mounting payroll taxes?

* * *

But in the first place, why should employers be assessed for the medical insurance of the employees? It can be argued that healthy employees are happy employees. So are employees with a home roof over their head, so why should not the employer pay part of their fire insurance? Happy employees also drive cars. So why should not the employer pay part of their auto insurance?

Of course, it can be argued, not without some merit, that it is against the precepts of decent society to permit people to die because of the lack of medical care. And, most people are not prepared for illness.

Neither are most people prepared for an auto accident, but some states have laws making the auto owner financially responsible for damage created by an accident.

* * *

Thus, if anything is done along this line, it should be required that people as a condition of employment be required to show evidence they carry medical insurance.

* * *

This in turn, would promote competition among insurance companies to attract more patronage than competing companies, and would create pools of capital for investment in job producing enterprises.

* * *

Or there is still another recourse. Last year the nation's independent business people, voting through the National Federation of Independent Business, voted majority support of a law that would permit people to take full credit for health insurance premiums against their income taxes.

'Six Flags' To Open New Section For 1972 Season

In keeping with a policy that was established and announced when Six Flags Over Georgia first opened six years ago – "to add new rides, shows, and attractions each year" – the historically themed family entertainment center will open the first phase of a three year expansion program when Six Flags Over Georgia begins its 1972 season on March 31.

Located adjacent to the Spanish section, on the highest hill within the 200-acre park, will be featured attraction for the 1972 season and the beginning of a complete new section for Six Flags: one of the world's largest carousels.

The Six Flags Over Georgia carousel was especially designed and made for the grand opening in 1908 of Riverview Park in Chicago, Ill., and was the first of three five-abreast carousels built by the Philadelphia, Penn., firm, Philadelphia Toboggan Company.

In 1966, Riverview Park was doomed to make way for a housing development and the carousel was purchased by the Township of Galena, Illinois. Stored in a warehouse until Six Flags, in search of one of America's original and finest carousels, discovered and negotiated the purchase, the carousel was crated and moved to Atlanta. Over 26,000 man hours were required to restore the historic carousel to its original grandeur.

Newspaper files in Chicago reveal that famous notorious personages rode the Six Flags' Carousel: William Randolph Hearst and his companion, Marion Davies; Al Capone and his cronies; President Harding; and World War II cartoonist, Bill Mauldin.

The Victorian building that housed the carousel has been reconstructed exactly as it was from original Riverview blueprints and is the largest and most elegant structure housing a carousel.

The Six Flags' carousel is 352-feet in circumference with 70 individually hand carved wooden horses: Each a work of John Zalar, one of the greatest wood sculptors in America.

One of the most outstanding features of the cariousel is the gondolas, known as "Lover's Chariots", which are considered to be the most splendid conceived and executed in the workshops of American artists and sculptors.

Although the carousel will be a featured attraction at Six Flags during the 1972 season, the ingredients that have made Six Flags Over Georgia a success in entertaining the family, will be evident: one price admission ticket which covers all rides, shows, and attractions; the 1,500 hosts and hostesses that are employed to man all rides, shows and attractions; the spotless cleanliness of the grounds; and the lush landscaping that is in abandance all over the 200-plus acres.

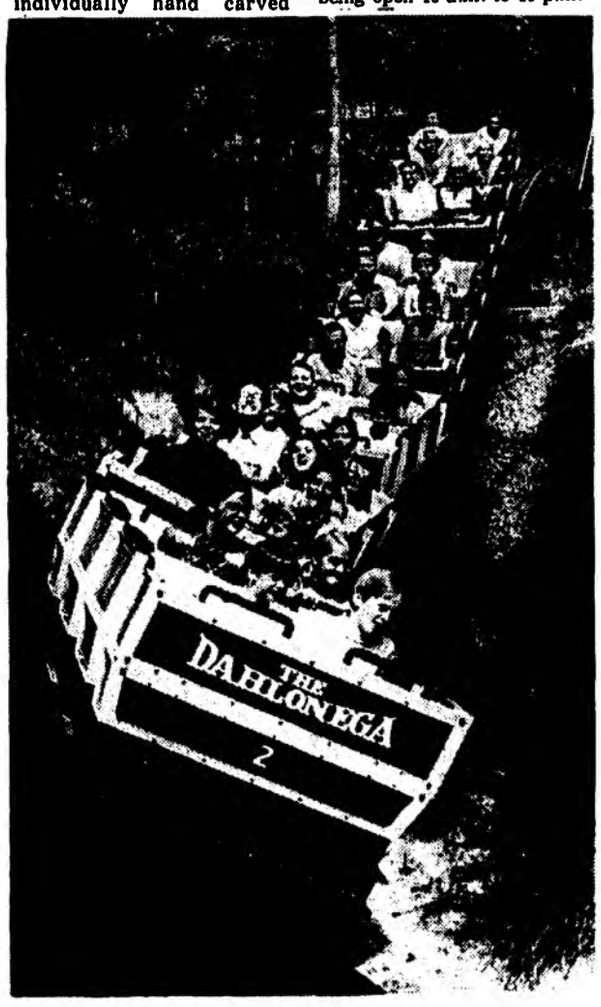

Entertainment spectacles have also been a specialty of the Six Flags Crystal Pistol, the Sid and Marty Krofft Puppet show, and Porpoise Show.

In the Crystal Pistol, collegians will be performing in a new show, "Wishing World".

"Circus", the new Sid and Marty Krofft puppet show, will feature such characters as King Kong, Mae West and Tarzan.

"Old favorites" such as the Log Flume, Dalonega Runaway Mine Train, Jean Ribaut's river-boat ride and the petting zoo, as well as all rides, shows and attractions, are covered in Six Flags' one price admission ticket: $5.75 for adults, $4.75 for children under 12, and children under three admitted free.

Six Flags will be open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday, March 31 and during a special Easter Preview Week, April 1 through April 7, Saturday and Sunday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., and Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Weekend operations, Saturdays and Sundays, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., from April 8 through May 21. Daily operations will begin on May 27 with the park being open 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

A GOLDMINE OF FUN is in store aboard Six Flags Over Georgia's Dahlonega Mine Train, a "runaway" hit at the family entertainment center. Guests prospecting for good times find all the fun they can handle on this Six Flags ride. Six Flags Over Georgia is located west of Atlanta on Interstate 20.

WBTV Dedicates Week To Community

On April 3, WBTV will begin a week-long series of programs which will explore the problems of human relations in Charlotte and Mecklenburg County. The series will be entitled "The Division Decision." The major objective of this series is to point out what is being done and what more can be done to unify the community.

Something quite unique to television will be added for the Monday night show. "Questions of Value" is the title and it will give the viewers an opportunity to compare their own values to those values held by different segments of the population on the American Values Test.

This test was developed by Milton Rokeach, a distinguished Social Psychologist currently at the University of Ontario, to study human values in order to see how they influence and determine behavior. It has been administered in various sections of the United States for several years and has proven to be very interesting and educational.

The test itself is made up of 18 values which are listed in alphabetical order. The individual should list these in order of personal preference by placing the number (1) beside the value held most dearly, (2) next most important value, . . . etc., etc. . .

Doug Mayes, the host for this program, will then present the results of other Americans who have taken the test and let the viewer compare values.

The Tuesday evening show, which begins at 10:30 p.m., is an investigation of the housing problem and market for blacks in Charlotte. It will also investigate what caused Charlotte's division into black and white communities and the policies of local government in housing.

"The Division Decision: Schools" will be aired Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. It will take a positive look at some of the Charlotte-Mecklenburg schools and what they are doing to try to bring black and white students back together.

A report on Charlotte unemployment statistics and job discrimination will be presented on Thursday's show at 8:30 p.m. It will take a look at the people who find it difficult to find or keep jobs, with emphasis on what is being done to help the unemployed take advantage of job opportunities.

Friday night's show will be a "Wrap-Up" of the entire week of programming. A live studio audience of invited local civic leaders will be on hand to question a panel of individuals who have considerable experience in each field discussed at length during the week. This panel will also give their ideas on what they think should be done to overcome these problems.

WBTV Newsman Bob Inman will host the programs Tuesday through Friday.

At the end of the week, a viewer should see that it is up to individuals to end division by doing their best whenever possible, to avoid being prejudiced, and to help others avoid this tendency. People should be made to realize, through the content of the programs, that division which exists between the races is unhealthy for the life of the community and that when division is ended; unity restores health and aids life.

New Resource Book Shows Conservation Needs

The new North Carolina Conservation Needs Inventory is off the press and is being distributed, it was announced last week by State Conservationist Jesse L. Hicks of the USDA-Soil Conservation Service.

A cooperative effort of 10 federal agencies and 15 North Carolina departments and agencies -- functioning as the North Carolina Soil and Water Conservation Needs Committee – the new book shows land use changes since the last inventory was published in 1962.

It also shows land adequately treated and that needing treatment, forest acreage where timber stands should be improved, existing watershed projects and future project needs, and a variety of other topics including water supply needs, recreation area needs, and trends to be expected with expanding population and advancing technology.

The detailed survey covers the 27,850,688 acres in North Carolina considered agricultural, or some 88 percent of the state's total 31,331,346 acres. Forest, farmland, pasture and other acreage are included, and tables give breakdowns for each county in North Carolina.

Special tables show urban acreage by counties, federally-owned land, and even small water areas. Other tables show watersheds and problems needing action, and conservation needs by land categories.

"This will be a very useful resource book for a lot of people," Mr. Hicks said, "and the data in it will be available through the Soil Conservation Service offices, soil and water conservation districts, Extension Service agents, and through other agricultural and other governmental agencies. In many counties a copy will be provided to public libraries.

"In addition," Mr. Hicks continued, "officials with a real interest in and need for this type of data, such as county or city planners and certain other interests, can obtain a copy for their office use by contacting one of the agencies responsible for issuing this report.

The Conservation Needs Inventory will be a valuable source of data to use with soil surveys or with generalized soil maps, the SCS state conservationist pointed out. Such soils data is available in most North Carolina counties.

"A lot of people have been waiting for this publication," State Conservationist Hicks commented, "and we're glad that it is now available for their use. It's a valuable tool."

Referendum On April 5

Ted Junker Chairman of the Pork Producers Referendum Committee for Davie County announces the Pork Producers Referendum on Wednesday, April 5, 1972.

Pork Producers will be asked to vote on a 6 year continuation of their $.05 cents per head assessment on market hogs to finance a program of promotion, education, and research.

North Carolina had the first successful pork producers organization with a program to promote pork and work in the interest of producers. This Association was organized by producers because they felt that hog farmers needed a representative organization. It is controlled by pork producers through a Board of Directors elected by producers and financed by producers through this assessment program to work on behalf of producers wherever their interest is at stake.

The outstanding program of promotion carried on by the Board of Directors through the Association office in Raleigh has focused the attention of pork producers nation wide on the need for a representative organization. It has helped stimulate the development of a strong national pork producers council. The council is developing a national program to keep pork before the people and involve itself in programs of interest to producers. Ballots will be available at the following polling places on April 5 where you are urged to express your approval of this program by voting to continue it for the coming 6 years.

PONDS BENEFIT YOU, YOUR LAND, AND YOUR COMMUNITY

By: Calvin Evans
Soil Conservationist

The next few weeks will be a good time for land owners in the county to take a good look at their property to see if they have possible pond sites on their land.

Many property owners have pond sites on their land. A properly planned and constructed farm pond is an asset to the land owner, his neighbor, and the entire county. With proper planning, a pond can be used for many different uses. Such multiple uses include livestock water, irrigation storage, field, garden and orchard spraying, fire protection, fish, waterfowl, and wildlife uses, and other recreational uses such as swimming, boating, and picnicing.

Multiple use ponds don't just happen they must be planned. There are many factors that one should consider in building a pond. The location of the pond depends on the topography, soil characteristics, the intended use and land use below the site. A properly planned and designed pond will in most instances require the services of a specialist from the Soil Conservation Service as a private engineer. Careful planning and design more than pays for itself in the future.

The spring and summer months are the best months to build a pond. Construction equipment can work with less difficulty and fish can be stocked this fall and spring.

In many instances cost sharing can be obtained to help pay for the construction of the pond. Anyone desiring to build a pond can get technical assistance from the Soil Conservation Office in Mocksville.

Fair Shortens Livestock Shows

The 1972 Dixie Classic Fair will shorten its Beef Cattle Show and Dairy Cattle Show to three days each, rather than the entire week as in previous years. Beef cattle will be shown during the first three days of the fair, dairy cattle during the last three days.

"This is effort to keep in step with the times," explained Fair Manager Neil Bolton. "It has become increasingly difficult and expensive for purebred livestock breeders to take their livestock on the road – expensive in time and manpower." He further explained that in many cases, fairs cannot afford the necessary premiums. "We feel, however, that it is helpful to show the breed and the animals for sale," he added.

Beef Cattle Schedule

Beef cattle will be due at the fair by 11 a. m. Monday, October 2. Judging of Angus cattle will be held that evening at 6 p. m. On Tuesday, October 3, Charolais will be judged at 2 p. m.; Shothorn at 4 p. m.; and Hereford at 6 p. m. Wednesday will be an exhibit day, with the animals being released at 9 p. m.

Beef cattle may be kept over if there is room for them, said Bolton. We'll do everything we can to accommodate any breeders who want to stay through the week."

Judge for beef cattle will be Dr. O'Dell G. Daniel, Head of Extension Animal Science Department, University of Georgia.

Dairy Cattle Schedule

Dairy cattle will be due at the fair by 11 a. m., Thursday, October 5. Guernsey cattle will be judged at 3 p. m., Friday, October 6; Jersey at 6 p. m. that day; Holstein at 2 p. m., Saturday, October 7. Animals will be released at 8 p. m. that day.

The fair's Junior Dairy Show will be held at 11 a. m. on Saturday for youngsters to twelve North Carolina counties -

Phyllis Joy Howard Awarded Scholarship

Phyllis Joy Howard of Mocksville has been awarded a James M. Johnston Scholarship for undergraduate study at the N. C. State University.

The announcement was made Friday by the University's Committee on Scholarships.

Miss Howard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Nail Howard Sr. of Rt. 3, Milling Road. First in her class at Davie High School, Miss Howard is a member of the National Honor Society and chief junior marshal.

The James M. Johnston Awards were established in 1970. They are awarded to students of exceptional academic ability by the University Scholarship Committee on the recommendation of their high school faculty. Leadership qualifications are also taken into account. Both women and men are eligible to compete for Johnston Awards.

The late James M. Johnston, who died in 1967, was born near Chapel Hill and attended UNC at Raleigh before going to Washington, D. C., where he became a successful investment banker. The Trustees of the James M. Johnston Trust for Charitable and educational purposes have established the annual half a million dollar scholarship program under the terms of his will. Mr. Norman B. Frost, a distinguished Washington attorney, is chairman of the trustees.

The Johnston Awards for undergraduates range up to $2,200 annually for North Carolina residents and up to $3,600 for out-of-state residents.

Phyllis Joy Howard

The stipends are fixed on a sliding scale according to the individual circumstances of each award winner. They are renewable for four years of successful undergraduate study.

Any highly qualified student who is admitted to UNC-Chapel Hill or to the specialized curricula of N. C. State University or UNC-Greensboro is eligible for consideration as a Johnston Scholar on application to the Student Aid Office at UNC-Chapel Hill.

Films On Alcoholism Available Locally

Loy Devine, Alcoholism Coordinator for the Tri-County Mental Health Complex, announces that two films on alcoholism will be available through the local mental health clinic from April 4 until April 13.

These are films provided through the Health Information Office of North Carolina Blue Cross & Blue Shield. Often they are booked many months in advance and are difficult to obtain.

The series is entitled, "The Other Guy", and is composed of two 27-minute color sound films. Each film tells a complete story about an executive whose excessive drinking leads to alcoholism. It will be possible to arrange a program using either or both of the films.

Anyone wishing to use the films may make arrangements by calling the mental health clinic at 634-3205.

Sunday evening the Queen Bee Class of the United Methodist Church with their families honored the class teacher, Mrs. Queen Bess Kennen on her birthday anniversary in the Fellowship Hall of the church. They presented her with a lovely white orchid and other gifts in appreciation of her long and faithful service to the class and to the church. Her anniversary will be Friday, March 31st and she is proud to have reached the 87th mile post. Special guests for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. John Holdsworth and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Schulte.

Mrs. C. W. Allen entertained Saturday night at dinner honoring Glenn Allen on his 65th birthday anniversary. The guests presented the honoree with a big tool box filled with tools for his trade and a fishing rod for his pleasure. The table was laden with delicious home cooked food in abundance. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Shorty Ellis and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Blalock, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Allen, Donnie Allen and Mrs. Glenn Allen.

After a rest of several years the Farmington Medical Center Building is taking on new life as it is being prepared for use in the near future. Many women of the Farmington Community have been busy making draperies for the windows. The women for three different days in the Masonic Fellowship Hall with some dozen or so protable sewing machines, bolts of drapery material, scissors, thimbles, needles and thread and happily measured, cut and sewed the pieces into pleated window drapes. These were hung at the windows in the Medical Center for two weeks before they were hemmed on Wednesday March 22nd. Now they are ready for the opening of the Center by the Bowman Gray School Of Medicine in the near future. The following Monday Women from the Pino-Farmington Homemakers Club and the Mackie Homemakers Club of Cedar Creek with brooms, mops, pails, dust cloths, detergents and a will to clean, gathered at the Medical Center and in less than two hours the cleaning task was done and the clean smelling building was ready for the representatives of Doctors and Nurses from the Bowman Gray School of Medicine to take over.

Mrs. Wade Groce solicited for funds for the draperies. Mrs. Ostine West and Mrs. Nancy Hartman supervised the work-shop. Other helpers in the giving of their time and money were Mrs. Nell Lashley, Mrs. John Holdsworth, Mrs. R. Schulte, Mrs. E. Newsome, Mrs. J. E. Essic, Mrs. A. Q. Wooten, Mrs. O. James, Mrs. C. Teague, Mrs. Bob Lakey, Mrs. B. Lakey, Mrs. L. G. Miller, Mrs. Bob Hoots, Mrs. Kennen, Mrs. D. R. Bennnett, Mrs. G. H. Smith, Mrs. J. Williams, Mrs. C. Groce, Mrs. W. Furches, Mrs. W. W. To The Easter Parade

From the Ellis Shop in Cooleemee, Mrs. Raymond Pierce models a Meg Madison creation of aqua polyester with detachable cape, which is all the go this season. To complete the ensemble, she adds accessories of black patent.

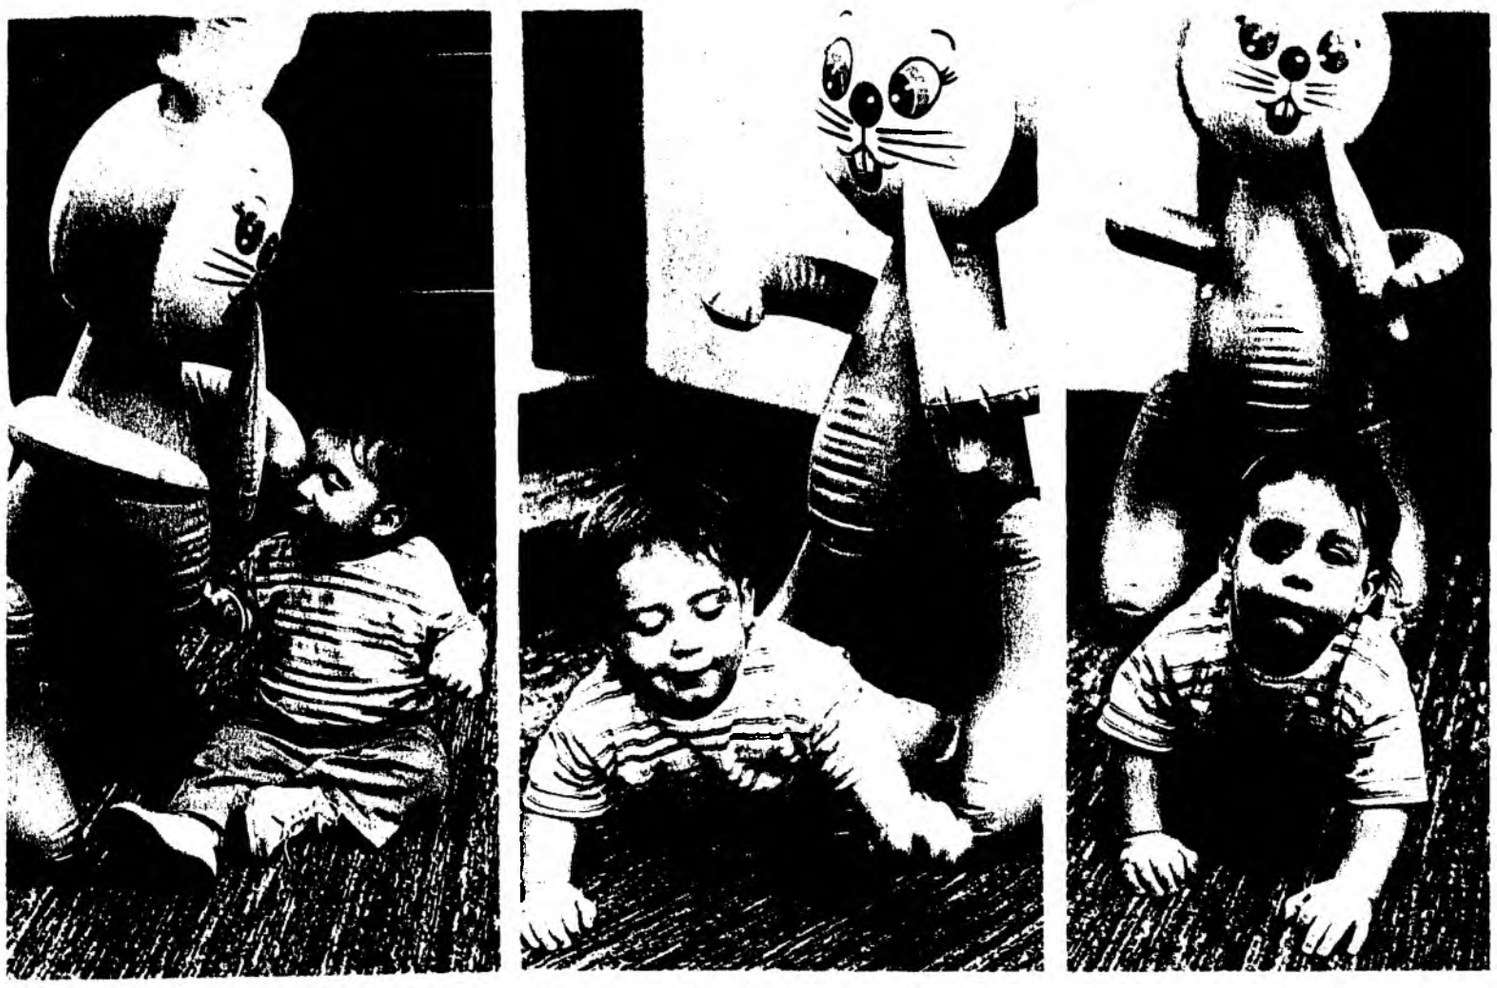

Little Elizabeth Crenshaw, eight month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crenshaw of Mocksville, isn't quite sure just what Easter is all about. . . but she thinks the little plush bunny is the greatest.

Jackie Corriher, 12, and little brother Thomas, 10 months, are all set for a fashionable Easter in patriotic red, white, and blue, which is rated high on the fashion scene for boys and girls alike. Jackie is wearing a Navy linen sport jacket, navy shirt, white tie and red slacks. For his first Easter, little Thomas wears a white pique suit and hat, trimmed in Navy and Red, navy knee socks and white shoes. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Corriher of Wandering Lane.

Bruce Stephen Turner, age 2, and called 'Junior', is sampling some candy from his basket that the Easter Bunny brought early. He is all dressed up for Easter, too! He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Turner of Route 2.

Crescent Electric Receives Loan

Donald D. Rice, General Manager of Crescent Electric Membership Corporation with headquarters in Statesville, has been advised by the Rural Electrification Administration, Washington, D. C., that a loan in the amount of $1,214,000 has been approved.

Crescent Electric made application for a loan in December, 1971, in the amount of $1,518,000 to REA and to the National Rural Utilities Cooperative Finance Corporation.

Approval of the $304,000 supplementary financing was announced Tuesday, which will bring the total loan to the $1,518,000 figure which is the amount of new capital projected for a one-year period's needs.

This loan is to extend service to some 1400 new consumer-members in the eleven county area on seventy-four miles of line plus funds for system improvements over the system.

Also included in the loan are funds for a new general headquarters building and Statesville district office building. Plans are well under way for the new building, which will be some 16,000 square feet of floor space and modern in design. The new building is to be located adjacent to the present building on Highway 64 east of Steateville.

Crescent Electric serves over 18,500 members-owners in Iredell, Davie, Rowan, Mecklenburg, Cabarrus, Catawba, Gaston, Lincoln, Alexander, Yadkin and Wilkes Counties with district offices in Statesville, Cornelius, Mocksville and Taylorsville Mr. E R. Crater is president of the cooperative's board of directors; Mr. ShirleyJohnson, Vice-President; R. L. Seaford, Secretary; amd Jimmy Horton, Tresaurer. Other members of the board are Floyd Morrow, Paul Stroud, Conrad Eller, T. L. Brotherton, Sid Burris, Donald Johnson, Sam Dobson, Tom B. Woodruff, Thomas Crawford, W. B. Renegar, Larry Payne, W. J. For Baptist Hospital Nursery

Local March Of Dimes Chapter Makes Contribution Of $500

The Davie County Chapter of The National Foundation-March of Dimes has contributed $500 to the Intensive Care Nursery at North Carolina Baptist Hospital.

The Mocksville Woman's Club conducted March of Dimes activities in the county which helped to make possible the support of the Nursery.

Dr. Archie Johnson, instructor of pediatrics at Bowman Gray School of Medicine, is the director of the Nursery. North Carolina currently ranks fourth in the nation in the number of newborn deaths and Dr. Johnson reports the counties served by the medical center are high in the state death rate. The Intensive Care Nursery helps to make it possible to reduce these death rates.

Much of the success of a nursery in saving babies' lives depends on early recognition of the problems or the possibilities that problems exist. Therefore, it is important that the pediatric care be coordinated with the obstectric care.

If what are termed "high risk" mothers can be detected early, much of the fight for the baby's life is won. "High risk" mothers are those with diabetes, heart disease, high blood pressure, or some other condition that might result in difficulties for their baby; those outside the normal child-bearing age; those who have contracted a contageous disease during pregnancy that is known to cause problems for babies; or those who have a history of previous complications in childbirth.

According to Dr. Johnson, the goal of the Intensive Care Nursery is to reduce the morbidity rate as well. He explained that with the monitoring equipment available in the nursery, such problems as low blood sugar, abnormalities in respiration and heart rate and body acidity which contribute to mental retardation later in life can be dealt with.

Mothers may be referred to the Nursery by their physicians before the birth of the baby. Intensive care for both mother and infant can them be given during the birth and in the critical hours that follow to prevent the permanent damage or death that often results when adequate equipment to meet the need is not available.

The pediatric house staff at North Carolina Baptist Hospital and Bowman Gray, a physician's assistant, a graduate fellow, and 10 additional nurses make up the basic staff of the Nursery, which is able to accomodate 30 babies at one time. As funds for more equipment and a larger staff are available the Nursery will be able to accomodate as many as 35 babies.

Cooleemee Senior Citizens

The Cooleemee Senior Citizens Club held their regular meeting Monday in the fellowship Hall of the First Baptist Church with 65 members attending.

Mr. J.H. Jarvis presented a most inspriting devotional program entitled "An Easter Message," followed by a short talk by the Rev. Roscoe Fisher.

The program consisted of an Easter Parade of Hats, led by Grady Spry, Sr. portraying Peter Cotton Tail. Approximately 20 members, both men and women participated in the parade with Inez Sain winning first prize with the most original hat.

Door prizes were won by Mrs. Jennie McClamrock and Mrs. Godby.

The club honored eleven members who celebrated their birthdays during the month of March. Following the meeting, a covered dish luncheon was served.

Rotarians Told Economic Outlook Appears To Be Good

A period of economic growth was predicted for the country during the next decade by an official of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company.

B. J. Willingham of Winston-Salem told the members of the Mocksville Rotary Club that there were at least three positive indications for "environment of growth". These he outlined as follows:

(1) Consumer action which indicates optimism. "The consumer has more money to spend and is more willing to spend it. More people are working than a year ago. There is a higher rate of consumer income and higher rate of savings," said Mr. Willingham.

(2) The rate of inflation is moving downward.

(3) The composite of leading indicators points to upward growth.

Mr. Willingham predicted an increase of industrial output by 7 percent or 8 percent, with profits increasing to around 14 percent for corporations during the next year.

Dr. Francis Slate had charge of the program and introduced Mr. Willingham. President Leo Williams presided. Special guests included R. L. Roycroft of Durham and Colin Edwards of Greensboro.

Accent on AGRICULTURE

BY B. C. MANGUM
N. C. Farm Bureau Federation

Exports Needed

Today's farmer needs exports. About one acre in four of our agricultural production must find its ultimate home in foreign markets.

Last year, we had the largest export of agricultural products, $7.8 billion, of any time in history. This is a six percent increase over the previous record year of 1970 in spite of strikes which reduced grain and other agricultural shipments from all four U. S. seacoasts. Estimates are that this year we will fall short by $2 billion from last year's exports.

American exporters were greatly disappointed when on March 1 Japan bought 80,000 tons of wheat from Australia. Our exports to Japan, wheat in particular, are alarmingly low mainly traceable to the West Coast dock strike. Even since the dock workers went back to work, we have not shared to our normal extent in the Japanese market.

Japan, our largest buyer, purchased nearly $1.1 billion of agricultural exports last year, $141 million less than in 1970.

We in America do not have a corner on supply. We have productive capacity and the capability of handling the product and we must have access to the large volume markets of the world. This does not necessarily mean that the product is going to move from America.

The dock strike stopped delivery of products at the period when we gravely needed to be moving the largest amount of agricultural products.

American agricultural exporters must be able to guarantee delivery of products if we expect to be reliable suppliers. Congress must provide the means to assure that the transportation of the country will not be stalled and curtail our exports.

The retail cost of the "market basket" of U.S. farm foods may rise about 3.5 percent in 1972, according to a recent government report, but farmers will get only a small part of that increase if 1971 is any yardstick.

Farmers received only $1 of a $21 increase in 1971 over 1970 from a $1,000 market basket of food items, a report of the U.S. Department of Agriculture shows.

In 1971, farmers got only 38 cents of each dollar consumers spent on food, which was one cent below 1970.

One of the big factors in food prices is the cost of labor all the way from the farm to the consumer's table.

Unit labor costs in the marketing of farm food products rose from an index of 100 in 1960 to 142 in 1970.

The farm-to-retail price spread of the market basket of farm foods increased $126, or 20.3 percent from 1965 to 1970.

Strangely enough, there has been little outcry on wage boosts recorded in the last 10 years even though it is quite obvious they have played a large part not only in the price of food, but in most consumer items.

Labor costs represent a substantial part of increases in farm production expenses. The index of prices farmers pay, wages, interest and taxes rose from 288 (1910-14 equal to 100) in January, 1952, to 420 in January, 1972, an all-time high.

It's high time for the U.S. consumer to take a realistic view of food rpices in relation to the rest of the items that make up the cost of living, and the part that labor costs play in prices.

It should also be noted that disposable income has been going up faster than food prices, and the percentage spent for food in 1972 is expected to drop to 15.5 percent from 16 percent in 1971.

SOUND ADVICE

It's Up To You — Protect Your Ability To Hear

"It's Up To You," a two-color brochure covering the essential actions needed for personal and family hearing conservation programs and community-wide noise pollution control projects, is available to any interested person without cost from the Beltone Crusade for Hearing Conservation.

The Crusade is sponsored by Beltone Electronics Corporation, world leader in hearing aids and electronic hearing test instruments as a means of making persons aware of the need for hearing conservation and the control of noise pollution.

The brochure's theme is that the ability to hear is a precious, God-given gift, and once this ability has been lost it may be impossible to regain. The pamphlet's appeal is to make certain this ability is not lost through neglect.

In outlining how an individual can protect his own hearing ability and that of his family, the brochure lists 10 common, but hazardous practices that could lead to a loss of hearing. It also offers 10 alternatives to these dangerous practices. The 10 recommended "do's" and "dont's" range from a plea to not attempt to treat illnesses and infections with self-administered medication, to advising when medical attention should be obtained for ear maladies.

"It's Up To You" also outlines an action program for combating noise pollution, both on personal and family levels, and on a community-wide basis. Anyone interested in hearing conservation can receive a free copy from an authorized, participating Beltone dealer, or by writing: Beltone Crusade for Hearing Conservation, 4201 West Victoria Street, Chicago, Illinois 60646, and requesting the brochure by name.

Did You Know?

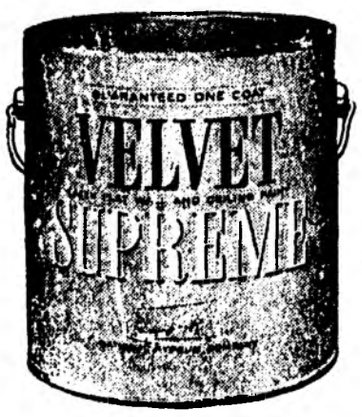

By 1980, the number of women in the workforce will be approximately 37 million, double the 1950 figure. Married women will account for the major share of the increase.

The U. S. labor force – those who are working and those seeking work – is expected to number more than 100 million workers by 1980, growing by 15 million in the 70's.

Davie Plays North Stanly Here Thursday At 4 O'Clock

The Davie High baseball team is scheduled to play North Davidson here Thursday afternoon at 4 p. m. On Tuesday, April 4th, they are scheduled to play North Stanly there at 4 p. m.

East Rowan No-Hits Davie

Davie High suffered its first defeat of the 1972 season last Friday afternoon when East Rowan High's Claude Bernhardt threw a no-hitter at them while the Mustangs scored twice for a 2-0 win.

Bernhardt struck out 15 Davie batters and walked only one. He yielded a free pass to Paul Beaver with one out in the fifth inning.

Paul Ijames and Bernhardt were locked in a scoreless pitching duel until the fifth inning when the Mustangs struck for a pair of runs.

With two out in the fifth, Gary Miller singled to center. On a hit-and-run play Buddy Lingle singled to right and moved Miller to third. Lingle took second on the throw to third base. Wayne Cauble then doubled to right to drive in both runners.

East had only four hits off Ijames, two by Cauble and the singles by Miller and Lingle.

The instructors will be from the National Cheerleaders Association of Dallas, Texas. New cheers, pompon routines, acrobatics and crowd psychology are a part of the planned program.

This clinic is sponsored for cheerleading squads or individuals wishing to learn more about cheerleading. Applications may be picked up from your local school cheerleader sponsor.

Davie Defeats North Iredell

Davie High scored a 3-1 North Piedmont Conference victory over North Iredell last Thursday in a game that was continued after being halted in the sixth inning because of rain on Tuesday.

The two teams were tied at 1-1 after five and one half innings on Tuesday when rain forced postponement of the game. Davie quickly scored two runs in the bottom of the sixth last Thursday to secure the win.

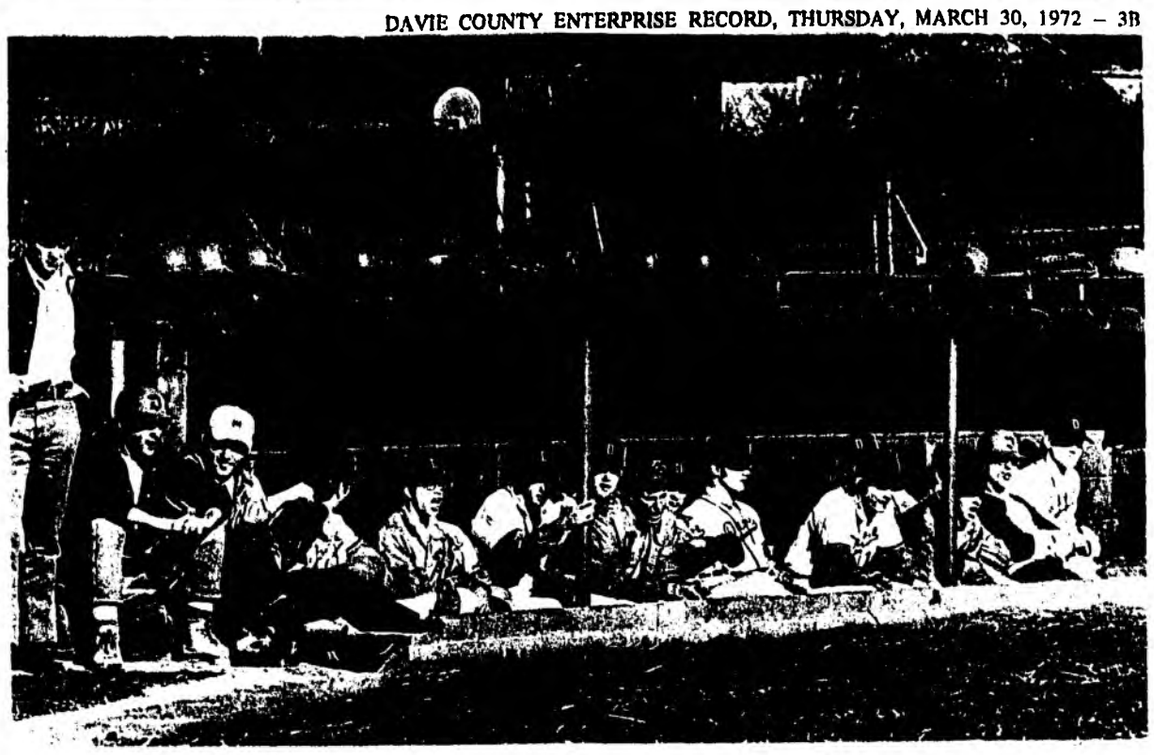

Robert Anderson walked, Billy Wall reached first on an error and Terry Johnson singled to load the bases in the sixth. Mike Dwiggins then walked, scoring Anderson and Arnie Riddle drove in Wall with a sacrifice fly to left field.

Johnson picked up the win for Davie.

Tattle Tales

By Gordon Tomlinson

People sometimes just don't listen.

At the office, I always answer the telephone: "Enterprise-Record".....and it in no way sounds like ....."Davie County Hospital". But this has little effect on some people who get our number instead of the hospital.....for they still ask you their questions such as: "How is so and so doing?"...."Would you connect me with so and so in room so and so"....and so forth.

One day last week the telephone rang and I answered it: "Enterprise-Record".

The woman on the other end of the line promptly asked:

"Can you tell me if so and so has had her baby?"

Promptly I replied:

"Lord.....I didn't even know she was pregnant! Can you give the information for the story?"

"Who is this?"....she asked rather startled.

"This is the newspaper office.....the Enterprise-Record".

There was a click on the other end of the line as the phone went on the hook without another word.

This actually happened in a Methodist Church during some of the recent baptismal services.....but not in Mocksville.

The minister had several at the altar and was going through the baptismal ritual. When he dipped his fingers into the vessel.....there was no water. Someone had forgotten.

However, with only a slight falter....this minister shook his fingers over the bowl as if to get rid of the excess water and went on with the service with no one ever suspecting.

Many have thought about taking off their snow tires.....but no one has the timing of Dudley Collins.

Last Saturday morning he took his car to the service station and had the snow tires taken off. Then he went back home and got his wife's car and had them taken off. Then he went back home and told Cathy:

"Look out the window!"

And this is how they met our four-inch snow.

Wrestling At Lexington

There was no wrestling at the Lexington YMCA last Saturday night but there will be plenty of action on next Saturday's Easter weekend card.

Man Mountain Mike, 612 pounds, and Abe Jacobs will clash against rugged Rock Hunter and Japanese judo specialist Matti Suzuki in the feature.

Heroes Jerry Brisco and Sandy Scott meet German brothers Kurt and Karl Van Steiger in the semifinals that follow singles events between Joe Turco and Nick Rusco and Krusher Karlson and Jesse James.

Car Wash At Blaise Church

The Royal Ambassador boys of Blaise Baptist Church will give a complete car wash inside and outside at a reduced price on Saturday, April 1, from 8:30 - 5:30 at M&S Sunoco on Yadkinville Road at Intersection 601.

Proceeds will be used to pay for their activities and training.

YMCA To Offer Baton Twirling

The Spruce Street YMCA will offer couses in baton twirling, tap and ballet, acrobatics, and modern dancing for boys and girls as a part of the spring program, starting April 8.

A special feature of the program will be a tiny tot class for boys and girls, 4 through 6 years of age. The class will offer baton twirling, tap and ballet. The class will meet from 10 to 11 a. m.

The acrobatics class will meet from 10 to 11 a. m. A basic baton twirling class will meet from 11 a. m. to noon.

The tap and ballet course will meet on Saturday from noon to 1 p. m. The advanced baton twirling class will meet from 1 to 2 p. m. and the jazz dancing class will be conduced from 2 to 3 p. m. All classes will meet on Saturday for six weeks.

Instruction in baton will include rhythm exercises, twirling and marching. Students must furnish batons at the first class session. Instruction in jazz dancing will include rhythm exercises, development of dance routines and creative dance steps.

Miss Carol McNeill is the YMCA baton twirling and jazz dancing instructor. She is the solo baton twirler for the Parkland High School band.

Students may register by calling the Spruce Street YMCA or by attending the first class session.

Tony Boon To Play At Davidson

Tony Boon, a defensive end and offensive center from Clarkston High in Clarkston, Ga., has signed a football grant-in-aid with Davidson College head coach Dave Fagg has announced.

Tony is the grandson of Mrs. M. H. Ridenhour, Route 4, Mocksville, and the late Mr. Ridenhour; and also the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Boon of Route 4, Mocksville.

Boon, a 6-0, 185-pounder, was named to the Metro Atlanta Scholastic-Athletic all-star team last fall. He was also the co-captain at Clarkston and was chosen the team's most valuable defensive lineman.

"Tony is an outstanding student and athlete," Fagg said. "We are confident he will make a strong contribution to Davidson College and our football team."

Boon is president of the student body at Clarkston. He was chosen the school's best all-round senior and is a member of the National Honor Society.

Gym And Swim Course At YMCA

A special gym and swim course will be conducted at the Spruce Street YMCA for boys and girls, 3, 4, 5, and 6 years of age, starting Tuesday, April 4.

The Tiny Tot program will be conducted on Tuesday and Thursday from 9:30 to 10:45 a. m. for five weeks.

The program offers a half-hour of gym activities and forty-five minutes of swimming. Exercises, apparatus work, tumbling, and running are included in the gym program. The apparatus is used to develop strength, flexibility, agility and co-ordination. Self-confidence is also gained by the pupil in this program, according to Betty Dresser, Tiny Tot program director. The apparatus consists of beans, ladders, ramps and supports. Music is used in the gym classes.

The Tiny Tots receive swimming instruction and are placed in ability groups. Non-swimmers are taught the fundamentals of floating with the face in the water and other basic skills. Beginners and more advanced swimming students are given instruction in more advanced aquatic skills.

Mothers are invited to participate in the gym and swimming program with their children.

Students may register by calling the Spruce Street YMCA. Enrollment is limited.

Fascinating FACTS

by Lawrence Reavis

BOWLING ORIGINATED AS OUTSIDE GAME

Bowling, as we now know the game, is played inside a building. This was not always true. Originally, the game was played outside in England. This "yard" game was originated during the 12th Century, according to historians.

The purpose then, as now, was to roll a ball and knock over as many pins as possible with the least number of rolls. A perfect game would net a player 300 points. We can't help but wonder if it would be any easier to score a perfect game out-of-doors?

We try to make our customers feel that they have "rolled a perfect strike" every time they do business with us. It is our desire to provide every customer with the very best in service. We will be glad to demonstrate our capabilities to serve you.

Wadkins Wins Fashion Award

WADKINS

GREENSBORO — Lanny Wadkins, playing out of Bermuda Run, Clemmons, after a brilliant amateur record, has been named by the Men's Fashion Association as the pro rookie who best projects golf's fashion image.

A 22-year old from Richmond, Wadkins shows championship style on and off the course. According to the MFA, "He has the typical golfer's flair for color and individuality combined with sound fashion sense, and has won the recognition of the fashion industry as he launches what will certainly be an outstanding professional career."

Coming off a fabulous amateur year in 1970 w(inner of the Western Amateur, Southern Amateur, Virginia Amateur and U.S. Amateur), his first outings on the pro tour proved he has the potential to win. He has already won $44,369, the best start for a rookie in the last 10 years.

Wadkins will be presented with the fashion award today at the Champions Banquet in Greensboro. The presentation, an annual feature of the Greater Greensboro Open, was made by Richard Stockton of Winston-Salem, chairman of the board of Menswear Retailers of America. The Men's Fashion Association, in cooperation with GOLF DIGEST magazine, selected Wadkins from among the rookie golfers.

In addition to an inscribed sterling silver bowl and a full set of luggage, Wadkins will receive a $1,000 wardrobe, including clothes for golf, leisure, dress and formal year.

Previous winners were: Marty Fleckman (1968), Bob Dickson (1969), John Miller (1970) and Jack Lewis (1971). Lewis, like Wadkins, played collegiately at Wake Forest.

Senator Jordan Reports

Our long and bitter experience in Vietnam has made it all too clear that our system of checks and balances is not operating as it should because we find the President is now in almost total control of our military forces while the Congress, for all practical purposes, has little voice in military decisions beyond that of approving or denying funds to support our troops.

The members of Congress, recognizing this dangerous trend, attempted three years ago to rectify the matter by passing a resolution reiterating the Constitutional role of Congress in determining national commitments.

The resolution failed to produce any meaningful results and in the meantime the situation has worsened. The President has continued to act without receiving the consent of Congress and has sent troops into other nations without even notifying Congress until after the action has been implemented; i.e. the invasion into Cambodia and again into Laos. Once Congress did learn of this action there was no clear procedure to indicate what could be done next.

In order to restore the proper balance as declared by the Constitution, a bill (S. 2959) has been introduced in the Senate delineating the powers of Congress with respect to those of the President in situations of undeclared wars, and I am one of its co-sponsors. It is called the War Powers Act.

Certainly no one would dispute the necessity for a President to be able to react to sudden, unexpected hostile actions and this is even more obvious in the nuclear age in which our very survival may depend on split-second decisions.

I have always opposed adoption of hasty, ill-conceived legislation which could jeopardize our national security. I am confident, however, that the proposed War Powers Act does not have this defect because I know the careful thought and deliberation that has been devoted to each provision of the bill. In my view it allows the necessary flexibility for the President while guaranteeing the Congress the right to fulfill its Constitutional role in making commitments affecting the lives of every American.

The bill is firmly based on the provisions of the Constitution and serves to narrow the confusion that presently exists with regard to the President's emergency powers. It also establishes a mechanism and procedure for action once such powers are exercised.

The bill sets forth three precise categories in which the President may take emergency action involving the use of our armed forces. The first is in the case of an armed attack on the United States, its territories, or its possessions and the second is in the case of an attack on the United States troops located in other countries. In both these situations the President may also act "to forestall the direct and imminent threat of such an attack." In other words the President does not have to wait until an attack is actually underway before he may take action.

Under the third category, the President may move to protect nationals of the United States while evacuating them from a country in which there was a threat to their lives. The bill specifically states, however, that the President is obligated to make every effort to avoid the use of military force to accomplish the evacuation.

Realizing, however, that not every possible situation can be foreseen, a fourth category serves as a type of catch-all. Among other provisions, it permits Presidential action where authorized by specific legislation and defines clearly the effect that laws, resolutions, and treaties will have on the commitment of our troops in a war.

Here it is stated that legislation must specifically allow the use of troops in hostilities and that authorization for the use of our armed forces cannot be inferred otherwise. This prevents congressional action to appropriate funds to support troops in action from being misinterpreted to imply Congressional assent to U. S. participation in the conflict itself.

This provision also states that treaties cannot commit our forces to armed conflict without additional implementing legislation. The Constitution specifically states that Congress, not just the Senate, has the power to declare war, and if treaties could bind us in a commitment to war, the result would be to allow the President and Senate to make war. For a matter as grave as war, the consent of all three parties -- the President, the Senate, and the House of Representatives -- is essential.

After the President takes action, he must immediately submit to the Speaker of the House of Representatives and to the President of the Senate a statement giving a full account of his actions and the reasons for taking such drastic steps.

Because of past experiences of difficulty in securing quick passage of legislation in Congress, the bill spells out a procedure to speed consideration in committee and on the floors of the two Houses of Congress of legislation dealing with the President's emergency use of American troops.

Our modern, fast-paced world has brought many changes but despite the differences between the twentieth century and the eighteenth century, the basic principles of the Constitution remain as sound today as they were two hundred years ago.

Somehow war-making at the discretion of the President has evolved in direct contravention of our Constitution. Such a situation cannot be tolerated in a representative government such as ours which depends on the coordinated efforts of the majority and the consent of the governed.

We are now fighting a war that perhaps seventy percent of Americans are against. The War Powers Act, applicable only to those situations occurring after its passage, will not solve our problems in this particular war. However, it can and must prevent another Vietnam from ever happening.

Debate is scheduled to begin on this legislation this Wednesday and I look forward to its approval by the Senate.

From President Nixon!

While opening her birthday mail last week, Mrs. Annice Alsobrooks of Duke Street, Cooleemee was pleasantly surprised to find that she had also received a card from President and Mrs. Nixon.

The card read: "I wish to extend my warmest congratulations on the occasion of your birthday. Mrs. Nixon joins me in extending best wishes that health and happiness may always be yours." signed - Richard Nixon.

Mrs. Alsobrooks celebrated her 80th birthday on March 21.

Talk Is Cheap, But Words Speak Louder Than Actions At Summit

An old Chinese proverb says, "Talk does not cook rice."

Traditional Chinese wisdom also holds that a great talker never wants for enemies; mischief all comes from much opening of the mouth; and one word may be better than hundreds or thousands.

These and dozens of similar Chinese sayings all add up to talk is cheap and button your lip. In spite of many Oriental and Western warnings against loquacity, hundreds and thousands of words were uttered at the recent Peking summit meeting.

But then both sides may have had in mind another Chinese proverb: "Listen to a man's words if you wish to know his mind" and the Western: "A bird is known by its note and a man by his talk."

Many strikingly similar proverbs crop up in widely separated parts of the world, the National Geographic Society says.

The Chinese say that too many bricklayers build a lopsided house, echoing the English belief that too many cooks spoil the broth and the Russian fear that a child with seven nurses loses an eye.

Anthropologists believe proverbs were man's first great attempt at abstract thinking, coming after magical thinking and before deductive reasoning. When a civilization reaches the proverb stage, it has the beginnings of philosophy, ethics and law.

The importance of proverbs in a primitive society is summed up by a West African saying: "Talking a palaver without proverbs is like going on a journey without rice in your bag."

Certain themes are universal -- wealth and poverty for example -- and laced with cynicism:

West African: "Being poor makes it hard to have friends but not impossible." Chinese: "He who has wealth and wine will always have friends." English: "When poverty comes in at the door, love flies out the window." Italian: "It is easier to priase poverty than to bear it."

But being poor has its compensations, according to the English: "Little goods, little care" and the Chinese: "He who has wealth has many cares; he who has none can sleep soundly."

Thousands of proverbs have been coined about women. A group of West African sayings has a familiar ring: "If you want peace, give ear to your wives' proposals . . . Who marries a beautiful woman marries torment . . . Women take up their market baskets and also take up gossip."

The Japanese pay tribute to the tenacity of women by saying, "A woman's hair is strong enough to keep an elephant tied," while the English claim, "One hair of a woman draws more than a team of oxen."

In some British and former British areas, local proverbs are colorful adaptations of old English saws. Jamaicans say, "Puss may look 'pon king but him radder not." In British Honduras, "Coward man keep soun' bone" is the Creole way of declaring that discretion is the better part of valor.

Though useful, proverbs may be contradictory, as in "Look before you leap" and "He who hesitates is lost." The proverbial solution to this stalemate is "Circumstances alter cases." The last word might be "Wise men make proverbs, and fools repeat them."

Social Security

Questions And Answers

(Anyone in Davie County having a question concerning Social Security may write in care of this newspaper and the question and answer will be included in a subsequent column).

q. May I include the cost of my prescribed medicine when I file for reimbursement under the doctor bill part of Medicare?

A. No. Prescription drugs cannot be included.

Q. Somebody told me that if I don't actually retire when I become 65, I won't be eligible for Medicare if I get sick. Is this true?

A. Somebody is wrong! Whether or not you retire, you will be eligible for Medicare. You must, however, file an application. You should do this in the three months before your 65th birthday, so your Medicare can start the first day of the month you reach 65.

Q. How old does a person have to be before he can get a social security card?

A. There is no age limit for getting a social security number. You should get your social security card before applying for a job as your employer will need your social security number.

Q. I have recently married and would like to have my social security card changed to my married name. How do I get this done, and will I get a new number?

A. We have an application card used to correct or change your name. You can complete this card at our office or one can be mailed to you. The Post Office also has these applications. Your new card will show your married name but the number will be the same.

Q. I worked 23 years, but had to quit three years ago to care for my invalid sister. Would you please answer the following questions about my social security?

1. Will this affect my social security benefits when I retire in about 12 years?

A. Yes it could since the amount of your benefit will be determined from your average monthly earnings.

2. What would happen if I wouldn't be able to return to work?

A. Your check will no doubt be smaller than it would be if you continued working. In addition, you could lose out on disability protection altogether since one of the requirements for disability benefits is that you have 5 years of work in the 10 year period ending when you become disabled.

3. Will I collect social security at retirement?

A. Yes. No one needs more than 10 years and you have 23.

4. Are retirement and old age benefits the same thing?

A. Under social security we have four major programs - retirement, disability, survivors, and Medicare. Retirement is based on "age", so some people call it an "old age benefit." There is also a program through the Department of Social Services often referred to as "old age benefit."

5. Will a lady receive more benefits at age 65 than at age 62?

A. Yes, benefits to any worker on his or her own record is reduced 20 percent at 62.

6. Should social security be frozen if you have to quit work before retirement?

A. The "FREEZE" you refer to has only do do with disability, and there is very little need for it now since to "freeze" your record you would have to meet the same requirements as you would to draw a disability check.

Questions on Your Family's Move...

answered by Alice Bowman
Home Moving Consultant
Allied Van Lines, Inc.

Dear Miss Bowman: Are families willing to move to the big cities, or is there a preference for smaller towns? Mrs. E. T., Indianapolis, Ind.

ANSWER: A recent survey of the Allied Van Lines' Consumer Panel indicated that 51% of the panelists would be enthusiastic about relocating to a small town, while only 20% shared the same enthusiasm for a move from a small town to a major city. The panelists gave small towns high marks for friendliness and the cleanliness of the environment. Many indicated they would not be anxious to move to a big city because of crime, noise, overcrowding, smog, and pollution.

Mental Health Groundbreaking

The first spade of dirt was symbolically turned Monday of this week for the Tri-County Mental Health Clinic on Mahaley Avenue by Charlie Walters of the Rowan County commission and Joe Blake, chairman of the Rowan CountyMental Health clinic's advisory board. Building contracts, $14,000 under estimated costs at $323,617, will be officially signed by commissioners Wednesday night when contracts are also let for the minipark behind the Community Building. The new clinic, which will serve Rowan, Davie, and Iredell counties, should be ready for occupancy by the beginning of 1973 at a total cost of slightly more than $400,000, including land, fees, and furnishings. Shown above during the ground-breaking, front row left to right, are Ken Wagoner, whose firm got the general contract; Robie Nash of the advisory board; Walters; Balek; Dr. Jane Higbee, psychiatrist-director; Mrs. Raymond Ritchie, and Mrs. Theola Robinson of the advisory board; and Douglas Tennent, architect. Mocksville, Too?

MOCKSVILLE is a charming town. Its avenues are lined with trees and beautifully kept old Victorian houses. And in its heart there is a classic town square, with shops and public buildings surrounding what amounts to a small park.

If all that were in Atlanta or Charleston or New Orleans, some enterprising young man would probably turn it into a lure for tourists eager to be overcharged for antiques, trinkets and atmosphere. Unfortunately, however, it is the heart of the Davie County seat. And people must make a living there by more mundane but quite essential commerce.

Now the town fathers are considering whether it might not be a good idea to destroy the turn-of-the-century gingerbread surrounding the town square and replace it with a spiffy new shopping center.

If the idea is allowed to prevail, one more memorable old town will join the tin and plastic uniformity that seems to be swallowing us all. The shopping centers springing up around us, particularly those in small towns, have all the style and imagination that we might expect of the loan officers who boost their inception.

Mocksville and Davie County are in the enviable position of being able to look across the Yadkin River at the full spectrum of mistakes to be made in urban development. They can look at zoning gone awry, new highways choked with congestion and studied, commercial ugliness. The question is: Do the people of Mocksville and Davie County want to learn from the mistakes of Winston-Salem and Forsyth County? Can they recognize and capitalize on the unique beauty of Davie's terrain and quaintness?

We hope they can. They might start by putting their shopping center money into extensive remodeling in downtown Mocksville to preserve the quaintness. They might consider off-street parking, hidden away behind the buildings. They might study alternate ways of taking through traffic off Main Street. And they might show us all that towns can be proud of their original character.

John McDaniel Opens Automobile Truck Business

After almost 19 years in the car and truck business spent at three new car and truck dealerships in Mocksville, John N. McDaniel is entering business for himself.

Mr. McDaniel has leased the lot and building owned by L. L. Irvin, located on Hwy 601 South, between Baity's Tire and Freedom Mobile Homes.

Mr. McDaniel will be associated with his sons in the operation of this business under the name of JOHN N. MCDANIEL & SONS, INC., "Home of Localized New & Used Cars and Trucks".

"I plan to handle high quality, late-model cars and trucks. My plans are to serve all the people in all age groups with a personal touch that may be missing in many large operations today", said Mr. McDaniel.

Mr. McDaniel is active in many civic, church and athletic programs. He is a charter member of the Mocksville Lions Club, a member of the Masonic Lodge, helped to organize and served as first president of the Davie County Little League Football Association. He is also an active member of the Oak Grove United Methodist Church and a charter member of the Methodist Men. He is married and has two sons and two daughters.

Cynthia Whitley Wins Spelling Bee

Miss Cynthia Whitley, an eighth year student at Cooleemee Elementary School, is this year's annual spelling bee winner.

Cynthia was declared the winner Tuesday morning in the school's Reading Room, after correctly spelling the word "inconvenience" over the runner up, Marsha Eudy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Eudy, who is a fifth year student. Both girls missed the word "recommendation" prior to Cynthia correctly spelling "inconvenience."

Cynthia will represent Cooleemee in the county wide contest April 18, in the county office building in Mocksville.

Moravian Easter Sunrise Service Marks 200th Year

The 200th consecutive Easter Sunrise Service of the Moravians in Winston-Salem, North Carolina begins Easter Sunday, April 2, at 5:30 a. m. in front of the historic Home Moravian Church on Salem Square, in Old Salem, less than one mile from the downtown heart of Winston-Salem.

Earlier that morning, between the hours of 2 a. m. and 4 a. m., small groups from the large Moravian Band assemble on street corners to awaken the City with their playing of Easter chorales and hymns. Thousands of worshippers gather at the historic Square during the early morning hours to await the Service, which originated with the Moravian Brethren in Europe in 1732. The service includes a procession from Salem Square to nearby God's Acre, the Moravian Graveyard, where the service is concluded at sunrise and the antiphonal playing of the Moravian Band consisting of more than 500 instrumentalists.

Visitors are invited to remain after the Sunrise Service to view the beautiful Easter flowers which are placed by Moravian families on the mounded graves with recumbent white gravestones.

...about your Social Security

by Vernice Fulcher

When we moved to Fayetteville in 1961 my husband and I mustered up $250 for a down payment and became the proud owners of a payment book on our very first home. Right away we planted a few flowers and my husband began a carport. He was about half finished when one morning I saw a tiny bird building a nest in the corner nearest the house. She was such a busy, happy bird, I simply couldn't run her off. By afternoon she was as much at home as we were. That evening I introduced my husband to our boarder, and although he didn't exactly share my enthusiasm, he knew how much I loved birds and he let her stay undisturbed. No carpentry work was done for several weeks while waiting for the eggs to hatch, and then, for the baby birds to learn to fly. Several times we had to run off our neighbor's cat to protect the babies. At last they were large enough to take to the air on their own, and I watched proudly as they "soloed" that very first time. They never were aware of the protection they received because the danger never really got that close.

You know, we're like that in a way – not really aware of the protection we have under Social Security. Although I hope you collect your social security in the form of comfortable retirement benefits, I feel you would like to know what protection you have right now in the form of disability and survivor's benefits. For this information, call or write the Social Security Office, 105 Corriher Avenue, Salisbury, N. C. 28144. Our telephone number is 633-6470.

Coast Line

Early last Thursday morning the state's 85 foot exploratory fishing-research boat DAN MOORE left here headed north toward six East German fishing boats. Those aboard wanted to see what the Germans were catching.

The six vessels had been located less than 24 hours earlier by a pilot of a federal agency. The Germans were fishing near the N. C. -Virginia state line, 17 miles offshore.

When DAN MOORE reached the location, she was in fog. Visibility was less than a mile. The radar screen did not show any boats in the area. DAN MOORE continued on, steaming northward, for some time until the captain saw a couple of blips on radar. He changed course and DAN MOORE headed toward them.

North Carolina newsmen aboard for the trip gathered on the bow when radar indicated the ships were close. Location: 23 miles east of Virginia Beach, Virginia. It was still foggy. Then, black of ships loomed out of fog. Big ships. You could feel the newsmen crouch down with their cameras and get ready, big game right ahead. As DAN MOORE came in close, those aboard could see it was a big fish factory ship, at least a 500 footer, and two stern trawlers, about 275 footers. The three lay side by side, a stern trawler on each side of the factory ship.

Fog disappeared as DAN MOORE circled the trio. Cargo was being loaded from trawlers onto factory ship. Everything was packaged. There was not a single fish in sight. Hammers and sickles on smokestacks were big and clean and shiny. The ships were Russian.

Americans eyed Russians with cameras. One or two Russians waved hello, quick and shy. A couple of Americans returned waves. Sometimes less than 100 feet distance separated them. The social atmosphere was strained, strange, people not knowing how to act or react. After awhile some Russians were taking pictures of Americans.

That day DAN MOORE did not even get a radar indication of the East German fishing boats, the original target.

There is a new kind of shrimp available to seafood eaters down Florida way, and it looks like it could become available here in North Carolina.

It is called rock shrimp. The edible tail portion looks and tastes like a cross between a lobster and a common shrimp.

For many years tarheel commercial fishermen have been catching a few rock shrimp while fishing offshore North Carolina. So have Floridians been catching a few off their coast. When North Carolina fishermen found out recently that Floridians began catching enough to sell and they were selling for a good price, the Carolinians logically cast a closer look at rock shrimp.

Consequently, the state's 85 foot exploratory fishing boat DAN MOORE was dispatched during February to take a look for rock shrimp along our coast. The trip was not overly successful but in one location several pounds of rock shrimp were caught, in water 144 feet deep. The captain of DAN MOORE estimated a commercial boat could catch 700-1,000 pounds of them a night in the locale. DAN MOORE will look for rock shrimp locations again this month.

Rock shrimp look like common shrimp covered with armor. The rock shell is larger and thicker and fancier. Rocks are more colorful too, with the shell being grayish yellow and appendages on the underside reddish to reddish-purple. Those taken aboard DAN MOORE were about the size of a medium-sized common shrimp. In the past DAN MOORE has picked up a few rock shrimp all along the N. C. coast, in depths ranging from 50-600 feet.

Rock shrimp are cooked differently than common shrimp. You cannot peel the hull like an ordinary shrimp. It is too stout. It seems the most popular way to prepare them is to split the tail with a longitudinal cut along the top side. Rinse meat clean. Broil resulting "Butterflies", baste with what you want.

The taste is delicious, more lobster-like than shrimp, but such a taste combination that it falls into a separate category.

WHERE THE SHAD ARE

If the city fathers of the town of Grifton in eastern North Carolina ever design a municipal seal, they'll be missing a good bet if they don't put a hickory shad right in the middle of it.

In the last decade, sport fishing for shad has grown so rapidly in the creeks and rivers around Grifton that the town is calling itself the shad capital of the state. They've even organized a "Shad Festival" complete with parade, fish fry, contests, the election of a shad queen and a street dance. Saturday, April 8 will mark the second such extravaganza.

All this can be traced directly to the fact that hickory shad -- silvery cousins of the tarpon -- run up coastal rivers out of the Atlantic each spring to spawn. Then, in May, they return to the ocean.

Three creeks -- Contentnea, Pitchkettle and Grindle -- flow near Grifton, and join the Neuse a few miles south of town. The hickories usually reach the peak of their run late in March or early in April (this year, the run was early, and some anglers were saying that the peak has passed before the last week in March).

During the peak of the run, anglers from all over eastern North Carolina and some from out of state, come to Grifton to fish for hickories, and few are disappointed. When the fish are thick and striking, it is not unusual to catch 30 or more a day, and I have heard of much larger catches.

Hickories are smaller than white shad, rarely weighing more than about a pound and a half. White shad average about three pounds, but reach weights exceeding 10 pounds. Whites also run later than hickories.

Dick Campbell of Grifton holds the current state record for a hickory -- a whopping two-pound, nine-ounce fish he caught last March in Contentnea Creek.

This past week, Dick and Bill Butler, also of Grifton, took several anglers to the mouth of Contentriea Creek where it joins the Neuse. Anchoring in the current and using ultra-light spinning tackle with four-to six-pound test line, we caught a nice string -- more in fact than we could eat after Bill fried them on the banks of the creek where Grifton businessman Wiley Gaskins has kindly built a free access area for shad fishermen.

We used No. 1 Reflecto spoons and small-lead head jigs called shad darts. The common practice is to rig two lures for added weight when casting. Usually the spoon is rigged about a food behind the dart, and it is not unusual to find both hooks filled with indignant hickories. Not many white shad are caught around Grifton.

To get the larger whites, you'll do better in the Tar River at Rocky Mount or in the Cape Fear River at one of the three locks. The same types of darts and spoons are used.

N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission fisheries biologist Lacy Nichols of Elizabethtown says that white shad are already being caught (as of March 22) in the Cape Fear below Lock No. 1 above Wilmington. The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers will begin "locking" the shad through Lock No. 1 on March 27. As the run moves upstream to Lock No. 2, "locking" operations will begin on April 3, and finally shad will begin to be "locked" through Lock No. 3 on April 10.

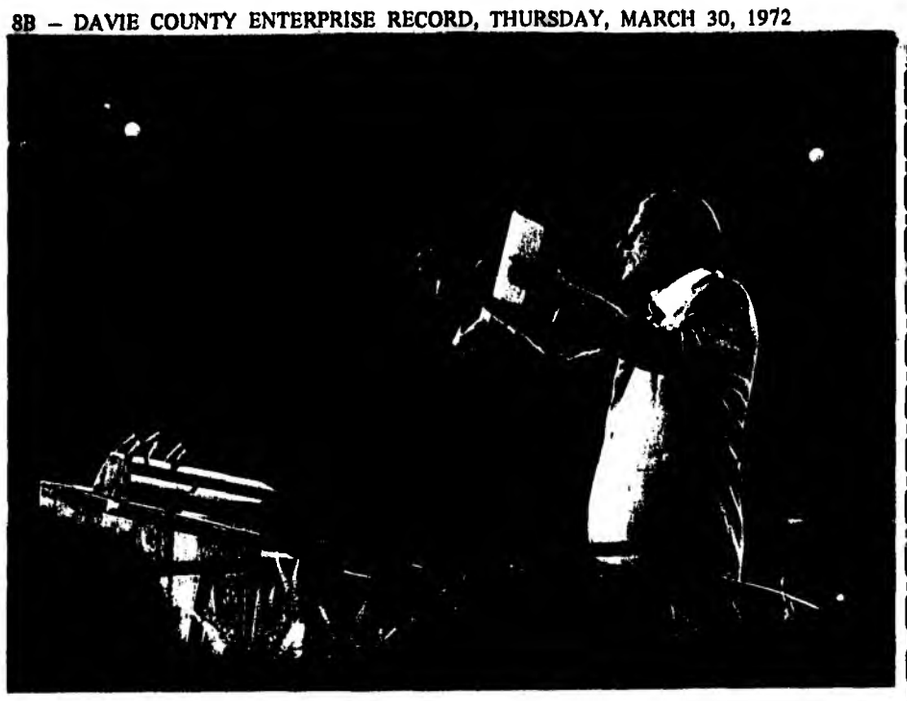

In the Cape Fear, fishing is best below the three locks, and there are free boat ramps at each one. If you fish the locks, however, stay clear of the low dams where water is swift and white. More than one anglers has been drowned when his boat was sucked under the overflow.

Reports are also in (as of March 22) that white shad are being caught in the Tar River behind Bob Melton's Bar-B-Que at Rocky Mount. If you can find a place to stand, you can fish from the banks or small piers, but fishing is easier and better from a boat, and the Wildlife Commission has a free ramp almost directly across the river from Melton's.

Nichols reports that the water temperature is right (55 degrees or higher) for the white shad, and predicts that fishing should be good for the next few weeks.

If you have not already hit the hickories as of this writing, you'll do better to plan a trip for the whites. Even so, Bill Butler says that anglers can catch hickories in the creeks around Grifton in May when they are returning to the ocean.

..... Dr. Graham at a recent Crusade

Billy Graham Charlotte Crusade Begins April 5

The Billy Graham Charlotte Area Crusade begins for five days on Wednesday, April 5 at the Charlotte Coliseum.

Services will begin at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday and Sunday's service will be at 3 p.m. Youth Nights will be Thursday and Saturday.

Platform members participating with Dr. Graham will be Cliff Barrows, songleader; George Beverly Shea, soloist; Tedd Smith, pianist; and, John Innes, organist. Harry B. Williams is the Crusade Director.

Dr. Dean W. Colvard, chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, is chairman of the Crusade Executive Committee.

At 53, a world-wide symbol of evangelism, William F. (Billy) Graham has preached the Gospel to more millions than anyone in history.

Born in North Carolina and ordained by Southern Baptists in 1940, Billy Graham's Crusades have been held in virtually every state in the United States and more than 50 foreign countries. Since the late 1940's, Mr. Graham's schedule has left little time to indulge in his favorite hobbies of golf, swimming and jogging or to be with his wife, Ruth, and their children, at their Montreat, North Carolina, home in the mountains.

Graham married Ruth McCue Bell in 1943 and the couple has three daughters and two sons ranging in age from 13 to 26.

His books, "Peace With God", "The Secret of Happiness", "My Answer", "World Aflame", and "The Challenge" have been read by millions and the author has been the subject of several biographies and personality features in the world's leading magazines and newspapers. "The Jesus Generation", Graham's newest book (November, 1971) sold 200,000 copies in the first two weeks after publication. It has been published in 15 languages. His New York, Los Angeles, and four London Crusades probably stand as high-water marks of his career as an evangelist.

Holder of degrees from Florida Bible Institute and Wheaton College, Graham has received honorary doctorates from many institutions. He is author of a column, "My Answer" which appears in many of the nation's foremost newspapers on a daily basis.

His counsel has been sought by Presidents and his appeal to both the secular and non-secular worlds is shown by the wide range of groups that have honored him. These recognitions range from addressing the President's National Prayer Breakfast to the Gold Award of the George Washington Carver Memorial Institute in 1963, from the Speaker of the Year Award in 1964 to the Salvation Army's Distinguished Service Medal. Graham regularly is listed as one of the "Ten Most Admired Men in the World" and has been named "Man of the Year" by TIME Magazine.

Founder of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association, he leads the weekly "Hour of Decision" program which is broadcast by more than 900 stations around the world.

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Shelton Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Shelton Jr. of Statesville, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Shelton, Mr. and Mrs. Joe White and Mark, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Craft and Terry of Winston-Salem, Mrs. Bettie Potts, Jerry Potts and Mr. and Mrs. Grady Beck.

Woodleaf

The state highway commission has just finished a much needed piece of work at the five point intersection of 801 and the Salisbury Road by widening the entrance to the Barber Road and cutting down the high bank on 801. This eliminates part of the hazard at this place where all the roads meet. It is still a very dangerous piece of land as traffic from Cooleemee at the foot of the hill is hard to see before pulling into 801.

Jimmy Myers and Doug Bailey, are beginning to pick some ripe tomatoes from their hot houses and should be supplying the market in another week or so. And they also have some nice young plants in other houses for later planting in the field and commercial use.

Cornelius Lyerly a former resident of Woodleaf and now of Charlotte is a patient at the Presbyterian Hospital there.

Aubrey Foster, who has been a patient at Rowan Memorial Hospital in Salisbury is now at home and is still very sick.

Walter Kluttz is improving from an operation at Davis Hospital some time ago - and is at home and able to be out again and doing light work.

Mr. and Mrs. Summers Moore have returned from a weeks visit to Clearwater Florida, where they enjoyed the sunshine and Florida scenes.

Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Click and family of Burlington were recent guests of his mother Mrs. May Click on her 80 birthday.

Superior Stone Company moved their office and weighing equipment last week from the old site to a new building on the new Quarry Road which gives them more rooms and better outlet for the many large trucks hauling their products to various construction site.

Mrs. Tom Walker is a patient at Baptist Hospital in Winston Salem for treatment and is real sick. Her many friends are wishing her a rapid recovery.

Mrs. J.B. Gibbous is much improved from an illness of several months.

Macedonia

Passion Week Reading which started Monday evening and will continue throughout Wednesday. Services are at 7:30. There will be Holy Communion at the church Thursday night, a lovefeast at 7:30 p. m. Friday and the Easter service at the 11 a. m. service Sunday. It will begin with the band playing in front of the church.

The Easter egg hunt will be Saturday from 2 p. m. until 3:30 p. m. Say! kids, we sure hope it won't be snowing again.

Mrs. Grace Call and Mrs. Nera B. Godbey attended the wedding of Miss Bonnie Sue Crump to Wayne Franklin Hill Sunday at Mount Carmel United Methodist Church in Winston-Salem.

Tillett Walker is still a patient at Forsyth Memorial Hospital. He is scheduled for more surgery. We all hope he will soon be well enough to return home.

Mrs. Ben Ellis, Mrs. Carolyn Hockaday, Bryan Cook and E. C. Wood have all returned to their homes after sickness.

Chris Snider spent the night with Kenny Ellis, Jr. last week and both enjoyed themselves alot.

Mrs. Bill Faircloth underwent surgery last week and she is a patient at Forsyth Memorial Hospital. Let's try to remember the sick with our prayers and cards.

Anyone having any news for this column, please let me hear from you.

EDUCATION

Public education is a great instrument of social change. Through it, if we so desire, we can make our country more nearly a democracy without classes. James B. Conant.

Through error in last week's feature story about Miss Debbie Bingham visiting the sick and elderly, we identified the picture above as being Mr. Groce when really the picture is of Dr. Thomas M. Funk, formerly of Mooresville. That is Mrs. Foster to the left and Mr. Killean between Dr. Funk and Miss Bingham. We regret the error.

Charleston Famous Gardens In Bloom

Now is the time to see the gardens of Charleston.

The word from Charleston's Famous Gardens – Magnolia, Middleton and Cypress – is color ... and lots of it. The azaleas have been in bloom for a couple of weeks and later varieties are still coming out.

At Magnolia Gardens, its owner C. Norwood Hastie, Jr. said the wisteria and flowering peaches are coming out and a nice bloom is expected for the next couple of weeks.

"We're well ahead of last year's bloom and things really look good," he said.

The flowering trees should be out fully by this weekend at Middleton Place to add to the rainbow of color provided by the thousands of bulbs which have been planted.

The story is the same at Cypress Gardens, where the flowers can be viewed from footpaths which wind along the banks of the cypress lake or from flat-bottomed boats which are paddled through the secluded lagoons and narrow inlets.

In addition to the formal gardens at Middleton Place, there is the Planatation Stableyards -- complete with 10 little piglets born this week, baby chicks, and Fred the rabbit who runs freely.

Fred's "Wife" is a mother-in-waiting and a new foal is expected to be born "any day now" to join the large animals in the barn, according to Middleton's general manager, Charles Duell.

Magnolia and Middleton gardens are located on Highway 61, about 15 miles southwest of Charleston. Cypress is about 25 miles north of the city on U. S. Highway 52. All are open from 8 a. m. to sunset.

Middleton Palce is open year-round, while the season for Magnolia and Cypress closes May 1st.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
. . . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Rev. William Dingus, Pastor

Sheila Lagle likes the feel of Star's soft wool (at left)---------while her brother, Jackie (center top), is more interested in holding her for one of the smaller ones to ride. Star has the idea that it's time to take-off (center bottom), but Sheila hangs on. Shown at right (left to right) Jo Lynn Dedmon, Jackie, Susan and Sheila Lagle. They made an unsuccessful attempt to get baby brother, Jeff, to ride Star's back, but Susan had to go it alone(Photos by James Barringer----------Story by Marlene Benson).

Star Is A Precious Lamb!

When spring arrives in Davie County, youngsters automatically take to the outdoors.

The recent weather has been perfect to romp and run with that favorite pet . . . and the children around the Jack Lagle home on the Pine Ridge Road in Cooleemee, really know how to take advantage of it.

For several months now, they have been spending a good deal of their free time with Star, the eight-month-old sheep that was born at their home.

Their dad, who is employed with Campbell's Body Shop on Highway 601 at Franklin, said they keep several sheep inside the fence at the shop just to eat the grass. It is impossible to mow around all those old cars and the sheep serve as excellent lawn mowers.

Star's mother was one of those sheep. But she became quite ill several weeks prior to Star's arrival and Jack brought her home to take care of her, although he really thought she was going to die.

Jack and the children took good care of her and later her little lamb was born. The mother is back at the body shop now, but Star is still at the Lagle home . . . running from the kids.

Star usually runs loose around the yard and likes to tease the youngsters by following very close to them . . . until they try to catch her. At this point, she can run like a deer, as if she enjoys being chased by them.

Occasionally they will chain her and let little Susan or Jeff Lagle try to ride her.

Appointments Made By Central Telephone

Thomas W. Case, District Manager for the Elkin District of Central Telephone Company, has announced the following appointments:

Kenneth L. Little has assumed the duties of Elkin District Commercial Manager. Avery N. Watson has been appointed Elkin District Plant Manager and Joseph H. Byers, Cable Supervisor.

Mr. Little joined Central Telephone Company in August of 1965 as Methods and Practices Supervisor in the North Carolina Division Traffic Department in Hickory, North Carolina. In November of 1968 he became Commercial Engineer Assistant in the Hickory District. In July of 1969 he was made Commercial Supervisor for the Hickory District and has continued in that position until the present. Mr. Little is a graduate of Lenoir Rhyne College. He and his wife Kay, daughter Kimberly, and son Kevin presently reside in Hickory, North Carolina, but will be relocating in the near future to the Elkin area. Mr. Little has been active in the Hickory Jaycees, United Fund, Hickory Moose Club, and is a member of the Mount Olive Lutheran Church.

Avery N. Watson joined Central Telephone Company in September of 1946 and worked in a variety of construction and installer-repairman positions until January of 1951 when he became local representative in West Jefferson. In August of 1953 he was made local manager in Troy, North Carolina, April of 1957 Plant Supervisor in Asheboro, June of 1960 local manager in Asheboro, and has served as local manager in Elkin since November of 1963. Mr. Watson has been active in the Elkin Rescue Squad, the United Fund, Northwestern Development Association, Kiwanis Club, member of the Mayor's Committee on Communications, and is a member of the First Baptist Church in Elkin. Mr. Watson, with his wife Ruby and daughter Donna, lives at 112 Franklin Street, Elkin North Carolina. His son, Avery Watson, Jr., is also a resident of Elkin.

Joseph H. Byers began his career with Central Telephone Company in August of 1937 as a cable splicer and worked in that position until March of 1963 when he became Plant Supervisor in Elkin and has continued in this position until the present. He and his wife Alice live in Jonesville, North Carolina and have two sons and a daughter. He is a member of the First Methodist Church of Jonesville, North Carolina.

Eligibility For Getting Absentee Ballots Explained

The Davie County Board of Elections has released detailed information concerning the 1972 primary absentee ballot.

North Carolina state law provides that any civilian who is registered to vote no later than 21 days, excluding Saturdays and Sundays, prior to the date of the state-wide primary election scheduled in 1972 for Saturday, May 6, shall be authorized to make application for and vote on absentee ballot in the primary in the county of such voter's legal residence under the following conditions:

-- The applicant must be a registered voter in the county in which application is made.

-- The applicant must be affiliated with a political party at the time application is made. Persons with no party affiliation must declare a party affiliation before April 7 if they wish to vote by absentee ballot.

-- The applicant shall make a written request for an application form for absentee ballots not earlier than 35 days (April 1) nor later than 6 p.m. on Tuesday, May 2, before the primary.

-- No one shall be allowed to vote by absentee ballot in any statewide bond election held during the time for which this act is effective.

-- Ballots shall be issued by the U. S. mail only. Applicants shall not be permitted to pick up applications or return ballots in person but shall deposit same in the U. S. mail, addressed to the chairman of the county board of elections in the envelope provided for such purpose.

Individuals in the following categories, provided they also satisfy the above requirements, may apply for absentee ballots:

-- A voter who expects to be absent from the county of his legal residence during the entire period that the polls will be open on election day (6:30 a.m. until 6:30 p.m.)

A voter who expects to be unable to go to the voting place to vote in person on election day because of sickness or other physical disability.

When the ballot is received the first thing to be done is to find some official with a seal who is authorized to administer oaths, usually a notary public. The voter produces a container-return envelope and the ballots. In the officer's presence the voter must then:

-- Mark the ballots or have them marked under his (the voter's) instruction.

-- Fold each ballot separately.

-- Place each ballot in the container-return envelope and seal it.

-- Fill in and sign the affidavit printed on the container-return envelope.

-- Have the officer attest the oath by affixing his signature and seal. This performance being completed, the next step is to insure that the ballot is properly mailed to the chairman of the county board of elections.

The absentee ballot must be in the chairman's hands by U. S. mail by noon on Wednesday before the election in order to be counted.

Each county election board shall meet at the following times for the purpose of passing upon applications for absentee ballots: April 4, 7, 11, 14, 18, 21, 25 and 28 at 10 a.m. and on May 2 at 6 p.m.

If additional meetings are required, such meeting shall be called by the chairman, upon positive notification to each board member, and such meetings shall be held on a Wednesday, at an hour set by the chairman, during the period from April 4, 1972 to April 26, 1972, inclusive. An additional meeting may be called, under the provision of this rule, on Monday, May 1, 1972, at the discretion of the chairman.

Executive Seeks Enterprising Youths

Do you know any budding millionaires?

James W. Walter, a man who parlayed $500 into a $700 million building and construction materials firm in Tampa, Florida, is looking for 25 of the most outstanding young entrepreneurs in the country. He wants to give each of them $1,000 to help them on their way to even greater success.

Candidates for the Jim Walter Corporation Youth Enterprise Award must be 18 to 25 years of age. To qualify, the candidate must have achieved success in a business or enterprise that he or she organized. The winners will be selected by a panel of prominent businessmen and treated to a trip to Tampa, Florida.

If you know of someone who qualifies, write a letter describing the person to James W. Walter, Chairman, Jim Walter Corporation, P. O. Box 22601, Tampa, Florida 33622. Or if you'd rather, write to him for an entry form.

Students Make Plane Trip To Washington, D. C.

by Mrs. Mary Smith

Eighty-four students of Davie County High School made a trip to Washington, D. C. last week by Piedmont Airlines. They were accompanied by Mr. Havnaer, Mr. Goodnight and Mr. McCraw, teachers and three parents, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Barber and Mrs. Jerome.

The group left from the high school at 6:30 a.m. on the 22nd. There was much excitement in the air as the plane was being boarded in Winston-Salem by the students. There was also a bit of apprehension as this was their very first airplane ride.

Flight time from Winston-Salem to Washington, D. C. is 40 minutes. Everyone was served a breakfast of orange juice, fruit cup and sweet rolls.

There were six groups with fourteen students and one chaperone. Two tours were planned, the New Nation's Tour, and the Early Man Tour.

Mr. McCraw, history teacher, and I took our students on the New Nation's Tour. Upon arriving at the Museum of History and Technology at 9:30 a.m., we discovered that the Museum didn't open until 10 o'clock. So, we took the bus to the Washington Monument and enjoyed the view from the top of it and then went back to the Museum for a guided tour. Lunch was enjoyed at 12:30. All the groups started off on an unforgettable adventure of exploring the Museum and the Art Galleries.

The students were than taken to Pennsylvania Avenue where they looked up the street and viewed the White House. Then they proceeded in the opposite direction towards the Capitol. They passed many interesting buildings and stopped at several to look around.

Buildings of interest were the Internal Revenue and the FBI. A stop was also made at the National Gallery of Arts and the students toured this building while it poured rain on the outside.

From here, they went to the Capitol. We were much impressed by all we saw and heard. A tour of the Capitol was taken and the Senate was visited for a few minutes. We were unable to visit The House because they were in the process of voting.

From the Capitol building, the groups proceeded to the Library of Congress where there is a copy of every book ever printed in the United States, and, most of them are first editions.

Some more of the buildings visited by the students and chaperones included the Museum of Natural History and the Air and Space Exhibits.

The return trip home was made at 5:15 p.m.

The entire trip was one of tired feet, but, happy hearts. Everyone had a day to remember and we will all be talking about if for a long time to come.

Students making the trip included: Debbie Lashley, Paula Shew, Lynn Hicks, Janice Cashion, Audry Myers, Cindy Shelton, Vicki Cope, Martha Hanes, Janie McDaniel, Anita Booe, Vicki Hendrix, Lynn Smith, Lisa Smith, Terri Donley, Craig Seaford, Mark Bailey, Bobby Summers.

Randy Brooks, Donna Stroud, David Neal, Ricky Seamon, Jill Barnhart, Sherri Potts, Sandra Clontz, Tim Carter, Doug Prevette, Don Jordan, Eric Wooten, Ronnie Blackwelder, Steve Seamon, Betsy Bingham, Kathy Tatum, Martha Jerome, Rita Prevette, Andrea Carter, Susan Payne, Vicki Riddle,

No Next Time?

About the turn of the nineteenth century a young reporter was trying hard to establish himself with the San Francisco Examiner. He had handed the editor an article and was waiting for his comment.

The editor, disgruntled, looked up at the young man and asked him if it was the best he could do. The reporter told him he was afraid it was, but that he would try to do better next time. Whereupon the man in charge of the San Francisco Examiner informed him there would be no next time. He further thought he was enlightening the young man by telling him he did not know how to use the English language. The young reporter was fired.

Disappointed, he left the west coast, traveling to New York, and on to England where he had secured his education, having been born of English parents in India.

After marrying an American girl in London, he returned to New England and made his home at Brattleboro, Vermont. He gave the manuscript of his first "Jungle Book" to a nurse, who had looked after his first child. Years later, the nurse sold the manuscript for a handsome figure, living in comfort the remainder of her life. It bore the name -- Rudyard Kipling!

Local Girl Is Runner-Up In Debutante Ball

Miss Doris Theresa Davidson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Davidson of Mocksville, was judged runner-up to the Debutante Queen at the 22nd Annual Debutante Ball in Salisbury recently.

The Ball is sponsored by the Alpha Alpha Zeta Chapter of the Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc., and it was held at the Catawba College Community Centre.

Miss Karen Denise Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Marshall, II, of 1108 Crestview Drive, was crowned Debutante Queen for 1972.

Mr. Marshalll is head football coach and athletic director at Livingstone College, while Mrs. Marshall is on the science faculty at Salisbury High School.

One of the many activities sponsored by the sorority to provide scholarships to help worthy young ladies meet their financial obligations in institutions of higher education, the ball was the vehicle through which some 48 young ladies were ushered into society in this area.

Of the total, 28 were from Salisbury, five from Kannapolis, three each from East Spencer and Cleveland, two each from Charlotte, Granite Quarry and Woodleaf, and one each from Mocksville, Rockwell and Spencer.

Runner-ups to Miss Marshall in the Debutante Contest were, in order: Miss Judith Dianne Boger, daughter of Mrs. William M. Boger, Sr., of Salisbury; Miss Robbin Anita Blanton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Blanton of Salisbury; Miss Kwinia Diana Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Davis of Charlotte; and Miss Doris Theresa Davidson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred. H. Davidson of Mocksville.

The Debutante Queen is a junior at Salisbury High School where she is a representative of her class to the Student Council. She is also a varsity cheerleader at the school.

Miss Marshall is a member of Sacred Heart Catholic Church, is a member of Jack and Jill of America and also belongs to the Salisbury-Rowan YMCA.

Her hobbies are dancing and cooking. Upon graduation from high school she hopes to prepare for a career in social work at Hampton Institute in Virginia.

She was sponsored in the contest by Mrs. Vera Moore and was crowned by Mrs. Moore's daughter, Miss Jylla Deane Moore, the 1971 Queen.

Presenting the debutantes Friday were Mrs. Maxine O. Davis and Miss Ella M. Hargett.

Winner of the Miss Congeniality Award, as voted by the debutantes immediately prior to the ball, was Miss Annette Dickerson, daughter of Mrs. Alma Dickerson of 88 Fairview Heights, Salisbury. Presenting the award was Mrs. Marilyn Eaton of Underwoods, donor of the trophy.

A special citation was presented to Mrs. Ruth Braswell Jones, state president of the North Carolina Association of Educators, for her exemplification of the sorority's ideal of finer womanhood.

Theme of the ball was "And What of Tomorrow?" Bringing greetings to the gathering was Mrs. Joan M. Bridges, basileus of the sorority.

The welcome to debutantes was given by Mrs. Ida H. Duncan and the response on behalf of the debutantes was given by Miss Yvonne Morton, daughter of Mrs. Herman L. Horton of Charlotte.

Mrs. Vera M. Moore presented the 1971 debutantes of the year as follows: Miss Jylla Deane Moore, Miss Leslie Eileen Poe and Miss Ida Elizabeth Taylor.

A Serenade in Song to the debutantes was given by Mrs. Joan M. Bridges, Mrs. Marie F. Corpening, Miss Ella M. Hargett, Mrs. Vera M. Moore, Mrs. Pauline Morton and Mrs. Myrtle Stevenson.

Formal activities concluded with the minuet by the debutantes, with piano accompanist by Mrs. Bessie Craige and Mrs. Hazel Steward.

Ballroom activities followed in the Crystal Lounge of the Catawba College Community Centre.

Debutantes presented Friday night were as follows:

SINGAPORE

Singapore, the independent city-state with a population of nearly two million off the southern tip of Malaysia, was a prosperous trade center in the 13th century. It had dwindled to a quiet fishing village of about 250 inhabitants when Britain's Sir Stamford Raffles bought it from the Sultan of Johore in 1819 and revived it as an international free port.

"Don't burn their house down!"

Green Meadows

Wednesday night services have been cancelled at Green Meadows; instead there will be a special communion service on Thursday night at 7:30, preceeding Good Friday.

The regular missionary meeting for April will be held at Green Meadows church on Monday night, April 10, instead of Easter Monday.

Mrs. Bobby Zimmerman entered Baptist Hospital on Sunday and received a complete eye cornea transplant on Sunday afternoon. As far as can be determined at this time, the operation is a success. Those desiring to send her a card may address them to Room 401, Baptist Hospital, Winston-Salem.

Mrs. Bill Faircloth underwent major surgery on Friday at Forsyth Memorial Hospital. She is in the intensive care unit at this writing but is doing as well as expected following a serious operation of this type.

Arthur Smith spent the weekend with Nell Lee.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray Matthews visited their son, Mitchell Matthews at Chapel Hill on Sunday.

Many thanks to everyone who helped gather a full truck load of supplies for the flood area in W. Va. Due to the generosity of those who cared, a full truck load was delivered there on Saturday. The people there send words of appreciation to all of you. One 14 year old girl who lost everything including her parents and had only two dresses which had been given her by the Red Cross, said when told the things were coming from N. C. – "You mean even people in North Carolina care."

The men making the delivery say everyone should see it, that one just cannot believe the devastation and how very pathetic conditions really are. More items have been brought in so arrangements will be made to deliver another load. Storage space will still be provided by Jim Zimmerman, so if anyone still wants to help, take or send your items to his home. March is Home Missions month for Sotuthern Baptist. What better way is there for us to show that we really care!

Mrs. Bessie Smith spent a few days last week with a daughter, Mrs. Hubert Drawdy in Winston-Salem. She has since returned to the home of Grace Langston and her condition remains about the same as it has for the past week or so.

Mrs. Bessie Tucker Green returned to her home from Davie hospital on Monday.

The return engagement winter played for us on the sixth day of spring was really beautiful, as atleast three inches of soft wet snow covered the spring hycinths and jonquils. The robins kept hopping along the walk looking stunned as if they just couldn't believe it.
